A CARD TO THE PUBLIC

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Loch's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

The Daily Review.

SATURDAY, MAY 21, 1887.

A REMONSTRANCE.

It seems that the iron manufacturers of Great Britain are considerably agitated in regard to the new iron duties adopted by Canada, and that they have even appealed to the Imperial Government to procure a modification of the tariff. Sir W. H. Smith, however, showed a feeling of respect for the dignity of his own Administration and that of the Canadian authorities by disavowing any right to interfere officially with the Dominion Government on such a question, leaving it to those interested to address themselves to our Government. The iron trade in Great Britain cannot expect that either official or private representations will turn Canada from her resolve to use her own abundant natural resources for the establishment of an industry which is one of the most important for a civilized community. But the British iron manufacturers have another resource than that pointed out to them by Mr. W. H. Smith. They can appeal to their own Government in a matter that is properly within its jurisdiction. Let them agitate for a protective duty on iron imported into Great Britain from Belgium, Germany and other foreign countries. By this means they may secure as large a trade as they have now, without asking Canada to let its rich iron mines lie idle. They would probably find too that, as on the adoption of the N. P., their trade with us would not decrease, for much of our iron is now obtained, not from Great Britain, but from the United States, and our increased prosperity will, as then, make us better customers for many special articles not required in sufficient quantity to warrant us in manufacturing them for ourselves. Let the iron men of Great Britain take a lesson not only from Canada but from the whole civilized world and protect their own interests.

TORONTO BOARD OF TRADE.

It is a most satisfactory sign that the Toronto Board of Trade in a very full meeting and after two nights' discussion should have rejected the Commercial Union resolution of Mr. Darling, prefering to it the amendment of Mr. John Macdonald in favour of a fair commercial treaty with the United States, and a refusal to discriminate against Great Britain. That such a resolution should have been adopted by an overwhelming majority of the Board of Trade of the chief city of Canada's foremost Province shows how hollow and factitious is the agitation for commercial annexation to the United States that is being stirred up by a few sensational journals and disappointed politicians. And on the other side the disloyal busybodies are receiving a striking rebuff, for great organs of public opinion in the United States are declaring one after the other that these false Canadians are debasing themselves in vain, for no commercial union will be granted without political union.

HALIBURTON.

FOREST FIRES.—We have had some very bad forest fires lately. Last Thursday there was a stiff breeze, and the ground was very dry, no rain having fallen for a considerable time. Of course those who had fallows to burn seized the opportunity, and they got splendid burns, but the forest suffered horribly. Fires were started in two fallows; one some miles north-west of the village and the other in Dudley, and they swept the forest until the two fires met. The fire travelled over seven miles of country in a few hours. We had a big fire close to the village, and it destroyed some of our beautiful woodland scenery. There was a dense cloud of smoke over the whole country for some days.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

MOBBED IN KINGSTON.

Mr. O'Brien Again Compelled to Flee—Newspaper Office Attacked.

Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Kilbride addressed an audience in the roller rink in Kingston on Friday night. As Mr. Kilbride closed his address a crowd outside became demonstrative. The Mail correspondent thus describes what followed:—

While Mr. Kilbride was closing his address thundering cheers were heard on the outside of the building, and the faces of many of the audience became blanched. Thumbs made by rocks thrown at the door were distinctly heard inside, and the audience became restless. One man went out and messengers brought the news that a mob of thousands was outside.

Mr. R. Gardiner moved a vote of thanks to the speaker and a resolution expressing sympathy with the movement, condemning the heartless and cruel evictions now taking place, and asking Mr. O'Brien to promise the tenants support from Kingston in their struggle against landlord intolerances.

Mr. D. Egan seconded the motion and it was carried with ringing cheers, to which cheers were responded from the outside.

The chairman warned all in the hall to go peaceably to their homes, and to commit no act that would disturbe the existing harmony in the city.

THE MOB RUSH FOR O'BRIEN

The audience left the building hesitatingly, and when they got outside and Mr. O'Brien was seen, the cry, "There he is, give it to him!" was raised, and then the mob of thousands made for him. In the darkness Mr. O'Brien was missed, and the mob chased another man along the street for some distance, but finding their mistake they gathered in front of the hotel. Mr. O'Brien got struck once and came near falling. Before leaving the hall he was asked if he was not afraid, and he said, "Not in the slightest."

THE AGITATOR IN HIDING.

At 11 o'clock neither Mr. O'Brien nor Mr. Kilbride can be found. A large number of the 14th volunteers have just passed the hotel, and while they were passing several windows were broken. A banquet is waiting for the agitators at the hotel, but the edibles will not likely be touched, as it is supposed they will not come from their place of hiding till the morning. Never was such a determined mob seen in Kingston. If Mr. O'Brien could have been recognized his lecturing tour in Canada would have ended.

HOW HE ESCAPED.

It is said that when the mob made a dash for him a friend grabbed his plug hat and placed a cap on his head, consequently he was disguised and escaped. At 1.30 cheers are heard from various parts of the city, showing that sections of the mob are conducting a careful search for Mr. O'Brien and his companion. The police were out in full force, but could not begin to handle the crowd. They did good service, however, in keeping the people moving. The greatest excitement prevails, and the Mayor and prominent citizens are doing their utmost to ally it by requesting stragglers to go home. The curious residents are out in large numbers also, and apparently do not want to go home unless they see what becomes of Mr. O'Brien. Mr. Wall, the reporter who got wounded at Toronto, wore a white rag on his head, which acted on the mob like a red rag before a bull. He was advised to remove it and did so in time to prevent being detected as a colleague of Mr. O'Brien.

THE "FREEMAN" OFFICE WRECKED.

At 11.30 the front of the office of the Canadian Freeman, the Roman Catholic paper, was broken in and a mob of over 1,000 gathered around it. The police made one arrest but could not hold the man. The citizens at that hour were becoming seriously alarmed.

It should have been mentioned earlier that Mr. Charles Counter addressed a large number of volunteers in uniform on Market square and inspired them with enthusiastic and loyal language. This meeting added interest to the proceedings.

MR. O'BRIEN TURNS UP SAFE.

Mr. O'Brien was seen about midnight. He was in a friendly house. When he left the hall his hat was changed, and he was rushed into a gateway and saved. He is unhurt but much agitated. He says his escape was miraculous; that it was a deliberate attempt to murder him. When his hat was changed he was about to receive a blow from a bludgeon. He was struck on the head with one stone. The mayor offered military protection after the row, but Mr. O'Brien declined it. He leaves in the morning for Niagara Falls via Cape Vincent.

THE Brockville Recorder has the following paragraph in an article in the coal duties:—

"The Peterborough REVIEW does not accept with any great feeling of satisfaction the removal of the duty because it still holds to the delusion that the tax has been paid wholly or in part to the producer. The REVIEW is just as ignorant, but a degree more honest than its political brethren in that it strike to its former assertions of turning the sharp curve which most of them do."

When we assert, during the time the coal duties were in force, that the foreign coal owners paid the greates part if not the whole of the coal duties, we did so on the strength of practical evidence of the fact. Our idea a journalistic mortality do not allow us to deny the fact, because such a change might seem expedient from a party point of view. We leave such journalisons to our critise content to be called stupid because honest. As to the question of ignorant we are content to leave next winter's prices to decide between us and the Recorder.

Judge McGuire Banquetted.

KINGSTON, May 20.—Last evening T. H. McGuire, Q. C., late President of the Irish National League and editor of the News, and recently appointed Judge of the Supreme Court in the North-West, was banquetted at the British American Hotel. The citizens had a pleasant time. Judge McGuire leaves for the West on the 22nd inst.

The Afghan Frontier Commission will reopen negotiations shortly.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

OF COURSE NOT.

But there is no sense or necessity in mixing up the two questions of fishing in the Atlantic and Pacific waters. They have nothing in common, are not and never have been subject to the same treaty stipulations and the three mile limit on Canadian coasts, by which, through the treaty of 1818 our people are controlled, has no application to the fur trade of Alaska, or the limitations there prescribed for British vessels.—Cleveland Leader.

A BENEFICIAL CHANGE.

Rumor has it that the syndicate of American gentlemen, who have acquired valuable mining lands in the district of Kingston, contemplate the construction of works at which to convert the ore into metal for consumption in the Canadian market. Such was not the original intention of the syndicate. Their purpose was to develop the mines and utilize the ore, but not to smelt it in Canada. The change of base on the part of our government may suggest new possibilities, and if smelting works must be erected, location in Kingston will be a necessity.—Kingston Whig (Reform.)

MR. GLADSTONE'S LOSS OF VOICE.

LONDON May 20.—Mr. Gladstone accompanied his wife to the reception of the Women's Liberal Federation yesterday. Being asked to make a speech, he excused himself on the ground of hoarseness and loss of voice.

MINDEN.

THREE CHILDREN DROWNED.—One of the saddest accidents we have been called upon to record took place in the township of Hindon, on Monday last, when a number of school children during the dinner recess went down the shores of Brady's Lake to amuse themselves. There was an old canoe lying upon the lake shore, into which four of them entered, and the wind driving it off the shore, one of the children got frightened and jumped out into the water and was apparently drowning, when it was rescued by the children on the shore. During the excitement caused by this scene the three occupants of the canoe were drifted into deeper water and the whole three drowned, one a boy about seven years of age, the son of widow Gannon, of Stanhope, and the other two were girls, the daughters of Mr. Hugh Coulter, also of the township of Stanhope, aged respectively about seven and 12 years. The bodies were recovered during the night after the sad accident and were interred in the Minden cemetery on Wednesday last, when a large number of sorrowing relatives followed the funeral procession. The accident has cast quite a gloom over this section of the country, and the bereaved parents and relatives have the sincere sympathy of the entire community in their deep affliction. Numerous bouquets and wreaths were brought by the school children of Minden and others and placed upon the fresh graves as a token of deep sympathy. —Echo.

NEWS NOTES.

Cardinal Gibbons is in Dublin, visiting Archbishop Walsh.

Winnipeg City Council is seeking legislation to enable it to elect the mayor, instead of by the popular vote.

General Gene, commander of the Italian forces at Massowah, has dissuaded the Government from carrying out Is Abyssinian expedition.

Headache, Billiousnees, Dyspepsia and Indigestion relieved and at once by Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. Try it. Samples free.

An official letter was received on Thursday at Port Arthur from the Ontario Government, promising an immediate investigation and settlement of all claims in the disputed territory.

Right now is the time to use a good Blood Purifying Medicine. Lose no time in getting a bottle of Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters. It will do you good. Sold by all Druggists 50 cents.

An attack was made on the Salvation Army in St. Catharines on Wednesday evening, one of the female members being knocked senseless with a stone and seriously injured.

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

In an interview on Thursday Mr. Norquay declared positively that the Manitoba Government intended to build a railway to the boundary, where it will connect with the North Pacific, and expected to have it completed by November.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada d9

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little suffers at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

PROBABILITIES.

Light to moderate winds; fine and warm.

The Daily Review

SATURDAY, MAY 21, 1887.

EARLY IN THE MORNING

THE COUNCIL HOLD SESSION INTO THE SMALL HOURS.

Important Business up for Consideration—Various Propositions in Reference to Manufactures—Scott Act Debate Resumed.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Friday evening.

There were present: His Worship the Mayor and Councillors Kendry, Yelland, Douglass, McNaughton, Menzies, Davidson, Cahill, McNeil, Stenson and Moore.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

The MAYOR explained that one of the reasons why he called the meeting this evening was to lay before the Council the present condition of the Trent Valley Canal Just now the municipalities were agitating sending deputations to Ottawa to press upon the Government to place in the estimates a sum to proceed with the Canal. Some of the Ministers were in favor of it, while others were anxious to make all the saving possible. He had done all he could to have the Canal pushed on, but so far was dissatisfied. The Ministers did not deny that the canal would be built, but asked a year's rest. He had been canvassing among the members, and had got support from the two members from Winnipeg, and the two from Montreal. The 18 members along the line of the canal were all solid. Indeed he thought if they could get the Government to place $100,000 in the estimates it would be easily passed. He had succeeded well in reference to the Little Lake. He was satisfied that the Government would make a grant to cleaning out the lake. The Minister had given his opinion that it would be quite legal for the town to apply the Scott Act fines to the payment of the salaries of the clerk, policemen, etc. He would just state here that the Grand Trunk Railway had had a bill before the House to give them power to borrow money to pay debts owing to municipalities. The Grand Trunk owed the town some $58,000, $18,000 or $20,000 of which was already due. This they would be obliged to accept if offered.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were read:—

From the Fire Brigade stating that the electric alarm was now completed, and that the grant was insufficient by $24.—To be paid.

From J. S. D. Thompson, Minister of Justice, acknowledging receipt of communications addressed to him in relation to the Scott Act fines and giving his opinion that the fines imposed within the town belonged to the town.—Finance Committee.

From Robt. Meharry, asking the Council to have the Nicholls Hospital drain.—Street and Bridge Committee.

From Wm. P. Lech, City Clerk of Ottawa, in relation to the Home Rule resolution passed by the Dominion Government.—Received,

From Edg. Pearse calling attention to the condition of the Locks bridge and Pigeon Creek bridge.—Street and Bridge Committee.

From E. B. Edwards in reference to the suit Town vs. Midland Railway, and enclosing a copy of the arrangement made.—Received.

From Andrew Douglass, refusing to buy a second dog tag, the first having been lost or stolen.—Received.

From Wm. Snowden and others, asking that the Simcoe street bridge be repaired at once.—Granted.

From Nathan Nicholls and others, asking for street improvements.—Street Inspector.

From W. H. Wrighton and 14 others asking for a hydrant on McDonnel street.—Fire, Water and Light Committee to report.

From Moore & Co. asking a rebate of butcher's license.—Granted.

From E. H. D. Hall asking a grant for the improvement of King street west.—Street and Bridge Committee to report.

From Geo. Pigeon asking to be appointed policemen.—Committee on Appointments.

From Mr. Cumming, Collector, stating that he could not collect the taxes levied on Mrs. Daly, Mr. Wells and L. F. Carpenter.—Court of Revision with power to act.

From Wm. English and 11 others opposing the granting of parts of Water and Dalhousie streets to a private individual, on the ground that closing up those sections of streets would injure property near and would also close an important water front.—Received.

From Thos. Moore, Jas. McFadden, Wm. Walsh and others, Wm. Ferguson and Isaiah Guerin asking for street improvements.—Street and Bridge Committee.

From Mr. Brundette applying for a grant to defray expenses of jubilee celebration.—$100 granted to the Fire Brigade for the purpose.

From Mr. Cluxton asking that Charlotte street be watered—granted.

From Wm. C. Ramsey applying for the position of Chief of Police.—Committee on Appointments.

1. The petition of Thos. Beavis cannot be entertained.

2. The petition of Wm. Beavis cannot be entertained.

3. That the Clerk be instructed to write Mr. D. W. Dumble, P.M., and Mr. E. Pearse to pay over to the corporation of the Town of Peterborough whatever fines and penalties are in their hands inflicted under the Scott Act, which were recovered in the Town of Peterborough.

4. The petition of Mr. John Carnegie be granted, and a by law be prepared to that effect.

5. The account of Messrs. McAndrew & Noble be referred to the Mayor to adjust.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

R. S. DAVIDSON,
Chairman.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved the adoption of the report, after striking out clause 4, referring to the petition of Mr. Carnegie. In view of the petition of the property holders interested he did not think they would be justified in making the grant.

Councillor KENDRY moved in amendment seconded by Councillor CAHILL,—That the report be received—carried.

On motion Mr. Carnegie was heard.

Mr. CARNEGIE said that he was anxious that there should be the fullest discussion upon this question. He wished to correct a statement that had been made and reported. This was that he was asking parts of certain streets as a gift. He considered that he was giving the town an enquivalent for these streets. He wanted nothing unfair or unjust. He offered to keep the gravel and purchase the streets at a fair valuation, or sell the gravel at a fair valuation and buy the portions of the streets. The council knew by this letter of the position Lock and Bridge works were in. If Mr. Law could not get suitable premises, it was possible that he would leave town altogether.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved to have clause four of the report referred back to committee for further consideration. On the motion being carried it was agreed that the Committee should go and inspect the street mentioned.

BY-LAW.

Councillor MCNEIL introduced a by-law to grant $100 to the Mechanics' Institute. It passed its several readings.

PETERBORBUGH RAILWAY.

The MAYOR brought before the notice of the Council the fact that Mr. Pearce, who purchased the old Cobourg and Peterborough railway, was now applying to Government to be allowed to remove the iron from the rails along the line. At the time of the sale of the road himself and Mr. Cox went up to Toronto but they were told that there were a lot of conditions attached with the sale and among other things they were told that the iron could not be moved. The result was that their was no sale and Mr. Pearce or the Bank of Toronto got it for next to nothing. Now they wanted to make a big speculation out of it. He thought that something should be done to oppose the bill so as to protect the interests of the town. He asked the Council's advice.

Mr. CARNEGIE, on motion was heard. He said that speaking from memory, he thought $18,000 or $20,000 was given toward the railway, and if he recollected right some conditions were attached to the grant and one was that the iron should not be removed. Though Peterborough had no direct interest in the road no doubt the grant was made in the interest of this locality. The Legislature should protect the town's interest.

Councillor MOORE said that the Legislature should be memoralized.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox, when asked his opinion by the Mayor, said he thought it was the Dominion Government who should be memorialized. The Dominion Government had supervision of the railways.

Councillor MOORE pointed out that the grant was made with conditions attached.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Councillor MCNEIL moved, seconded by Councillor KENDRY,—That the Mayor, Clerk and members of the Council be a deputation to Ottawa to urge upon the Government to have a suitable appropriation placed in the supplementary estimates to place under construction that section of the Trent Valley Canal between Lakefield and Peterborough; also that Mr. John Carnegie, Mr. Geo. A. Cox and Mr. Geo. Hilliard be invited to accompany the deputation.—Carried.

CULVERT.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor MCNEIL,—That a culvert be placed across Water street from the C. P.R. to the river.—Carried.

SCOTT ACT.

Councillor YELLAND brought forward his notice of motion regarding the payment of Messrs. Edwards' and Rossiter's salaries. The amount of salaries was placed at $1,000. Councilor Yelland modified his request by moving for the payment of Mr. Rossiter $320.

YEAS — Councillors Stenson, Yelland, Menzies, Kendry and Hartley.

A BOOM IN SUMMER CLOTHING AND STYLISH HATS.

Such is our confident prediction with excellent opportunities for a verification. The advent of May, with its pleasant days, foretells an excellent summer trade. In fact we have seized time by the fore-lock and made unsual preparations. We show to-day the largest and handsomest assortment of

MENS' - BOYS' - AND - CHILDRENS' - HATS

Ever exhibited in Canada, including all the novelties of the Season. Our unparalleled display of Felt Hats, newest style at 20c. each is an important item in itself. But the agitation of the day is how

GOUGH, the WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN

Can sell a Beautiful All Wool Suit for $3.75 that cost minature Clothiers $5.00 wholesale. Well, it is Wonderful How We Do, But We Do, and though the Army and Navy might scare away O'Brien, the Great GOUGH still remains as firm as a rock, and will continue to make the High Price Clothiers howl. We are showing this Season probably

THE MOST VARIED AND COMPLETE STOCK EVER SHOWN BY ANY ONE CLOTHING HOUSE IN THE DOMINION OF CANADA,

And we have placed on them what our patrons say, and our contemporaries are bound to acknowledge, the lowest prices ever dreamed of. We freely admit that we are fallen Clothiers, wallowing in the lowest depths of Bed Rock Prices, while our exalted brethren look down upon us from their High Places and go wild because we capture the trade. Quality and Workmanship are our wheel-horses, Style and Price the leaders, and we make these pull to the last fraction to give you Good Goods at Reasonable Prices. Give us a call, and buy one of our $3.75 Never Wear Out Suits. It is no trouble to show our Goods, in fact, we enjoy it.

Our Prices May Startle You, But We Cannot Help That!

THE CHEAPSIDE SHEPPARD PETERBOROUGH

Has the following drives at the prices annexed, and they are positively cheaper, all things being equal, than are shown by any house in the trade. They came into our hands at the prices simply because SHEPPARD bought up the whole stock at a price.

BOYS' SUITS Wholesale price in Montreal, $3.75, our price to-day $2.95. Boys' Suits made specially for Sheppard in Germany and cost $4.25, we are now selling at $3.25. MENS' SUITS—Wholesale price in Toronto $5.00 is now offered for $3.25.

LADIES' JERSEYS Ladies' Fine Braided Jersey's in Mid Brown, Seal Brown and Black, wholesale price was $3.50, Sheppard is now selling for $2.50, and commences on Jerseys at 95 cents.

DRESS GOODS A deep clean cut has been made in our Dress Goods. We have a large stock and they must be sold. The Season is now advancing and and down go the prices. SHEPPARD is not advertising Gold or Silver presents, neither is he paying return railway fares from the Pacific Slope to the Atlantic Seaboard, nor yet selling at cost, but the prices above are fully 20 per cent less than actual cost of the same goods bought in the regular way. SHEPPARD has the cheapest Buttons and Trimmings in Canada. We are not giving them away, but next door to it.

Men's Hats 10c., Men's Caps 6c., Men's Straw Hats 5c., Men's Overalls 25c., 3 Pairs Socks 25c., Men's Pants $1.00, Men's Vests 50c., Crash Coat and Vest $1.75, Boys' Wool Suits $1.00, Boys' Felt Hats 25c. Carpets cheap and Cottons cheap, all reduced from actual prices. The public will not deviate one step but go straight to the Great Cheapside.

SHEPPARD, - - PETERBOROUGH.

EARLY IN THE MORNING

SIDEWALK.

Councillor HARTLY moved, seconded by Councillor KENDRY—That the Street Inspector be instructed to have a sidewalk laid down on the west side of Bethune street from Edinburg street as far north as Breeze's dwelling—Street and Bridge Committee.

ACOUSTICS.

Councillor CAHILL moved seconded by Councillor Davidson—That the matter of providing better acoustic arrangements in this Council Chamber be left to the Property Committee.—Carried.

CLOTHING.

Councillor KENDRY moved seconded by Councillor MCNEIL—That the Police Supervision Committee have the power to grant contracts for the police clothing as tendered for.—Carried.

ACCOUNTS.

Councillor CAHILL moved seconded by Councillor DAVIDSON—That the account of the Times Printing Co. be paid when certified, also the account of Mr. Bowie.

STREET.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved seconded by Councillor MCNAUGHTON,—That a side walk be put down on Dalhousie street, from Aylmer to Bethune street, south side—Street and Bridge Committee.

SCOTT ACT.

Councillor STENSON, moved seconded by Councillor YELLAND,—That $750 be paid to Mr. E. B. Edwards for services rendered under the Scott Act.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved in amendment; seconded by Councillor MCNEIL,—That the Treasurer be instructed to pay the salaries of the Police Magistrate, Police Court Clerk, Constables and our proportion of the demand by the Commissioners which we may have to pay for enforcing the Scott Act out of the fines inflicted and collected under the Canada Temperance Act of 1878 from May 1st, 1886, to May 1st, 1887, and the balance be handed over to the Scott Act Association.

Mr. Geo. Hilliard and Mr. Geo. A. Cox addressed the Council, speaking of the fairness of the request made in Councillor Stenson's motion. Mr. Hilliard drew attention to the fact that nearly $4 000 had been collected mainly through the efforts of the Scott Act men.

Councillor MCNAUGHTON made quite a temperance speech. He sketched the history of the Dunkin Act and Scott Act working and denounced both. He went on to talk of the clergy and the Salvation Army when time was called.

Several Councillors continued the discussion, some claiming that it was a success others that it was a failure.

Councillor MENZIES moved in amendment to the amendment seconded by Councillor MCNAUGHTON—That the matter of granting money to the Scott Act Association be referred back to get the opinion of the Town Solicitor in regard to the legality of such grant.

Councillor MOORE thought this was the proper course. The opinion given by Mr. McLaren to the effect that it would be legal was not worth much as Mr. McLaren could not have taken the whole circumstances into consideration. He was in Mr. McLaren's office when the telegram arrived asking his opinion. Mr. Shepley, Mr. McLaren's partner, was there and he said, after the whole circumstances were explained, that he would not give an opinion in less than a week. Mr. McLaren was out of town at the time but on his return gave the answer in accordance with the information contained in the telegram.

Councillor STENSON intimated that if the grant was not made it would be likely that the Scott Act Association would cast all the responsibility of Scott Act enforcement upon the town.

Councillor DOUGLAS thought the Scott Act Association were deserving of something for their work, but he could not see how this Council could make such a grant. The Association was self-constituted, asked not leave nor advice from the Council, and were private citizens in the sight of the Council. He did not see that the Council could grant money to private citizens. Another thing, he did not think an Association in every ward of the town could enforce the law so long as the agents came in and took orders for liquor.

Councillor CAHILL asked what became of the thousands of dollars that had been subscribed for Scott Act enforcement. When it became likely that the Association would have to contribute for their own enforcement they sought to run in a Scott Act council to get hold of the fine money.

Councillor YELLAND said that they did try to get in a temperance council, and the reason why it wasn't a temperace council to-day was that some councillors who promised to give temperance votes went back on their word. "I could mention names if I liked" continued he.

Councillor MOORE—Name them.

Councillor YELLAND continued talking towards Councillor Cahill.

Councillor CAHILL—Are your remarks directed towards me personally?

Councillor YELLAND would not say.

Councillor CAHILL insisted on having an answer. From the way Councillor Yelland spoke it seemed to him that he (the speaker) was trying to make him out a black sheep.

Councillor YELLAND said he meant nothing personal.

The amendment to the amendment was put and carried.

CELLAR.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved, seconded by Councillor CAHILL,—That the cellar under the town buildings be cleaned out.—Carried.

INDUSTRIES.

Mr. HILLIARD addressed the Council regarding the assessment of a woollen factory on his premises. Two years ago he rented his building as a woollen mill, out the business was not successful. He now proposed to change the mill, making it larger and putting in a large amount of machinery. It had been charged against the mill-owners that they obstructed the utilizing of the water power. He claimed that no such charge could be made against him. He had always endeavored to help on the manufacturing interests of the town. When the town limits were extended, taking in the Auburn mills property, his was taken in also. The Town gave the Auburn Mills aid at that time, and he thought they had lost no money by it. At that time the town was anxious to encourage manufacturers and [illegible] the Auburn Mills, but could not do so unless they took Auburn in the corporation. Asshburnham refused point blank to come in, but in order to have Auburn come in he withdrew all opposition and allowed his property to come in in order that Auburn might be encouraged. He did this with the full consciousness that his mills would be taxed heavier by 50 per cent but he was sorry to say that they were taxed 100 per cent highet immediately. In this case he had put in a quantity of machinery and changed the mill in order that the business might be made a success. He wanted the town to give him encourgement as it had others. They all knew that at the time of the Brodie mills establishment it was agreed that a certain number of hands be employed. Now the number had far outgrown the promised number. By proper encouragement there was every possibility of his factory growing as this one had. They had a water power which should make Peterborough one of the greatest manufacturing centres on the continent. He claimed that the taxes on his property on the west side of the race alone equalled the amount spent on improvements north of London street since that portion of the town was incorporated. The request was referred to the Finonce Committee.

UXBRIDGE ORGAN CO.

Mr. Cox addressed the Council on the matter of the Uxbridge Organ Co's location here. The Company had intended to locate in Toronto. He asked then to consider Peterborough first and arranged an interview with members of the Council. He regretted that he was not here on that day. If he would be permitted to make a suggestion it would be this. The Uxbridge organ Co., asked free rent and taxes and that stock be taken to the extent of $20,000. Buildings could be put up for $12,000, which at 4 per cent would cost the town $480 a year. He thought that the stock could be easily subscribed if the Company could show that the factory had a reasonable chance of success. Allow the Company to occupy these buildings so long as they employed a certain number of hands.

The MAYOR agreed with this proposal if the Company would gurantee to employ say 100 men. But so far as he could learn they only employed some 30 or 40. The town might run a factory itself on such advantageous terms.

Mr. Cox said that it was proposed to manufacture pianos and thus largely increase the capability of the factory. The Bowmanville factory started on a small scale but it was now a very important industry.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor DOUGLASS,—That this Council is willing to give to a piano and organ company, or any other large manufacturing company locating here, a building free from rent and taxes for a period of 10 years, provided such industry will not interfere with any establishment now in existence here.

Councillor CAHILL said that he moved this merely to bring the matter before the Council.

AUBURN TAXES.

Mr. CARNEGIE addressed the Council in relation to the Auburn Mills taxation. On January 1st the time of exemption expired, and the assessors came up and assessed the mill at $40,000. They had intended to appeal against this, but the time was now too late. They were willing to be assessed dollar for dollar with other manufacturing establishments in the town, but no more. He did not come to-night to appeal against the assessment, but to point out the peculiar position the Auburn Mills were placed in. The corporation spent nothing on sidewalks, on streets, they got no benefit from the water works, fire department, electric light or gas, while they were compelled to pay rates for these items. They were content to pay dollar for dollar with others for the administration of justice, Nicholls Hospital, schools, etc., but as it was now 5 7-10 mills out the total 15¼ mills, or more than a third levied from them went to keep up services from which the Auburn mills got no benefit whatever.

They had to furnish their own fire protection and their own gas. They did not ask any exemption but only what was fair and just. He asked that the Council consider the matter.

The matter was referred to the Finance Committee.

The Council nhen adjourned at nearly one o'clock, to meet again on a week from Monday night.

An army of bright ladies and children buy their hosiery at Turnbull's. Why? Because he shows a large stock, fresh from the largest factory in Germany, and sells them very cheap.

Fire.

A little blaze occurred at about 11 o'clock on Friday night in an ash house in the yard attached to a house, the property of Mr. Elias Burnham, known as "the cottage." The was extinguished with a few pails of water.

No one need despair of finding millinery to suit them while Turnbull is in the trade. He keeps a well selected stock of choice goods, and as new lines appear in the market has new shapes and trimmings arriving almost daily.

A Long Felt Want Supplied.

I wish to call the attention of the public to our mouse and dust proof organs. I am the only authorized agent for the County of Peterborough, for the only mouse and dust proof organs made in the Dominion of Canada. This improvement has been a long-felt want, and intending purchasers will save money and get a first class instrument at rock bottom prices as I will not be undersold.—D. SMART.

Personal.

Mr. J. Robertson, formerly of [illegible] and lately engaged in Alexander's dry goods store, has taken the agency for the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association. With such men as representatives as Mr. Robertson, it is no wonder the Mutual Reserve leads all other companies. Mr. Geo. A. Morrison, the Inspector, has been fortunate in securing the services of such reliable men, and we bespeak a large business for Mr. Robertson.

Golden grain of truth. Turnbull is selling ladies Taffeta and pure silk gloves that are cut to fit the hand. Every pair numbered. You will not regret having walked an extra block after you have tried a pair.

The club will meet at 6.30 every Friday evening in the future.

An Overwhelming Majority.

The Peterborough Town Council and the Ashburnham Village Council have passed resolutions asking for the repeal of the Scott Act. Several bills regarding the Act have been introduced into Parliament, one being for its repeal, and soon we may look for a wordy war, ending in the polling of votes. The Scott Actors and the Antis will bring all their forces to the front in the struggle and no regiments that can be pressed into service will be allowed to remain in the rear. The explosions of vocal artillery will be loud, petitions will be fired at the opposing ranks, and the battle will end in a determined onslaught when the division bell rings. What will be the result? Will the Act be repealed? Ask something easier. For instance, ask if a popular vote would be in favor of Gough, the great clothier, remaining in Peterborough. That would be easily answered. From every ward and lane, from the townships round about, from the neighboring towns and villages, from every hamlet and concession line the votes would pour in in a vast overwhelming flood, drowning forever the few high-priced clothiers who alone would vote for his removal. Good clothing at deep coal shaft prices is what the people want, and is what they get at Gough's.

Are you a bargain seeker? Call at Turnbull's and see his beautiful Cretonnes at 10 cents a yard.

Turnbull's mammoth store is in its new summer dress, decked with lace flouncings and embroideries, lace Grenadines, lace gloves and parasols, lace curtains and pillow shams, etc., etc. For new and handsome goods this is the right house.

To Those Interested.

The attention of those interested is directed to Mr. A. V. R. Young's card which appears in this issue. Mr. Young's reputation as a bookeeper and accountant is steadily rising. No doubt work committed to his charge will be efficiently performed.

The Churches.

The Rev. E. W. Sibbald, of Belleville, will preach at St. John's Church. At the 11 o'clock service he will preach a sermon to the Sons of England.

The Rev. I. Tovell will preach in the George Street Methodist Church in the morning, and F. H. Wallace in the evening.

The Rev. F. H. Wallace will preach in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church in the morning and the Rev. I. Tovell in the evening.

A Great Boon to Peterborough.

It affords us more than ordinary satisfaction to be able to announce that Prof. Sawyer has succeeded in making such arrangements as to offer free of all charge practical instructions in every commercial study. It is very desirable that parents enroll their boys or girls at the earliest date, as the attendance, we understand, will be limited to 80 students. We believe in State Education, but in business training it is even more desirable than in any other kind of special educational work. The thanks of the town are due to Mr. Sawyer for his energy and disinterested work in this cause.

An Evening Entertainment.

A small audience gathered in the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Friday evening to listen to an elocutionary and musical entertainment. The greatest part of the programme was supplied by Miss Mittie Fraine, late teacher of elocution in the Whitby Ladies College. Miss Fraine is petite and vivacious and has considerable elocutionary power. She showed to best advantage in her recital of Burgay's well-known," "Creed of the Bells." Her other selections were: "The Legend of Bregenz," "What Shall it be?" "The Bobolink," "Searching for the Slain," "The Naughty Little Girl," and "The Bridal Wine Cup." Miss Stephens sang very sweetly "The Lighthouse Light," and "Consider the Lilies."

Entertainment at Auburn.

An entertainment held in the Auburn mission school room on Friday evening, under the auspices of Auburn Council of Royal Templars, was largely attended. The programme was an interesting one. Selections were admirably given by an orchestra composed of Messrs. R. Hartley and Walke, sr., and Walke, jr. Mr. John Miller gave a number of experiments in mind reading very successfully. A song by Miss Glass was well received, as was also a recitation by Mr. Nugent. Miss Jennie Moyse gave an excellent violin solo. A dialogue followed, in which several young ladies took part very creditably. The chairman extended an invitation to the audience to become members of the order of Royal Templars, and a vote of thanks was tendered to those who assisted in the entertainment, after which the proceedings concluded with a couple of selections by the orchestra.

Mr. C. F. Smithers, President of the Bank of Montreal, is dead.

DESTRUCTIVE FIRE.

Whyte & Co.'s Foundry Completely Destroyed.

At a few minutes after four o'clock this morning a fire broke out in Messrs. J. Whyte & Co.'s foundry, McDonnell street. The fire caught in the roof, and as the building was a frame one it made very rapid progress.

When the firemen arrived on the scene, promptly after the alarm was given, the building was already in a hopeless state. The flames were in every part of the building. A line of hose was attached to the hydrant at the corner of McDonnell and Ried streets, and the engine supplied another stream. The firemen could do nothing to save the building. They exerted themselves to save the railway track and a house near by. In an hour the foundry was reduced to ashes.

A large quantity of the stock of implements, patterns, and some machinery was saved, but the loss is still heavy. Some valuable machinery had recently been added and was just in good running order. Mr. Whyte estimates his loss at something over $9,000, but does not know exactly what the amount of the insurance is. It will not, however, he says, cover the loss. It is understood that the fire was caused from sparks from a locomotive. About 4 o'clock an engine passed along the line and in a short time after the fire broke out on the roof.

The unfinished work will be taken to the Campbellford branch to finish. Messrs. Whyte & Co., although losing by the fire, will not lose so heavily on account of the stock being saved. The wareroom on Hunstreet was well stocked, and the stock at the foundry was also saved. They will thus be able to carry on their summer trade.

LINDSAY.

FIRE.—Mr. John Marshall of Ops, who has had Mr. Thos. Paul's farm leased for a number of years, had his outbuildings totally destroyed by fire, together with about five hundred bushels of grain, and some machinery. Mr. Marshall's loss is estimated very great, as it was not covered by any insurance.

IRON MINES.—Mr. Pusey, the energetic manager of the Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa Railway, and proprietor of the mines east of Kinmount, is beginning to operate two of them. The recent tariff should also encourage him to start smelting works at Irondale.

FAT CATTLE.—Thursday morning's steamer from Bobcaygeon, brought in two enormous fat cattle from the herd of Chas. Fairbairn, Esq., of Verulam. The weights were, 2230 and 2130 pounds. The other were on the way to the boat, but one a very vicious heifer, attacked Mr. Fairbairn's eldest son, and succeeded in knocking him down. Then she tore his clothes to pieces, and trampled him into the ground. The extent of his injuries are not known, but it is hoped they are not serious. These cattle were part of a herd of thirty-three fat cattle from Mr. Fairbairn's stables.—Warder.

O'Brien Leaves Ottawa.

OTTAWA, May 20.—Messrs. O'Brien and Kilbride left for Kingston to-day at noon. They were accompanied to the station by the local committee. A crowd assembled both at the hotel and at the station to witness the departure, but no public manifestations were made.

AMERICAN BANK ROBBED.

LONDON, May 20.—The Times says we are informed that extensive frauds have been committed on the agents of an American bank by means of forged letters of credit which were presented simultaneously by a gang of skilful thieves in six or eight leading cities of the Continent. The forgers have not been caught. It is expected they will come to London.

It is reported Prince Luitpold, the Regent of Bavaria, will receive Emperor Francis Joseph's sanction to assume the Bavarian throne and that Emperor William's consent has been already obtained.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Lech's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

FATHER DOWD'S JUBILEE.

His Reply to an Address—What he Said About Protestants.

Father Dowd of Montreal, in his address to the members of his congregation, referring to his Protestant fellow citizens, said:—

"It is not now for the first time that Protestants have proved to me that there is a common ground of holy charity, upon which all Christians can meet and shake hands and be kind to one another. During many long years when we were poor, and our little orphants were numerous, more for their support came from the open-handed charity of our Protestant friends. Need I allude to the warm hearted sympathy that was received from the same quarter on the occasion of our pilgrimage to Rome? Can I forget these things? And remembering them, can I allow this solemn occasion to pass without recording a grateful mention of them, and without expressing my most cordial and sincere thanks. Throughout my life I have done my best to inculate the ways of peace. Besides, the experience of my long life has shown me that the fruit of peace is sweet and full of happiness; whilst the fruits of discord and contention are bitter and conduct to misery and to death. I desire to see peace reign in every place, but I desire especially to see it reign supreme in our dear old city of Montreal, where I have labored the greater part of my life, and where, ere long, I hope to repose in peace. Once more I thank you all in the fullness of my heart. May God bless you for your charitable indulgence to his poor old priest, and may he reward you a hundred fold for your great goodness and liberality."

The Golden Jubilee celebration of Fathers Dowd and Toupin, was brought to a close on Thursday night by a solemn Benediction at St. Patrick's. It was announced that His Grace Archbishop Lynch would preach at 7; but His Grace was too much fatigued to ascend the pulpit, and the ordinary services of the month of May was held. The music was effective, and particularly the "Ave Maria," and the "Tantum Ergo" under the direction of Prof. Fowler.

In the evening Fathers Dowd and Toupin were presented by Mr. J. B. Murphy, of Kingston, with two excellent potraits of themselves, executed by Messrs. Norman & Sons.

Kidd has an eagle from the sky down to his window; $5.00 kid boots down to $4.00, down to $.300, down to $2.50, down, down, down!

THE Brockville Recorder has the following paragraph in an article on the coal duties:—

"The Peterborough REVIEW does not accept with any great feeling of satisfaction the removal of the duty because it still holds to the delusion that the tax has been paid wholly or in part by the producer. The REVIEW is just as ignorant, but a degree more honest than its political brethren in that it sticks to its former assertions instead of turning the sharp curve which most of them do."

When we asserted, during the time the coal duties were in force, that the foreign coal owners paid the greater part if not the whole of the coal duties, we did so on the strength of practical evidence of the fact. Our ideas of journalistic morality do not allow us to deny the fact, because such a change might seem expedient from a party point of view. We leave such journalism to our critics, content to be called stupid because honest. As to the question of ignorance, we are content to leave next winter's prices to decide between us and the Recorder.

Small-pox Among Emigrants.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—The steamer Gaelic, from China and Japan, arrived this morning with small-pox on board. Before the vessel came to anchor she was boarded by a quarantine officer, who, on investigation, found two cases of small-pox among the Chinese passengers on board. She was at once placed in quarantine. There are 1,200 Chinese passengers.

JUBILEE ADDRESS.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—A plan adopted in many places is to have the celebration of the Jubilee Day more attractive by the addition of a few rhetorical addresses. Some of our prominent men are excellent speakers, and with a suitable opportunity would undoubtedly add greatly to the general delight. Do you not think this a good plan?

IMPERIALIST.

Peterborough, May 23.

A PROTEST.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—As a resident of the north part of the town I wish to protest very strongly against the bay on Water street being used as a dumping place for all kinds of filth. The whole place is in a very unhealthy condition, and should be at once seen to by the Board of Health. Hoping the matter will be attended to before an epidemic breaks out,

I am yours, &c.,

WATER STREET.

Peterborough, May 23, 1887.

TO PROHIBITIONISTS.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—This is not the time for the friends of temperance and prohibition to lay down the sword. Rather it is the most critical point in the history of our temperance legislation. Better never to have adopted the Scott Act than now to desert it, just on the eve of its being improved by the Jamieson amendment. We know the Scott Act has not been worked perfectly; we know this. But we know that it is but a midway step towards future and better legislation. Now to be weak and feebie or indifferent is to be criminal. While the enemies are at work manipulating councils and menacing governments, shall we be idling in the King's vineyard.

All who conscientiously supported the submission of the Scott Act must surely rally now to the clarion call of duty and right.

Many may say it is wrong to prohibit. The ten commandments are all prohibitory save one. Most of our legislation is prohibitory. We cannot otherwise if we wish to save our people.

By the license system the iniquity and the guilt rest on the Christian people; by the Scott Act and prohibitory laws the crime rests of the heads of those who engage in the traffic.

As the waves of the ocean, or the tide at the sea shore, advance and recede, so we do not hope our cause to do otherwise. All great reforms have been vibratory.

Only let the faith be strong, and the heart brave and ultimate victory is ours.

And it will surely be the greatest conquest known in history.

Arouse!

Yours faithfully,

RANDOLF CARVETH.

Peterborough, May 23.

Personal.

Mayor Walters, of Lindsay, is registered at the Grand Central.

PROBABILITIES.

Light to moderate winds; partly cloudy; warm weather, with a few local showers and thunderstorms.

Firecrackers.

The Mayor has issued a warning against the use of firecrackers to-morrow. Anyone setting them off within the limits of the corporation is liable to a penalty. On May 24 of last year several fires were caused by smouldering fireworks.

Orange Excursion.

The Orange excursion from Toronto will arrive in town by the Grand Trunk railway at 11.20. The visitors will be met at the station by the Nassau Lodge, L. O. L., the True Blues with the Fire Brigade Band and the Masters and Past Masters of the local lodges, the past and present District Masters and the past and present County Masters. A procession will be formed and after parading the principal streets they will disperse. The visitors will be accompanied by two brass bands.

Rolling Mill.

It has been suggested by a prominent manufacturer that there is a good opening in Peterborough for the establishment of a rolling mill. A large amount of iron is used in manufactures established, so much that in his opinion there would be room to employ from 50 to 75 men to supply Peterborough trade and the trade of the neighborhood, even if no higher aspirations were had. Manufacturers using iron here are constantly subjected to delays in the shipments of iron, which means serious loss. If a rolling mill were established here there would be none of that.

Mr. Sawyer's Enterprises.

The Orillia Packet says:—"Prof. Bannell Sawyer, President of the Sawyer Business College, Peterborough, has been in town this week seeing about the encouragement he would receive in establishing a northern branch of his already celebrated business training school. The claims of Barrie and Orillia as suitable places seem pretty equally divided to Mr. Sawyer. Barrie is older and a little the larger. Orillia is enterprising and growing rapidly. At a meeting of the Barrie Town Council this week, a resolution was passed commending Mr. Sawyer's enterprise, and promising their support. We that think our town should not let slip this opportunity of getting a branch of such an institution as this established here."

If the Sufferers from Consumption

Scrofula and General Debility, will try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with hypophosphites, they will find immediate relief and a permanent benefit. Dr. H. V. Mott, Brentwood Cal., writes "I have used Scott's Emulsion with great advantage in cases of Phthisis, Scrofula and Wasting Diseases. It is very palatable." Put up in 50c and $1 size.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

OF COURSE NOT.

But there is no sense or necessity in mixing up the two questions of fishing in the Atlantic and Pacific waters. They have nothing in common, are not and never have been subject to the same treaty stipulations and the three mile limit on Canadian coasts, by which, through the treaty of 1818 our people are controlled, has no application to the fur trade of Alaska, or the limitations there prescribed for British vessels.—Cleveland Leader.

A BENEFICIAL CHANGE.

Rumor has it that the syndicate of American gentlemen, who have acquired valuable mining lands in the district of Kingston, contemplate the construction of works at which to convert the ore into metal for consumption in the Canadian market. Such was not the original intention of the syndicate. Their purpose was to develop the mines and utilize the ore, but not to smelt it in Canada. The change of base on the part of our government may suggest new possibilities, and if smelting works must be erected, location in Kingston will be a necessity.—Kingston Whig (Reform.)

O'Brien Ill at Niagara Falls.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 22.—The O'Brien party arrived about noon. Mr. O'Brien, under medical advice, kept his bed all day. The doctors said Mr. O'Brien was suffering from symptoms of pleurisy and feared that he was likely to be confined to his bed for some time. The stone thrown at him in Toronto struck him on the left side injuring the short ribs and cartilage. It causes great pain. At a late hour this evening Mr. O'Brien was no better, and was rather feverish. But he announces that he is determined upon proceeding to Hamilton to-morrow, where he will make an address in the afternoon.

Collided in a Fog.

NEW YORK, May 22.—The British steamers Celtic and Britannic were in collision on May 19th, 350 miles east of Sandy Hook. Both vessels reached Sandy Hook bar at 1 a.m. to day, and were compelled to remain there, owing to a dense fog. The disabled steamers were accompanied to Sandy Hook by the steamers British Queen and Marengo to render assistance if necessary. Four of the Britannic steerage passengers were killed. All is well aboard the Celtic. The collision occurred in a fog.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada d9

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little suffer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

TRENT VALLEY NAVIGATION.

Our Town Council has taken a judicious step in appointing an influential delegation to wait upon the Ministers in Ottawa to urge the fulfilment of the promise to continue the works for utilizing the Trent Valley Navigation. We cannot suppose that the Administration will disregard its general promise to forward this work, nor the particular promises lately made to the Mayor of Peterborough, the Reeve of Lakefield, and others. At the same time it must be remembered that there are numerous other applications for public works, and if we do not keep the matter before the Government, it may be overlooked in the urgency of other matters. We also allow due weight to the fact that the Government is anxious to practice the strictest economy in the public expenditure especially in view of the rabid attacks made upon them by an unscrupulous Opposition for spending money on improvements which the Opposition in each locality demand as lustily as the Ministerialists. But we would urge as against this that the Trent Valley Navigation has the twofold advantage of being a great national means of communication and at the same time of much value from a local point of view. We in this district have patiently, and even cheerfully, contributed to the cost of other national works, also having local importance elsewhere, while there has been comparatively little expenditure among us for these public objects.

That there should have appeared no appropriation for a new section in the main estimates for next year, but only a revote for the completion of works in an advanced stage was a disappointment to the people along this great navigable route, but this can be remedied in the supplementary estimates to be brought down.

The situation is now different from what it was in recent sessions. Then the work was still in progress, even if not advancing as rapidly as we desired, but now if a new section is not opened the construction will soon be brought to a standstill, it will be a discontinuance of work upon an improvement which we were promised should be steadily advanced. It is superfluous to remark that if work were once stopped the difficulty of obtaining a fresh start would be very great, and the length of time for which the the Trent Valley might lie dormant none could forsee. Very many among us would despair of ever seeing this long desired improvement accomplished. We cannot, however, believe that such a disappointment of our well founded hopes

NORTHERN PACIFIC SPECULATORS.

Now the Globe and its friends who have been clamouring for railway competition in Manitoba have openly shown their design, plainly confessing that their object is to break down the C. P. R., and to carry away from Canada as much tariff as possible to enrich a foreign road and a foreign country. The Toronto Globe has the following:—

"Mr. Duncan MacArthur, of Winnipeg, one of the shrewdest financiers of the West, largely interested in the Northern Pacific and the Manitoba & Northwestern, is understood to be directing the campaign against the Canadian Pacific, and should the Northern Pacific get across to Manitoba, it would no doubt secure an early connection with the Manitoba & Northwestern, and make serious inroads upon the trade of the C. P. R. Company."

There could not be a plainer confession of the iniquitous plot. A gentleman who is pecuniarily interested in a foreign railway is "directing the campaign" with the avowed aim of making serious inroads upon the trade of our great Canadian line and handing it over to the foreign Company. That he may enrich himself the tens of millions expended by the people of Canada are to be diverted from benefitting them to serve his private interests as much as possible. And this gentleman is a political friend of the Globe which has with its imitators been working in unison with him in the hope of injuring Canada and thereby rendering its people discontented with their chosen leaders. Such is the director of the campaign and such we may fairly assume are also the associates for whom he acts.

It is well that this nefarious plot should be so plainly exposed on the authority of one concerned. Many people, and we may include ourselves among them, hoped that the time need not be much longer deferred for the permission of a competing line to connect the North-West with Eastern Canada, and looked forward to an early cessation of disallowance. But the confession that the competition desired is to enrich private speculators and foreign interests at the expense of Canada places the matter in a very different aspect.

THE people of Canada and the C. P. R. have at a great expense brought a large portion of a continent into communication with Winnipeg. The Globe and its friends want to tap this costly line and avail themselves of its accumulated traffic for their own benefit. Suppose the Globe had run a long telegraph line through a new district and had made arrangements for collecting and forwarding news for its columns, what would the Globe think if some rival journal tapped its line, at the mere cost of a short connecting wire, and thus cheaply participated in its enterprize, on the plea that it would benefit Toronto to have competition in telegrams? Yet this would be quite as honest as the action of the Globe and its friends in regard to diverting the traffic of the C. P. R. for the benefit of the United States and Northern Pacific.

A BOOM IN SUMMER CLOTHING AND STYLISH HATS.

Such is our confident prediction with excellent opportunities for a verification. The advent of May, with its pleasant days, foretells an excellent summer trade. In fact we have seized time by the fore-lock and made unsual preparations. We show to-day the largest and handsomest assortment of

MENS' - BOYS' - AND - CHILDRENS' - HATS

Ever exhibited in Canada, including all the novelties of the Season. Our unparalleled display of Felt Hats, newest style at 20c. each is an important item in itself. But the agitation of the day is how

GOUGH, the WONDERFUL CHEAP MAN

Can sell a Beautiful All Wool Suit for $3.75 that cost minature Clothiers $5.00 wholesale. Well, it is Wonderful How We Do, But We Do, and though the Army and Navy might scare away O'Brien, the Great GOUGH still remains as firm as a rock, and will continue to make the High Price Clothiers howl. We are showing this Season probably

THE MOST VARIED AND COMPLETE STOCK EVER SHOWN BY ANY ONE CLOTHING HOUSE IN THE DOMINION OF CANADA,

And we have placed on them what our patrons say, and our contemporaries are bound to acknowledge, the lowest prices ever dreamed of. We freely admit that we are fallen Clothiers, wallowing in the lowest depths of Bed Rock Prices, while our exalted brethren look down upon us from their High Places and go wild because we capture the trade. Quality and Workmanship are our wheel-horses, Style and Price the leaders, and we make these pull to the last fraction to give you Good Goods at Reasonable Prices. Give us a call, and buy one of our $3.75 Never Wear Out Suits. It is no trouble to show our Goods, in fact, we enjoy it.

A Port Hoper Murdered.

Old residents in Port Hope will recollect David Irwin Corker, who lived with his parents in Englishtown, until 1848, when he went to California. Some years after that date, they will also remember, he returned to Port Hope on a brief visit, but since that visit, he has probably passed out of the memory of many of his old companions. His name is now revived by papers from Oregon, where he, last fall, fell a victim to a murderous thief, who attempted to rob him. The deceased for years it seems has kept a hardware store in Yamhill, Oregon, and became one of that town's prominent citizens. Last November, a man made his entrance into the store and from the store he dug his way with a chisel to the room in the rear where Corker slept. With an axe taken from the store the assassin killed him after a struggle, took what valuables he could and escaped. The corpse was found next day, and a detective was sent to Yamhill to ferret out the murderer. A man called Marple went to the detective with the statement that he was also a detective, and offered to help in the case. Marple suggested a young fellow as the murderer and began to advance what he said were proofs. The detective's suspicions were aroused by Marple's officiousness and ill-concealed anxiety, and he told him he would use his own judgment in the case. Marple's conduct on being thus summarily snubbed increased the detective's suspicions, and he resolved to search his house. The search revealed a chisel, and in conversation with Marple during the search spots of blood were noticed on his coat, which being taken off, blood was found on his vest and shirt. He failed to explain away, at a minute's notice, these evidences of guilt, and was placed in gaol charged with murder in the first degree. The clues being traced, sufficiently strong proof was obtained to convict the cold-blooded villain, and at the assizes held last month a jury found a verdict of guilty. The case is one that might be taken for a chapter of a sensational novel, the murder and after conduct of the murderer were of such exceptional cold calculating brutality. Many years though it is since Corker left Port Hope, we doubt not that there are still many who will remember their friend of four decades ago, with feelings of regret for his tragic end.—Port Hope Times.

Mr. O'Brien's Visit.

Mr. D. A. O'Sullivan in the Catholic Record:—If Mr. O'Brien had come on any other mission, there is not the slightest doubt but he would have been welcomed as he deserved; but his present coming was ill-advised, and the object was—to put the matter fairly—the object and purpose was unworthy of the talented man Mr. O'Brien certainly is and unworthy of the cause he represents. There is no other word to express it. Landlordism in Ireland is bad, and Lansdowne may be a bad landlord; but for a sensible man to come some thousands of miles to tell us Canadians that we should drive Lansdowne out of his position because of that, is about the silliest thing that any one in his senses could conceive of. It will be in order for some to say that Mr. O'Brien is in the secret pay of Lord Lansdowne. He has done him immense service, at all events.

NEWS NOTES.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," etc

Now it is not possible, in a general way, for a youngish man like John Niel to live in the same house with a young and lovely woman like Bessie Croft without running more or less risk of entanglement. More especially is this so where the two people have little or no outside society or distraction to divert the attention from each other. Not that there was as yet, at any rate, the slightest hint of affection between them. Only they liked one another very much, and found it pleasant to be a good deal together. In short, they were walking along that easy, winding road that leads to the mountain paths of love. It is a very broad road, like another road that runs elsewhere, and, also like this last, it has a wide gate. Sometimes, too, it leads to destruction. But for all that it is a most agreeable one to follow hand in hand, winding as it does through the pleasant meadows of companionship. The view is rather limited, it is true, and homelike—full of familiar things. There stand the kine, knee deep in the grass; there runs the water; and there grows the corn. Also one can stop if one likes. By and by it grows different. By and by when the travelers tread the heights of passion, precipices will yawn and torrents rush, lightning will fall and storms will blind; and who can know that they will attain at last to that far off peak, crowned with the glory of a perfect peace which men call happiness? There are those who say it never can be reached, and that the halo which rests upon its slopes is no earthly light, but rather, as it were, a promise of a beacon—a glow reflected whence we know not, and lying on this alien earth as the sun's light lies on the dead bosom of the moon. Some say, again, that they have climbed its topmost pinnacle and tasted of the fresh breath of heaven that sweeps around its heights—ay, and heard the quiring of immortal harps and the swanlike sigh of angels' wings; and then behold! a mist has fallen upon them, and they have wandered in it, and when it cleared they were on the mountain paths again, and the peak was far away. And a few there are who tell us that they live there always, listening to the voice of God; but these are old and worn with journeying—men and women who have outlived passions and ambitions and the fire heats of love, and who now, girt about with memories, stand face to face with the sphinx eternity.

But John Niel was no chicken, nor very likely to fall in love with the first pretty face he met. He had once, years ago, gone through that melancholy stage, and there, he thought, was an end of it. Another thing was that if Bessie attracted him, so did Jess in a different way. Before he had been a week in the house he had come to the conclusion that Jess was the strangest woman he had ever met, and in her own way one of the most attractive. Her very impassiveness added to her charm; for who is there in this world who does not like to learn a secret? To him Jess was a riddle of which he did not know the key. That she was clever and well informed he soon discovered from her rare remarks; that she could sing like an angel he also knew; but what was the mainspring of her mind—round what axis did it revolve—that was what puzzled him. Clearly enough it was not like most women's, least of all like happy, healthy, plain sailing Bessie. So curious did he become to fathom these mysteries that he took every opportunity to associate with her, and would even, when he had time, go out with her on her sketching, or rather flower painting, expeditions. On these occasions she would sometimes begin to talk, but it was always about books, or England, or some intellectual question. She never spoke of herself.

Yet it soon became evident to John that she liked his society, and missed him when he did not come. It never occurred to him what a boon it was to a girl of considerable intellectual attainments, and still greater intellectual capacities and aspirations, to be thrown for the first time into the society of a cultivated and intelligent gentleman. John Niel was no empty headed, one sided individual. He had both read and thought, and even written a little, and in him Jess found a mind which, though of an inferior stamp, was more or less kindred to her own. Although he did not understand her, she understood him, and at last, had he but known it, there rose a far off dawning light upon the twilight of her mind that thrilled and changed it as the first faint rays of morning thrill and change the darkness of the night. What if she should learn to love this man, and teach him to love her! To most women such a thought involves more or less the idea of marriage, and that change of status which they generally consider so desirable. But Jess did not think much of that; what she did think of was the blessed possibility of being able to lay down her life, as it were, in the life of another—of finding at last somebody who understood her, and whom she could understand, who would cut the shackles that bound down the wings of her genius, so that she could rise and bear him with her as, in Bulwer Lytton's beautiful story, Zoe would have borne her lover. Here at last was a man who understood, who was something more than an animal, and who possessed the godlike gift of brains, the gift that had been more of a curse than a blessing to her, lifting her above the level of her sex and shutting her off as by iron doors from the understanding of those around her. Ah! if only this perfect love of which she had read so much would come to him and her, life might perhaps grow worth the living.

It is a curious thing, but in such matters most men never learn wisdom from experience. A man of John Niel's age might have guessed that it is dangerous work playing with explosives, and that the quietest, most harmless looking substances are sometimes the most explosive. He might have known that to set to work to cultivate the society of a woman with such telltale eyes as Jess' was to run the risk of catching the fire from them himself, to say nothing of setting her alight; he might have known that to bring all the weight of his cultivated mind to bear on her mind, to take the deepest interest in her studies, to implore her to let him see the poetry Bessie told him she wrote, but which she would show to no living soul, and to evince the most evident delight in her singing, were one and all dangerous things to do; and yet he did them and thought no harm.

Our Prices May Startle You, But We Cannot Help That!

THE CHEAPSIDE SHEPPARD PETERBOROUGH

Has the following drives at the prices annexed, and they are positively cheaper, all things being equal, than are shown by any house in the trade. They came into our hands at the prices simply because SHEPPARD bought up the whole stock at a price.

BOYS' SUITS Wholesale price in Montreal, $3.75, our price to-day $2.95. Boys' Suits made specially for Sheppard in Germany and cost $4.25, we are now selling at $3.25. MENS' SUITS—Wholesale price in Toronto $5.00 is now offered for $3.25.

LADIES' JERSEYS Ladies' Fine Braided Jersey's in Mid Brown, Seal Brown and Black, wholesale price was $3.50, Sheppard is now selling for $2.50, and commences on Jerseys at 95 cents.

DRESS GOODS A deep clean cut has been made in our Dress Goods. We have a large stock and they must be sold. The Season is now advancing and and down go the prices. SHEPPARD is not advertising Gold or Silver presents, neither is he paying return railway fares from the Pacific Slope to the Atlantic Seaboard, nor yet selling at cost, but the prices above are fully 20 per cent less than actual cost of the same goods bought in the regular way. SHEPPARD has the cheapest Buttons and Trimmings in Canada. We are not giving them away, but next door to it.

Men's Hats 10c., Men's Caps 6c., Men's Straw Hats 5c., Men's Overalls 25c., 3 Pairs Socks 25c., Men's Pants $1.00, Men's Vests 50c., Crash Coat and Vest $1.75, Boys' Wool Suits $1.00, Boys' Felt Hats 25c. Carpets cheap and Cottons cheap, all reduced from actual prices. The public will not deviate one step but go straight to the Great Cheapside.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Trade.

Mr. J. Irwin has traded his Lady B for Nellie N, a "dark horse." She will be brought out at the earliest opportunity.

Explanation.

J. J. Sheehy's card to the public appears in this edition of the REVIEW on the first page.

Nearing the Nineties.

The Rev. V. Clementi's self-registering thermometer showed 88° in the shade on Sunday. This is warm enough for anyone.

Queen's Birthday.

Steamer Golden-Eye will give a trip to Idyl-Wild. Dancing on scow and at Idyl-Wild. Good Regatta. One chance for $50 sewing machine; all for 50c. on 24th May.

No one need despair of finding millinery to suit them while Turnbull is in the trade. He keeps a well selected stock of choice goods, and as new lines appear in the market has new shapes and trimmings arriving almost daily.

A Difference.

On Saturday afternoon a straw hat and a vacant expression entered a George street book store and said to the young lady behind the counter, "D'ye keep nails here?" "Mails? Yes, we keep Mails," returned the young lady. "Gimme a couple of pounds." "A couple of pounds of Mails!" "Of nails." "Oh, nails, we don't keep nails."

Service of Praise.

The Service of Praise which was rendered with such success at St. Paul's Church on Monday, 9th of May, will be repeated in the George Street Church, on Thursday evening, May 26th, under the direction of Mr. Parker. Admission free, silver collection. It is to be hoped that all who did not hear this really fine entertainment, will avail themselves of this opportunity.

Golden grain of truth. Turnbull is selling ladies Taffeta and pure silk gloves that are cut to fit the hand. Every pair numbered. You will not regret having walked an extra block after you have tried a pair.

The Jubilee Celebration.

A correspondent suggests that public addresses should form part of the celebration of the Queen's jubilee. There is no doubt that such a feature in the programme would be acceptable to very many. The general committee having the arrangements in hand, might consider this suggestion with reference to the other methods that have ben adopted for celebrating the day, and if they think well of it they might appoint another sub-committee to arrange the details.

At the Driving Park.

The prospects for a first-class day's sport at the Driving Park to-morrow are good. A large number of entries have been made, and they are still coming in. There will be a number of fliers here from a distance, and as there are a good many fast horses belonging to the local sportsmen, it is expected that every race will be keenly contested. The Fire Brigade Band will be in attendance. [Since writing the above we learn from the committee that there will be from seven to ten foreign horses participate in the races.]

First Band Concert.

The Fire Brigade Band will commence giving open air concerts in the Horticultural Gardens this evening. The following programme will be presented:—

Quick March	Jubilee	R Smith
Fantasia	Evening Revels	C Richards
Hallelujah chorus	Messiah	Handel
Grand March	Hector	M Seamon
Valse	Little Sailors	A G Crowe
Quadrille	Bonnie Hint	W N Scholes
Shottische	Sunny Hours	R Smith
Fantasia	Impromptu	Earnest Villiers

God Save the Queen.

No doubt the Gardens will be crowded on the occasion of the first concert of the season.

The Prize Durham.

The prize list published in the REVIEW of the recent exhibition of bulls and stallions made it appear that Robt. H. Leary's Robbie Burns got the first prize in the aged Durham class, when Mr. M. D. Sullivan's (of the "Nine Mile," Douro) Nelson won the first prize and Robbie Burns came second. The mistake was made through the first entry in the judges book giving Robbie Burns the first prize. Subsequently Nelson was awarded the first prize. Nelson is a very fine animal. He was bred by Mr. Geo. Scott, Smith, and sold to Mr. Sullivan some time ago by Mr. Geo. Webber.

Are you a bargain seeker? Call at Turnbull's and see his beautiful Cretonnes at 10 cents a yard.

EXTENDING A WELCOME

To the Rev. E. W. Sibbald, Grand Chaplain of the S. O. E. B. S.

On Saturday evening a special session of Lansdowne Lodge, No. 25, S. O. E., was held to receive and extend a welcome to the Rev. E. W. Sibbald, of Belleville, the Most Worthy Grand Chaplain of the Sons of England Benevolent Society. He was met at the station by a committee and escorted to the lodge room. The grand honors were extended to him by the members present, and the President in a few words tendered him a welcome in the name of the Lodge.

The Grand Chaplain, in reply, said it afforded him great pleasure to meet the members of Lansdowne Lodge once more. He was glad to hear of the progress made by the Lodge since his previous visit. In looking around he noticed some familiar faces, others he did not know personally, but they were all Englishmen—they were brethren, bound together in one grand brotherhood, united in the same purpose, striving for the same aim—the advancement of Englishmen and the integrity of the Empire. He felt that he was among friends. He thanked them for the reception they had given him this evening. He had been elected to the office of Grand Chaplain for four consecutive years, which he considered a very high honor, and although he knew there were others more capable of filling those high and onerous duties, still he would venture to say they could find none more zealous for the advance of the order than he. He predicted for the society a great growth in membership. Those Englishmen outside were now noting their actions, they watched their advancement, they were now searching out the benefits of the order. It should stir the members to greater zeal that they had awakened this interest. Not long since Prof. Goldwin Smith had told him that he thought the Sons of England would become the strongest society in this Dominion. A prominent member of the Dominion Parliament, a Cabinet Minister, had told him the same thing, and that he looked to this society exercising a power in the future. They had within their circle men of position and power, men holding high and exalted positions. There was no distinction of class. They were all brothers. There was in the world two much selfishness, men trod one another down in there desire to reach a certain goal. In our society self-denial was a foremost principle taught. There was the caring for the sick brethren, the relief of the distressed, aiding the fatherless and widows. Surely an organization carrying out these principles was bound to prosper. He was proud of his nationality, that grand old flag was very dear to him. He could not look but with feelings of veneration upon that flag, that emblem of liberty. We were soon to celebrate the jubilee of our Sovereign Lady, and he hoped this society would be foremost in their efforts to make it a success. He briefly referred to the Irish troubles, and the cry of secession which was heard in this land. He closed his address by again thanking them for the reception he had received, and wishing the lodge continued prosperity.

Several of the members spoke a few words of encouragement and the Lodge was then closed.

Refreshments were served in the anti-rooms, and a thoroughly enjoyable evening was spent.

Turnbull's mammoth store is in its new summer dress, decked with lace flouncings and embroideries, lace Grenadines, lace gloves and parasols, lace curtains and pillow shams, etc., etc. For new and handsome goods this is the right house.

Cricket.

The following players go to Campbellford to-morrow morning to play against the club of that place:—W. A. Stratton, G. W. Hatton, T. Baker, R. B. Rogers, J. Stirling, J. Montgomery, J. H. Long, H. B. Newbold, W. Hamilton, W. Hartley and J. Smith.

Peterborough and Lakefield Juniors.

A cricket match between the Peterborough Juniors and Lakefield Juniors was played on the P. A. A. A. grounds on Saturday afternoon, and resulted in favor of Peterborough by 36 runs. The Lakefield boys were overmatched in both size and age, some of their eleven seeming to be not more than nine years of age, and they deserve great credit for the plucky way in which they played. Hamilton, Kincaid, the two Bouchers and Bradburn, for Peterborough, and Muchall, A. Bell and Blomfield, for Lakefield, all batted well, while the best bowling was done by Hamilton and Hay for Peterborough, and by A. Bell for Lakefield. The following is the score:—

LIBERTY: BRITISH BORN

TRUE LIBERTY DEFINED—FREEDOM NOT LICENSE.

How to Hold Fast to the Liberties Now Enjoyed—Education, Brotherly Love, Self-Sacrifice and Self-Denial Needed.

On Sunday morning the members of the Lansdowne Lodge, S. O. E., attended the 11 o'clock services at St. John's Church. The brethren occupied the front seats. The Rev. E. B. Sibbald, of Belleville, preached the sermon, taking for his text Galations, v, 13:—"For, brethren, ye have been called unto liberty. Only use not liberty for an occasion to the flesh, but by love serve one another."

The Rev. gentleman, in commencing, said that liberty was no empty thing. It occupied the first place in our hearts—the very essence of the elevation of the people. He then proceeded to define the word. What was liberty? In everything appertaining to physical life there was laws and limitations which we must carefully observe. If we do not we die. So it was in relation to mental life. If we exercise our minds in certain ways we do our mental faculties great injury. None the less was this the case with our spiritual life. Here, too, we had laws to guide us. On every hand we were restrained and restricted. This state of things he described as as distinguished from license, if there were no laws to guide us True liberty is the suppression of the lower tendencies of human life and the elevation of the higher. All suppression and restraint of our passions produced exaltation of our spiritual nature and complete victory over the lower and sinful tendencies meant complete freedom of the spirit part of man. This was real liberty. The giving way to low desires was slavery, and those who fell before the assaults of the passions could make no advancement in spiritual life. There was a possibility of high forms of liberty being conferred on a people without the people being able to take advantage of it. This was to be seen in the history of European states. Nations were given the highest forms of Government, but from degeneracy they were unable to hold those forms of Government. Unless the people be educated to restrain themselves from violence and to abide by moral conditions there was no possibility of self government. States which at one time enjoyed liberty have soon, by rottenness of national life, fallen back to darkness and despotism. The word "liberty" was the watchword cherished by the English. They knew how that liberty was won, how it spread till now the whole civilized globe felt its power. This liberty was born of a love of justice, fairness

AND HONEST DEALING.

To sustain it the individual must subject himself to restraints and restrictions, for the individual life was the national life. How then were the English people to maintain their liberties. First by the education of the people. This was most essential. Not education in any one line was necessary, but education from a broad and general standpoint. A knowledge of God's laws, a wide secular education, cultivation of high moral life were all necessary. Give a man a secular education only and he becomes a skeptic; educate the heart only and he becomes a fanatic.

EDUCATE ALL MAN'S FACULTIES

and he is the grandest work of God. It was essential that we should exercise ourselves in restraining the heart from low desires, to curb the passions and give ourselves moral dicipline. We must not only avoid that which is evil but we must avoid the appearance of evil. What then shall he say of a church that will not seek to enlighten the mind? That church must lead the people back to medievalism, superstition and darkness. What would he say if a church that taught its people secular thing and withheld the true Light of God from its children? He would warn his brethren of this Order to never keep from their children the Word of God. Let them read it, let it be their text book. They must keep firm and determined. Education might be given in all of the arts, in everything which was referring and promoting happiness here. But as soon as we are born into the world we inherit eternity. Pity that we should be educated for this life and not educated for eternity! Secondly, we must promote brotherly love. All knew the advantages of concord and harmony. Love of one another was the great principle of progress. Sympathy, self-denial and self-sacrifice, too, were needed to maintain our liberty. And the same spirit which caused the champions of liberty to give up their lives that we might enjoy laws of freedom, must obtain now that our children may enjoy what we now do. It seemed to him that in one verse the apostle had injected the whole truth of the Gospel. One syllable, as it were, from which golden fruits might be raised. And the society which cultivated self-denial, self-sacrifice, brotherly love,—the society which taught its members to visit the bedside of sick brethren and care for the orphan, such society was carrying out the command of God. Such society, he could say, must have God's blessing. Such teaching was part of the work of the church in which they all rejoiced. The society did not confine its sympathies to those of English nationality, but went forth to help and comfort others as well. It had been said that the English were not disposed to treat fairly those of other parts of the Empire and that they had no sympathy or brotherly love for the people of the Green Isle. He asked them to think of the time of the great famine in Ireland when Great Britain sent her $50,000,000 for the relief of the distressed people, and when our good Queen sent $10,000 from her own private purse. As long as Ireland formed a part of the great British Empire her people must be looked upon as our brothers.

HELD THE GERM

THEY WERE BROTHER BRITONS

as long as they bore the name. But they must be subjected to restraints and restrictions as other subjects. They must be willing to obey the law. They had a right to every privilege those of the other parts of the Empire enjoyed, but progress and advancement was not to be made by means of disobeying the laws now in existence, imperfect though they might be. Self-denial and self-sacrifice must be practiced if we would rise in anything. These were days to guard against selfishness—an age in which men had extravagant ideas of social life. He warned his hearers against being wrapped up in self. An empire stands till every man becomes an empire and then it falls. If we desire great things for the state we must have self-sacrifice in the individual. We had bright examples of sacrifice of personal good for the benefit of the state in our forefathers and in the great men of this century; and in those excellent qualities which go to make up a noble life we had in the present Queen a living embodiment. He concluded by commenting on the good qualities of Her Majesty, speaking of her sympathy for the distressed, her wonted custom to go incognito to speak words of comfort to the sick, her purity of life and the influence it had.

TRADE IN

Our MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT, and did we judge alone by the crowds that daily claim attention of our salesmmen advertising this class of goods would be unnecessary—almost a waste of money. But then, you know, there's two sides to every subject, Here's the other side to this one, and at the same time our reason for advertising when there's no apparent necessity for doing so.

In making up our stock in this department we provided for great numbers—for many more than have as yet taken advantage of its completeness, to furnish themselves with millinery suitable for the season.

It will therefore require crowds long continued" to clear out tables of the enormus stock of Millinery with which they are loaded—over-loaded.

A continuous demand then being necessary, we knew of no better way to insure it than to keep you informed as to just what we have and how we are prepared to sell it. We shall, therefore, from now till the close of the season, devote some portion of our card to Millinery News.

We have already said that our stock was large. We have also intimated that our assortment was complete. Now for our goods.

We have just received a six dozen lot of Ladies' and Children's Hats which are the newest in shape and bought at half their value.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Loch's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

Sixty-Eighth Anniversary of Her Birth.

PETERBORO'S CELEBRATION.

A LARGE INFLUX OF VISITORS AND A GALA DAY IN TOWN.

Horse Races at the Park—Sports at the Association Grounds — Orangemen from Toronto — Salvation Army Demonstration—Idyl Wild Excursion —Cricket and Lacrosse.

The sixty-eighth anniversary of the Queen'sbirthday was celebrated in Peterborough in the usual loyal manner.

At six o'clock in the morning the booming of cannon woke the citizens to the fact that the day had come. The Durham Field Battery were firing a royal salute at the drill shed.

The forenoon was delightfully fine and quite a number little excursion parties took this assurance of a whole days fine weather and went to the country to enjoy themselves—and get ducked in the afternoon.

During the forenoon the incoming trains brought Salvation Captains, Lieutenants, Cadets and Soldiers, from all quarters and by noon the representatives of the eighteen stations in the district were here to attend the "drunkards demonstration." The principal streets were marched, Captain Blackburn of Cobourg mounted on a white horse, marshalling the detachment. There were two hundred and fifty in the march.

The only sporting event taking place in the forenoon was the baseball match between the Hamilton Manufacturing Works nine and the Lock Works nine. The following are the names of the teams:—

HAMILTONS—Galley, p; Callaghan, c; Harvey, 1st base; McKim, 2nd base; Cheer, s. s; Robinson, 3rd base; Hickey, l. f; Hawkins, centre, Libbey, r. f.

LOCK WORKS—Honan. p; Landy, c; Farley, 1st base; Cahill, 2nd base; Corcoran; s. s; Wilkenson, 3rd base; Rudkins, l. f; Taber, centre; Ahearn, r. f.

The game was watched by quite a number of spectators. It resulted in a win for the Hamiltons by 10 to 5.

P. A. A. A. SPORTS.

Peterborough Victorious at Baseball—Bicycle and Other Races.

In the afternoon there was a fair attendance at the Amateur Athletic Association grounds, where a game of baseball was played and a short programme of other sports carried out. There was considerable delay in getting the sports started, but once going, the sport was interesting.

BASEBALL.

Teams representing the Peterborough and Lindsay clubs took possession of the diamond. The Peterboroughs were dressed in new suits of white pants and shirts, blue stockings, white slippers and white and blue hats. The Lindsays were dressed in gray. Mr. Wm. L. Flanagan, of Kingston, acted as umpire.

The first innings was a lively one. The Peterboroughs went to bat, but retired before a runner had got further than second base. Lindsay fared little better, as the third base was the nearest they got to scoring when the side was out.

In the second innings Peterborough scored 4. Billings, Fitzgerald and Cameron were on bases when the ball passed the catcher and Billings crossed the plate. Moore drove the ball to left field and let Fitzgerald and Cameron in. Galley struck the ball and got first base, and Moore scored. Lindsay made one. Bates took second on a strike and stole third. Hallett struck the ball and let Bates in.

The third innings gave Peterborough one. Fligg struck and got first base and ran second. Metheral was caught off the bat. Billings struck out, but Fligg crossed the plate. Lindsay failed to score, McAdams going out on first base and Kennedy and Gladstone striking out.

The fourth innings added 6 to Peterborough's score. Moore and Galley were on bases. Landy drove the ball to left field and Moore scored. Brennan sent the ball flying to right field and Galley and Landy tallied. Fligg sent the sphere in the same direction and Brennan crossed the plate. Metheral went out on first and Billings was caught by Kennedy. Fitzgerald found the ball and Fligg scored. Cameron went out on first, but Fitzgerald tallied. Lindsay made their biggest score in this innings Robinson was caught out by Fitzgerald. Little found the ball and got to first base. Sisson went out on first. Bates drove the ball down the field and let Little in. Hallett struck and got first, and McCrimmon went to first on balls. McCrimmon led out and the pitcher threw towards first base, but the ball travelled away down the field and Bates and Hallett scored. McAdams and Kennedy reached first on striking the ball, and McCrimmon tallied. Billings gathered a foul fly from Gladstone and the side retired.

The fifth innings gave Peterborough one more. Moore drove the ball to centre and got around to third base. Galley gave a fly to centre and was caught out. Landy struck and got first. Brennan sent the ball to centre and Moore scored. Landy and Brennan went out on bases. Lindsay's innings was a blank. Robinson went out on second base. Little got to second and Sisson to first. Bates went out on first and Hallett struck out.

Rain had been falling for some time and at this time came down heavily. After waiting a few minutes the umpire called time and Peterborough won the match by 12 runs to 6. The following is the score:—

Peterborough and Lindsay baseballers are a good humoured crowd.

Fitz. understands what a player goes into the box for.

The umpire's position is not an enviable one, but umpire Flanagan came through the ordeal well.

Moore played with a lame leg, but forgot all about it when their was a chance for a base.

THE RACES.

After the base ball match, while the rain was still lightly falling, the races were brought on and the programme was carried out with spirit. The following were the events, each one being for a medal:

100 YARD RACE.—Four entries. Won by Gus. Moore. Time, 10½ sec.

MILE BICYCLE RACE.— Two entries, V. Halliday and H. Haultain. This was a very spirited contest. Haultain took the lead, but was passed by Halliday, and the racers passed each other several times. Coming in towards the finish Halliday was leading, but Haultain put on a spurt and side by side they whirled past the line, Haultain a few inches ahead. Time, 3.5.3

200 YARDS RACE.—Two entries. Won by Arch Moore. Time, 27 sec.

TWO MILE BICYCLE RACE.—Three entries. Won by A. Gibson, who led from the start. There was a keen contest between Haultain and Halliday for second place, but Halliday got it. Time, 8.25.

120 YARDS HURDLE RACE—Two entries. Won by Archie Moore. Time, 23¼ sec.

QUARTER MILE RACE.—Three entries. Won by Arch Moore. Time, 59½ sec.

The rain drove a number of spectators away when the baseball match closed, but those who remained witnessed some good contests. Mr. F. E. Bell acted as clerk of the course; Mr. J. Morris as starter; Mr. R. W. Muncaster, timekeeper. Judges—Hon. R. Hamilton, Dr. Halliday and Mr. H. E. Strickland; directors—Dr. Brennan, J. Morris, A. St. A. Smith, G. Schofield, R. B. Rogers, W. Sailsbury, F. E. Bell, Dr. Burnham and G. W. Hatton.

THE DRIVING PARK.

The Annual Spring Races—Lively Time Made.

The races in the Driving Park commenced at about half past two o'clock. Owing to the Orange procession taking place so late in the day the attendance was not so large as expected.

The weather was fine and cool. The track was in fine condition. The rain seemed to have done it good instead of harm.

The judges were: Messrs. Ira Hall Oshawa; J. J. Daly, Peterborough, and D. Ferguson, Port Hope. The latter officiated as timer and J. J. Daly as starter.

The first event was the open trot, mile heats, best three in five.

There were four entries: Black Diamond, owned by W. McCrae, of Beaverton, and Fannie B. Grey Ned and Factory Girl, town. On the second score they got off well, Grey Ned next to the pole, Fannie B second, Factory Girl third and Black Diamond fourth. Fannie B was placed at a disadvantage by Black Diamond cutting into her place. During the first lap the contest between the three was pretty even, Grey Ned leading slightly, but it stretched out into a procession on the second. Grey Ned 1st, Black Diamond 2nd, Fannie B third, Factory Girl fourth. Time, 2.45.

The second event was the running race, half mile dashes, best three in five. There were four in the field: Bradley's Grey Johnny, Port Hope; Wilmot's Idyl Wild, Newcastle; Lanes's Albert L., Roseneath; and Patterson's Minnie P, Peterborough.

The first dash was a very exciting one. Idyl Wild and Grey Johnny contested every inch of ground till coming up the home stretch. Grey Johnny's rider spurted him and brought him in under the wire just what could be noticed ahead. Idyl Wild 2; Albert L, 3; Minnie P, 4. Time 53.

The second heat in the open trot was Grey Ned's from the start, Black Diamond 2, Factory girl 3, and Fannie B 4. Time 2.40.

In the second heat in the running race, after the getting away, the whole field got into a crowd and kept together till the home stretched was reached. Here Grey Johnny spurted and won easily, Idyl Wild 2, Minnie P 3, and Albert 4. Time 53.

Just after the finish of the last heat a shower came on, and the trotters had to come out in the rain. This heat was much the same as the other two. Ned got the lead and increased it to the finish. Fannie B 2, Black Diamond 2, and Factory Girl 4. Time, 2.43.

The third heat in the running race was won by Grey Johnny, with Idyl Wild 2nd and Albert L 3. Time, 56. Minnie P dropped out of the last heat, her driver declining to run her in the mud.

The summary is as follows:—

OPEN TROT.

Fannie B, 3.42.
Factory Girl, 4.34.
Grey Ned 1.11.
Black Diamond, 2.23.

RUNNING RACE.

Albert L, 3.33.
Idyl Wild, 2.22.
Grey Johnny, 1.11.
Minnie P, 44.

The carter's race wound up the proceedings. There were three entries: Benton's Brown Dick, Wells' Fred R, and Ryan's Little Jim. Little Jim won, but the backers of Brown Dick protested because the owner didn't "lick his horse." To settle the matter the judge ruled that the two horses run a hundred yard race. It was run and declared a tie.

ORANGE DEMONSTRATION.

The Drill Corps—The Procession a Fine One.

The people were more anxious to see the Orange procession that anything else and consequently the attendance at the Driving Park and the Association grounds was not so large as it would have been had the trains bringing the excursionists arrived in time. The excursion was run under the auspices of the Orangemen of West Toronto and the trains were due here at 11.20 a. m. It was after one o'clock in the afternoon before the first train arrived, and about 2 o'clock when the second drew up to the station. The first train brought in seven coaches full of excursionists, including two uniformed corps, the Prentice Boys drill corps No. 2, and the Prince Albert York Pioneer corps No. 501. Capt. Barnes, of the Pioneers and Capt. Armstrong, of the Prentice Boys put their corps through drill while waiting for the second train. The Prentice Boys are a gentlemanly looking corps. They wore handsome black uniforms with gold trimming, and marched very exactly The York Pioneers were armed with battle axes, making a formidable appearance. Their uniforms were richly decorated with gold embossed figures and fringes. The second train, composed of ten coaches brought in another corps of the York Pioneers—No. 800, representatives of the Scarlet Chapter and Black Knights. The Scarlet Chapter were to have appeared in new uniforms, but on account of their not

A SYSTEM OF SEWERS.

THERE is a question that is becoming continually more pressing for the Town of Peterborough, and as to which it will be impossible to defer taking steps much longer. It is the construction of a system of sewers. There are few towns of an equal population that remain in these days so nearly destitutute of such provision. Sanitary science, which is now so far better understood than formerly, shows plainly the great importance of observing the laws of health in this respect, in regard to which false economy must almost inevitably cost valuable lives. The question must be faced at no distant date, and it would be very improvident to wait till action is forced upon us by some terrible epidemic.

Fortunately for our town it is so advantageously situated that an effectual plan for this purpose can be devised and carried out without meeting with any formidable obstacles. Consequently there are the two great advantages that the whole cost of the system when completed need not be heavy, and also that it can be carried out by degrees instead of the whole work being done at once. Provision can be made first for the densely populated parts of the town where the danger is most threatening, the necessity most pressing, and the benefit greatest in proportion to the expenditure. Gradually, with the growth of population, the increase of buildings and the lapse of time the system could be extended as found necessary and as funds could be provided without the effort being too burdensome. But, in order to do this with advantage, it is necessary that a systematic plan should be prepared and adopted, so that the portions first undertaken may be utilized as part of the whole system when by degrees it is completed. Otherwise there must be waste of labor, time and money through undoing what may be first accomplished in order to adapt it to subsequent additions. Such improvident extravagance should be avoided, and it can be avoided if due foresight is exercised.

If the work is not to be burdensome it should be accomplished by degrees and for that and other obvious reasons it should be commenced speedily. No time, therefore, should be lost in obtaining such a plan as will be sufficient for the purpose even if the population and extent of our town should be considerably increased. A conclusion cannot be reached hastily, so the first step should be taken at once.

IRON IN OUR COUNTY.

As we have seen, preparations for again opening the Blairton iron mines in the Township of Belmont, are being made by Mr. Pearce and his associates. The first step taken has been an application for a charter to construct a railway that will connect the mines with Cobourg. It would seem as if this heavy expense were hardly necessary. By the Ontario and Quebec division of the C.P.R. there is connection already established between the Town of Peterborough and Blairton. Surely the requisite accommodation could be obtained from this road without there being any necessity for resorting to the costly experiment of building a new railway. Would not furnaces at this town or at the mines themselves, whichever might be found most expedient, give facilities at leat equal to those offered by the plan that is apparently contemplated at present. It might be well for Mr. Pearce and any others interested in the proposed works to consider the matter carefully in the light of this suggestion. Of course an acceptance of this view would be beneficial to Peterborough, and there would, therefore, be every probility of encouragement and assistance being given in order to secure such an advantage. It is a mere question of business, of comparative advantages, facilities and cost. A little consideration of the circumstances and consultations with some of our leading men, might not be trouble thrown away on the part of those interested in the development of the Blairton mines.

The Superiority of the "Royal Flavoring Extracts," is purity and strength.

OUR IRON INDUSTRY.

Rich Mines—Our Own County's Share.—Development at Hand.

We republish from the Kingston Whig the following interesting account of the rich iron mines in the district north of that city. Our readers will be especially interested when they call to mind the fact that these valuable ores extend through Hastings to our own county. The new duties will ensure the development for the benefit of Canada of the mineral wealth The Whig May 19th says:—It was a noteworthy demonstration of the nothingness of prejudices fast hastening "to the bad," whence they came, that a party of American gentlemen, visiting on Monday last this city, on enterprise intent, "forward-looking men," as Homer would describe them, with depths of speculation in their eyes, looked on the carters removing the stones of an imperial fortification built against American aggression and which now must be demolished to make room for the operations of a railway in which they are the largest stockholders. At the same time along the water front of this demolished battery the rock built foundations of the country itself were going into a schooner's hold for removal to America iron furnaces. At various points along the Kingston & Pembroke railway these men saw hundreds of miners deep down in the very bowels of the Canadian land in quest of iron ore to make the all-conquering ploughs and the irresistible railways and machines of the American people.

What does all this mean? Canadians in the United States are well known not to be deficient in enterprise and shrewdness. Why is it that although the existence of large deposits of iron ore in the counties of Frontenac and Renfrew has been proclaimed in the geological reports of the last 30 years not the first practical effort has been made by Canadian enterprise to turn them to profitable account? In this connection we might ask, Why is it that in the same period an exhaustible forest in the same region has been destroyed by fire, recklessly, criminally indeed, without the first effort to check it beyond printing some statistics and notices, which no doubt have been burned also?

How many people in Kingston have any idea of the great extent of the iron ore deposits of the county in which they live? From the mines first opened in Bedford township, which have been known by the names of the "Howse" mines, the "Glendower" mines, and lately the "Zanesville" mines, it is sixty miles distance to the Calabogie Company's mine, in the township of Bagot, a few miles from the rear boundary of Frontenac. Along this line there are several iron ore horizons having a general south-westerly tread, in which have been opened at intermediate points the Robertsville and Wilbur mines. The last named is now in active working, being 180 feet in depth, taking ore from two levels in daily increasing quantity. The Glendower mine is 140 feet deep, having, so the captain reports, 30,000 tons in sight waiting for the miners. All the companies heretofore working have been acquired by the Kingston & Pembroke Iron Mining Company, whose capital of five million of dollars, and directorate composed of well known business men, are guarantees of extensive enterprise and activity in the mines of Frontenac, Renfrew and Lanark counties. Whether their operations will take the direction of iron manufacture at Kingston is more than perhaps they themselves at present know. The company was formed before the imposition of the recent duty, and it has not transpired whether they have any design to take advantage of it. But whether they continue the development of the extensive mines they have acquired, or commence to make iron at Kingston, it is interesting to know that more valuable ores than our Laurentian magnetic are seldom obtained. The following is an analysis of the Calabogie ore, the most distant in the series of ore deposits:

	Per Cent.
Metallic iron	61.627
Manganese	0.389
Phosphorus	0.018
Sulphur	0.077

The Glendower ore, the mine nearest to the city, has ranked as the richest in the series of ores. The following are two analyses:

	Per Cent.
1. Metallic iron	66.621
Silica	3.260
Manganese	0.080
Phosphorus	0.027
2. Metallic iron	63.801
Silica	8.301
Manganese	.470
Magnesia	4.010
Phosphorus	0.011

It is to be hoped that with ore of such quality and with daily increasing facilities for mining and transporting, the new company will have so prosperous a career that the fortifications of Kingston will one by one give way to the aggressiveness of American enterprise and the complaisant welcome extended to it by our people.

O'BRIEN AT HAMILTON.

A Boy Fires A Pistol Shot—Eggs and a Stone Thrown.

Mr. O'Brien and Mr. Kilbride addressed a large audience in Hamilton on Monday night. A resolution condemning Lord Lansdowne for the inhuman treatment of his tenants, and stating that such a man was not worthy of the high office he holds, was carried unanimously. When Messrs. O'Brien and Kilbride were being driven to the Royal Hotel there was a slight disturbance, and a cabman named Jack Nelson was shot in the hand. The crowd opposite the hotel was very good humored, and though a few rotten eggs and one stone were thrown, the Irish delegates got in doors without receiving serious injuries. The shot was fired by a boy.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d9

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—"Civil Service Gazette."

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

JESS.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," etc

As for Bessie, she was delighted that her sister should have found anybody whom she cared to talk to or who could understand her. It never occurred to her that Jess might fall in love. Jess was the last person in the world to fall in love. Nor did she calculate what the results might be to John. As yet, at any rate, she had no interest in Capt. Niel—of course not.

And so things went on pleasantly enough to all concerned in this drama till one fine day when the storm clouds began to gather. John had been about the farm as usual till dinner time, after which he took his gun and told Jantje to saddle up his shooting pony. He was standing on the veranda, waiting for the pony to appear, and by him was Bessie, looking particularly attractive in a white dress, when suddenly he caught sight of Frank Muller's great black horse, and that gentleman himself upon it, cantering up the avenue of blue gums.

"Hullo, Miss Bessie," he said, "here comes your friend."

"Bother!" said Bessie, stamping her foot, and then, with a quick look, "Why do you call him my friend?"

"I imagine that he considers himself so, to judge from the number of times a week he comes to see you," he answered, with a shrug. "At any rate, he isn't mine, so I am off shooting. Good-by. I hope that you will enjoy yourself."

"You are not kind," she said, in a low voice, and turning her back on him.

In another moment he was gone, and Frank Muller had arrived.

"How do you do, Miss Bessie?" he said, jumping from his horse with the rapidity of a man who had been accustomed to rough riding all his life. "Where is the 'rooibaatje' off to?"

"Capt. Niel is going out shooting," she said, coldly.

"Ah, so much the better for you and me, Miss Bessie! We can have a pleasant talk. Where is that black monkey, Jantje? Here, Jantje, take my horse, you ugly devil, and mind you look after him, or I'll cut the liver out of you!"

Jantje took the horse, with a forced grin of appreciation at the joke, and led him off round the house.

"I don't think that Jantje likes you, Meinheer Muller," said Bessie, spitefully, "and I don't wonder at it if you talk to him like that. He told me the other day that he had known you for twenty years," and she looked at him inquiringly.

This casual remark produced a remarkable effect on the visitor, who turned color beneath his tanned skin.

"He lies, the black hound," he said, "and I'll put a bullet through him if he says it again! What should I know about him or he about me? Can I keep count of every miserable man monkey I meet?" and he muttered a string of Dutch oaths into his long beard.

"Really, meinheer!" said Bessie.

"Why do you call me 'meinheer?'" he asked, turning so fiercely on her that she started back a step. "I tell you I am not a Boer. I am an Englishman. My mother was English; and besides, thanks to Lord Carnarvon, we are all English now."

"I don't see why you should mind being thought a Boer," she said, coolly; "there are some very good people among the Boers, and, besides, you used to be a great 'patriot.'"

"Used to be—yes; and so the trees used to bend to the north when the wind blew that way, but now they bend to the south, for the wind has turned. By and by it may set to the north again—that is another matter—then we shall see."

Bessie made no answer, beyond pursing up her pretty mouth and slowly picking a leaf from the vine that trailed overhead.

The big Dutchman took off his hat and stroked his beard perplexedly. Evidently he was meditating something that he was afraid to say. Twice he fixed his cold eyes on Bessie's fair face, and twice looked down again. The second time she took alarm.

"Excuse me one minute," she said, and made as though to enter the house.

"Wacht een beeche" (wait a bit), he ejaculated, breaking into Dutch in his agitation and even catching hold of her white dress with his big hand.

She drew the dress from him with a quick twist of her lithe form, and turned and faced him.

"I beg your pardon," she said, in a tone that could not be called encouraging; "you were going to say something."

"Yes—ah, that is—I was going to say—" and he paused.

Bessie stood with a polite look of expectation on her face, and waited.

"I was going to say—that, in short, that I want to marry you!"

"Oh!" said Bessie, with a start.

"Listen," he went on, hoarsely, his words gathering force as he proceeded, as is the way even with uncultured people when they speak from the heart. "Listen! I love you, Bessie; I have loved you for three years. Every time I have seen you I have loved you more. Don't say me nay—you don't know how I love you. I dream of you every night; sometimes I dream that I hear your dress rustling, and then you come and kiss me, and it is like being in heaven."

Here Bessie made a gesture of disgust.

"There, I have offended you, but don't be angry with me. I am very rich, Bessie; there is the place here, and then I have four farms in Lydenburg and 10,000 morgen up in Waterberg, and 1,000 head of cattle, besides sheep and horses and money in the bank. You shall have everything your own way," he went on, seeing that the inventory of his goods did not appear to impress her—"everything—the house shall be English fashion; I will build a new sit-kame (sitting room), and it shall be furnished from Natal. There, I love you, I say. You won't say no, will you?" and he caught her by the hand.

"I am very much obliged to you, Mr. Muller," answered Bessie, snatching away her hand; "but—in short, I cannot marry you. No, it is no use, I cannot, indeed. There, please say no more, here comes my uncle. Forget all about it, Mr. Muller."

Her suitor looked up; there was old Silas Croft coming, sure enough, but he was some way off and walking slowly.

"Do you mean it?" he said beneath his breath.

"Yes, yes, of course I mean it. Why do you force me to repeat it?"

"It is that d—d rooibaatje," he broke out. "You used not to be like this before. Curse him, the white livered Englishman! I will be even with him yet; and I tell you what it is, Bessie: you shall marry me whether you like it or no. Look here, do you think I am the sort of man to play with? You go to Wakkerstroom and ask what sort of a man Frank Muller is. See, I want you—I must have you. I could not live if I thought that I should never get you for myself. And I tell you I will do it. I don't care if it costs my life, and your rooibaatje's, too. I'll do it if I have to stir up a revolt against the government. There, I swear it by God or by the devil, it's all one to me!" And growing inarticulate with passion, he stood there before her clinching and unclinching his great hand, and his lips trembling.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are suffering from teething. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

THE CHEAPSIDE SHEPPARD PETERBOROUGH

Has the following drives at the prices annexed, and they are positively cheaper, all things being equal, than are shown by any house in the trade. They came into our hands at the prices simply because SHEPPARD bought up the whole stock at a price.

BOYS' SUITS Wholesale price in Montreal, $3.75, our price to-day $2.95. Boys' Suits made specially for Sheppard in Germany and cost $4.25, we are now selling at $3.25. MENS' SUITS—Wholesale price in Toronto $5.00 is now offered for $3.25.

LADIES' JERSEYS Ladies' Fine Braided Jersey's in Mid Brown, Seal Brown and Black, wholesale price was $3.50, Sheppard is now selling for $2.50, and commences on Jerseys at 95 cents.

DRESS GOODS A deep clean cut has been made in our Dress Goods. We have a large stock and they must be sold. The Season is now advancing and and down go the prices. SHEPPARD is not advertising Gold or Silver presents, neither is he paying return railway fares from the Pacific Slope to the Atlantic Seaboard, nor yet selling at cost, but the prices above are fully 20 per cent less than actual cost of the same goods bought in the regular way. SHEPPARD has the cheapest Buttons and Trimmings in Canada. We are not giving them away, but next door to it.

Men's Hats 10c., Men's Caps 6c., Men's Straw Hats 5c., Men's Overalls 25c., 3 Pairs Socks 25c., Men's Pants $1.00, Men's Vests 50c., Crash Coat and Vest $1.75, Boys' Wool Suits $1.00, Boys' Felt Hats 25c. Carpets cheap and Cottons cheap, all reduced from actual prices. The public will not deviate one step but go straight to the Great Cheapside.

WEDNESDAY, MAY 25, 1887.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Protection.

There is some talk of a re-union of the old Protection Hook and Ladder Company.

Explanation.

J. J. Sheehy's card to the public appears in this edition of the REVIEW on the first page.

To-night.

The Oddfellows Reception committee will meet this Wednesday evening for the transaction of business.

No one need despair of finding millinery to suit them while Turnbull is in the trade. He keeps a well selected stock of choice goods, and as new lines appear in the market has new shapes and trimmings arriving almost daily.

Meeting the Commander.

The Salvation Army gave Commissioner Coombs, who arrived in town at noon, an enthusiastic welcome. The soldiers carried him up the street on their shoulders. He will speak at a meeting to be held this evening.

Little Ned.

It was remarked by many at the Driving Park yesterday that Little Ned, Mr. A. P. Morgan's horse, never travelled better in his life. Mr. T. Kewin, the driver, is entitled to great credit for the way he handled the horse.

Imperial Federation League.

A meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Imperial Federation League will be held in Forester's Hall on Thursday evening, May 26th, at 8 o'clock, when the new constitution will be besubmitted. An essay will be read and in addition to the transaction of other business there will be music, etc. Intending members are invited.

Service of Praise.

The Service of Praise which was rendered with such success at St. Paul's Church on Monday, 9th of May, will be repeated in the George Street Church, on Thursday evening, May 26th, under the direction of Mr. Parker. Admission free, silver collection. It is to be hoped that all who did not hear this really fine entertainment, will avail themselves of this opportunity.

Fire Department.

Since Councillor McNeil was appointed to the position of Chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee he has been unceasing in his efforts to get things in the Fire Department in "apple pie order" and keep them so. The central fire station, which is now kept open, is now a acme of neatness. Everything is shiney and in its place.

Band Concert.

The first band concert of the season was given in the Horticultural Gardens by the Fire Brigade Band on Monday evening. The handsome grounds were covered with a thousand people or more, who strolled along the walks, under the trees, or reclined on the close cropped grass. The band music was delightful. Every selection was rendered with unmistakable correctness. The one, out of the eight selections played, creating an especially favorable impression was the Hallelujah Chorus. The evening was passed most pleasantly.

Golden grain of truth. Turnbull is selling ladies Taffeta and pure silk gloves that are cut to fit the hand. Every pair numbered. You will not regret having walked an extra block after you have tried a pair.

Personal.

Mr. John F. Perchard, of Peterborough, for several years in the flour-milling business here and other places, has accepted a position with Mr. E. E. Henderson, in the General Insurance business. Mr. Perchard will represent the several offices managed by Mr. Henderson for many years so successfully. Mr. Perchard is a careful, steady, reliable and industrious man, one of the "solid" kind upon whom you can depend at all times.

Mr. Henry W. Darling, President of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, and Mr. B. E. Walker, General Manager of the same bank, are in town on a visit to day. They are the guests of Mr. Geo. A. Cox.

Hunt's Brick trowels and the Cincinnati Plastering Trowels are noted for their excellent quality. Plastering and Kalsomine Brushes up to 100 for sale by GEORGE STETHEM.

London Steel Works.

A proposition for the re-opening of the London Steel Works, and the employment of 150 to 200 workmen, has been made to the corporation of that city by a wealthy firm of Cleveland, Ohio, on certain conditions, as a result of the increased duties on iron.

McWilliam's Lodge True Blues.

Bro. Hall and Bro. Wainwright were the marshalls of the day. The procession moved up George street to Murray, down Murray to Water, down Water to Hunter, up Hunter to Aylmer, down Aylmer to Simcoe and thence in separate bodies to the hotels for dinner. The afternoon was spent in "doing" the town.

No. 1 carriage in the procession contained Bro. Robt. Weir, P.C.M.; Bro. Capt. McSpadden, West Toronto; Bro J. Smith, P.D.M.; Bro. Richard Warham, P.D.M.; and Bro. J. Agnew, D.D.M.

No. 2 carriage contained Bro. J. L. Hughes, Junior Grand Master of Ontario West; Bro. J. B. McWilliams, County Master; Bro. Bell, D. M., and Bro. Downard.

The excursion trains left town at about half past six o'clock.

THE SALVATION ARMY.

The "Drunkards' Demonstration"—Meeting in the Evening.

The Salvation Army marched the streets during the afternoon and in the evening held a meeting in Bradburn's Opera House. The place was filled with people. The officers and soldiers occupied the platform and the front reserved seats. Adjutant Bolton conducted the meeting. It was opened with prayer, followed by the singing of several choruses and prayer again. The converted butcher from the "City of Destruction" was the first to give his experience. A chorus "Now I Belong to the Lord" was sung several times with enthusiasm, the last time being accompanied with the waving of multitudes of handkerchiefs. "Some people," said Adjutant Bolton, "want to know how the Salvationists feel. Well, I know what I feel like. I feel as if I was in my mother's kitchen where there was plenty of good things, and I could help myself." He then announced that this would be a do-as-you-like meeting. The renowned Jim Lundy was called on to sing a song, which he did, accompanied by violin, violincello and piano. Happy Jack from Lindsay spoke, telling what a drunkard he had been and what the Lord had done for him. The hallelujah drummer and "Jim" also told that they had been rescued from strong drink by the arm of the Lord. Naaman No. 2 then sang a song about Naaman jumping into the beautiful stream. The converted baker, another of the noble army of drunkards, told how he was rescued. He said that he was going to be in the thickest of the fight from this out for the Lord. After singing another chorus Father Green spoke a few words. Then Bro. Carry related his experience. He stated that before he was converted he was a "bad un," but the Lord had made him clean. The Hallujah Spike Driver was the next to speak, then Bob Stanley told how he went to see the noisy tambourine player (Adjutant Bolton) and got hit with a "straight shot." Jim Lundy said that he didn't get drunk often but when de did get drunk it took a while to get sober. The last drunk he had it took him "three month and three week to get a' right again." He came out on the ship with a gallon of "whuskey" and when he had drunk it all he had to sober up. But now he was saved and sober all the time. An "amen" was called for Jim Lundy and a hearty chorus was sounded. Father Home Rule Ireland gave his experience reciting what the Christian religion had done for him. Several more testified, after which a prayer meeting was held.

OUT OF TOWN.

Our Cricketers and Lacrosse Players—At Idyl Wild.

The cricket match between the Peterborough and Campbellford clubs, played at Campbellford on Tuesday, was the opening one of the new cricket ground there. A good crease has been sodded, and, although the out field will be somewhat rough for some time, the ground bids fair to be an excellent one. It may be mentioned that an Athletic Association, on much the same principle as that in Peterborough, has been formed.

Peterborough batted first and scored 94, —a very good score as the wicket was kind of tricky. Stratton was top scorer with 32 runs, including some pretty cuts and leg hits. The other double figure scorers, Rogers, Smith and Newbold, also played good cricket for their runs. The bowling of Mitchell was excellent, securing six wickets. The agile Platt, at point, secured no fewer than four catches, two being very fine ones.

Campbellford could do nothing with the bowling of Stratton and Smith, Stratton getting 7 wickets for 19 runs, and Smith one for 14. Nancarrow played steady cricket for his dozen. But although the score was nearly 30 before third wicket fell, 39 was the total of the innings. Mitchell got the only four of the match, an off hit from Stratton

The fielding of both sides was very good, especially considering the rough nature of the fielding ground.

The following is the score:—

The Riverside Lacrosse Club played a match at Hastings with the club of that place. There was a large attendance at the match but owing to the rain the people were disappointed in not seeing it out. Only one game was played, which was taken by Hastings in 1 hour and 10 minutes.

A number of private excursions left town for the country. The several parties which went up to Chemong lake numbered about a hundred. A baseball match was played and boating was indulged in. One of the parties stayed till evening and had a dance in the hotel ball room.

A party of about thirty went down the river to Crawford's Grove and there engaged the day.

The excursion to Idyl Wild was not so largely patronized as usual. The trip, however, was a very pleasant one. The country through which the river winds looked lovely. The races which were to have taken place did not come off on account of the high wind. The return trip was made without a mishap having occured and the Golden Eye arrived home in good time.

Turnbull's mammoth store is in its new summer dress, decked with lace flouncings and embroideries, lace Grenadines, lace gloves and parasols, lace curtains and pillow shams, etc., etc. For new and handsome goods this is the right house.

LATEST CABLE NEWS

THE FISHERIES DIFFICULTY.

LONDON, May 23.—In the House of Commons this afternoon Sir Jas. Ferguson, Parliamentary Secretary for the Foreign Office, intimated that no reply had yet been received from the United States Government to Lord Salisbury's despatch of March 24th in relation to the fisheries dispute. Similar measures, he said, would be adopted for the approaching fishing season as were in force last season. The Government would use those powers with moderation, and hoped that American vessels would avoid making it necessary to call them into requisition.

A VICTORY FOR BOULANGER.

PARIS, May 24.—M. Floquet conferred today with M. Lockey, Mgr. Granet, Gen. Boulanger and M. Berthelot. If M. Floquet accepts the task of forming a Ministry he will assume the office of Minister of the Interior, M. Rovier will be Minister of Finance and M. Flourence will be urged to retain the foreign portfolio. The Radicals will support M. Goblet for President of the Chamber of Deputies if M. Floquet becomes Premier. M. Foquet was in conference with Gen. Boulanger this evening. The turn affairs have taken is considered a victory for Gen. Boulanger.

SOCIALIST PARADES.

BRUSSELS, May 24.—The city was agitated throughout the night by bands of Socialists parading the streets. Many scuffles took place between the disorderly element and the police. Fifteen arrests were made.

THE EGYPTIAN QUESTION.

CAIRO, May 24.—It is believed that England and Turkey will propose a conference of the powers to settle the reforms of the Egyptian capitulation by a new convention.

THE CZAR FIRED AT.

VIENNA, May 23.—The Tagblatt has received a telegram from Odessa stating that the Czar returned to St. Petersburg from the Don Cossacks country three days earlier than he intended to. This was due to an attempt made by a student to kill him on Wednesday night during the festivities at Novo Tcherkash, by firing at him as he rode by in a carriage.

PRIESTS RELEASED.

DUBLIN, May 24.—Judge Boyd to-day ordered the release of Father Ryan of the Heberstown Branch of the National League and of Father Slattery, who were imprisoned for refusing to give testimony in relation to the Plan of Campaign. Their release is due to the decision of the Court of Appeals in the case of Father Keller. The priests left the prison quietly.

THAT "MEMOIR."

BOME, May 24.—The Pamphlet entitled "Ireland As It Is," the authorship of which was erroneously ascribed to the Irish college, is signed "Catholicus." It is the work of an elderly and nearly forgotten English priest, whose principal object appears to be to prepare the ground for a renewal of diplomatic relations between England and the Vatican by excessive abuse of Ireland, the writer hoping by this means to promote antipathy to Paunellism. The pamphlet is printed in English and Italian.

Mr. La Riviere, in his budget speech in the Manitoba Legislature, refused to countenance any further aid to the Hudson's Bay Railway until proof was given that the line could be carried through to completion.

TRADE IN

Our MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT, and did we judge alone by the crowds that daily claim attention of our salesmmen advertising this class of goods would be unnecessary—almost a waste of money. But then, you know, there's two sides to every subject, Here's the other side to this one, and at the same time our reason for advertising when there's no apparent necessity for doing so.

In making up our stock in this department we provided for great numbers—for many more than have as yet taken advantage of its completeness, to furnish themselves with millinery suitable for the season.

It will therefore require "crowds long continued" to clear out tables of the enormus stock of Millinery with which they are loaded —over-loaded.

A continuous demand then being necessary, we knew of no better way to insure it than to keep you informed as to just what we have and how we are prepared to sell it. We shall, therefore, from now till the close of the season, devote some portion of our card to Millinery News.

We have already said that our stock was large. We have also intimated that our assortment was complete. Now for our goods.

We have just received a six dozen lot of Ladies' and Children's Hats which are the newest in shape and bought at half their value.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Loch's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago,

LAKEFIELD.

THE CRUISER.—The steamer Cruiser is at present busily engaged towing for Messrs. Rathburn. When she has finished she will run regular trips, particulars of which will be announced in the newspapers in due course. Mr. Wright has had her thoroughly overhauled and has put in a new and powerful engine, and under her old captain she should have a most successful season.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

BROKEN COLLAR BONE.—On Tuesday last Mr. Strain, who is an apprentice in Mr Fennet's blacksmith shop here, fell from a building which he was repairing and broke his collar bone. We are glad to state that he is doing well under the care of Dr. Carmichael of this place, who dressed the fractured bone.

NOTES.—The farmers of this locality are about done seeding. The crops are beginning to suffer for the want of rain in this vicinity. Our band has commenced their regular practice again under the leadership of Mr. Thomas Best and we have no doubt but good progress will be made. Our worthy merchant, Mr. J. W. Greer, is doing a good business here.

PORT HOPE.

A BOY BURGLAR.—The boy Frank McIntosh, who burglarized Mr. W. G. Stevenson's store on the night of May 12th, and who was captured in Toronto on Saturday last, came down on Monday in charge of Constable Jarvis. He was before the Beak on Tuesday and remanded until Wednesday. He elected to be tried summarily and pleaded guilty of breaking into the store and stealing a suit of clothes. The magistrate sentenced the prisoner to four years in the Reformatory at Penetanguishene. The poor fellow has rather a sad history. He is about 15 years of age, was born in the township of Pickering; supposes that both his parents are dead. He was adopted by a man in the township of Minden, county of Haliburton, named McIntosh, when he was about two years old, hence his name, and lived with him until about three years ago. The boy was brought up in ignorance; can neither read nor write. It is to be hoped that he will now be not only given an education but learn a trade, and become a useful member of society.—Guide.

NORWOOD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

LACROSSE.—The Madoc and Norwood Lacrosse Clubs played here on Tuesday, May 24th. Norwood from the first appeared to be too strong for the Madoc team, although they played with a great deal of pluck. Madoc took the first game in fine style by good team play, passing the ball up from one goal to the other and shooting it through. In the second and third games they did not get along so well, the Norwoods taking both of them. Hendren, Hill, Stephenson, Stewart, Eaton, Pearce and Jory all played well for the Norwood team, while Cross and Sinclair for Madoc came to the front. Time was called at 5 o'clock, as the Madocs had to catch the train. The match was several times stopped on account of the rain. A number of seats have been placed on the field, and very much increased the comfort of the spectators. The Norwoods expect to go to Madoc on June 21st.

FOOTBALL.—The High School Football Club played Campbellford in the latter place on the 24th. Each team scored one game, the High School playing against the wind the first half time. A few minutes after the change Charlie Brennan, while on the ball, was charged and after rolling over two or three times fell on his left arm, breaking both bones at the wrist. A doctor who was on the field, was an once called and the arm was set. He is getting along nicely.

A Liverpool paper says that large quantities of slag are now being exported to Germany for the sake of the phosphates contained.

The Panama Canal.

NEW YORK, May 25.—A letter from Panama says that in one of the largest, longest and deepest cuts, high up above the prospective canal work, water has been struck. The amount of earth and rock taken out of this section counts up into millions of dollars. All the work represented by these millions is valueless, as the water has washed from the side of the mountain more than sufficient to fill all the cuts.

Royal Society of Canada.

OTTAWA, May 25.—The Royal Society began its annual meeting here this morning, Mgr. Hamel presiding. Among the attending members are Sir William Dawson, Sheriff Chauveau, Dr. Girdwood and Prof. Alex Johnson, of Montreal. The Secretary, Mr. Bourinot, read the annual report, which recommends the establishment of a library in connection with the society. A loyal address of congratulation to Her Majesty the Queen on attaining the jubilee year of her reign was adopted. Mayor Stewart will entertain the members to a garden party. The Secretary has received a letter of regret from Lord Lansdowne, stating his inability to be present at the opening meeting.

Alleged Plagiarism.

NEW YORK, May 25.—Dr. Talmage says he cannot account for the preaching of one of his sermons by Canon Fleming, of York, but he will not say that the Canon has been guilty of plagiarism in so doing. The sermon which it is alleged the English Canon palmed off as one of his own was published by Dr. Talmage in England as early as 1876, thus establishing its priority. It is not a new thing, however, for preachers to use the doctor's sermons, and when there is no special claim of authorship set up Dr Talmage sees no sin in their action. As an instance, he cites the fact of his once listening, in his own church, to one of his own sermons preached by a visiting clergyman, and commenting on it afterwards as "very good."

A Lady's Terrible Death.

BROCKVILLE, May 23.—A sad and fatal accident occurred here this afternoon. At 4.30 Mrs. Keefer, wife of Mr. Samuel Keefer C. E. and her mother, Mrs. C. A. B. Pocock of Toronto, were driving along King-street in a dog cart, to which was attached a spirited horse. The animal shied at a passing rig and began to kick, smashing the dashboard. The horse became ungovernable, dashed off at a furious rate and struck a tree, throwing the occupants of the rig out backwards. Mrs. Pocock was terribly injured about the head and neck and expired almost immediately. Mrs. Keefer was terribly shaken up, but her injuries are not considered very serious. The sad affair has cast quite a gloom over the town.

Appeal to Britain.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 25.—The Farmers' Alliance of Brandon, a non-partisan organization, met yesterday to consider the disallowance question. They passed a strong resolution, the preamble of which extends over nearly a column, and in it the whole question is reviewed. It states that a majority of the people of Manitoba, as a whole, endorse Winnipeg's action and calls upon the Provincial Government to present a memorial "to the Imperial Parliament, setting forth the grievous injustice and wrong we are suffering at the hands of the eastern provinces," and asking for the amendment or repeal of the Act of Confederation as right and justice may demand. It also asks that the assistance of the British Government be solicited to build the Hudson Bay railroad, on the distinct understanding that the manufactures of Great Britain be admitted at as low a duty as the exigencies of the province will permit.

Thieves in Luck.

On Wednesday morning Mr. W. Robinson, Division Court Clerk, Kingston, on going into his office, was surprised to find the door of his safe, which is built in the wall, open. On investigation he found that the window of the office was raised a few inches. The door of the safe was opened by the keys which were in the office, and a cash box containing notes, checks, drafts and $115.00 in bills and silver, opened by means of a hammer and chisel. The money was taken, but the papers were not disturbed. A glance at the cash box would convince anyone that the job was not the work of a professional cracksman. The safe key, Mr. Robinson states, was hidden in the office in a spot known only to Mr. Gardiner the bailiff, Mr. Robinson's eldest son, himself and another man. Mr. Gardiner has been away from the city a few days, and the safe was locked last by Mr. Robinson. Mr. Robinson, jr., the one mentioned, states that shortly before twelve o'clock he heard sounds of hammering near the house, but on getting up could not discover anything. The matter was immediately reported to the police.—News.

O'Brien in Hamilton.

The Hamilton Spectator gives the following account of the shooting:—"When Merrick street was reached some persons began pelting the hacks with rotten eggs. About a dozen of the unsavory missiles were thrown, and two or three of them struck the hacks. Suddenly, a revolver was fired from the first hack, followed closely by another. The bullets whizzed over the heads of the crowd and did no harm. Then a shot was fired from the north side of the street. Some persons in the vicinity say it was fired from a revolver by a small boy, who, as soon as he had discharged the weapon, dived into the crowd and disappeared. It is said that there is a clue to the identity of the young miscreant, and it is hoped that he soon will be discovered and brought to justice. He evidently took deliberate aim at the first hack, for the bullet from his revolver hit the driver, John Nelson; it entered the palm of his left hand, shattered one of the small bones of the wrist, and lodged near the outside of the wrist. To extract the ball, Dr. White had to cut into the wrist from the outside, and splinters of bone came away with it. The doctor says that serious results may follow—possibly amputation, and even at the best Nelson will never recover complete use of his right arm. The bullet was a large one—22 calibre, and flattened."

LONDON, May 25.—Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, in a letter published this morning, urges upon the supporters of the Government's Irish policy the necessity or organizing, and warns them that if they wait to do so they will surely be beaten.

UNIONIST CLUB IN DUBLIN.

DUBLIN, May 25.—A meeting was held here yesterday to arrange for the founding of a Unionist Club in Dublin. Lord Hartington, Mr. Chamberlain and others wrote wishing success to the scheme.

COUNSEL TO MR. TANNER.

LONDON, May 25.—The News counsels the Parnellites to force Mr. Tanner to behave decently in the House, or to withdraw from public life.

THE QUEEN'S JUBILEE BIRTHDAY.

LONDON, May 25.—The foreign diplomatic representatives here and the British ambassadors at the European capitals gave special banquets last evening in honor of Queen Victoria's jubilee birthday. At Malta the day was observed as a general holiday. The Duke of Edinburgh and Prince George of Wales, with the Governor of Malta, attended a special service in the Cathedral. A review of troops, a garden party and a banquet were the features of the day's celebration.

A $500,000 FAILURE.

LONDON, Moy 26.—J. Joseph & Sons, merchants, of Birmingham, have failed. Liabilities $500,000.

UNCERTAIN ABOUT HIS HEALTH.

BERLIN, May 25.—Prince Bismarck, replying to an invitation from Hamburg Senate to attend the opening of the new canal, said he would be glad to spend the day with them, but it was uncertain whether his health would permit.

CHAGRINED AT THE CZAR.

LONDON, May 25.—A despatch from Moscow says the citizens are chagrined because the Czar omitted a visit to Moscow from the programme of his trip. This action of the Czar is supposed to indicate his opposition to the Pan Slavist agitations in favor of the transfer of the Imderial residence to Moscow.

A CORNER IN COTTON.

LIVERPOOL, May 25.—There is an extensive "corner" in cotton here. Prices have been forced up to such a point that 3 spinners in the manufacturing districts have had to suspend operations or run their mills at great loss.

NOT IN DANGER.

LONDON, May 25.—A despatch from Berlin to the Standard says that, in an interview to-day, Prof. Verchow asserted positively that there was absolutely no danger in the Crown Prince Frederick William's malady. The professor said, however, that it would take some time to effect a complete cure.

THE DERBY STAKES.

LONDON, May 25.—Vast crowds left London to-day for Epsoms Downs to witness the great race for the Derby stakes. Four in hand were seen in great numbers. Ten of these turnouts left the Metropolis alone, while scores of others departed from various centres. The American visitors at Epsom were especially numerous. Mr. Benfield, lately vice-consul general of the United States, at London, drove a coach laden with Americans. The Prince of Wales, Lord Rosebery, the Crown Prince of Denmark, and many other persons of distinction were present. The course was slightly heavy. "The Baron," the favorite in the betting, was exercised before the run and appeared in grand form. The stables backed "Aintree" and "Merry Hampton." The weather in the forenoon was threatening. "Merry Hampton" won, "The Baron" was second, and "Merbley" third. The winner is owned by J. Simmons Harrison. There were eleven starters in the race.

ULSTER LOYALISTS.

LONDON, May 25.—The following letter has been received from the Rev. Dr. Kane, of Belfast, with a request to cable it to Canada:—

"SIR,—The Ulster Loyalist Anti-Repeal union is making a special appeal for funds to carry out a new programme decided upon to day. Subscriptions from Canadian loyalists will be thankfully received by the treasurer, Mr. Henderson, of the News Letter, Belfast, or by the President of the Association, the Earl of Ranfurly, Dungannon Park, Dungannon, County Tyrone. Please recommend an appeal to the friends of the empire in Canada.

"Yours, etc.

"RICHARD KANE.

Belfast, May 24th.

EGYPTIAN CONVENTION.

LONDON, May 25.—The Anglo Turkish convention relative to Egypt provides for the maintenance of all existing firmans and the neutralization of the Suez Canal, and guarantees internationally the inviolability of Egypt. It also provides that the British shall withdraw from Egypt in three years unless the country is threatened with danger either internal or external. England shall, after the withdrawal of her troops, supervise the whole Egyptian army for a further two years, with the right to reoccupy, with or without the aid of Turkish troops, if order is disturbed or an invasion feared. Certain branches of the Egyptian Administration will be specially settled without fresh discussion. All the powers, except Russia, co-operated with England to expedite a settlement, and England made every possible concession to arrive at an understanding with Turkey. The contingency of eventual military movements by way of the Suez canal will form a subject for future discussion. The convention is received with favor in all quarters at Constantinople.

M. FLOQUET'S FAILURE.

PARIS, May 25.—M. Floquet has refused to form a Ministry, and it is now proposed to form a Duclerc Government with Gen Saussier as Minister of War.

FREYCINET AGAIN CALLED ON.

PARIS, May 25.—President Grevy has again asked M. de Freycinet to form a Cabinet.

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC.

At the time of selling our stock of Dry Goods to Sheehy & Co., we had fully determined to give up that particular branch of our business, but as previously announced, did not do so, for various reasons. However it is now our intention to dispose of the Dry Goods Trade, and have consequently made up our mind to clear out the whole stock

AT COST PRICE AND UNDER.

This is one of the BEST Dry Goods stocks in the country, having been imported from the best markets direct to ourselves. Remember, this will be a GENUINE CLEARING OUT SALE. While we will still retain our Clothing Trade, yet we will during this sale, offer ALL our Ready-made Clothing, for Men and Boys, (with all kinds of Furnishings) at COST PRICE. Remember the whole Dry Goods Stock must be sold.

OUR TERRITORIAL RIGHTS.

A CAREFUL perusal of the fishery papers presented to the Parliament shows two things as to which there has been much misrepresentation by reckless men, who are careless what injury they may inflict upon their country if they can only strike a blow at the same time at their political opponents. It is manifest from the correspondence that from the beginning of the discussion to the latest date the Dominion authorities have manfully upheld our rights, not arrogantly but firmly, and without any cowardly or negligent abandonment. The unpatriotic assertion, made by some, that there has been culpable neglect to uphold our just claims, and by others that we had no choice but to yield because we had to deal with a more powerful and determined antagonist, are seen not to have a shadow of foundation. Equally false appears to be the charge that the Imperial authorities have shown a reluctance to afford due support to the contentions of Canada, and have been too ready to sacrifice our rights through an assumed willingness to truckle to the United States. The whole correspondence displays the readiness of the Empire to afford Canada a firm support, and shows that the Imperial statesmen have upheld our contentions and our claims in the most outspoken manner.

As to the last phase of the question, there have been similar disloyal manifestations. It has been stated that an abject surrender of our rights has been made, and both Sir John Macdonald and Lord Salisbury have been violently assailed upon this assumption. There has been no such surrender, but on the contrary an absolute refusal to entertain a proposition which implied an abandonment of our position. The liberal and neighborly offer to revive temporarily the fishery clauses of the Washington Treaty without at present raising the question of indemnity, is shown by the whole correspondence to be a mere suggestion for an ad interim arrangement pending the action of a joint commission, the suggestion being a substitute for an inadmissible proposition sent from Washington by Mr. Bayard. It is in keeping with the courteous and conciliatory, but unflinching maintenance of our territorial rights manifested throughout by the Imperial and Canadian Ministers, and cannot be held to be objectionable if accepted by Congress, for a pledge by the Executive at Washington is evidently not held by our neighbors to be binding.

But so far there has been no acceptance from Washington, or at least none has reached Ottawa.

THE Brockville Recorder says that the "Marmora iron mines were operated with some success so long as charcoal could be obtained for fuel, but that is no longer possible." If the Recorder believes that the iron works at Marmora were closed because wood had become scarce, it would have been undeceived if it had visited that part of the country at the time or years after, or even if it visited it at the present time. The condition of the country and the facilities for operating the mines are vastly different now from what they were a generation ago. Since that time the mines were again operated for several years, but when they are re-opened it will not, we believe, be to feed blast furnaces in Pittsburg, Pa. The Recorder appears to labor under the delusion that there is no hematite ore in Canada.

MR. MOFFATT, the Conservative candidate, has been elected M. P., for Restigouche. Since the Dominion general election there has been three bye-elections, and in each of them the Conservative candidate has been elected.

Serious Drowning Calamity.

HAMILTON, May 25.—John Thompson, boat builder, left last night for a row on the bay in a small skiff with his wife, Miss Vincent, his wife's sister, and three children. It is supposed the boat upset in a squall, which sprang up shortly after, as Mrs. Thompsons body was washed ashore this morning. Nothing has been heard of the others except Miss Vincent, whose body has also been found on the beach.

A SCOTT ACT BEAUTY (?)

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Will you kindly insert the following? I ask it, not that I might air my thoughts in public print, but that that the press, that noble advocate of every principle of law and justice which has been given to the civilized world, should bear testimony, through my humble agency, of the inefficiency and injustice of the Canada Temperance Act of 1878, at this place.

During the campaign in 1885 when temperance orators were stumping this county in opposition to those who were opposed to the Act, I was one of the first who was heard denouncing the liquor trade and hailing with glad heart this Act which was to remove the curse from us, and leave "God's noblest work" in the full enjoyment of the faculties he had been endowed with, but which, alas! have been too often debased by his libations on the altar of Bacchus.

Such being my opinion, you can readily understand that it was not without a vigorous mental struggle that I became convinced of the inefficiency of the Canada Temperance Act to bring about this blessed change, so much desired by many millions of our race.

We have been living under its workings for more than a year; more than a third of its natural life has been spent, and we would naturally expect that by this time some of the "good" would begin to show itself here; but, alas! it is not so. Can any one living in our village, at one time so quiet, say conscienciously that we have been benefitted? Can any one say truthfully that a greater amount of intoxication, or a larger share of rowdyism ever existed in the history of Keene than has been with us during the past few weeks? We believe they cannot. Yet it is not the fault of the friends of the Act, who are unsparing and untiring in their exertions to bring all offenders to justice, for, indeed, they are active enough, nay, more—they are too active, as it seems to be that the information given to the Inspector is gathered in such a haphazard way that friends of the Act and its foes alike are chosen as witnesses—a position which, I can assure you, is a source of envy to none.

While being an ardent upholder of all laws of our country and fully concurring in the efforts of the great body here who are not stained by intemperance, in their efforts to uphold the Act, except so far as their underhand manner of doing it is concerned. I cannot but protest against such a course as this, and I know that I am not alone in this respect. But not only are the witnesses chosen indiscriminately but, worse and worse, those who are accused of illicit selling are picked out in a similar manner. Now, were we to place ourselves in the position which our esteemed townsman, Dr. Shaw, was in on Tuesday last, we would feel the full weight of such an indignity.

I know not what grounds the informer had for accusing our druggist of violation of the Act, but can easily understand his consternation on being unjustly accused of selling whiskey. Will it injure his business as a medical man? Then surely his accusers should pay for it. But how? The secret(?) manner in which the information is laid, tends to prevent any from seeking idemnity, either for loss of patronage or defamation of character; but surely in this land of light, liberty, and justice there is some recourse to be had. Surely the mediums of all such defamation are accountable in part if not in whole. We think they are entirely accountable, and should such a course not be pleasing to their palate they might seek redress from their informants. Our advice to the doctor would be to seek such indemnity if possible under the present condition of things, and thus prove more emphatically than has yet been done that he is an upholder of the law and not one who sells intoxicants illegally.

The court on Tuesday pronounced him innocent; the witnesses proved him innocent, and his friends know him to be innocent; then shame on all such persons who would seek to injure a man's reputation and his business in pursuit of their own fanatical opinions; shame upon all who would vent their petty spite in such an underhand manner; and shame upon those who, having done so, are too cowardly to come to the front and relieve others from being suspected of such degrading business.

Thus, Mr. Editor, would I show in a small degree, but somewhat imperfectly as far as the construction of my sentences are concerned, but in no way so when the veracity of my statements is considered, a little of the inefficiency and injustice of the Canada Temperance Act in our community.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for so large a space in your valuable paper, I am,

Yours very truly,

TEMPERANCE.

Burglary at Stirling.

STIRLING, Ont., May 23.—At 8 o'clck this morning burglars broke into E. F. Parker's dry goods store, in connection with the post office, and blew up a safe containing about $200, $150 post office money and $60 belonging to the Oddfellows. No clue to the burglers.

ENNISMORE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

FALL WHEAT.—Now that things are fully under weight our fall wheat may be summed up as follows:—Two tenths good, three tenths ploughed up, five tenths standing, some middling and some very poor, which, taking it altogether, the land sown last fall and the apparent yield of wheat, we would not have more than half a crop, and as most estimate an average crop at 26 bushels to the acre, we can have a good idea of our fall wheat yield. Of course what was ploughed up has been sown with other grain. It was the frost on the nights of the 25th, 27th and 28th of April, and the hot sun during the day which made such havoc among the fall wheat.

SPRING WORK.—The spring work is now far advanced little being now to do except putting in roots. The hot dry weather during the last two weeks has been the means of getting the grain a good seed bed.

HOT.—The 21st and 22nd has been the hottest so far of the season. At 3 p. m. in the shade the thermometer stood at 92 and 94 degrees respectively.

Tariff Changes in South Wales.

News of important changes in the duties on merchandise entering New South Wales has been received. After Sept. 30, ad valorem and all duties of a protective nature are to be abolished and the present ad valorem and specific duties are to be replaced by specific duties on twenty-three classes of articles. There is an increase in the excise on tobacco, and an imposition of an excise duty of 4d. per gallon on all kinds of ale, beer and porter manufactured in the colony. The articles which will have to pay duties are spirits, liquors, butters, wines, ale, beer, tobacco, cigars, tea, sugar, molasses, coffee, chicory, cocoa, chocolate, opium, rice, dried fruits, cement, confectionary, fish, galvanized iron, iron, steel, wire, jams, jellies, nails, oils, powder, shot, timber, salt, starch, candles, stearine, preserves, including tapioca, semolina and sago.

The C. P. R. Enters Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 24.—The Canadian Pacific Railway secured an entrance into Chicago yesterday through an agreement with President Ledyard of the Michigan Central. Vice-President Van Horne of the Canadian Pacific is in the city arranging details for carrying out the scheme. The Canadian Pacific will run its freight trains from St. Thomas to Detorit over the Michigan Central, thence over the Wabash to Butler, Ind., and at that point connect with the Baltimore and Ohio, reaching Chicago over the latter's tracks. It will also use the Wabash road to East St. Louis. Its through sleepers to Montreal will be run over the Michigan Central from Chicago. The proposed advent of the new line causes a considerable flutter among the officials of the east-bound roads.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d9

JESS.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," etc

Bessie was very frightened; but she was a brave woman, and rose to the occasion.

"If you go on talking like that," she said, "I shall call my uncle. I tell you that I will not marry you, Frank Muller, and that nothing shall ever make me marry you. I am very sorry for you, but I have not encouraged you, and I will never marry you—never!"

He stood for half a minute or so looking at her, and then burst into a savage laugh.

"I think that some day or other I shall find a way to make you," he said, and, turning, went without another word.

A couple of minutes later Bessie heard the sound of a horse galloping, and looking up saw her wooer's powerful form vanishing down the vista of blue gums. Also she heard somebody crying out as though in pain at the back of the house, and, more to relieve her mind than anything else, went to see what it was. By the stable door she found the Hottentot Jantje, twisting round and round and shrieking and cursing, holding his hand to his side, from which the blood was running.

"What is it?" she asked.

"Baas Frank!" he said—"Baas Frank hit me with his whip!"

"The brute!" said Bessie, the tears starting into her eyes with anger.

"Never mind, missie, never mind," said the Hottentot, his ugly face growing livid with fury, "it is only one more to me. I cut it on this stick"—and he held up a long, thick stick he carried, on which were several notches, starting from three deep ones at the top just below the knob. "Let him look out sharp—let him search the grass—let him creep round the bush—let him look as he will, one day he will find Jantje, and Jantje will find him!"

"Why did Frank Muller gallop away like that?" asked her uncle of Bessie when she got back to the veranda.

"We had some words," she answered, shortly, not seeing the use of explaining matters to the old man.

"Ah, indeed, indeed. Well, be careful, my love. It's ill to quarrel with a man like Frank Muller. I've known him for many years, and he has a black heart when he is crossed. You see, my love, you can deal with a Boer and you can deal with an Englishman, but cross bred dogs are bad to handle. Take my advice and make it up with Frank Muller."

All of which sage advice did not tend to raise Bessie's spirits, which were already sufficiently low.

CHAPTER V.

DREAMS AND FOOLISHNESS.

When John Niel left Bessie on the veranda at the approach of Frank Muller he had taken his gun, and, having whistled to his pointer dog Pontac, mounted his shooting pony and started out in quest of partridges. On the warm slopes of the hills round Wakkerstroom a large species of partridge is very abundant, especially in the patches of red grass in which they are sometimes clothed. It is a merry sound to hear these partridges calling from all directions just after daybreak, and one to make the heart of every true sportsman rejoice exceedingly. On leaving the house John proceeded up the side of the hill behind it—his pony picking its way carefully between the stones, and the dog Pontac ranging about 200 or 300 yards off, for in this sort of country it is necessary to have a dog with a wide range. Presently John saw him stop under a mimosa thorn and suddenly stiffen out as if he had been petrified, and made the best of his way toward him. Pontac stood still for a few seconds, and then slowly and deliberately veered his head round, as though it worked on a hinge, to see if his master were coming. John knew his ways. Three times would that remarkable old dog look round thus, and if the gun had not then arrived he would to a certainty run in and flush the birds. This was a rule that he never broke, for his patience had a fixed limit. On this occasion, however, John arrived before it was reached, and, jumping off his pony, cocked his gun and marched slowly up, full of happy expectation. On drew the dog, his eye cold and fixed, saliva dropping from his mouth, and his head and face, on which was frozen an extraordinary expression of instinctive ferocity, outstretched to their utmost limit.

He was right under the mimosa thorn now and up to his belly in warm, red grass. Where could the birds be? Whirr! and a great feathered shell seemed to have burst at his very feet. What a covey! twelve brace if there was a bird, and they had all been lying beak to beak in a space no bigger than a cartwheel. Up went John's gun and off too, a little sooner than it should have done.

"Missed him clean! Now then for the left barrel." Same result. There, we will draw a veil over the profanity that ensued. A minute later and it was all over, and John and Pontac were regarding each other with contempt and disgust.

"It was all you, you brute," said John to Pontac. "I thought you were going to run in, and you hurried me."

"Ugh!" said Pontac to John, or, at least, he looked it. "Ugh! you disgusting bad shot. What is the good of pointing for you? It's enough to make a dog sick."

The covey—or rather the collection of old birds, for this kind of partridge sometimes "packs" just before the breeding season—had scattered all about the place, and it was not long before Pontac found some of them; and this time John got one bird—and a beautiful great partridge he was, too, with yellow legs—and missed another. Again Pontac pointed, and a brace rose. Bang! down goes one: bang! with the other barrel. Caught him, by Jove, just as he topped the stone. Hullo! Pontac is still on the point. Up in two more cartridges. Oh, a leash this time! bang! bang! and down came a brace of them—two brace of partridge without moving a yard.

Life has joys for all men, but it has, I verily believe, no joy to compare to the joy of the moderate shot and earnest sportsman when he has just killed half a dozen driven partridges without a miss, or ten rocketing pheasants with eleven cartridges, or, better still, a couple of woodcock right and left.

By this time he was right across the mountain top and on the brink of the most remarkable chasm he had ever seen. The place was known as Lion's Kloof, or Leuw Kloof in Dutch, because three lions had once been penned up by a party of Boers and shot there. The chasm or gorge was between a quarter and half a mile long, about 600 feet in width and 150 to 180 feet deep. About 100 paces from the near end of the gorge, some ninety or more feet in height, stood the most remarkable of these mighty pillars, to which the remains at Stonehenge are but toys. It was formed of seven huge bowlders, the largest, that at the bottom, about the size of a moderate cottage, and the smallest, that at the top, perhaps some eight or ten feet in diameter. These bowlders were rounded like a cricket ball—evidently through the action of water—and yet the hand of nature had contrived to balance them, each one smaller than that beneath, the one upon the other, and to keep them so. But this was not always the case. For instance, a very similar mass that had risen on the near side of the perfect pillar had fallen, all except the two bottom stones, and the bowlders that went to form it lay scattered about like monstrous petrified cannon balls. One of these had split in two, and seated on it John discovered none other than Jess Croft, apparently engaged in sketching, looking very small and far off at the bottom of that vast chasm.

Ivy Campbell, while in charge of sheep in John Knox street, Glasgow, on April 27th, was run over by a cart and killed.

Cutting the first sod for the foundation of the Glasgow International Exhibition Buildings was performed on May 2nd by Lord Provost King.

A goose belonging to a carter in Yett street, Camlachie, laid an egg the other day which weighs half-a-pound. This is believed to be the biggest egg on record.

J. Millar, picture-frame maker, Burnside street, died on April 28th from starvation. He had left the City Poorhouse three weeks before, and had been wandering about totally destitute.

The old Scotch Independent Church in Glasgow, of which David Dale was one of the original pastors from 1760, commemorated on Sabbath, the 1st inst., the 50th year of opening the chapel in Oswald street.

Over 14,000 people witnessed the Charity Cup football match at Hampden Park on April 23rd, between Renton and Edinburgh Hibernians. The former club won, after a hard fought game, by three goals to one.

The Glasgow Town Council have decided to celebrate the Queen's jubilee on Thursday, the 16th day of June.

The Duke of Cambridge has intimated his intention of being present, if possible, at the jubilee review of Scottish volunteers in Edinburgh in June.

A new dock erected by Mr. h. G. E. Wemyss of Wemyss Castle, at Methil, principally for the export trade of the East of Fife, was opened on May 5th amid popular rejoicings.

The Queen went to Balmoral Castle from Windsor on May 17th, and will return to Windsor early in June. On the 20th of June Her Majesty will arrive at Buckingham Palace from Windsor, to be present at the State thanksgiving on the following day at Westminister Abbey, returning to Windsor on 22nd June.

The Alaskan Seizures.

NEW YORK, May 25.—A San Francisco despatch say that, notwithstanding Secretary Bayard's contradiction of the report that the "Rush" was to sell the seized British sealing vessels at Onnalaska, there appears to be some truth in the story. Captain Sheppard will sail on June 1st with strict orders to seize every vessel found transgressing the provisions of the law relating to fishing, in the territorial waters.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Explanation.

J. J. Sheehy's card to the public appears in this edition of the REVIEW on the first page.

Another Lacrosse Club.

A field has been secured by the Young Men's Christian Association, and a meeting will be held at the rooms on Friday evening at 8.30 o'clock to organize a Lacrosse Club. All members and all who would like to join the Association are invited to attend.

No one need despair of finding millinery to suit them while Turnbull is in the trade. He keeps a well selected stock of choice goods, and as new lines appear in the market has new shapes and trimmings arriving almost daily.

New Base Ball Club.

A meeting was held on Wednesday night, May 25th, to organize the Comet Base Ball Club. A large number were present and the following officers were elected:—

PRESIDENT—J. P. Hurley.
VICE-PRESIDENT—T. Connal.
SECY.-TREAS.—A. B. Hollihan.
CAPTAIN—H. B. Dixon.
COMMITTEE—The officers and W. Armstrong, H L. Burnham, M. Hackett, J. Doherty and C. McDonald.

The club are going to get down to regular practice immediately.

Personal.

The Rev. Father Kelly has been down to Prescott, his native parish, assisting at the ceremony of laying the corner stone of a new church. He returned home by way of Ottawa, where on Wednesday of this week he lunched with Sir John Macdonald at the latter's residence. He informs us that the venerable statesman is in the enjoyment of excellent health.

Mr. E. Peplow, Port Hope, is registered at the Grand Central Hotel

Mr. T. H. Hudson, of the Phœnix Fire Insurance Co., of England, is in town examing factories with a view to framing schedules for special risks.

After a three year's pastorate in Berkeley street Methodist Church, Toronto, the Rev. J. E. Starr is about to proceed to Victoria, B.C., to preach in that section. An entertainment was given in the church on Wednesday night by the Sunday School children, at which the pastor was affectionately bidden farewell, and presented with a purse containing $260, while Mrs. Starr received a gold watch and chain.

Golden grain of truth. Turnbull is selling ladies Taffeta and pure silk gloves that are cut to fit the hand. Every pair numbered. You will not regret having walked an extra block after you have tried a pair.

Cheese.

The first meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board for this season was held on Wednesday afternoon in the market building. There were fourteen factories represented, including a new one, Sheerer, which is situated in the township of Otonabee. The cable quotations stood at 62 shillings. The buyers present were Messrs. Wm. S. Cook, representing Mr. T. J. Warrington, Montreal; W. H. Wrighton, Wm. Cluxton, Peterborough; J. D. Flavelle, Lindsay, and W. Dingwall, Morrisburg. The offer, all colored cheese, was as follows:—

Keene	72
Warminster	60
Westwood	50
Warsaw	30
Lakefield	25
Norwood	60
Glenthorn	25
Sheerer	20
Pine Grove	23
South Dummer	54
Bobcaygeon	20
Trewern	55
North Smith	25
Cherry Grove	16
Total number of boxes	535

This is a much better start than was made last season. At the first board meeting, only 387 boxes were offered and seven cents was the highest bid, while at the present meeting 9⅝ cents was bid. The bidding being in order the following offers were made:— Flavelle, 9 cents for the board; Cook, 9¼ for selections; Wrighton, 9¼ for the board; Cook, 9⅜ for selections; Flavelle, 9⅜ for the board; Cook, 9 7-16 for the board; Flavelle, 9½ for the board; Cook, 9⅝ for selections. The bidding then ceased and the following selections were made:— Keene, Warminister, Westwood, Norwood, Warsaw, Trewern and Pine Grove. Nine cents was bid for the rest but it was not accepted.

Hunt's Brick trowels and the Cincinnati Plastering Trowels are noted for their excellent quality. Plastering and Kalsomine Brushes up to 10|0 for sale by GEORGE STETHEM.

A Good Job.

The Street Inspector is doing good work on turnpiking George street from Dalhousie street northward. It is already much improved in appearance.

No. 6 Company.

The members of Capt. Brennan's company are requested to attend drill at the shed on Thursday night at 7.30 p. m. Those unable to attend will send in either their clothes or their number.

The Governor.

His Excellency, Lord Lansdowne, and Lady Lansdowne, passed through town going east on the noon train over the Canadian Pacific railway in the palace car "Cumberland."

Service of Praise.

The Service of Praise which was rendered with such success at St. Paul's Church on Monday, 9th of May, will be repeated in the George Street Church, on Thursday evening, May 26th, under the direction of Mr. Parker. Admission free, silver collection. It is to be hoped that all who did not hear this really fine entertainment, will avail themselves of this opportunity.

Oddfellows' Demonstration.

The Oddfellows' Demonstration Committee held a regular meeting on Wednesday evening, when Mr. Thomas Workman, who was appointed at the last meeting to procure suitable prize banners, submitted a report recommending that a silk banner (Patriarch's Militant) be presented to each canton participating in the August celebration. The design presented showed the pole of the banner to terminate in a gilt crown, the banner to be divided into three equal widths of purple, white and scarlet, with the monogram, P. M., inscribed, together with a suitable Jubilee motto. The report was adopted and the banners will be procured from Morrison, of Toronto, at a cost of $25 each.

Deserves Gaoling.

It is surprising how some people can descend to meanness, and sneak around at that to commit their low acts. One of the improvements introduced into the Fire Department was that of attaching whistles to the hose nozzles, so that when the branchmen were ready they could signal the turning on of the water at the hydrant instead of running back to give word, thus saving considerable time. These whistles were attached to the nozzles with snaps and left in the engine house with the other apparatus for the inspection of the people. Some one has sneaked in and carried off every one of the whistles while the engineer's back was turned. If the thief is caught the Magistrate should not spare him.

The Toronto Excursion.

Some of those who came down with the excursion from Toronto on the Queen's birthday, acted in a very disorderly manner while here. During the afternoon several rows occurred on the streets, but nothing serious happened till just before the train left for Toronto. Mr. Harry Drake stopped to pick up his hat which had been knocked off and while stooping some one without the slightest provocation struck him on the head. He was immediately surrounded by a crowd of fellows who pounded him with fists and sticks. He would no doubt have been badly used up had it not been for the plucky interference of Mr. Henry Rossiter. A drunken fellow with one of the battle axes in his hand was making his way up to join in the scuffle when Mr. Rossiter seized it, put it out of harm's way and then went in and succeeded in getting Mr. Drake away. The latter is out again, but his eyes and face show marks of violence. The Port Hope Times says that there was similar behaviour when the excursion reached that town. At Bowmanville, Newcastle and Oshawa more fights occurred.

Turnbull's mammoth store is in its new summer dress, decked with lace flouncings and embroideries, lace Grenadines, lace gloves and parasols, lace curtains and pillow shams, etc., etc. For new and handsome goods this is the right house.

Commissioner Coombs.

Commissioner Coombs, the head of the Salvation Army in Canada, arrived in town at noon on Wednesday, and in the afternoon addressed the officers of the Peterborough division. In the evening a grand march out took place in which about 150 soldiers and officers joined. Commissioner Coombs was carried on the shoulders of four stalwarts and Adjutant Bolton was treated likewise. At the meeting held in the barracks the Commissioner addressed the audience. He told of the progress being made by the Army in various quarters. Italy and Holland had been invaded, the work was going forward in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec, and hundreds were being added to the ranks in the Northwest. He dewit on the special work being done by the Army in the city through the Rescue Brigades. Drunkards and fallen women were being reclaimed. He recited some remarkable instances where girls who were lost for more than a year had been ferreted out in a few hours after information had been given to the Captain of the Rescue Brigade. During the evening t eCommissioner delivered a message from Capt. Pope to his former soldiers, also one from Mabel, who was some time ago taken to the Salvation Rescue Home in Toronto, to the effect that she was still on the right road. The meeting closed with holding a prayer meeting.

The Worst of Crimes.

WASHINGTON, May 25.—The President today denied the application for a pardon in the case of James J. Stanley, convicted of fraudulent registration, and sentenced to 90 days' imprisonment in gaol at St. Louis. The President said: "I consider such offences the worst of all crimes, and I know of none the punishment of which is of more importance to the public."

POLICE COURT.

DRUNK.

WEDNESDAY, May 25.—F. Desautelle was charged by Acting Chief Adams with being drunk and was fined $2 and costs.

SCOTT ACT.

THURSDAY, May 26.—W. J. Morrow, W. Kenneally, W. McGreggor and R. Hamilton were charged by Acting Chief Adams with having committed infractions of the Scott Act. No defence was put in and fines of $50 and costs were imposed in each case.

REMOVING SOD.

Patrick Kane was charged by Acting Chief Adams with having removed sod from a public square within the corporation. He pleaded guilty. The Magistrate said that such doings must be put a stop to. If everybody defaced the grounds in front of other people's doors, what would the town be like? A fine of $2 and $2.55 costs was imposed.

DEPOSITING FILTH.

Wm. Payton was charged by Acting Chief Adams with having deposited filthy refuse on Water street near the "Goose-pond." He acknowledged having done so, but said that lots of the people deposited their yard cleanings there as well.

The Magistrate said that to give other people a hint that they must do so no more he would impose a fine of $2.

A FATAL FIRE.

The Opera Comique in Paris Totally Destroyed.

PARIS, May 25.—The Opera Comique took fire this evening, and the whole building is now wrapped in flames. Several persons have been injured.

Fourteen persons who jumped from the windows are dead and 43 were injured. It is probable that many were crushed to death in the galleries but at present this is uncertain.

The fire broke out during the first act of the opera "Miguonne." One of the wings caught fire from a gas jet, and the entire stage was immediately enveloped in flames. The fire soon spread to the whole house. Madame Merguillier and Messrs. Taequin and Boquard were on the stage when the fire broke out. All the actors ran out in their stage costumes. The audience got out easily, but the gas was turned off before all had left the building, and it is feared some were left in the upper tiers. The roof soon fell in, sending showers of sparks around. With the exception of Madame Sellier, who perished in the flames, all the actors escaped, though several of the supernumeraries were injured severely.

Five bodies, terribly burnt, were conveyed to the National library. Among them was the body of a woman grasping a little boy in her arms. The money receipts were saved.

The firemen showed the greatest courage. Messrs. Goblet, Therbaudin and Graguon were on the spot soon after the fire started and they remained throughout with the fire officials. The Military Club rendered great assistance in the work of rescuing the people. Nineteen persons are now known to be dead. Many of these were supers.

An artificial fire apparatus, which had been placed in position in readiness for the burning of the palace in the second act, rolled down from its place near the roof and exploded below. Women, half clad and carrying their costumes, fled from the stage screaming. The supers and members of the chorus were terrified, and some of the latter fled with nothing on but tights. The flames spread so rapidly that in fifteen minutes the stage was a vast furnace.

LONDON, May 26.— The Havas News Agency of Paris places the number of persons killed and injured by the fire in the Opera Comique last night at sixty. The theatre was completely destroyed.

IRELAND.

About £6,545 has been subscribed for the Jubilee Victoria Hospital for Chest Diseases near Dublin.

The new church for Linenhall street congregation, Belfast, which will cost about £10,000, is nearly completed.

Mr. Alex. Bannatyne, head of the milling firm of Bannatyne & Sons, Dublin, died on April 27th at Cannes, aged 70.

It is not expected that the Belfast shipbuilders' strike will be easily settled. The employers have sent over to the Clyde to engage workmen.

Rev. Dr. Moore of Elmwood, Belfast, still remains in a prostrate condition, and no hopes are entertained of his recovery.

The attainment of age by John Phelps, Esq., eldest son of the late proprietor of Waterpark, Castleconnel, was celebrated on April 2 th.

Lord Clancarty, whose tenants in Loughrea district have joined the Plan of Campaign, has withdrawn the privilege of cutting turf hitherto allowed to tenants, who will now have to procure it from a distance of ten miles.

It is stated that Lord Ardilaun, in memorial of the Queen's jubilee, has decided to present a considerable area of house property in South-West Dublin, a poor and crowded district of the city, to be converted into a People's Park.

The report on arterial drainage in Ireland by the royal commission on Irish public Works was issued on May 3rd. It recommends operations estimated to cost £265,000, a Government contribution of £75,000 to the works on the River Barrow, and of £20,000 to those on the Bann.

Mr. James Coats, of Belfast, died on April 26th. He was the manager of the Lisburn Savings Bank, which flourished under his control; was for 22 years a water-rate collector; and 15 years a collector of income tax. He was also connected with the Masonic Brotherhood, was past Provincial Senior Warden, and for many years the Senior Past Master of the Province.

On April 27, a child aged three years, named Wm. Keogh, son of a gardener in the employment of J. Delmage, J. P., who had been bitten by a dog, died in the Limerick Workhouse Hospital from hydrophobia.

In Limerick a number of English periodicals, which the local booksellers have declined to sell in future, were recently burned. They were carried through the city headed by a band, and consigned to the flames of blazing tar barrels as the procession was moved.

O'Brien Going to Montreal.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., May 25.—Mr. O'Brien left the Falls for Montreal by the New York Central to Albany, thence to Montreal via Rouse's Point at 4 o'clock this afternoon. He was accompanied to the depot by a deputation of friends. He complained of pain in his back and side.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

THE CANADIANS BETTER OFF.

The man, we do not care whether he is an American or Canadian, who declares the Michigan farmer to be better "fixed" than the Ontario farmer, knows very little about the agriculturist of the Wolverine state. Where did Mr. Wiman get his information from?—Chicago Journal.

A STAGGERING BLOW.

The Globe may as well face the unwelcome truth at once, and own up that in a fair stand up fight in the Queen City Board of Trade its party was very badly beaten; and that its pet scheme of anti-British commercial union has received a staggering blow. Such contempt as it is now showing for the meaning of plain English is only making itself ridiculous.—Toronto World (Ind.)

THE SUBSIDY TO THE C.P.R.

There is some hope that the sacrifices Canada has made to build the Canadian Pacific Railway will be fairly recognized by the home authorities, and that they will grant a mail subsidy sufficient to admit the establishment of a line of first-class steamers from Vancouver to Hong-Kong. The advantages to be gained by the Imperial government in having an overland route to India wholly through British territory, telegraph lines with both ends under their own control, and a fleet of first-class steamers available for any emergency in the Pacific, are so great that there ought to be little doubt of the subsidy being granted. The days are gone by when English statesmen said or hinted "So loyal is too costly; fare you well." The Government will remember that Canada was the first colony to put down rebels with domestic troops alone, and we think the time is yet coming when Canadian affairs will be matter of equal concern to the Imperial Government and our own.—Arcturus (Ind.)

IMPARTIAL OPINION.

Mr. Gurney, of Toronto, who could not possibly be benefitted by a rise in the price of his raw material, advocated an increase of duties prior to the proposal of the Minister being published.—Monetary Times.

A FARMERS QUESTION.

Wheat is selling in Dakota at a maximum price of fifty cents per bushel. Commercial union would give Canadian farmers a great market for their wheat in Dakota, and in the States now commercially united with Dakota. The absurdity of it! Commercial union would simply mean that Dakota wheat could be laid down in Toronto for about fifty-three cents, allowing for freight rates. Should this question ever become a live issue in a Dominion election the Canadian farmer will take stock in such facts as these.—Toronto World (Indep.)

AN OUTSIDE OPINION.

Mr. O'Brien's mistake seems to be that he has magnified the importance which people on this side the water attach to this particular case of evictions from Lord Lansdowne's estates. Canada takes the attitude that it is none of her business anyway and that the man who has come 3,000 miles to embitter her against the Governor General might easily be in better business. Without abating one bit of our sympathy for Ireland, we are inclined to admire Canada for self-respect.—Buffalo Express.

HOBSONS CHOICE.

It is a serious mistake for American legislators or journals to encourage the Provinces to hope for commercial without political union. These Province demand all the commercial advantages which they would have if they were incorporated as States it the American Union, and many of their public men fancy that reciprocity will be granted again, as it has been in the past, from an excess of generosity and good nature on the part of American legislators. Importunate applicants like Mr. Welsh need to be reminded that annexation and reciprocity are not to be divorced, and that the commercial and political advantages of union are irrevocably bound together.—N. Y. Tribune.

THE LOGICAL SEQUENCE.

Despite the obstacles that always attend new ventures and the mischevious opposition of those who had made up their minds that our new fiscal system should not have even the slightest chance, that policy has gradually made such headway that many of its pronounced opponents have been stopped in their crusade against it, and been compelled to declare it is not their intention to interfere with the policy of the country; and, even were they in power, they would not interfere with it in any way except to remove what they consider to be defects in some of its details. The National Policy—the protection of native Canadian industries—is thus the universal policy of all who pretend to be true Canadians, and, this much accomplished and recognised, Sir Charles Tupper's amendments, enlargements and additions are only the logical sequence of what has already been done.—Canadian Trade Review.

CAMPBELLFORD.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.— Our Meyersburg correspondent furnishes the following particulars of an accident which befel two of the residents of that village. On Monday night Mr. E. Pakenham and Mr. Roddy Wynn went to Campbellford after a buggy left for repairs, and when returning home at 10 o'clock at night, just below Mr. Weir's, the wheel came off the buggy in which they were riding, and Mr. Pakenham was thrown out. The horse started to run away, and the buggy in the rear came in contact with Mr. Packenham, striking his leg and breaking it just above the ankle. Wynn was then thrown out and received a kick from the horse, causing a severe flesh wound. The horse continued to run with both buggies, and did not stop until he reached the cheese factory. Packenham lay by the side of the road until a young man from Warkworth came along and took him home. As good luck would have it, they met Dr. Goldsmith on the bridge, who returned with them and set the broken bone. Mr. Pakenham is doing nicely under the circumstances, and Mr. Wynn expects to be all right in a few days.—Herald.

TRADE IN

Our MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT, and did we judge alone by the crowds that daily claim attention of our salesmmen advertising this class of goods would|be unnecessary—almost a waste of money But then, you know, there's two sides to every subject, Here's the other side to this one, and at the same time our reason [illegible] Rowse's 20 Kyards.

In making up our stock in this department we provided for great numbers—for many more than have as yet taken advantage of its completeness, to furnish themselves with millinery suitable for the season.

It will therefore require "crowds long continued" to clear out tables of the enormus stock of Millinery with which they are loaded —over-loaded.

A continuous demand then being necessary, we knew of no better way to insure it than to keep you informed as to just what we have and how we are prepared to sell it. We shall, therefore, from now till the close of the season, devote some portion of our card to Millinery News.

We have already said that our stock was large. We have also intimated that our assortment was complete. Now for our goods.

We have just received a six dozen lot of Ladies' and Children's Hats which are the newest in shape and bought at half their value.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC
FROM
J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Lech's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

FRIDAY, MAY 27, 1887.

MR. BLAKE VS. THE CROWN.

MR. BLAKE has previously disgraced himself, his party, and to a certain extent his country as leader of one of its political parties by adopting sympathy with armed rebellion as part of his policy. But it will be learnt with surprise that he has taken a long step further in his disloyal course—a deliberate insult to the Queen and her viceregal representative in Canada—an insult offered by him officially in his place in Parliament and in his capacity of leader of the Opposition.

It was not only natural, but was in accordance with their plain duty that the representatives of the people of Canada should wish to take part in the reception of the representative of the Sovereign of Canada on his return to the capital. In compliance with this wish the whips of th two parties moved for an early adjournment of the House. Mr. Blake, however, appealed to the Speaker to maintain the rule that such a resolution must be unanimous. The Speaker had no choice but to rule that such an objection was fatal, and then Mr. Blake as leader of the Opposition uttered his formal disent from the proposal to treat the Governor-General with the courtesy due to his position. And so at the intervention of Mr. Blake one House of the Parliament of Canada was forced into a studied insult to another branch of the Parliament of Canada, the Queen in the person of her Viceroy and representative.

The members, however, could not be coerced into implicating themselves personally in such an outrage, and insisted at 5 o'clock in calling it time for the recess so that they might show their respect for our Governor-General and our Sovereign.

Mr. Blake must be frenzied with disappointed ambition when he thus throws off the mask and plainly reveals his disloyalty.

O'Brien at Albany.

ALBANY, N.Y., May 26.—Editor O'Brien and party arrived here at 2.20 this morning. This forenoon the party visited both branches of the Legislature, Mr. O'Brien making a few remarks in the Assembly Chamber. They left for Montreal at 1.10 this afternoon.

O'Brien's New York Reception.

NEW YORK, May 26.—At a meeting of the O'Brien reception committee last night, it was decided that Judge Edward Brown, of the city court, should preside at the mass meeting to be held at the Academy of Music on June 2nd. A banquet will be tendered to Mr. O'Brien at the Hoffman House.

Mr. O'Brien in Montreal.

MONTREAL, May 26.—Wm. O'Brien and Denis Kilbride arrived at Bonaventure Depot to-night at 10.40. On alighting from the train Messrs. O'Brien and Kilbride and the New York correspondents were welcomed back by President Cloran of the National League and President Barry of St. Patrick's Society and deputations from Ottawa and Quebec. Fully 300 persons were at the depot and gave the party an enthusiastic reception. The crowd took the horse from the carriage in which the agitator rode and drew it to St. Lawrence Hall. The crowd groaned the Queen. O'Brien and Kilbride made the usual speeches and the meeting broke up without distusbance.

MILITARY ACTIVITY.

LONDON, May 26.—The French military preparations continue with unbated zeal, crisis or no crisis in ministerial affairs. The provincial garrisons are frequently called suddenly in the middle of the night and sent by rail to a distant station and back to their quarters as rapidly as possible, to accustom them to work of this kind and to test the transportation facilities. The cavalry regiments are also practiced continually in night manœuvres. Last night 10,000 troops were called out from Champigny and Joinville, south-east of Paris, to capture by assault the Faisanderie fort, which was defended by the Vincinnes garrisons. BOULANGER OUTSPOKEN.

PARIS, May 26.—In an interview published in the Voltario to-day General Boulanger is represented as saying that if he were omitted from the cabinet he would simply return to his old place in the army. Suspicion of ulterior motives on his part, he said, was absurd and an insult to his patriotism. When he took the war portfolio he found that France had been asleep for 15 years. He awakened her to a sense of dignity and the moral effect had been a revival of military ardor in provinces far from the frontier. The army under my guidance, he added, has shown no undue desire for war. I do not fear to say that we are ready, but there are no proofs that I ever coveted war.

A HEARTY WELCOME.

The Governor-General received a hearty welcome at Ottawa on Thursday afternoon on his return from Toronto. The World's correspondent, in an account of the reception, says that nice weather, gay decorations, evergreen arches, brass bands, mounted guards, enthusiasm, cheers and 2,500 children singing in chorus combined to make the Governor-General's reception to-day a credit to the Ottawa district and an honor to the capital of the Dominion. The arrangements were perfect in every detail, no mishap of any kind occurred and the element of opposition, if such existed, could not have been discovered with the giant Lick telescope. The streets presented a splendid appearance, every building on the line of march being decorated to a greater or less extent, while many were fairly masked with bunting and evergreens. There were several fine arches, one at the corner of Sparks and Elgin streets being a massive evergreen affair, surmounted by a moose head and crown and bearing the legend: "God Save the Queen;" "Welcome to Lansdowne."

From early morning visitors commenced pouring into the city from the surrounding districts, and in the afternoon business was entirely suspended. The last touches were put to the decorations, mounted marshals dashed through the streets and highways, and by 5 o'clock everything was in readiness.

The Toronto train was but a few minutes late. When it drew up at the platform Royalty's representative received a right royal reception. Cheer after cheer greeted Lord and Lady Lansdowne and scores of friends crowded about to shake them by the hand and escort them to carriages. No. 1 Company of the Forty-third Battalion detached the horses from the Vice-Regal carriage, attached ropes thereto, and, headed by Percy Sherwood proud, mounted, drew the vehicle from the station to Cartier-square, and from the square to Rideau Hall, and then came marching back singing the regiment's war song.

The bicycle club headed the procession, 200 mounted citizens formed the body guard, 100 carriages conveyed distinguished personages, five bands gave the time to the thousands of citizens who marched on foot, and many, many thousands more lined the sidewalks and cheered again and again, until the echoes came back from the Laurentian Mountains and seemed mighty enough to roll right away across the Atlantic and tell the people of the Mother Country in thunder tones what the opinion of the capital of Canada is as between Lord Lansdowne and Wm. O'Brien.

At Cartier-square the scene was one never to be forgotten. A great circular platform had been erected, with rising tiers of seats, on which were seated 2500 school children. There were also three or four hundred prominent personages, members of the Reception Committee, judges of the Supreme Court, Judge Henry, by the way, was on horseback leading the mounted guards, members of the Senate, members of the House of Commons, aldermen of the city, members of the county municipal bodies, etc. The members of the Cabinet present were Sir John Macdonald, Sir Chas. Tupper, Sir Adolphe Caron, Hon. Mr. Bowell, Hon. Mr. White and Hon. Mr. Foster. Sir Hector Langevin viewed the procession from the window of his residence. Mayor Stewart, magnificent in his scarlet robes of office, read the address of welcome, and Father Dawson read a poem composed purposely for the occasion. When Lord Lansdowne rose to reply the cheering lasted five minutes. He gave an able address, and humorously referred to Mr. O'Brien's visit.

Next came the school children's turn. Led by Prof. Workman then sang, "God Save the Queen," "Rule Britannia" and the "Red, White and Blue." They did it so well that the ten thousand people in the square cheered them again and again. Thus encouraged they sang on their own account, "We'll Hang O'Brien on a Sour Apple Tree" with great gusto, and then the shouts could have been heard in Toronto. Cheers for the Governor-General, Lady Lansdowne and the Queen were given, the procession was reformed and escorted the Vice-Regal party to Rideau Hall, and the heartiest, most enthusiastic, most magnificent reception ever given a representative of the Queen in the capital of the brightest gem in Victoria's diadem was ended.

COMMERCIAL UNION.

The following letter appeared in the Toronto World:

Editor World.—The letter of Mr. Wiman recalls the fable of the fox and the fowl, the latter perched on a roost and the former trying to convince the fowl that eternal peace had been proclaimed between all animals and the hunter, and that this happy event should be inaugurated by a hearty embrace, inviting the fowl to come down; no sooner, however, did the fowl remind the fox of the near approach of the hunter than he turned his tail without waiting for what he was longing to seize. Of course Mr. Wiman is not over-anxious to let our manufacturers know how by such an arrangement their trade would increase or be crippled, because, as it is such an unimportant fraction of the whole—their employees might either remove to the manufacturing centres of the U[illegible] States or raise poultry and send eggs to the United States markets. The chief class that Mr. Wiman wishes to deal with is the half-starved Canadian farmers, who would find a ready market for all they raise, forgetting that even their own farmers' surplus of produce seeks the markets of Europe for disposal. No doubt Mr. Wiman's letter will have a great hold on the farmer, as no matter how prosperous their condition may be, there is a notorious fault-finding with the majority of them, either the cry being a short crop or plenty and low price. Mr. Wiman must have a wrong idea about our Canadian farmers and their condition in comparison with the farmers of the United States, and it would be more patriotic for him to try to improve the condition of the American farmer in the West, but seemingly his love for the Canadian appears much stronger. Being a German by birth, but having spent thirty-five years (a little over half my lifetime) in Canada, and not possessing that strong relative sentiment binding one to England, I am therefore unprejudiced, and as I have sisters with their husbands engaged in farming in Michigan and Colorado, I cannot overlook the fact that the chances for our farmers are not only equal but superior to those on the other side. Our farmers may sell barley for malting purposes to the United States, but the most of their produce finds its way to the European markets whether shipped to New York or Montreal. When I speak of the condition of our farmers, I will, as an illustration, take Peterborough and surrounding country, where I have spent twenty-six years of my life. Many people are apt to forget the condition of things around us in a stretch of time such as I have stated, and the situation of our farmers here 25 years ago. Sheriff sales were the order then almost every day, invariably, ready money being scarce, loans at high interest, and the bartering system general. All this has now passed away, luxury is visible on all around. Farming is no more that hard toil that it used to be, money is obtainable for all they have to sell, more land has been bought by them, and as a rule they have a cash credit in the bank to their good; and the sheriff's office, at that time a lucrative one, is no more so now through such occurrences. Now, as for the result commercial union would have on our now prosperous manufacturing industries, with the thousands of people connected with the same, it would act like an earthquake, swallowing up everything and laying waste and valueless that which is now active and prosperous. Should our situation, however, become anything different from what it is now, and should we become tired of British connection, I should prefer to try the same as the Americans did, not commercial union nor annexation, but independence.

The Daily Review

FRIDAY, MAY 27, 1887.

A FAIR SHARE?

In discussing the methods that would have to be adopted to carry out the proposed zollverein to include the United States and Canada, the New York Post shows that the customs and excise tariffs of the two countries must first be brought into harmony. It continues:—

"Then the revenue derived from tariff and excise duties must be divided between the two countries on some basis. If population is taken as a basis, Canada will get rather more than her fair share of the proceeds, because her people are not as rich as ours on the average, and, consequently, do not consume as much foreign goods per capita."

This shows what degree of justice Canada might expect if the false Canadians could dupe the Dominion into forming a commercial union with the United States. With customs and excise receipts put into a common fund Canadians are to draw less per head than their neighbors, who think an equal division would be unfair because they choose to look upon us as a set of paupers, who should be glad to take anything they may deign to allow us. The truth, as shown by unimpeachable statistics, is that Canadians consume a far greater amount of foreign goods per capita than the people of the United States. We would pay under the zollverein higher duties on our imports, and we would have doled out to us a smaller sum than at present as our share from the common treasury. We could diminish our imports of dutiable articles it is true, but it would be by obtaining them from our neighbors, that is, by ceasing to manufacture our own staple goods in our own country, and ceasing to import our luxuries from the mother country. That is what is desired by the friends on both sides of the line of the proposed Zollverein, but it is certainly not the wish of the overwhelming majority of Canadians.

The people of Canada certainly will not be reconciled to the idea of transferring our allegiance from the British Empire to the United States by the threats of our neighbors, that they would reward our subserviency by defrauding us of our fair share of the common fund under the pretence that we are a nation of paupers.

WORTH PRESERVING.

Exception has been taken to our suggestion of an export duty on iron ore, as it is said that our mines contain a larger supply than Canada can require so it would be well to sell the surplus. This is a similar claim to that of having inexhaustible forests, on the strength of which some parts of Canada have already been too much denuded of trees while the available supply of timber for the country as a whole has been reduced to a very serious extent. A country has a longer existence than the life of a man, and a supply sufficient for a generation or two should not be regarded as inexhaustible. Other people have acted on the idea that their iron mines would afford a practically limitless supply, and we may learn from their experience. There are parts of England and of the United States where iron ore was abundant and furnaces were numerous, but their position is very different now. So greatly has the supply been depleted that the furnaces are disused or are supplied from a distance. This latter is largely the case in some parts of Pennsylvania whither ore is conveyed from long distances. Recent purchases of mines in Ontario look as if Pennsylvania iron manufacturers have been planning to obtain possession of our ores to supplement their own supply. If so let them establish their works here so that Canadians may obtain other employment besides the mere mining. If necessary we repeat that our mineral resources should be preserved and not squandered for the benefit of foreigners and to our loss. It would be too late to be wise after the event.

Speaking of the new iron duties the Toronto Globe says:—

"And it comes oddly enough, just now, after all the Colonial Conference and Imperial Federation love feasts, to find an enormously important tariff change which, certain to injure Canada, at the same time directly slaps the old Mother Country in the face in the year of the Queen's Jubilee."

Who would suppose, while reading this, that the Globe is a strong advocate for giving the old Mother Country a really hard slap in the face by adopting a far higher duty on British iron at the instance of foreigners, thus altogether shutting out iron from Great Britain, while admitting iron free from the United States? Poor Globe!

Though the Brockville Recorder is unwilling to wait till winter to see what effect the removal of the duty will have on the price of anthracite coal we must ask it to have patience so long. If the summer and the winter price of coal in Canada is for both seasons fifty cents less than before, as compared with prices in the United States, we will readily own that we were mistaken in supposing that the Pennsylvania coal-owners paid the duty. We cannot, however, consent to admit this simply because the summer price is as usual lower than the winter price. That difference was not caused by the duty, nor is it now caused by the removal of the duty.

Turnbull's mammoth store is in its new summer dress, decked with lace flouncings and embroideries, lace Grenadines, lace gloves and parasols, lace curtains and pillow shams, etc., etc. For new and handsome goods this is the right house.

A BOOM IN SUMMER CLOTHING AND STYLISH HATS.

Such is our confident prediction with excellent opportunities for a verification. The advent of May, with its pleasant days, foretells an excellent summer trade. In fact we have seized time by the fore-lock and made unsual preparations. We show to-day the largest and handsomest assortment of

MENS' - BOYS' - AND - CHILDRENS' - HATS

Ever exhibited in Canada, including all the novelties of the Season. Our unparalleled display of Felt Hats, newest style at 20c. each is an important item in itself. But the agitation of the day is how

Well, it is Wonderful How We Do, But We Do, and though the Army and Navy might scare away O'Brien, the Great GOUGH still remains as firm as a rock, and will continue to make the High Price Clothiers howl. We are showing this Season probably

THE MOST VARIED AND COMPLETE STOCK EVER SHOWN BY ANY ONE CLOTHING HOUSE IN THE DOMINION OF CANADA,

And we have placed on them what our patrons say, and our contemporaries are bound to acknowledge, the lowest prices ever dreamed of. We freely admit that we are fallen Clothiers, wallowing in the lowest depths of Bed Rock Prices, while our exalted brethren look down upon us from their High Places and go wild because we capture the trade. Quality and Workmanship are our wheel-horses, Style and Price the leaders, and we make these pull to the last fraction to give you Good Goods at Reasonable Prices. Give us a call, and buy one of our $3.75 Never Wear Out Suits. It is no trouble to show our Goods, in fact, we enjoy it.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Murderers Excepted—Prince Edward Island Subway—Pacific Coast Fisheries—Election Law.

Wednesday, May 25.—The House of Commons met again after a week's holiday.

QUEEN'S, N. B.

The Speaker announced that Mr. Dunn, Returning-Officer for Queen's, N. B., awaited the pleasure of the House.

EXCHEQUER COURT.

Mr. Thompson introduced a bill to establish a Court of Claims having the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court in exchequer matters and of the Board of Dominion arbitrators.

YORK AND SIMCOE VOLUNTEERS.

Sir A. Caron, in reply to Col. O'Brien, said the York and Simcoe volunteers would not receive an allowance for their North-West kit, as they had not like other battalions purchased it themselves.

GABRIEL DUMONT.

Mr. Thompson, in reply to Mr. Prefontaine, said the North-West amnesty included all but murderers, so Gabriel Dumont could tell himself whether he is included.

P. E. I. TUNNEL.

Sir J. Macdonald, in reply to Mr. Perry, said it was not intended to make a survey this year with a view to constructing a subway to Prince Edward Island.

PACIFIC COAST FISHERIES.

Mr. Foster, in reply to Mr. Shakespeare, said the exploration of the British Columbian codfish banks was being continued.

LIQUOR PERMITS.

Sir J. Macdonald, in reply to Mr. Perley, said the system of liquor permits in the North-West was under consideration.

C. P. R. LANDS.

Mr. White, in reply to Mr. Perley, said the C.P.R. had sent to their officers in the North-West for information as to lands sold by the company.

VOTERS' LISTS.

Mr. Langelier moved for papers as to the addition by the Revising Officer after the final revision of 40 names to the Montmorency voters' list.

Mr. Chapleau said it was to remedy a clerical error by a subordinate, which would have inflicted upon a number of electors the injustice of depriving them of their votes.

Mr. Langelier continued to argue that it was a heinous offence to do justice if technical legal forms were in the way.

P. E. I.

Mr. Robertson moved for papers as to winter communication with Prince Edward Island. He wanted the Northern Light repaired, and a better vessel placed in addition on the route.

Mr. McIntyre said Sir John had promised a survey for a subway.

Mr. Welch did not believe in the subway and wanted a better steamer.

Mr. Foster said a steam sealer from Newfoundland had been placed on the route but had not given much satisfaction. They were considering whether to build a new vessel or to refit the Northern Light.

Mr. Davies thought there should be no consideration, as the Northern Light was unfit for the work. Sir John Macdonald had promised a subway to influence the elections, writing to Senator Howlan just before them. He could not advocate a subway at present, but thought the Government should give them a new vessel and refit the old one.

Sir J. Macdonald said the question put to him by Mr. Perry was whether he had promised to make a survey with a view to a subway and he was obliged to answer in the negative. The promise was to submit the whole matter to Parliament which would be done. It was Mr. Howlan, not he, who had chosen the time to enquire and he could not refuse a civil answer. Mr. Davies and Mr. Welch were not in favor of a subway yet they seemed to want a survey. Mr. Davies admitted that the Northern Light was once sufficient and she only wanted a boiler repaired.

Mr. Davies still complained that for six weeks the Northern Light could not make the passage.

Mr. Blake thought the letter was intended to influence the electors. He advocated both the survey and the vessels.

Mr. Perry spoke in favour of better communications.

DOMINION ELECTIONS.

Mr. Edgar moved the second reading of his bill to amend the Election Act.

Mr. Thompson asked that the bill might stand as the Government intended to bring in a measure covering the suggested amendments and some others.

Several members spoke of defects in the list.

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC.

At the time of selling our stock of Dry Goods to Sheehy & Co., we had fully determined to give up that particular branch of our business, but as previously announced, did not do so, for various reasons. However it is now our intention to dispose of the Dry Goods Trade, and have consequently made up our mind to clear out the whole stock

AT COST PRICE AND UNDER.

This is one of the BEST Dry Goods stocks in the country, having been imported from the best markets direct to ourselves. Remember, this will be a GENUINE CLEARING OUT SALE. While we will still retain our Clothing Trade, yet we will during this sale, offer ALL our Ready-made Clothing, for Men and Boys, (with all kinds of Furnishings) at COST PRICE. Remember the whole Dry Goods Stock must be sold.

JESS.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," etc

John got off his shooting pony, and looking about him perceived that it was possible to descend by following the course of the stream and clambering down the natural steps it had cut in the rocky bed. Throwing the reins over the pony's head, and leaving him with the dog Pontac to stand and look about him as South African shooting ponies are accustomed to do, he put down his gun and game and proceeded to descend. As he drew near the bottom of the gorge he saw that near the borders of the stream, wherever the soil was moist, grew thousands upon thousands of white arum lilies, "pig lilies" they call them there, just now in full bloom. He had noticed these lilies from above, but there they had, owing to the distance, looked so small that he had taken them for everlastings or anemones. He could not see Jess now, for she was hidden by a bush that grows by the banks of the streams in South Africa in low lying land, and which at certain seasons of the year is literally covered with masses of the most gorgeous scarlet bloom. His footsteps fell very softly on the moss and flowers, and when he got round the glorious looking bush it was evident that she had not heard him, for she was asleep. Her hat was off, but the bush shaded her, and her head had fallen forward over her sketching block and rested on her hand. A ray of light that came through the bush played upon her curling brown hair and threw warm shadows on her white face and the white wrist and hand on which it rested.

John stood opposite to her and looked at her, and the old curiosity to understand this feminine enigma took possession of him. Many a man before him has been the victim of a like desire, and lived to regret that he did not leave it ungratified. It is not well to try to lift the curtain of the unseen; it is not well to call to heaven to show its glory, or to hell to give us touch and knowledge of its yawning fires. Knowledge comes soon enough; many of us will say that knowledge has come too soon, and left us desolate. There is no bitterness like the bitterness of wisdom; so cried the great Koholeth, and so hath cried many a son of man following blindly in his path. Let us be thankful for the dark places of the earth—places where we may find rest and shadow, and the heavy sweetness of the night. Seek not after mysteries, O son of man; be content with the practical and the proved and the broad light of the day; peep not, mutter not the words of awakening. Understand her who would be understood and is comprehensible to those who run, and for the others let them be, lest your fate should be as the fate of Eve, and as the fate of Lucifer, star of the morning. For here and there is a human heart from which it is not wise to draw the veil—a heart in which many things slumber as undreamed dreams in the brain of the sleeper. Draw not the veil, whisper not the word of life in the silence where all things sleep, lest in that kindling breath of love and pain dim shapes arise, take form, and frighten thee.

A minute or so might have been passed when suddenly, and with a little start, Jess opened her great eyes, on which the shadow of darkness lay, and gazed at him.

"Oh!" she said, with a little tremor, "is it you or is it my dream?"

"Don't be afraid," he answered, cheerily, "it is I—in the flesh."

She covered her face with her hand for a moment, and then withdrew it, and he noticed that her eyes had changed curiously in that moment. They were still large and beautiful as they always were, but there was a change. Just now they had seemed as though her soul were looking through them. Doubtless it was because the pupils were enlarged by sleep.

"Your dream! What dream?" he asked, laughing.

"Never mind," she answered, in a quiet sort of way that excited his curiosity more than ever; "dreams are foolishness."

CHAPTER VI.

THE STORM BREAKS.

"Do you know you are a very odd person, Miss Jess," John said presently with a little laugh. "I don't think you can have a happy mind."

She looked up. "A happy mind!" she said. "Who can have a happy mind? Nobody who can feel. Supposing," she went on after a pause—"supposing one puts one's self and one's own little interests and joys and sorrows quite away, how is it possible to be happy when one feels the breath of human misery beating on one's face and sees the great tide of sorrow and suffering creeping up to one's feet? One may be on a rock one's self and out of the path of it till the spring floods or the hurricane wave comes to sweep one away, or one may be afloat upon it; whichever it is, it is quite impossible, if one has any heart, to be indifferent to it."

"Then only the indifferent are happy?"

"Yes, the indifferent and the selfish; but, after all, it is the same thing; indifference is the perfection of selfishness."

"I am afraid that there must be lots of selfishness in the world, for there is certainly plenty of happiness, all evil things notwithstanding. I should have said that happiness comes from goodness and from a sound digestion."

Jess shook her head as she answered, "I may be wrong, but I don't see how anybody who feels can be quite happy in a world of sickness, suffering, slaughter and death. I saw a Kaffir woman die yesterday and her children crying over her. She was a poor creature and had a rough lot, but she loved her life and her children loved her. Who can be happy and thank God for his creation when he has just seen such a thing? But there, Capt. Niel, my ideas are very crude and I dare say very wrong, and everybody has thought them before; at any rate, I am not going to inflict them on you. What is the use of it?" she went on, with a laugh; "what is the use of anything? The same old thoughts passing through the same human minds from year to year and century to century, just as the same clouds float across the same blue sky. The clouds are born in the sky and the thoughts are born in the brain, and they both end in tears and rearise in blinding, bewildering mist, and this is the beginning and end of thoughts and clouds. They arise out of the blue; they overshadow and break into storms and tears, and then they are drawn up with the blue again and the whole thing begins afresh."

"So you don't think that one can be happy in the world?" he asked.

"I did not say that—I never said that. I do not think that happiness is possible. It is possible if one can love somebody so hard that one can quite forget one's self and everything else except that person, and it is possible if one can sacrifice one's self for others. There is no true happiness outside of love and self sacrifice, or rather outside of love, for it includes the other. That is gold, all the rest is gilt."

"How do you know that?" he replied quickly. "You have never been in love."

"No," she answered, "I have never been in love like that, but all the happiness I have had in my life has come to me from loving. I believe that love is the secret of the world; it is like the philosopher's stone they used to look for, and almost as hard to find, but when one finds it it turns everything to gold. Perhaps," she went on with a little laugh, "when the angels left the earth they left us love behind, that by it and through it we may climb up to them again. It is the one thing that lifts us above the brutes. Without love man is a brute, and nothing but a brute; with love he draws near to God. When everything else falls away the love will endure because it cannot die while there is any life, if it is true love, for it is immortal. Only it must be true—you see, it must be true."

He had got through her reserve now; the ice of her manner broke up beneath the warmth of her words, and her usually impassive face had caught the fire and light from the eyes above and acquired a certain beauty of its own. He looked at it, and realized something of the untaught and ill-regulated intensity and depth of the nature of this curious girl. He caught her eyes and they moved him strangely, though he was not an emotional man, and was too old to experience spasmodic thrills at the chance glances of a pretty woman. He went toward her, looking at her curiously.

"It would be worth living to be loved like that," he said, more to himself than to her.

She did not answer, but she let her eyes rest on his. Indeed, she did more, for she put all her soul into them and gazed and gazed till John Niel felt as though he were being mesmerized. And as she did so there rose up in her breast a knowledge that if she willed it she could gain this man's heart and hold it against all the world, for her nature was stronger than his nature, and her mind, untrained as it was, encompassed his mind and could pass over it and beat it down as the wind beats down a tossing sea. All this she learned in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye; she did not know how she knew it, but she did know it as surely as she knew that the blue sky stretched overhead, and what is more, he—for the moment, at any rate—knew it too. It came on her as a shock, and a revelation, like the tidings of a great joy or grief, and for a moment left her heart empty of all things else.

She dropped her eyes suddenly.

"I think," she said, quietly, "that we have been talking a great deal of nonsense, and that I want to finish my sketch."

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d96

Senator Schultz was interviewed on Wednesday in Montreal while on his way to Ottawa. Speaking of the importance of measures for increasing the national food supply of the North-West in view of the extinction of the buffalo, he said the principal points to which attention could be drawn were the fish product, wild rice and the cultivation of the rabbit.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Explanation.

J. J. Sheehy's card to the public appears in this edition of the REVIEW on the first page.

Cricket.

A cricket match will be played to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock between the bankers and lawyers on one side against a team drawn from other members of the club.

Fat Cattle.

Mr. Aikins, cattle buyer, has purchased from Mr. W. Armstrong, Otonabee, four prime steers for shipment to the English market. Their average weight is 1,645 pounds.

Kidd has an eagle from the sky down to his window; $5.00 kid boots down to $4.00, down to $.300, down to $2.50, down, down, down!

A Handsome Case.

Mr. Charles Legros has had put in his barber shop a handsome walnut case with marble tops and mirrors which reflect everything in the shop. It is neat, convenient and ornamental.

An army of bright ladies and children buy their hosiery at Turnbull's. Why? Because he shows a large stock, fresh from the largest factory in Germany, and sells them very cheap.

Another Lacrosse Club.

A field has been secured by the Young Men's Christian Association, and a meeting will be held at the rooms on Friday evening at 8.30 o'clock to organize a Lacrosse Club. All members and all who would like to join the Association are invited to attend.

Confirmation Suits.

Mr. E. D. Gough, the wonderful cheap clothier, left for Toronto this morning on business, but before leaving gave his corps of clerks instructions to dispose of children's confirmation suits at such very low prices as will come within the reach of everybody. Children who are to be confirmed will do well to call and see these pretty suits.

Golden grain of truth. Turnbull is selling ladies Taffeta and pure silk gloves that are cut to fit the hand. Every pair numbered. You will not regret having walked an extra block after you have tried a pair.

The Rifle.

The first rifle match of the season was held at the Association range on Thursday afternoon when a number of the members of the Rifle Association met for a practice. The ranges were 200, 400, 500 and 600 yards five shots to each range. No sight shots were allowed. The following were the number of points made at each range and the total score:—

	200	400	500	600	Total.
F. Hall	21	18	17	13	— 69
A. Blade	19	18	11	14	— 62
Geo. Fitzgerald	18	17	14	11	— 60
Dr. Bell	21	16	17	4	— 58
D. Cameron	18	10	16	4	— 47
W. A. Mason	15	13	15	3	— 46
W. A. Bell	18	12	5	10	— 45
T. Rutherford	18	12	5	7	— 42
D. Belleghem	17	8	9	6	— 40
Dr. Brennan	12	16	4	5	— 37
W. H. Hill	16	9	6	0	— 31

The possible score was 100. The wind was very hard on the marksmen. It blew in gusts so as to make it very difficult to aim with accuracy.

A Railway Rumour.

The Cobourg Sentinel-Star says:—"There is a rumour current in town to the effect that the C. P. R. propose purchasing the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora railway from the present company, and build a new line through Baltimore, Centreton, Warkworth, Hastings and connecting with their road at Norwood, providing the townships will grant the right of way. If the purchase is made the company will abandon the direct connection with Peterborough, as they consider a line to that town would be of but little benefit to them, the town now having two or three outlets to the front. The line through these villages would be a success beyond doubt, and we hope the rumour may be substantiated. There is no doubt in our mind but that the townships would grant the required right of way, and, if the C. P. R. people mean business, let them apply for the privilege and the townships will readily grant it. The back country want the outlet and the Canada Pacific Railway Company want our harbour, which is the best on the lake by a large majority. Now that the matter is under discussion see that the pot is kept boiling."

IMPERIAL FEDERATION.

The Ottawa Meeting—Inter-Imperial Trade—Commercial Union.

A meeting of the Peterborough Branch of the Imperial Federation League was held in the Foresters' Hall, George street, on Thursday evening. Mr. Long, the Chairman, occupied the chair. After routine a discussion was held on the constitution and by-laws submitted by the committee appointed at the last meeting to draft the by-laws and constitution.

On being amended in one or two places, they were received and adopted.

The CHAIRMAN gave a report of the business done at the meeting of the Executive Committee held in Ottawa recently. He dwelt for some time on a question which arose at that meeting, viz., the advisability of inter-Imperial trade. Owing to Sir A. T. Galt and Mr. Sandford Fleming, the Canadian representatives to England, not arriving in time for the meeting, the question was not gone into so fully as it would otherwise have been. But there seemed to be a unanimity of opinion that in the near future the choice of commercial union with the United States and inter-Imperial trade would be thrust upon the Canadian people. There also appeared to be a decisive feeling that commercial union meant annexation to the United States. If such were the tendency of commercial union, and he for one believed such was its tendency, the League should combat it, as it would be against one of the principles of the League, and that was the maintenance of the unity of the Empire. As he understood inter-Imperial trade it did not mean free trade by any means. The colonies and old country would be left to shape their fiscal policies as they do now. But it was based upon the assumption that the British Empire produced everything necessary for life and material progress. It was proposed, then, to discriminate against extraneous products by imposing an extra tariff of from 5 to 10 per cent.

Mr. JAS. KENDRY, of the Auburn Woollen Mills, asked whether it was proposed to lower the duties on English goods. If so it must injure the Canadian manufacturer.

The CHAIRMAN asked what the duties on woollens were.

Mr. KENDRY replied that the average duty was 25 per cent.

The CHAIRMAN said that under inter-Imperial trade the duty on English Woollens would remain at 25 per cent, while that [illegible] American woollens would be increased to 30 or 35 per cent. He thought this question was a very urgent one and one which should receive the careful consideration of members of the League. Before long, he thought, the Canadian people would have to decide between the two—inter-Imperial trade and commercial union.

Mr. J H. BURNHAM read an essay entitled "The Impulse of Federation," which was received with hearty applause.

The meeting then adjourned.

PROBABILITIES.

Moderate to fresh winds, mostly west and north; fair, cool weather.

No one need despair of finding millinery to suit them while Turnbull is in the trade. He keeps a well selected stock of choice goods, and as new lines appear in the market has new shapes and trimmings arriving almost daily.

Cattle Market.

A number of cattle were weighed on the market scales this afternoon by Mr. Doherty. Twenty-one head were purchased by Mr. Moher from Dr. Kincaid's stock farm for which he paid $1,125. Mr. Aikens purchased nine head from Mr. David Armstrong, of Otonabee, and four from Mr. H. Read, of Douro, for the English market.

Service of Praise.

The service of praise given in St. Paul's Church some time ago, was repeated under Mr. J.S. Parkers disectorship at the George Street Methodist Church on Thursday evening. There were between 200 and 300 people present. The programme was carried out in a very satisfactory manner. Mr. Jaques, besides giving organ solos, favoured the audience with a vocal solo.

Naval Cutlass Exercise.

Mr. Thos. F. Cocks, late of the Royal Navy, is at present engaged in training a company of boys in the cutlass exercise for an exhibition of drill to be given at an entertainment to be held in St. John's Church School House on Tuesday, June 7th. He is getting on finely with the boys. At the drill on Thursday night his pupils showed considerable dexterity in executing the movements. There were several spectators present.

Agricultural Society.

A meeting of the Directors of the West Peterborough Agricultural Society was held in the Council Chamber on Thursday afternoon, Wm. Rutherford, 1st Vice-President, in the chair. A communication was read from the President, Mr. John Carnegie, stating that he had no alternative but to resign the position. He did so wishing the Society prosperity in the future. A communication was read from Mr. A. McNeil, resigning the position of Director. Mr. McNeil stated that he had not the time to devote which one faithfully discharging the duties of the position would be called upon to give. The resignations were accepted. Mr. Rutherford was elected President and Mr. John McClelland was elected 1st Vice-President. Messrs. Hugh Davidson and Jos. Forster were appointed Directors in the place of Messrs. McClelland and McNeil. A committee was appointed to collect subscriptions and after discussion on the prize list the meeting adjourned.

THE MARKET REPORTS.

REVIEW OFFICE,
Thursday evening, May 26.

The wheat trade is very dull. The receipts are almost nothing. The quantity held in local hands is light, all of the storehouses being cleared out pretty clean. Prices have risen several points during the last two weeks, and as high as 91 cents has been paid. Old Country markets are firm, but have not advanced materially. The quotations stand 1s. 7d. higher now than at this time last year, however. It was estimated that the visible supply would decrease this week by 3,000,000 bushels, whereas it has only come down about 1,500,000. The visible supply is now 43,018,887. Allowing a decrease of 2,500,000 a week the reserve to be carried forward would be still over 25,000,000 bushels at the time the new wheat comes in; seven weeks hence. Advices from Britain, France, Germany and Southern Russia, all report favorable weather to the growing crop. The prospects in the United States and Canada continue favorable.

Old Country Cheese.

Mr. T. H. Hodgson, of Liverpool, writes as follows on May 14:—"Trade continues to be of moderate proportions, and the demand is mostly confined to strictly choice lots of white, which command full prices, owing to scarcity. Finest colored is offered freely, and holders meet buyers at a decline of 1s. per cwt. I quote finest white at 62s. to 63s., finest colored at 61s. to 62s. per cwt. A few lots of new fodders have arrived, but buyers do not take kindly to them, as the quality and price is generally unsatisfactory, and old is considered much better value at the moment."

Chicago Grain and Provisions.

Presentation.

On Thursday evening the Ladies' Aid of Charlotte Street Methodist Church surprised their president Mrs. (Rev.) F. H. Wallace, by making a united call upon her. A very pleasant evening was enjoyed, during which a ruby glass fruit dish set in silver, and a silver teapot, were presented to Mrs. Wallace, with the love and regard of her lady friends. Mrs. Wallace was quite overcome with the generosity and kindness shown to her, and regretted her parting with the people of Charlotte Street Church. The party remained until 10 o'clock, when they took their leave, wish their pastor and his wife many happy useful years in their different fields of labor.

Sudden Death.

Sheriff Hall received a telegram on Thursday stating that Mr. Wm. Gilbert had died in St. Paul, Minn., of apoplexy during Wednesday night. Subsequently he received a telegram from the Ruttan Manufacturing Company, in whose employ Mr. Gilbert was, stating that they had been apprised of the death and would direct inquiries as to the cause. They telegraphed today that the Coroner had certified that the death was from apoplexy. A telegram from G M. Goodrich stated that the Oddfellows of St. Paul would escort the body to Chicago and would forward it on Saturday thence to Canada. The deceased was a brother-in-law of Sheriff Hall and was popular in Peterborough, where he lived for a number of years. He was here only a short time ago visiting his friends.

The Death of Mr. Campbell, M. P.

OTTAWA, May 26.—Mr. Campbell, M. P. for Digby, N. S., expired about seven o'clock this morning in a sleeping car at the C. P. R. station. He had been feeling unwell while coming from Toronto and doctors were summoned as soon as Ottawa was reached. The efforts were of no avail, and the unfortunate gentleman died in his berth. The cause of his death is understood to be heart disease, which was aggravated by the jolting of the car during the journey.

Fatal Stabbing Affray.

CHARLOTTETOWN, P. E. I., May 26.—At O'Leary Station, a school teacher and singing master named Mackinnon, got into an altercation with one Currie at the close of a meeting held by Blue, the evangelist. Currie took off his coat to fight. They clinched, and Currie was heard to exclaim, "My God, I am stabbed." The fight was stopped, and it was found that Currie was stabbed through the left lung. Currie cannot live. Mackinnon was arrested and committed for trial. He says he acted in self-defence. Mr. L. H. Davis will defend him.

It is reported that the Inter-Provincial Congress will be held in Quebec some time next month. Mr. Beausoleil, M. P. for Berthier, left Montreal on Wednesday for Toronto, on a mission from Mr. Mercier to Mr. Mowat in connection with the conference.

TRADE IN

Our MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT, and did we judge alone by the crowds that daily claim attention of our salesmmen advertising this class of goods would be unnecessary—almost a waste of money. But then, you know, there's two sides to every subject. Here's the other side to this one, and at the same time our reason for advertising when there's no apparent necessity for doing so.

In making up our stock in this department we provided for great numbers—for many more than have as yet taken advantage of its completeness, to furnish themselves with millinery suitable for the season.

It will therefore require "crowds long continued" to clear out tables of the enormus stock of Millinery with which they are loaded—over-loaded.

A continuous demand then being necessary, we knew of no better way to insure it than to keep you informed as to just what we have and how we are prepared to sell it. We shall, therefore, from now till the close of the season, devote some portion of our card to Millinery News.

We have already said that our stock was large. We have also intimated that our assortment was complete. Now for our goods.

We have just received a six dozen lot of Ladies' and Children's Hats which are the newest in shape and bought at half their value.

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Lech's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

SATURDAY, MAY 28, 1887.

THE IMPULSE OF FEDERATION.

The following is an essay read by Mr. J. Hampden Burnham at the Imperial Federation League meeting on Thursday evening:—

MR. CHAIRMAN AND GENTLEMEN:—I have had the honour of an invitation to read a paper before you on a subject akin to the general purpose of this League. Some thoughts, in all probability common to the most of you, have occurred to me in relation to the real necessity for federation. We have to do with the welding together of various parts into one magnificent entirety. Placed, as our possessions are, round the globe, the chain of British connection more closely drawn will bind the elements of civilization more securely than before. Such an union of Anglo Saxon nations will be the guardian of universal liberty—the world its ward. Though we respect the genius of the French and hail with applause the spirit of European progress, still the experience of centuries has taught us to look to British liberty as the best safeguard of a free people.

If the United kingdom be separated from its colonies it must soon decay. The nations of ancient and more recent times despoiled of their possessions soon fell in ruin. For the culture, splendor and refinement of these empires has always depended upon a vigorous commercial development as well as upon the vigilance of state-craft. Where a country's colonies fall away we see distinct retrogression, not progress. The narrowed scope—the lack of room for the healthy exercise of imperial functions most naturally accounts for this. Being deprived of her extremeties Britain could no longer progress. And if the colonies should separate from her we would be an infant-nation, thrown upon the world—well able perhaps to take care of ourselves, but with nothing save the instinct of culture, not the intellection-of it and, with a web of history to be woven, we would "spin out eternal schemes,"

"As we the fatal sisters would outspin,
And, big with life's futurities expire,"

at least as a British people.

New lines of advance would render the principles of our present national experience inapplicable. And in scarcely any other country is their such marked diversity of nationality and creed.

Small as we are in numbers a hundred factions torment us, and strong, indeed, would be the probability that our Maritime Provinces and British Columbia would leave us to shift for themselves. What would be our own fate cannot be safely foretold. The net result, then, of such a disintegration would undoubtedly be, that what was once the mighty empire of Britain would become Britain without an empire—that the colonies would find a host of forces opposing their nationalization, and the great temple of Anglo-Saxon civilization would become rent in a thousand fragments.

The empire as it stands is the apostle of progress and refinement. England was chosen to play no mean part in the world and the United States is her natural ally.

This question that we are considering falls into two divisions—the commercial and the sentimental. The commercial is a matter altogether of expediency, and like business transactions in general admits of many solutions. It can never offer an obstacle to federation affecting it vitally, because such an alliance as the one we speak of springs from a desire to unite resources, no matter how those resources may be obtained.

The sentimental, however, is one of history—the history of the Anglo Saxon mind, and questions affecting it, admit of few varieties of solution. It, in this case, means union or disunion, simply. In the material phase of this question is involved the natural existence of the human race—in the sentimental is bound up the preservation of what we may call the British race—and let us not forget our destiny. Britons were not born for an ignoble fate. Saxons did not rear a nation up to merely mark the flight of time. Resource, extent, energy, intellect, are yet ours—our star of empire is ascending still, and the praises of our illustrious dead are yet the songs of nations.

The diversity of race is really one of the essentials of a strong confederacy. The coherent tendency, the natural affinity of the various parts arises from the love of Anglo-Saxon freedom—a great Past—and we may hope a greater Future. The difference in race is the repellant force that maintains the vigor of national life. But we must live before we shall say how we live, and if Federation be impracticable from a business point of view the scheme must fall. This, however, is not the case. The recent Colonial Conference in London, and the published opinions of our greatest political thinkers, alike demonstrate the feasibility and necessity of such a plan. It is not to be expected that there will be a complete absence of discord in the desire for universal harmony.

So rapid has been the development of the colonies that they are like young and powerful principalities. We are seeking not the blending of different peoples but the establishment of a great commonwealth of nations. It is for us to remember that there is a liberty distinctly British, the reward of severe trials, the victory of many battles—founded upon the broad principles of equity.

Under no other system of government is the administration of justice so completely above reproach. The suspicion of dishonesty upon the bench is not even born yet. There may have been errors in judgment, but a lapse of honor—never. Then there is a remarkable philosophy of Anglo Saxon extraction and development. Are Hume, Bacon, Hobbes, Locke and Berkeley not names to conjure with? The British type of philosophical reasoning has had a mighty influence on the continental schools.

And in Literature what man can vie with Shakspeare—with the majestic Milton—the supremely poetic Spenser or the May-king of English letterdom Chaucer?

There have been many remarkable periods in the history of the advance of the British nation, but this imperial design is the greatest step of them all. It comes at a truly critical time—it is the awakening of the great spirit of national activity—of a strong desire to gird ourselves up and be doing. So great a cause needs mighty advocates and we see the foremost statesmen of the empire bending their energies to the task. And if the people will but throw in their labour with their love, success awaits them.

To-day we have in eastern Europe the Pan-slavist rampant. The bias of the Russian mind and the necessities of Russian affairs favor the adoption of a vigorous policy of acquisition. It will soon be the Russian and the Anglo-Saxon pitted the one against the other. The current of aspirations in both cases is towards the Indian East, and when these currents meet the very air will tremble.

In Central Europe the great and prolonged struggle of the Teuton with the Celt is nearing a bitter end. In Southern Europe Italy bids fair to a certain degree to regain her old position—when nations heard her voice and listened.

But observation and the record of experience indicate that Britain shall take in hand the guidance of the people. The problems of an economic nature, as the answer to the labor question—the holding of land a public trust, await their equitable adjustment from the Anglo-Saxon nations. The Republic near us and the monarchy under which we flourish are the two great examples of government, and afford ample opportunity for the solution of these problems.

The immense extent of the habitable globe owing allegiance to Britain is the ground in which we are planting the seeds of liberty and culture, that will in other epochs produce noble evidence that Britons have not betrayed their trust.

As this paper proceeds permit the recalling of your attention to the great importance of our maintaining the mother countries. Shall the literature, the art and science, British thought and British principles forged from the hot conflicts of ten centuries be allowed to fall away amongst the shades of antiquity, and be to us an almost forgotten Past? And for what would we thus sacrifice this priceless heritage? For but a dim and uncertain future.

In all projects of public importance unity must prevail to ensure success and difference, dissension and hostility all break out unless they are quelled by the love of a great cause and silenced by the unanimity of public spirit.

When the United States were a short time ago engaged in that memorable strife the North well knew that to be true to itself it must stand by the union. Had the South won what would be the status of the Republic now?—two hostile provinces adjacent wasting their intellect in hate and their substance in battle. Instead of the magnitude of state-commerce there would now be the trifling trade of two young and separated countries, and instead of the unrivalled self-sustaining power of so great a nation we would find the difference of opinion developed into a difference in policy, hostile in purpose and detrimental in effect.

And now let us survey the ruin of the Spanish Empire. At the height of its glory under Ferdinand and Isabella it is perhaps more than any other people a warning example of the mischief of disunion. Allowing for every change of time and circumstance it may be safely said that had the S[illegible] possessions in the East and in the West clung to their allegiance we should now see not the strife-rent Mexico and Cuba of the present, not the waning civilization of Peru, not the loss of all the islands of what was once the Spanish main, but the rise of a mightier nation, the swifter advance of modern civilization, the wide pervasion of Spanish culture, and refinement and the proudest and and most extensive empire that History has described. Shorn of her locks she withdrew from the contest with the nations and yielded the palm to a more united people. And we may draw valuable instruction from a less exalted quarter. Had the Indians of this Northern Continent not quarrelled amongst themselves they might have held America to-day.

In a publication of recent date the following statement is met with: "It is felt on all sides that the iron duties are another direct blow at the connection between England and Canada, and that Imperial Federation is fading even out of the region of speculative politics." Now, may be observed, here is seen the cloven hoof. Can it be that England's desire for federation bears a direct ratio to the bleeding power of the colonies. If this really be the case as some English papers express it, the sooner this agitation is dropped the better. But such statements spring rather from a sense of disappointment than from any conviction as to their bearing on the federative principle. However the case cited will serve to illustrate the need of keeping carefully separated the commercial and the historical or sentimental branch of the scheme. Whatever the timid friends of the Mother Country in Canada may fear regarding the continuance of our allegiance this much is certain—that the same vigorous policy adopted by the Canadians to protect their own growth is not prompted by any leaning towards the American Republic. Against the exporting power of England and the United States we are compelled to entrench ourselves, but it must not be overlooked that whilst we are against one as against the other commercially—in all else that goes to make up British civilization and government Canadians are heartily at one with England.

Naturally, we do not drift toward republicanism. The force of example has impressed upon us that the systems of government obtaining in France and in the United States are not conducive to the highest results of national life and national culture.

Then, if once the racial unity is proclaimed as a concrete possibility—if once it can be demonstrated that the characteristics of the various members are fusible into an emblem of imperial unity, the only quarter whence trouble may come is from long delay and idle apathy. It is against such contingencies as these that this League provides, by making men brothers in act who are already brothers in heart. The diffusion of geographical and commercial knowledge of the Empire will re-awaken recollections in distant lands of a common origin, and the relations established will not be those of mere acquaintanceship, but those born of a natural deeprooted and common patriotism.

The genius of the Anglo-Saxon people, their love of progress and of their traditions render such a union a matter of necessity to preserve the glories of Anglo-Saxon literature, the achievements of Britain's scientific men and her progress in all the arts of liberty and peace and to develop them, that in the study and admiration of them successive generations may find the knowledge and the love of justice.

LATEST CABLE NEWS!

THE DEPUTIES DISCONTENTED.

PARIS, May 27.—At a meeting of the Chamber of Deputies to-day, much discontent was manifested over the delay in the formation of a Cabinet. The Chamber decided by a vote of 307 to 212 to adjourn until Saturday.

ANOTHER HITCH.

PARIS, May 27.—A hitch has again occurred over the retention of General Boulanger as war minister. M. de Freycinet, finding that he would be unable to form a cabinet of all new men, and thus exclude General Boulanger, now insists that the latter must remain at the head of the war department.

THE CROWN PRINCE OF GERMANY.

LONDON, May 27.—A Berlin correspondent telegraphs that he saw the Crown Prince to-day. The latter appears to be in good health, notwithstanding his throat trouble. His malady is being treated by medicated inhalations. Notwithstanding his being required to remain as quiet as possible, he will come to London to take part in the Jubilee ceremonies.

INCENDIARY FIRE IN RUSSIA.

LONDON, May 27.—A despatch from St. Petersburg gives the particulars of the destructive conflagration which occurred near there on the 14th inst., by which fifty houses were destroyed. The fire was of incendiary origin. Placards were posted throughout the town on Sunday threatening that at 12 o'clock that night the villas would be in flames, and on Monday similar notices appeared. When the fire did break out on Tuesday a raging wind carried the flames from one house to another, and the fire could not be controlled until villas had been destroyed. The loss amounts to several million roubles. The incendiaries have not been arrested.

RUSSIA'S HAND IN IT.

LONDON, May 27.—A Vienna despatch says it is more than probable that Russian influences had something to do with the plot to assassinate the Sultan.

MERRY HAMPTON INJURED.

LONDON, May 27.—During Wednesday night Merry Hampton, who won the Derby, twisted one of his plates, and treading on one of the nails pricked his foot so severely that he will have to be let up for a few days. It is hoped, however, that the accident will not prevent him from starting for the Grand Prix de Parfs on Sunday, the 5th proximo.

THE INCREASED IRON DUTIES.

LONDON, May 27.—Yesterday's Canadian Gazette says that the increase in iron duties has aroused much disappointment in British commercial circles, though the injury to British trade may not prove so permanent, or far reaching, as it seems at first sight. Probably the moment of its infliction is none the less most inopportune for Canada's welfare in this country. By the exercise of her right at this moment, when the Pacific Mail subsidy and other Imperial questions of moment to Canada are under consideration, something has been done to cool the ready sympathy of British commercial and other circles.

The Citadel at Halifax.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 27.—The new orders, recently issued by the military authorities have rendered admission to the Citadel by ordinary citizens more difficult than ever No person, whether a British subject or not can obtain entrance unless by producing a pass from the Brigade officer, stating that there are reasons for his or her admission, and no one whatever is allowed inside if their visit is out of mere curiosity. No foreigner, of whatever nationality, can be admitted unless he has a special permit, issued by the War Office in London. Even officers of the army stationed in Halifax are not permitted to pass the gates if they happen to be dressed in plain clothes without the necessary pass. A communication received from the Home authorities this week contained orders that these new rules were to be enforced with the greatest strictness. The reason for the measures taken so rigorously to exclude the puplic is said to be because newspaper correspondents have been granted so much freedom inside the citadel in the past, that they have been enabled to give minute descriptions of the works, guns, &c., and this the authorities do not appreciate. In consequence the visiting American newspaper men were refused admission to-day.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little suffere at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

DIRECTING OUR TRADE.

In his advocacy of the cessation of disallowance of railways to tap the C. P. R., Mr. Watson told the House that the people of Manitoba were not endeavoring to obtain connection with the railway system of the United States, but with the Grand Trunk. If this were so there would be much sympathy with the desire for competition. But it is a barefaced falsehood. We have the chief agitators, their organs in the press, and even some of the municipal telegrams they are parading, all declaring that their desire is for connection with the railway system of the United States. We have Mr. Hickson openly stating that the Grand Trunk is not moving in the matter of railways in Manitoba, their nearest rails being 300 miles distant.

In its present phase the movement is clearly one of speculators who are interested in United States railways, of disappointed politicians, who would do anything to work havoc in the country, and of those who are led away by the fictitious agitation thus established.

Have any of those who talk of excessive rates on the C. P. R. taken the obvious course of appealing to the Cabinet on the tariff as a whole and comparing it with other roads? There is power to control the rates and it would be exercised if a good case were shown. But picking out a few figures to support a false argument does not prove that any wrong is suffered.

THE VICEROY.

The magnificent popular reception given to the Governor-General on his return to the Dominion capital is very gratifying. It speaks well for the loyalty of our people, as the honor was undoubtedly paid in a great measure to Lord Lansdowne as the representative of our Queen. It also proves that as Governor-General he has won respect and good will by the admirable manner in which he has fulfilled the duties of his high office.

During his stay in our Provincial capital he has also had the same cordial reception and for the same reasons.

The people of Canada decline to consider the question of Lord Lansdowne as an Irish landlord. Even those who are strongly in sympathy with the tenants feel that this is not the proper place to put him on trial, and that the Canadian public is not the proper court to try him. He is answerable like all other British subjects for his conduct if it is impeached, but not here.

In Canada he is our Governor-General and the representative of our Sovereign. As such he is highly appreciated.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Blake Against the Queen—Rebellion Losses—Disallowance—Diversion of Traffic to the United States Refused.

THURSDAY, May 26.—The Speaker took the chair at three o'clock.

MR. BLAKE'S LOYALTY.

Mr. SMYLL (Conservative whip) moved that the Speaker leave the chair from 4.30 to 8 o'clock that members might join in the reception of the Governor-General.

Mr. TROW (Opposition whip) seconded the motion.

Mr. BLAKE said the motion could not be put without unanimous consent.

The SPEAKER said it could not be put if any member took ojection.

Mr. BLAKE said that he objected.

The SPEAKER consequently could not put the motion.

REBELLION LOSSES.

Mr. WHITE, in reply to Mr. Fiset, said that Northwest rebellion losses as ascertained by the commission would be provided for in the supplementary estimates.

A MEMBER'S DEATH

Sir J. MACDONALD expressed the regrets of himself and of the House at the sudden death of Mr. Campbell, M. P. for Digby.

DISALLOWANCE.

Mr. WATSON moved the House into committee on his resolution to abandon disallowance of Manitoba railways. He described the excitement in Winnipeg on this subject and claimed that they were unanimous. He declared that population was not increasing as fast as it should, which he attributed to the C. P. R. without mentioning the Grit rebellion. By carefully selected figures he tried to show that the C. P. R. charged slightly higher freight rates through sparsely settled districts than it and other railways did through thickly peopled territory. He claimed that Sir C. Tupper and Mr. White had promised a cessation of disallowance. He made assertions as to the expressed views of Mr. Scarth and Mr. Daly that forced them both to call him to order. He proceeded to quote speeches of the Manitoba Legislature.

At 5 o'clock the great majority of the House wished to attend the reception of the Governor-General, so they called persistently to make it six o'clock, which was done at the suggestion of Sir Charles Tupper, no fresh objection being taken.

Mr. WATSON after recess resumed his Manitoba quotations, and gave some additional freight rates. He declared that the American roads and the Grand Trunk objected to advertise the Northwest as long as they were shut out from it. The people were in earnest, and if they could not charter a road they would build one themselves at any cost.

Sir C. TUPPER said they would all be glad to satisfy the wishes of the people of Manitoba. As to his expressed hopes that disallowance might be discontinued, they were sincere, but he could not foresee the rebellion checking immigration that had arisen. The policy of preventing our great national line from being tapped had been started by Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Mills himself had provided when Minister of the Interior for carrying it out. The Government deserved the confidence of the people of Winnipeg for their railway policy, and they had to thank him for having, contrary to the advices of the engineer deflected the line to run through Winnipeg instead of 20-miles north of it, as the Reform Government had planned. Mr. Watson had talked of the Grand Trunk desiring an entrance to Manitoba, but this movement was not on behalf of the G. T. R. but of the Northern Pacific. It was not however merely a question of rivalry between these great transcontinental lines. Had the people of Canada no interest at stake? They were now spending more money to shorten the route to the Atlantic port. Yet we were asked to divert our traffic to the United States. As to the comparison of rates he showed in detail their falacy. If the Dakota rates were more favorable, how was it that they paid the duty on their wheat and draw it many miles to ship it by the C.P.R.?

Sir R. CARTWRIGHT said that the Reform Government had not disallowed railways, but in reply to Sir C. Tupper that he was relying on the quibble that they refused to bring the charters into force. He repeated his old unpatriotic description of the supposed wretchedness of Canadians and bankruptcy of Canada. He concluded by an appeal to the people to leave Manitoba for the United States.

Mr. DALY completely exposed the falseness of Sir Richard's comparisons to the disadvantage of our North-West, but said he would vote for the resolutions as competition would be advantageous to his constituents.

Mr. DAWSON advocated keeping faith with the C. P. R.

Mr. BLAKE, counsel in Canada for the Grand Trunk, spoke on behalf of his clients and the United States Northern Pacific. He strongly advocated competition and blamed the C. P. R. for competing with the Northern Pacific at San Francisco. His old story was repeated of the miserable condition of the Northwest, and the disappointment of the hopes expressed by the Ministry. He insisted upon the Government allowing the C. P. R. to be tapped.

Sir J. MACDONALD rebuked Mr. Blake for his continued adhesion to his policy of thwarting the growth of our own country. The main question was whether it was for the interest of Canada to allow railways to be built to carry off the trade of the North-West, of China and Japan, through the United States instead of the older provinces, or whether it should be retained to enrich Canada.

Mr. DAVIES clamoured for the fulfilment of the hopes of the cessation of disallowance held out before his friends' rebellion.

Sir DONALD SMITH said he and Sir Geo. Stephen had not begged for the privilege of building the road, but they and others had been approached by the Government to undertake it. So far from enriching themselves, two of the shareholders would be better off by $100,000 a year but for their connection with the undertaking.

The debate was continued by Messrs. Landry, Royal, Armstrong and Watson, till half-past three.

The resolutions were then rejected by 113 to 65, a majority of 49, the bolters including Mr. Mitchell voting with the Government, and Messrs. Scarth and Daly and Chisholm with the Opposition.

THE RED SEA.

EXPLANATORY NOTES BY S. I. CURTISS, PH. D., D. D.

Lesson IX of the International Series (Second Quarter), for Sunday, May 29. Text of the Lesson, Ex. xiv, 19-31. Golden Text, Isa. xliii, 2.

Death of the First Born—The destroyer passed through the land. In every home of the Egyptians the eldest son was suddenly stricken at midnight, from the firstborn of Pharaoh to the captive in the dungeon. The land resounded with piercing shrieks from one end to the other. All was panic and confusion. Both king and people, overcome with grief and fear, pressed the Israelites to leave in haste, and gladly gave them, in response to their just demands, "jewels of silver, and jewels of gold, and raiment."

The Israelites, who had had time to prepare during the preceding four days, formed in a great procession, which kept growing as they went on, until there were 60,000 men, besides women and children and a mixed multitude.

Moses' Difficult Task—Never was intrusted to any man a more difficult task than that which was committed to Moses in the leadership of this multitude of slaves. Nothing less than the displays of God's miraculous power, which are recorded in the history which precedes and follows, could have enabled him to control such a people.

Whither were they going? To the land of Canaan. They knew not that the bones of that generation were to bleach in the wilderness. We cannot determine precisely what course they took. It may be that they began their march on the well known road to the land of the Philistines. God, however, did not design that they should enter Canaan this way. They were likely to be intercepted by the soldiers of the line of fortifications then extending, as Ebers believes, from Pelusium, on the Mediterranean, to Migdol, near the head of the Red sea. Even if they succeeded in passing them they would be exposed to the attack of the Philistines in front and of the Egyptians in the rear. Moses was therefore directed to lead them by the way of the wilderness south to the Red sea. It was necessary that Israel should be trained in the wilderness in a moral, military, civil and religious school before they could be fitted for life in Canaan. Indeed, they had to learn almost everything that is needful for a nation.

The Pursuit—According to Egyptian usage every other activity should have been laid aside for at least seventy days (Gen. i, 3) that the people might devote themselves to mourning. But a most extraordinary event had occurred—over 2,000,000 of slaves who had contributed greatly to the prosperity of the country were leaving it with untold wealth. Pharaoh, therefore, who is believed by most Egyptian scholars to have been Mernephtah, although he had lost the crown prince, was impelled by every consideration of interest to disregard this long period of mourning and to pursue the Israelites. He therefore set out with 600 chosen chariots, besides others, perhaps, of an inferior sort, in pursuit of the Israelites, who he believed were shut up in the wilderness (Ex. xiv, 3).

We may well imagine how terrified the Hebrews were when they saw the well trained army of Egypt coming against them. Probably they had had no military experience. With bitter sarcasm they ask Moses if it was because there were no graves in Egypt (the land of tombs) that he had led them away to die in the wilderness. They thought, therefore, that it would have been far better for them to die as slaves in Egypt than to perish in the wilderness; but God had other plans for them.

THE LESSON.

The Pillar of Cloud (vs. 19, 20)—The angel of Jehovah had been leading Israel in a pillar of cloud by day and of fire by night. He now goes behind them and interposes the pillar between the Israelites and the Egyptians, which is light for God's chosen people, but darkness for the Egyptians.

The Miracle (v. 21)—The Israelites now come at evening to the head of the Red sea. Death, to the human eye, seems to lie before them and death is behind them. But Moses, in accordance with the divine command, stretches out his hand over the sea. A strong east wind, lasting all night, lashes the waters away from the sands and leaves a dry path. The miracle here does not seem to consist so much in the means used as perhaps in the exact adaptation of natural means to open a way for the Israelites at the right time.

Vs. 22, 23. The people recognized God's hand, and, whatever fears they may have had, took this as the only means of escape. It is not necessary for us to suppose that the waters rose up in a heap on the right hand and the left, but that there was perhaps a pathway between the northern part of the Red sea and the adjoining Bitter lakes lying just above, which served as a rampart. (Compare Nahum iii, 8.)

The Egyptians in their eagerness did not seem to foresee the possible danger of pursuing the Israelites. They followed close on the rear of the fleeing hosts. The narrative does not definitely say that Pharaoh joined in the pursuit, although it might seem to imply it. We know two things about Mernephtah; that he took good care not to expose himself to too great danger, and that he died in his bed.

It must have been an awful night for the Israelites. Women were screaming and children crying as they fled quickly before the advancing host.

Deliverance (vs. 24, 25)—But in the morning, when perhaps the hearts of the Israelites were beginning to faint, deliverance came. God appeared to terrify the Egyptians. He is [illegible] through [illegible]. Whether this means, as some think, that the dazzling light of the pillar of fire smote on their faces, we do not know. He took off their chariot wheels, or perhaps better, as some versions read, bound them (Revised Version, margin), so that they would not turn. It was then that the Egyptians felt the hand of God and gave way to fear, proposing to flee because God was fighting for Israel.

Destruction of the Egyptians (vs. 27, 28)—At the Lord's command Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and it returned to its wonted flow (Revised Version, margin). In vain the Egyptians sought to flee. On came the roaring tide and covered them in the waters, so that there did not remain one.

Vs. 29, 30. The author once more tells how Israel passed through the sea, and how, when the morning dawned, they saw the bodies of the Egyptians which had been washed upon the shore.

V. 31. Israel recognized God's hand in this great deliverance; they feared him and believed in the Lord and in his servant Moses. This was an important result; but we shall see from the subsequent history how easily they forgot God, and even the great service which their heroic leader had rendered. Nothing less than such a great deliverance could make an adequate impression on the minds of an undisciplined and ignorant people.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we life in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d90

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

If the Sufferers from Consumption Scrofula and General Debility, will try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with hypophosphites, they will find immediate relief and a permanent benefit. Dr. H. V. Mott, Brentwood Cal., writes: "I have used Scott's Emulsion with great advantage in cases of Phthisis, Scrofula and Wasting Diseases. It is very palatable." Put up in 50c and $1 size.

A. C. A. Camp.

Arrangements have been made with the Grand Trunk Railway for reduced fare tickets for members of the A.C.A. to attend the camp of the Northern Division at Stoney Lake, from Aug. 1st to 13th. Other preparations for the event are being pushed forward, and a successful meeting is anticipated.

Typographical Union.

A largely attended meeting of the printers of Peterborough was held in the Knights of Labor hall on Friday evening, when it was decided to organize a local branch of the International Typographical Union. A charter has been sent for, and soon the typoes here will be members of the brotherhood.

A Town Case.

At the session of the Division Court held on Friday afternoon a town case was tried. The suit was Moore vs. Cummings. Messrs. D. W. Dumble and E. Pearse were assessed in 1886 for three lots south of Dalhousie street and west of George for one lump sum. The taxes came to $29, which the owners refused to pay, asserting that the town occupied part of the property and had agreed to pay the taxes. The town records showed nothing to that effect. Mr. John Moore also occupied part of the property as a wood yard and against him Collector Cummings proceeded. His goods were seized. Mr. Moore entered an action against the town. The prosecution argued that the town agreed through Ex-Councillor Rutherford to pay the taxes, but he being examined denied having made such an agreement. The Court held that there had been no agreement made between Messrs. Pearse and Dumble and the town, but held that the lots should have been assessed separately and that Moore's goods were not distrainable for the whole property. He gave judgment against the town. Mr. Dumble for the plaintiff and Mr. Moore for the town. Mr. Moore intends to appeal.

The "Black Crook" Coming.

Our citizens are to have a chance to witness the most noted entertainment that has ever been given in America, as that wonderful combination of entrancing music, bewildering mechanism, dazzling armors, glittering costumes, and gorgeous scenery, the original and genuine Black Crook will be presented at Bradburn's Opera House next Monday, June 6th. This is without doubt the most magnificient combination that ever visited our city. They carry two entire special cars full of scenery and paraphernalia and have an unusually large company, in fact several companies, under one organization. The celebrated Martinetti family, well known in connection with the Ravel pantomimes, and also a troupe of jugglers and acrobats, a full ballet of handsome lady dancers, the noted Del Vecho Musical marvels, a parlor circus, and a strong dramatic company now on the road. None of the regular scenery of the house will be used, as the Crook carries special scenery for everything. The illuminated castle where a company of young ladies clad as knights of olden time parade in a grand march, is especially resplendent. The last scene is a grand transformation with seven different changes with colored lights, ending with the fairy queen's bower. This performance is especially recommended to the ladies, as combining everything to please both the eye and ear and nothing to suggest the least impropriety. Sale of seats commences Monday, May 30th, at Hartley's Music Store.

Hunt's Brick trowels and the Cincinnati Plastering Trowels are noted for their excellent quality. Plastering and Kalsomine Brushes up to 10"; for sale by GEORGE STETHEM.

New Lacrosse Club.

A meeting was held on Friday evening in the Y. M. C. A. Hall to organize a lacrosse club in connection with the Association Mr. R. H. Henderson was elected Captain and Mr. Geo. E. Williams, Secretary-Treasurer. Further elections were left to an adjourned meeting to be held next Friday evening. The first practice of the Club will take place on Monday evening.

Golden grain of truth. Turnbull is selling ladies Taffeta and pure silk gloves that are cut to fit the hand. Every pair numbered. You will not regret having walked an extra block after you have tried a pair.

District Meeting.

A district meeting in connection with the Methodist Church was held at Millbrook on Wednesday and Thursday. The Rev. I. Tovell, Chairman, presided. The afternoon of Wednesday was occupied with the examination of ministerial character. There were no cases under question. At the evening services addresses were given by the Rev. W. J. West on "Revivals," the Rev Jas. McFarlane on "Sabbath Schools," and the Rev. F. H. Wallace on "How to Study the Bible." The attendance was large and the interest keen. On Thursday laymen were associated with the ministers. Sixteen laymen were appointed to attend the annual conference, those from Peterborough being Messrs. Geo. Hilliard, W. J. Mason, Geo. A. Cox and W. A. Morrow. Rev. F. H. Wallace was elected to the Stationing Committee, Rev. R. T. Courtice and Mr. R. Clark to the Sabbeth School Committee and Mr. Kerr to the Missionary Committee. A vigorous discussion took place in regard to the Cavan South Mission. It being felt that such ground should not receive grants from the missionary fund it was resolved to disband the mission and that the three appointments composing that mission be placed to circuits. The connectional fund was shown to have been well sustained throughout the district, and the financial condition of the churches were found to be good. Several of the churches did remarkably well in sustaining not only the connectional fund but local interests as well. The Ashburnham church has secured a new parsonage. The George Street Church raised for all purposes, during the year, over $6,000. The condition of Charlotte Street Church was shown by the report to be a healthy and flourishing one.

No one need despair of finding millinery to suit them while Turnbull is in the trade. He keeps a well selected stock of choice goods, and as new lines appear in the market has new shapes and trimmings arriving almost daily.

PROBABILITIES.

Moderate winds, mostly fine and a little warmer.

The Body.

The body of the late Wm. Gilbert will not arrive here till Sunday evening. The funeral will take place on Monday afternoon.

Shipment of Horses.

Mr. T. Cavanah shipped eighteen fine horses to Montreal to-day. He paid as high as $300 for one of them.

Personal.

Mr. G. A. Bennet, formerly clerk in Messrs. Ormond & Walsh's drug store, has returned from California, where he has been for the benefit of his health.

A Good Layer.

Mr. Charles Long, Otonabee, has a goose which has laid thirty-seven eggs this spring. Who has got a goose that can beat this goose as a layer.

The Twelfth.

The Lindsay Warder says: "On July 12th, Lindsay Orangemen purpose going to Peterborough, the invitation from there having been first received. Still many woule like to visit Fenelon Falls brethren."

John Bull and His Sons.

It is said that the original John Bull is making preparations for his annual trip and will join his sons at an excursion and picnic on July 1st. This being the jubilee year unusual attractions may be expected.

To Build Again.

It is satisfactory to note that both of the factories recently burned are to be replaced. Messrs White & Co intend to build again but have not settled upon the site. The Wilson Woollen Mill will be rebuilt. It is not yet decided what kind of building will be erected.

An Attraction.

The members of the Woman's Missionary Society of the George Street Methodist Church have arranged for a pleasant and profitable evening on Tuesday next. Short addresses will be given by the Revs. Clarkson, Thompson and other prominent members of the Methodist Conference. During the evening a choice musical programme consisting of solos, quartettes and choruses will be given by the best local talent. Entertainment will commence at 8 o'clock. Silver collection at the door.

Church Services.

The following is a list of services to be held in the several churches to-morrow:—

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.—At St. Peter's Cathedral, Roman Catholic, there will be three masses celebrated, the first at 7 a. m. the second at 8 a. m., and the third at 10.30 a. m. Vespers at 7 p. m.

METHODIST CHURCH, Mark street (Ashburnham)—The Rev. J. C. Wilson will conduct the services. In the morning there will be a memorial service, and in the evening the subject of the sermon will be "Christ's Miracle in Curing the Deaf Mute."

SEWERAGE.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I was very glad to see your able editorial on the question of sewerage a day or two ago. This is one of the most pressing wants of the town, particularly in the more crowded parts, and if not soon attended to we will have far more than the cost of it to pay in doctor's bills, for nothing is surer than that an epidemic will break out sooner or later as things are. The medical health officer has frequently pointed out the importance of this. People have no place to throw their slops without annoying the neighbours and the result is a great deal of wrangling. Besides the rows of water-closets at the rear of the buildings on George street are a public disgrace. Let this matter be thoroughly agitated. The town is well able to make a beginning, and, as you say, further additions can be made from time to time.

Yours truly.

A GREAT FIRE IN NEW YORK.

The Belt Line Stables and 1275 Horses Destroyed—Loss $1,325,000.

NEW YORK, May 27.—At 1.30 this morning fire broke out in the stables of the Belt Line Car Company which covered half the block from on Tenth-avenue, between Fifty-Third and Fifty-fourth streets. The inflammable nature of the contents of the structure, straw and hay, contributed to the flames, and in a short time the building was a ruin. So rapid was the progress of the fire that the few stablemen about at the time could rescue only twenty-five of the 1300 horses in the stables.

The fire spread to adjoining property, principally tenements, and worked great destruction. The poor people living in the houses had not time to remove their effects and many of them lost all they possessed. The fire was finally got under control at 4 o'clock. The loss is put at $1,325,000.

The Algoma Elections.

The writs have been issued for the elections for members of the Ontario Assembly in the two Algomas, and they direct that nomination day shall be on June 23 and polling on July 7, two weeks apart. By statutory enactment the elections for the Assembly in these divisions must be held during the summer months, no matter when the general elections may come off.

A Gigantic Meteor.

ELMIRA, N. Y., May 27.—Robert Wells saw a meteor fall on the Harvey farm, about six miles east of this city, at about 11 o'clock on Wednesday night. Yesterday it was discovered that the meteor had sunk into the earth at a great depth, making a pit forty feet across by twenty feet deep in the heretofore even surface of a ten acre lot. The meteor was accompained by a loud roaring noise, which was heard by many persons, although Mr. Wells seems to be the only one who saw it. He says it was of a bright gray color.

DIED.

GILBERT—At St. Paul, Minn., on Wednesday, 25th inst., WM. GILBERT, aged 33 years.

Funeral on Monday, at 3 p. m., from the residence of his brother-in-law, Sheriff Hall.

WATCH.—On May 27th, at the Parsonage, Omemee, LESLIE JOHN NORMAN, youngest son of Rev C. W. Watch, aged 2 years and 5 months.

TRADE IN

Our MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT, and did we judge alone by the crowds that daily claim attention of our salesmmen advertising this class of goods would be unnecessary—almost a waste of money But then, you know, there's two sides to every subject, Here's the other side to this one, and at the same time our reason for advertising when there's no apparent necessity for doing so.

In making up our stock in this department we provided for great numbers—for many more than have as yet taken advantage of its completeness, to furnish themselves with millinery suitable for the season.

It will therefore require "crowds long continued" to clear out tables of the enormus stock of Millinery with which they are loaded —over-loaded.

A continuous demand then being necessary, we knew of no better way to insure it than to keep you informed as to just what we have and how we are prepared to sell it. We shall, therefore, from now till the close of the season, devote some portion of our card to Millinery News.

We have already said that our stock was large. We have also intimated that our assortment was complete. We have just received a six dozen lot of Ladies' and Children's Hats which are the newest in shape and bought at half their value.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Lech's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

Cricket.

On Saturday the Peterborough juniors went to Lindsay to play a cricket match with the boys of the high school there. A good wicket was prepared in the school grounds. Lindsay won the toss and sent Peterborough to the bat. The Peterboroughs were disposed of for 36, Hamilton being the only one to make double figures [illegible] Martin played good cricket for 21 and 13 respectively. The Peterboroughs were beaten by four wickets, which is not so bad when it is considered that three masters played for the Lindsay school. The bowling of Mr. Milner for Lindsay, and Mr. Bell for Peterborough was very good. The fielding on both sides was excellent. Heap and Dumble both made very good catches. Kincaid's wicket keeping was perfect. The boys speak highly of their treatment by the Lindsay school.

SPAULDING'S BAY.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—Where is the sharpness of the Councillors for No. 1—especially Councillor Cahill—that they have not availed themselves of Mr. Carnegie's application to have the Brick Work's gravel bank transferred to the bay. A few years ago Mr. Cahill was willing to [illegible] Mr. Cox $5,000, and the lots therein if he would fill it up, and rumour hath it that he and Councillor Davidson are anxious that the Commissioners should buy certain lots in the neighborhood of the bay for the same purpose. Why not use the present application to secure the same end?

Yours,

A GHASTLY TRAGEDY.

Elizear Morin Suicides to Hide His Guilt of Murder.

QUEBEC, May 28.—A compound tragedy in the shape of a murder and suicide has caused a profound sensation in the parish of St. Nicholas, fifteen miles from this city. Francis Lagace, thirty-eight years of age, a rich farmer, recently died and was buried no suspicion of foul play having been aroused. Later, however, a chain of circumstances led to the disinterment of the body in consequence of suspicions of poisoning against the widow of Lagace. Her supposed accomplice, one Elizear Morin, on learning that justice was likely to overtake him, drowned himself in a well on his own property the other night. His body was found at six o'clock by his wife on going to draw water. Mrs. Lagace, the wife of the poisoned man, has been placed under arrest pending the two inquests. The poison was procured from the surgery of Dr. Gingras, who boards with the Lagace family, during the doctor's absence.

Mrs. Lagace is described as a rather plain but dressy woman, about 35 years of age. Her supposed accomplice, Morin, was a middle aged man, formally steward on the Montreal steam-boat, and was a dandy in his way and of extravagant habits. He recently married the daughter of a respectable farmer, who brought him considerable property, including two valuable farms and money, which it seems he was rapidly squandering.

The inquest on Morin's body resulted in a verdict of suicide, and the parish priest has refused it burial in consecrated ground. The inquest of Lagace's body has been adjourned a fortnight to await chemical analysis of the contents of the stomach. Evidence so far adduced, however, shows that marked intimacy subsisted between Morin and Mrs. Lagace.

A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

Drifting About for Days in an Open Boat Without Food or Water.

NORTH SYDNEY, C. B., May 28.—The barque Kate McGuire, Captain Temple, arrived here from Buenos Ayres, having on board two fishermen, who were picked up in a dory off Canso. The men were in a terribly exhausted condition, having been six days without food or water. Their names are Edward Hogan and John Brown. They were fishing on the Banquers. They belong to Quebec and Boston respectively. They left their vessel, the Bluenose, [illegible] on the morning of Thursday, 19th, for the purpose of visiting their trawls, a dense cloud prevailing at the time. After rowing about for some time, they discovered that their compass was out of order. They immediately pulled in the direction of the vessel, but were unable to find her. The next day was also passed in a fruitless search for their schooner. They then gave up any idea of finding her, and relied on the hope of being picked up by some passing vessel. They saw several vessels pass, but could never get within hailing distance. Their sufferings during this time were fearful. They had not a drop of water. On May 24th they had given up all hopes of being saved, and one of them requested the other to cut off his arm and alleviate their thirst by drinking the blood. This offer was not accepted, and the next morning they sighted a large barque and feebly rowed towards her. Fortunately Captain Temple, of the barque, noticed and bore down upon them. They were soon alongside and were lifted on board, being in a most helpless condition. The men say that that had they not succeeded in attracting the attention of the barque they had fully intended to have given up and laid themselves down to die. They were 44 miles from Canso when picked up, but thought they were only about six, their compass being altogether useless. Their hands and limbs are very much swollen from the effects of exposure.

IN MONTREAL.

Messrs. O'Brien and Kilbride Given a Grand Reception.

MONTREAL, May 27.—The torchlight procession and demonstration to O'Brien and Kilbride to-night was a great success. About 8 o'clock a large crowd began to congregate near the Champ de Mars and 20 minutes later they moved off in the following order: St. Gabriel's T.A. and B. Society; St. Gabriel's Irish National League, St. Gabriel's Pastime Club, St. Anthony's C.Y.M. Society, St. Mary's C. Y. M. Society, St. Bridget's T. and A. B. Society, St. Ann's C. Y. M. Society, Shamrock Lacrosse Club, citizens not belonging to any society, St. Patrick's Society and the Irish National League, deputations from Ottawa, Quebec, Kingston, etc.

When the procession arrived at St. Lawrence Hall O'Brien, Kilbride and the presidents of the societies and invited guests, with the Hackmen's Union (mounted) as an escort, entered carriages in waiting amid the cheers of the crowd and the singing of "God Save Ireland."

The streets along the route of the procession were literally jammed with spectators, all eager to get a glimpse of the visitors. There were several transparencies in the procession, among them "Home Rule," "Welcome O'Brien and Kilbride," and "Success to the Campaign." In the first carriage were O'Brien and Kilbride, President Cloran, of the National Land League, and President Barry, of St. Patrick's Society. As the procession moved along Notre Dame McCord, Ottawa, Colborne, William and Inspector streets, cheers were given now and again for O'Brien and Parnell. The streets were illuminated and bon-fires were lighted in several places in honor of the visitors.

The procession arrived on Chaboillez square shortly before ten o'clock, where fully 10,000 people were gathered to listen to the speeches. As O'Brien and Kilbride appeared on the balcony of Laren's Hotel the cheers continued for some time. They then delivered addresses.

British Columbia Defences.

OTTAWA, May 27.—Sir Adolphe Caron and General Middleton are going to British Columbia next August to inspect the state of the military defences there. General Middleton will begin the inspection of the Canadian militia about the 14th proximo.

LATEST CABLE NEWS!

MORE CRITICAL THAN EVER.

LONDON, May 28.—The British press, discussing the speech of the Emperor of Austria to the Hungarian Diet, are disposed to regard his remarks as indicating that the situation in the Balkans is more critical than ever. The opinion is generally expressed that the Bulgarian Sobranje must speedily elect a Prince of Bulgaria who shall be acceptable to the Powers, and whom the people of that country will sustain. The regency has done nothing for Bulgaria, nor has it, by any of its acts, inspired confidence in itself at home or abroad, and it is argued that a legitimate and strongly constituted Government must be set up without delay in order to remove Russia's pretext, daily becoming more plausible, for occupying the country to prevent anarchy.

THE OPERA COMIQUE FIRE.

PARIS, May 28.—At the roll call yesterday of the Opera Comique Company, there was a distressing scene. The names of the dead were greeted with sobs and lamentations. M. Tasquin, who is to receive the cross of the Legion of Honor for his heroic efforts to prevent a panic on the night of the disaster, was welcomed by his fellow artists with the greatest display of gratitude and affection. It was announced that the Government would make a further appropriation for the relief of the sufferers. Miles. Van Zandt and Nevada to-day cabled offers of their services in benefits, and similar offers are coming in from all sides. The Vienna municipal authorities have voted 20,000 francs in aid of the victims. Enquiries at the leading hotels show that very few English persons and no Americans are missing. The wife and daughters of General Meredith Read had a very narrow escape. Their dresses were almost completely torn off in the crush. It is estimated that it will take nearly a fortnight to clear away the ruins.

TO RUN ON HALF TIME.

LONDON, May 28.—At Manchester, yesterday, 250 master cotton spinners held a meeting and passed resolutions pledging themselves to run their mills on half time for a period of eight weeks, beginning Monday 30th, providing that two-thirds of the mill owners of England would agree to abide by the terms of the resolutions. This action was taken in order to defeat the Liverpool Cotton Corner by reducing the consumption of stock of which the Liverpool dealers and speculators are carrying a heavy load. Should the reduction of time go into effect in Manchester on Monday, and it probably will, heavy failures among the Liverpool middle men may be looked for.

[illegible] LORRAINE.

BERLIN, May 28.—Official statistics show that 49,254 persons left Alsace-Lorraine between 1880 and 1885. During the same period there was a German influx of 36,958.

A TWO MILLION LOAN.

LONDON, May 28.—Tenders for a treasury bill to the amount of £300 000 will be received by the Bank of England on June 4th.

DISORDERLY SCENE.

LONDON, May 28.—There was an auction sale in Wales on Tuesday. A crowd of 1500 farm laborers surrounded a couple of hundred soldiers and police sent to protect an auctioneer, who was selling cattle distrained for tithes, forced them back, caught the auctioneer, turned his coat inside out, led him in procession through the town, and after roughly handling him, made him sign a promise never to act as an auctioneer in the neighborhood again.

SALISBURY TO RESIGN.

LONDON, May 28.—From hints which have leaked out during the last two days, it is gathered that Lord Salisbury is contemplating retirement after the celebration of the Queen's Jubilee. The Premier is credited with having told a friend a few days ago that he was wearied of public life and exasperated over the persistent and in many respects successful policy of obstruction pursued by the opponents of the Government in Parliament, and he should seek relief in a general parliamentary election. From the same source it is learned that this feeling is shared by several of Lord Salisbury's ministerial colleagues, and that while bending every effort towards applying coercion to Ireland, the Government is itself subjected to coercion most insufferable at the hands of its unionist allies.

SEVENTY-FIVE BODIES RECOVERED

PARIS, May 29.—It was officially announced yesterday afternoon that 75 bodies had so far been recovered from the ruins of the Opera Comique. It is expected that 100 will be found.

TERRIBLE CYCLONE.

CALCUTTA, May 29.—The cyclone which visited the neighborhood of Calcutta, on Saturday, was very destructive. A local steamer with 750 persons on board was caught by the cyclone and is missing, and it is feared she is lost with all hands. The district of Oalssa was completely devastated by the storm.

TERRIBLE COLLIERY DISASTER.

Explosion Near Glasgow—Two Hundred and Twenty Miners Entombed.

GLASGOW, May 28.—An explosion occurred to-day in the Udston pit, Blantyre, eight miles from here. Two hundred and twenty miners are entombed.

GLASGOW, May 28.—Latest intelligence from Udston pit shows that 45 miners, who were imprisoned in the upper seam, were rescued. One of them died after being brought to the surface, and others were suffering from the shock and fire damp. Seventy men in the lower seam, where the explosion occurred, are doubtless dead. Seventy men are still imprisoned in the middle seam, and it is hoped they can be saved. They can be heard calling for help. The rescuers are making frantic exertions to reach them. Udston pit is situated in one of the most fiery districts in Scotland. Miners from all the collieries in the neighborhood have hurried to the scene. The pit is surrounded by weeping women and children. Five bodies thus far have been discovered.

GLASGOW, May 29.—Communication was opened yesterday afternoon with the middle seam and a number of miners entombed there were rescued alive, although much prostrated from fire damp. Five of the men found in the seam were dead when the rescuers opened it.

The lowest seam has been reached too late to rescue any of the miners who were at work there. Not one of the unfortunate man was found alive. The total number of lives lost by the explosion is believed to be 75.

OUR RAILWAYS.

THE question of the wisdom of diverting the traffic of the C. P. R. from Canada to the United States, as is now frankly allowed to be the object of the agitation at Winnipeg, St. Paul and Ottawa, has been settled for the present. By a majority of 49 the Commons of Canada declined to favor foreigners at the expense and loss of their own country.

The chief argument used by the mouthpieces of the Northern Pacific in the House was that Manitoba as a Province has an indefeasible right to build railways where it likes, and that though our Constitution allows the Dominion a veto power, this need not be taken into consideration, as these critics do not like that part of our Constitution.

But even waiving the expressly reserved right of veto for the good of the whole country, the claim made for Manitoba (and the Northern Pacific) is opposed to the spirit if not the very letter of our Constitution. Among the works and undertakings, as to which jurisdiction is expressly withheld from the Provinces and reserved for the Dominion, are the following:—

"Lines of steam or other ships, railways, canals, telegraphs and other works and undertakings connecting the Province with any other or others of the Provinces or extending beyond the limits of the Province."

What meaning can possibly be given to these words if they are not to include the case of a road built to the limit of the Province there to connect with another road continuing it? It clearly cannot mean a charter for a road outside the Dominion, for such jurisdiction could not be reserved for Canada, and under such an interpretation the words would be absolute nonsense. The other meaning is perfectly plain and consistent, that questions as to interprovincial or international means of communications shall be under the control of the country as a whole.

Even if a charter for such a purpose were not disallowed we believe that it could be successfully attacked in the courts as unconstitutional and invalid, not being within the jurisdiction of the Provincial Legislature. If as some of the less candid agitators pretend, their sole object is to obtain access to the Grand Trunk as a competitive line, we believe that they could soon obtain their wish without [illegible] Grand Trunk (like the C. P. R.) is rapidly pushing on to Sault Ste. Marie. If the Grand Trunk thence made a connection with Manitoba, obviously to bring traffic to its own line and not to divert it to the railway system of the United States, the representatives of the people of Canada would probably feel less inclination to interfere, for that would be a very different matter from diverting the traffic of our country into foreign channels after all the expence we have incurred.

CHINESE IMMIGRATION.

AN outcry against Chinese immigration into British Columbia is, we notice, being raised again by some who had not a word of objection to utter when the late Reform Government was making arrangements to import Chinamen.

For some time before the present system was adopted we pointed out the nuisance of the influx of Mongolians and suggested the proper remedy, that of exacting head money on their arrival, a plan which had been found effectual in Australia, while being free from the objection of inconsistency with our claim that British subjects should be admitted into China. This expedient was adopted and with good effect in checking the evil.

There is, however, a weak point in the present system and we would again venture to suggest a remedy. At present, Chinamen who have once paid the entrance fee are relieved from a second payment if they return after leaving Canada for a time. It is notorious that the documents given to departing Chinamen in order to carry out this rule are transferred to others who are fresh arrivals, but it is difficult, if not impossible, to prove the fraud. The law should be amended so as to make the head money payable upon each entrance into the country, however often repeated. If thought expedient the money might be returned on satisfactory proof of a former payment, the burden of proof being on the claimant. This would be a very different thing from accepting a document from any Chinaman unless he can be proved to be guilty of fraudulent personation. With this modification of the present system the Chinese immigration would be infinitesimal, and before many years, with deaths and departures, there would ~~be~~ hardly a Chinaman left in British Columbia.

Can Sell a Beautiful All Wool Suit for $3.75 that cost minature Clothiers $5.00 wholesale. Well, it is Wonderful How We Do, But We Do, and though the Army and Navy might scare away O'Brien, the Great GOUGH still remains as firm as a rock, and will continue to make the High Price Clothiers howl. We are showing this Season probably

THE MOST VARIED AND COMPLETE STOCK EVER SHOWN BY ANY ONE CLOTHING HOUSE IN THE DOMINION OF CANADA,

And we have placed on them what our patrons say, and our contemporaries are bound to acknowledge, the lowest prices ever dreamed of. We freely admit that we are fallen Clothiers, wallowing in the lowest depths of Bed Rock Prices, while our exalted brethren look down upon us from their High Places and go wild because we capture the trade. Quality and Workmanship are our wheel-horses, Style and Price the leaders, and we make these pull to the last fraction to give you Good Goods at Reasonable Prices. Give us a call, and buy one of our $3.75 Never Wear Out Suits. It is no trouble to show our Goods, in fact, we enjoy it.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

No New Voters' Lists — Queen's, N.B., Protecting Railway Employees—Mr. Mills' Hurt Vanity.

FRIDAY, May 27.—The Speaker announced the election of Mr. Moffat for Restigouche.

QUEEN'S, N.B.

Mr. WELDON moved that the Returning Officer for Queen's, N.B., attend at the bar to be examined on Monday.

RAILWAY EMPLOYEES.

Mr McCARTHY introduced a bill for the protection of railway employees.

DOMINION LANDS.

Mr. WHITE introduced a bill to amend the Dominion Land Act.

FRANCHISE ACT,

Mr. THOMPSON introduced a bill to amend the Franchise Act, having no revision this year, but letting the old lists do for bye elections.

ELECTIONS ACT.

Sir. J. MACDONALD introduced a bill to make it clear that deputy returning officers, etc., have a right to vote.

THE DEPARTMENTS.

Sir J. MACDONALD introduced a bill as to some departmental changes, transferring patent and copyright matters from Agriculture to the Secretary of State, and industrial designs and trade marks to Trade and Commerce.

SUPPLY.

The House went into Committee of Supply and passed a number of items.

Mr. MILLS repeated his old speech about the Clerk of the Crown in Chancery with some additional abuse. He accused Mr. Chapleau of conspiring with the Clerk.

Mr. CHAPLEAU said he had neither spoken to, written to or seen Mr. Pope.

Several other Opposition members, who seem to have been terribly harrassed by a prolongation of the time for detecting corruption, continued to abuse the Clerk of the Crown. Some said that he had been placed in the Privy Council department with an increased salary as a reward for preferring the Conservative members.

Sir C. TUPPER said the small increase of salary was for his largely increased duties, and the change of office was made long before the election.

The item and a number of others were passed.

LINDSAY.

HO FOR KAMLOOPS.—On the 24th inst., Mr. J. D King, of Lindsay, formerly of the Examiner editorial staff of Peterborough, but for some time local manager of the Sun Life Insurance Company here, left for Kamloops, where he will run a journal, the Inland Sentinel. Before leaving here he was the recipient of an address, a gold pen and pencil from St. Andrew's Church Choir, of which he was an efficient member. We wish Mr. King success in the Rockies. He makes the second Victorian to go to Kamloops this week, Dr. Furrer, late of Omemee, being the other.

A FATAL DRIVE.—A sad accident occurred Wednesday in the Township of Dalton, about thirty five miles from here, which resulted in the death of Johnston A. Ardagh, M. D., of Orillia. The deceased, in company with Mr. George Thompson, of Longford Mills, drove out to the Black River for the purpose of inspecting the progress of the Longford Lumber Company's drive. Mr. Thompson left deceased to drive about a mile down the road while he went along the bank of the river, and upon coming out upon the road where he instructed deceased to wait for him, he found that the team had passed by the brush road. He followed them along and found the horses cropping grass at the roadside, but no sign of the deceased. He then drove rapidly back and about two hundred yards from the place where he left the deceased he found him on the road quite dead. It is supposed that the doctor was seized with a fit, to which he was quite subject. The deceased was a graduate of McGill College and was one of the best known practitioners in Simcoe. He was a a general favorite.—Warder.

BUTTON FACTORY.—The building for the button factory—an addition to Wallace's woollen mill—is about completed, and this week the machinery for manufacturing will be set up. About $3,000 worth of machines are now at the station aboard cars ready to be transferred to the factory. Mr. Morton of Benton will have charge of the factory and of manufacture, having been engaged by Mr. P. Nicolle, the proprietor.

MISSING.—Mr. J. K. Griffis, lately supplying the pulpit of the Baptist church in Reaboro, near Lindsay, has been missing for the last week. Before leaving home he showed some signs of his mind weakening, and as he has not been heard from his friends feel very anxious concerning him. He is a man of about 5 ft. 7 in. in height, 140 lbs. weight, dark complexion, side whiskers with moustache, and is 24 years old. If any one answering to this description has been seen any communication to Rev. W. K. Anderson, Lindsay, will be thankfully received.—Post.

BOBCAYGEON.

RAILWAY PROJECT.—The bill for incorporation of the Oshawa Railway and Navigation Company, is now before the House. The proposal is to build a line from Oshawa Harbour, through Burketown, Babcaygeon, Kinmount, and on to Callander. It is a subject that might be taken into the destinguished consideration of Bobcaygeon.

ELECTIONS.—A meeting of the voters of township was held on Wednesday, to elect a councillor to take the seat vacated by Mr. Kelly through absence. Contrary to expectation Mr. Kelly returned and wanted to know what all the row was about. He claimed the seat, but as the matter had gone so far he allowed it to proceed. Mutual explanations were given and Mr. Kelly was re-elected by acclamation.

BRIDGES.—After some little delay, work has commenced on the Pigeon Creek Bridge. It had broken away from the land abutments and blown down the river some sixty yards. On Wednesday it was nearly hauled into place when a strong breeze blew up and carried it back again. It is probably in position by this time. The Mud Lake Bridge, which was also broken at the opening of the lakes, was repaired with commendable despatch. There is always trouble over the Pigeon Creek Bridge owing to the joint liability, of the two counties, and in the interest of the public some definite settlement of the contentions should be arrived at.

BURGLARY.—An extensive burglarious raid was made on Monday night, upon the stores unprotected by residents. On Thursday morning it was found that the stores of A. E. Bottum, W. Hamilton and the Post Office, had been entered and the tills emptied. A pane of glass had been removed from the back window of the Post Office, but the inside shutter had proved too secure. The till here being a patent one with bell attachment, was broken to pieces in wrenching it from the counter. A few coppers were considerately left for change, and a Yankee bill of doubtful character. The haul made from the two places entered was small, and apparently nothing was touched but the tills. An attempt was made on Mr. Bradfield's, the bolt of the door being found on the step. Mr. W. Read's front door was opened but the inner door withstood the prying. Mr. Kilmer's door shewed signs of an attempt to force it, and a chisel and screw-driver found by the tree in front of Mr. Read's, fitted the indentures in the door. Ten days ago Mr. F. W. Read's store was entered and the till emptied of its loose change. The work is evidently not performed by a professional and with the chisel and screw-driver to work on, the thief should be easily traced.—Independent.

A Terrible Crash.

ALTOONA, Pa., May 28.—Last night, as the fast line west was nearing Kittaining Point, the wheel of a car on a freight train east burst and the car crashed into two passenger coaches with terrible effect, killing instantly four men and injuring many others. The killed are: Dal. Graham, son of ex-speaker Graham, Alleghanny, Pa.; J. H. Stauffer, of Lewisville, Ohio: Wymer Snyder, a one legged man of Shamoku, Pa.; John Doreys, a newsboy, of East Liberty. Frank McCue, of New York city, will die. Charles Beideiman, of Brenfield, Indiana, is dying. The accident was an unavoidable one.

JESS.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," etc

He got up and left her, for he had to get home, saying as he did so that he thought there was a storm coming up, the air was so quiet, and the wind had fallen as it does before an African tempest, and presently, on looking round, she saw him slowly climbing the precipitous ascent to the table land above.

It was a glorious afternoon, such as one sometimes gets in the African spring, although it was so intensely still. Everywhere were the roofs and evidences of life. The winter was over, and now, from the sadness and sterility of its withered age, sprang young and lovely summer, clad in sunshine, be-diamoned with dew and fragrant with the breath of flowers. Jess lay back and looked up into the infinite depths above. How blue they were, and how measureless! She could not see the angry clouds that lay like visible omens on the horizon. See there, miles above her, was one tiny circling speck. It was a vulture, watching her from its airy heights and descending a little to see if she were dead or only sleeping.

Involuntarily she shuddered. The bird of death reminded her of Death himself, also hanging high up there in the blue and waiting his opportunity to fall upon the sleeper. Then her eyes fell upon a bough of the glorious flowering bush under which she lay. It was not more than four feet above her head, but she was so still and motionless that a jeweled honeysucker came and hovered over the flowers, darting from one to another like a many colored flash. Thence her glance traveled to the great column of bowlders that towered up above her and that seemed to say, "I am very old. I have seen many springs and many winters, and have looked down on many sleeping maids, and where are they now? All dead—all dead," and an old baboon in the rocks with startling suddenness barked out "all dead" in answer.

And as she lay and heard, her youthful blood, drawn by nature's magnetic force, as the moon draws the tide, rose in her veins like the sap in the budding trees, and stirred her virginal serenity. All the bodily natural part of her caught the tones of nature's happy voice that bade her break her bands, live and love, and be a woman. And lo! the spirit within her answered to it and flung wide her bosom's doors, and of a sudden, as it were, something quickened and lived in her heart that was of her and yet had its own life—a life apart; something that sprang from her and another, and that would always be with her now and could never die; and she rose pale and trembling, as a woman trembles at the first stirring of the child that she shall bear, and clung to the flowery bough of the beautiful bush above and then sank down again, feeling the spirit of her womanhood had departed from her, and that another angel had entered there; knew that she loved with heart and soul and body, and was a very woman.

She had called to Love as the wretched call to Death, and Love had come in his strength and possessed her utterly; and now for a little while she was afraid to pass into the shadow of his wings, as the wretched who call to Death fear him when they feel icy fingers. But the fear passed, and the great joy and the new consciousness of power of identity that the inspiration of a true passion gives to some strong, deep natures remained, and after a while she prepared to make her way home across the mountain top, feeling as though she were another woman. But still she did not go, but lay there with closed eyes and drank of this new intoxicating wine. So absorbed was she that she did not notice that the birds had ceased to call, and that the eagle had fled away for shelter. She was not aware of the great and solemn hush that had taken the place of the merry voice of beast and bird, and preceded the breaking of the gathered storm.

At last as she rose to go she opened her dark eyes, which had been for the most part shut while this great change was passing over her, and with a natural impulse turned to look once more on the place where her happiness had found her, and then sank down again with a little exclamation. Where was the light and the glory and all the happiness of the life that moved and grew around her? Gone, and in its place darkness and the rising mist and deep and ominous shadows. As she lay and thought, the sun had sunk behind the hill and left the great gulf nearly dark, and, as is common in South Africa, the heavy storm cloud had crept across the blue sky and sealed up the light from above. A drear wind came moaning up the gorge from the plains beyond; the heavy rain drops began to fall one by one; the lightning flickered fitfully in the belly of the advancing cloud. The storm that John had feared was upon her.

Then came a dreadful hush. Jess had recovered herself by now, and, knowing what to expect, snatched up her sketching block and hurried into the shelter of a little cave hollowed by water in the side of the cliff. And then with a rush of ice cold air the tempest burst. Down came the rain in a sheet; and then flash upon flash gleaming fiercely through the vapor laden air, and roar upon roar echoing in the rocky cavities in volumes of fearful sound. Then another pause and space of utter silence, followed by a blaze of light that dazed and blinded her, and suddenly one of the piled up columns to her left swayed to and fro like a poplar in a breeze, and fell headlong with a crash that almost matered the crackling of the thunder overhead and the shrieking of the baboons scared from their crannies in the cliff. Through it Jess, scared and wet to the skin, managed to climb up the natural steps, now made almost impassable by the prevailing gloom and the rush of the water from the table top of the mountain, and so on across the sodden plain, down the rocky path on the farther side, past the little walled in cemetery, with its four red gums planted at its corners, in which a stranger who had died at Mooifontein lay buried, and so, just as the darkness of the wet night came down like a cloud, home at last. At the back door stood her old uncle with a lantern.

"Is that you, Jess?" he called out in his stentorian tones. "Lord! what a sight!" as she emerged, her sodden dress clinging to her slight form, her hands bleeding with clambering over the rocks, her curling hair, which had broken loose, hanging down her back and half covering her face.

"Lord, what a sight!" he ejaculated again. "Why, Jess, where have you been? Capt. Niel has gone out to look for you with the Kaffirs."

"I have been sketching in Leuw Kloof, and got caught in the storm. There, uncle, let me pass, I want to get these wet things off. It is a bitter night," and off she ran to her room, leaving a long trail of water behind her as she passed. The old man entered the house, shut the door and blew out the lantern.

"Now, what is it she reminds me of?" he said aloud, as he groped his way down the passage to the sitting room. "Ah, I know, that night when she first came here out of the rain leading Bessie by the hand. What can the girl have been thinking of, not to see the thunder coming up? She ought to know the signs of the weather here by now. Dreaming, I suppose, dreaming. She's an odd woman, Jess, very. Perhaps he did not quite know how accurate his guess was and how true the conclusion he drew from it. Certainly she had been dreaming, and she was an odd woman.

Meanwhile Jess was rapidly changing her clothes and removing the traces of her struggle, for she knew instinctively that no other struggle that she had [illegible] not remove the traces. They and the love that arose from it would endure as long as she endured. It was her former self that had been cast off in it and that now lay behind her, an empty and meaningless thing like the shapeless pile of garments. It was all very strange. So he had gone to look for her, and had not found her. She was glad that he had gone. It made her happy to think of him searching and calling in the wet and the night. She was only a woman, and it was natural that she should feel thus. By and by he would come back and find her clothed and in her right mind and ready to greet him. She was glad that he had not seen her, wet, dishevelled, and shapeless. A woman looks so unpleasant like that. It might have turned him against her. Men like women to look nice and clean and pretty. They gave her an idea. She turned to her glass and, holding the light above her head, studied her own face attentively in it. She was a woman with as little vanity in her composition as it is possible for a woman to have, and she had not till now given her personal looks much consideration. They had not been of great importance to her in the Wakkerstroom district of the Transvaal. But now all of a sudden they became very important; and so she stood and looked at her own wonderful eyes, at the masses of curling brown hair still damp and shining from the rain, at the curious pallid face and the clear cut determined mouth.

California Crops.

The Sacramento Bee has the following:—"This is glorious growing weather. The rain has saturated the earth for both tree and plant, for vine and shrub, for grain and flower, and now the invigorating sun is warming them all into renewed life. The trees are heavily laden. The fruit crop promises to be a very large one, and orchardist, vinyardist and farmer are smiling and happy. The earth is teeming in riches and beauty.

"A voice comes from Colusa County, and it is a voice of alarm over the possible results of the north wind if it continues. So far the north wind has done no harm whatever. In fact, it may be said that its results have been rather beneficial than otherwise. Of course we do not want too much of it. But it has been the history of this Sacramento basin that the Lord doeth all things well here in an agricultural sense, and that wind and rain are so tempered before the season ends that it almost always concludes prosperously.

"There is no fear but that we shall have fair crops and good prices."

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we life in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d90

GRATEFUL—COMFORTING

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—"Civil Service Gazette."

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Explanation.

J. J. Sheehy's card to the public appears in this edition of the REVIEW on the first page.

A Country Jaunt.

A number of bicyclists mounted their wheels yesterday and took a ten mile jaunt through the country.

March Out.

The 57th Battalion will hold a battalion drill and a march out on Tuesday evening. The battalion band will lead the march.

Camp.

Capt. Sanderson, of the Durham Field Battery, received orders to-day to go to camp with his division at Kingston on June 14th.

Kidd has an eagle from the sky down to his window; $5.00 kid boots down to $4.00, down to $.300, down to $2.50, down, down, down!

Literature Class.

The English literature class will meet this evening in the X. M. C. A rooms for the last time this season.

PROBABILITIES.

Moderate winds, mostly fine and a little warmer.

Lacrosse Practice.

The first practice of the Y. M. C. A. Lacrosse Club will be held this evening at 7 o'clock. All members who wish to play should attend.

St. John's Church.

The Rev. Prof. Roper, of Trinity College, Toronto, officiated in St. John's Church on Sunday, owing to the indisposition of the Rector.

A Prize.

The cabmen and hotel-keepers are to meet the Directors of the Agricultural Society at the Grand Central Hotel on Friday to decide upon what form the prize to be donated by the cabmen and hotel keepers shall take.

An army of bright ladies and children buy their hosiery at Turnbull's. Why? Because he shows a large stock, fresh from the largest factory in Germany, and sells them very cheap.

Cox vs. Cavanagh.

His Lordship Judge O'Connor has entered judgment for the defendant in accordance with the answers given by the jury, in the case Cox vs. Cavanagh, which came up at the last assizes. It is understood that the case will be appealed.

Y. W. C. T. U.

The Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union will meet to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Y. W. C. T. U. Hall. Parties sending flowers for the hospital will kindly leave them at the Y. W. C. T. U. Hall on Thursday afternoon at half-past three o'clock.

An Attraction.

The members of the Woman's Missionary Society of the George Street Methodist Church have arranged for a pleasant and profitable evening on Tuesday next. Short addresses will be given by the Revs. Carkson, Thompson and other prominent members of the Methodist Conference. During the evening a choice musical programme consisting of solos, quartettes and choruses will be given by the best local talent. Entertainment will commence at 8 o'clock. Silver collection at the door.

Golden grain of truth. Turnbull is selling ladies Taffeta and pure silk gloves that are cut to fit the hand. Every pair numbered. You will not regret having walked an extra block after you have tried a pair.

Unworthy Treatment.

We regret to see in the Toronto Mail a letter dated Peterborough in which Mr. D. A. O'Sullivan is fiercely attacked for his remarks in the Catholic Record condemning the visit to this country of Mr. Wm. O'Brien. Credit instead of blame is due to Mr. O'Sullivan for his manly utterances showing loyalty to our Queen's representative and his fairness in objecting to the attack upon our Governor-General. This is the more creditable to Mr. O'Sullivan as he is a strong Home Ruler. The expression that it would be in order for some one to say that Mr. O'Brien was in the secret pay of Lord Lansdowne was so obviously intended to convey the truth that sympathy would be excited for His Excellency by the attack upon him, that is an absurdity to characterize it as an "infamous suggestion." The fact that reasonable Roman Catholic Irishmen like Mr. O'Sullivan, stood utterly aloof from Mr. O'Brien, contributed largely to make his campaign the failure that it proved to be.

Delivery.

Messrs. Porter Bros. has turned out a very handsome delivery waggon for Matthews' pork packing house. It was put in use to-day.

The Band.

The Fire Brigade band will give an open air concert in the Horticultural Gardens this evening. Mr. Millar wishes to add that with the exception of to-morrow evening there will be a band practice at the same place every evening this week to prepare for the coming band tournament at Bowmanville.

Says he was Robbed.

A young Englishman, whose occupation is that of a fakir, tells a story of his being robbed on Sunday of about $30. He says that he was out for a walk with another fellow when his companion knocked him down and extracted the bills from his pocket. No information was given to the police till Sunday, and nothing has since been heard of the alleged highway robbery.

A. C. A.

Mr. J. D. Collins, the purser of the Northern Division of the American Canoe Association, has received a notification from the Secretary of the A. C. A., that the year book is to be immediately placed in the printers' hands and that the names of intending members wishing to appear in the list must be forwarded before June 10th., with address and name of canoe and club. The steamer Norseman has consented to carry A. C. A. member for $2 the return trip, canoes and equipments free.

Funeral.

The funeral of the late Robert Milburn, of Smith, took place on Sunday afternoon. The cortege, which was a long one, was met at the corner of McDonell and Reid streets by the Foresters, of which body the deceased was a member. The Fire Brigade band headed the funeral procession followed by about a hundred of the brethren on foot. Next came the hearse followed by a long line of carriages. At the grave in the Little Lake cemetry, the beautiful funeral service of the Foresters was read by Bro. McNeil, R. W. V. C. R.

Stirling's Side vs. Sailsbury's Side.

A scratch match between sides chosen by the above named gentlemen was played on Saturday. After a close game the Secretary's side proved winners by 11 runs. For the winners Mr. Macintyre, a visitor from St. Mary's, showed excellent form with both bat and ball, and Hatton, Steenson and Giroux all played good cricket. Mr. Josers Ray could not be got [illegible] he went in first and carried his bat for a fine innings of 45. As he got all but one of the wickets for the other side, it will be seen that he rendered most effective service:

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little suffere at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

TRADE IN

Our MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT, and did we judge alone by the crowds that daily claim attention of our salesmmen advertising this class of goods would be unnecessary—almost a waste of money But then, you know, there's two sides to every subject, Here's the other side to this one, and at the same time our reason for advertising when there's no apparent necessity for doing so.

In making up our stock in this department we provided for great numbers—for many more than have as yet taken advantage of its completeness, to furnish themselves with millinery suitable for the season.

It will therefore require "crowds long continued" to clear out tables of the enormus stock of Millinery with which they are loaded—over-loaded.

A continuous demand then being necessary, we knew of no better way to insure it than to keep you informed as to just what we have and how we are prepared to sell it We shall, therefore, from now till the close of the season, devote some portion of our card to Millinery News.

We have already said that our stock was large. We have also intimated that our assortment was complete. Now for our goods.

We have just received a six dozen lot of Ladies' and Children's Hats which are the newest in shape and bought at half their value.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Lech's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

A. C. A. CAMP.

Programme of the Regatta of the Northern Division at Stoney Lake.

The following is the programme of the races at the meeting of the Northern Division of the American Canoe Association, to be held at Stoney Lake, August 1st to 13th. As will be seen the prizes are flags which it is hoped will be contributed by the ladies:—

PADDLING RACES.

1. Classes II and III, open, single blades.
2. " IV and V, (see note B) open, single blades.
3. Classes A, B and C, sailing canoes that are decked and fitted with a centreboard, any blade.
4. Classes II and III, open or decked, any blade.
5. Classes IV and V, (see note A) open or decked, any blade.
6. Classes II and III, tandem, open canoes, single blades; decked canoes double blades.
7. Classes IV and V, tandem, open canoes, single blades: decked canoes, double blades.
8. Any class or paddle, three paddlers in a canoe.
9. Any canoe or paddle, lady and gentleman's tandem.

SAILING RACES.

10. A, B and C, decked, unlimited rig or ballast, three miles.
11. A, B and C, open, unlimited rig or ballast, three miles.
12. A, B and C, decked, unlimited sail, ballasted with a passenger weighing at least 125 lbs. (see note C.)
13. A, B and C, open, unlimited sail, ballasted with a passenger weighing at least 125 lbs. (see note C.)
14. A, B and C, open or decked, man-overboard race, to be started in the usual manner. At a pistol shot sails are to be lowered and skippers all jump overboard, regain their positions and finish the race. Half mile course.
15. A. B. & C. combined race, open or decked, course 3 miles; the ¼ miles to be alternately paddled and sailed, commencing with paddle.
16. Hurry-scurry race, 200 yard run, 25 yard swim, and 200 yards paddle.
17. Portage race, course to be decided at meet.
18. Catch the duck race.

Note A.—Five record flags will be for the five competitors making the best record in races 3, 4, 5, 10, 11 and 15; canoes entering in both 3 and 5 will have their best record in either of these races taken.

Note B.—The definition of class V paddling and class C sailing, is length not over 16 feet, beam not over 32 inches. It has been added to let in the majority of existing open Peterborough hunting and cruising canoes, 16x31 and 16x32.

Note C.—The committee thought it advisable to have some kind of a cruising load race. They thought of making the canoes carry ballast, but came to the conclusion that it would take too much time weighing rocks and sand bags for each competitor. It was thought that the lady friends of the competitors might enjoy a sailing match and at the same time act as a good cruising load.

Note D.—First and second prize flags will be given in each of the events, provided there are four entries.

This programme may be altered by the regatta committee, who will be pleased to receive suggestions from members of the Northern Division, or any one intending to be present at the meet.

The events for each day will be posted on the notice board at camp each morning before 8 o'clock.

R. C. STRICKLAND, Lakefield, Chairman,
J. G. EDWARDS, Lindsay,
W. G. MCKENDRICK, Toronto,

The Jubilee.

The jubilee celebration committee will meet in the Fire Hall at 8 o'clock this evening.

Free Show.

A monkey, leading an Italian, appeared on the streets to-day. They had a hurdy-gurdy with them. The Italian turned the crank, while the monkey collected the crowd.

Fine Lawns and All-over Laces for summer Dresses at Turnbull's.

Bolton's Boilers.

Mr. Bolton has made arrangements to remove his boiler factory from Hunter St. to the Stove foundery, where he will carry on business on a more extended scale. He also intends to manufacture other lines of goods in connection with his hot water boiler.

"Unknown."

A good audience was present at Bradburn's Opera House to witness "Unknown" by Wilson Day and his company. The performance was thoroughly first class in every respect, and the company may safely claim to be the best popular priced company on the road. To-night the performance will consist of three comedies, in two of which little Annie Bird will play the leading part. On Friday night she will appear as Fanchon in "Fanchon the Cricket." A remarkable performance may be expected.

Turnbull's tailoring department is a grand success. Suits made to order from $12 to $16 out of choice patterns.

Funeral.

The funeral of the late Wm. Gilbert took place on Monday afternoon, in charge of the Oddfellows. Large representations from the Otonabee and Peterborough Lodges and Mount Hebron Encampment were present. The Fire Brigade Band led the cortege, which proceeded to the Little Lake Cemetery. The body arrived here on Sunday night. It was taken charge of by an Oddfellow from St. Paul till Toronto was reached. Accompanying the coffin were beautiful boquets, one from the Oddfellows of St. Paul and one from the firm of which he was a traveller.

Personal.

Mr. J. Pritchard, who has been chief clerk in Fairweather's dry goods store for the past few months, left town on Monday evening for Lindsay where he will assume the management of Messrs. Flavelle & Dundass' store in that town.

The Toronto Globe says:—"Mr. J. D. Henderson is retiring from his connection with the Canada Life Assurance Company with the view of engaging in other matters, and the Toronto agency so long held by him is in future to be conducted by Geo. A. & E. W. Cox, of Peterborough, who are moving to this city."

HANLAN AND GAUDAUR.

Hanlan Defeated and Gaudaur Champion of America.

CHICAGO, May 30.—A scull race between Edwarn Hanlan and Jacob Gaudaur took place this afternoon. When the two oarsmen came out on the course ready for a three-mile pull to decide who should be called champion of America and carry away $5,000 in stakes the sky was leaden, but apparently did not threaten rain. A slight roughness of the water had no deterring influence, and the start was made with promptness. Hanlan was at once a trifle in the lead, pulling a short, quick stroke, 42 to the minute. Gaudaur kept close to him with a long steady sweep, about 38 to the minute Gradually Hanlan forged ahead and at the end of the initial mile was fully a boat length in advance. It had been the gossip that if Hanlan could lead to the turn he was nearly a certain winner, but if Gaudaur reached the buoy first Hanlan would never catch up on a stern chase. Great therefore was the expectations of Hanlan's friends to see him nearing the turn, clearly ahead of Gaudaur and gaining all the time. When all eyes were straining after the blue and scarlet spects in the distance, the wind suddenly freshened and huge drops of rain began to fall. The lake was soon lumpy from end to end, and the down-pour was almost blinding.

Hanlan turned first, two lengths ahead, time 10.02. He was pulling about thirty-five strokes a minute at this point, and rounding to Gaudaur struck about the same gait. Hanlan stopped an instant here for some purpose, but did not lose the lead. He kept well to the front, as from the start, until entering the third mile. There Hanlan commenced to flag. So uneven did his stroke become and so great the exertion that many believed his boat was leaking or had shipped one of the choppy seas. Gaudaur was rowing magnificently. He showed the same long steady sweep he had taken at the outset, but faster. With machine-like precision he passed the poor struggling Hanlan. A boat's length of water between them could be seen, then another, and at last one more additional.

"Hanlan's beaten," murmured the crowd. "No," shouted others, "see him spurt, see him spurt," and spurt Hanlan did with a vengeance. The multitudes on shore and afloat held their breaths then and regardless of the rain tossed hats and umbrellas in the air and started to yell like Comanches. The cheers died on their lips again Gaudaur's great sweep began to tell. It was then that Hanlan lay back just an instant, and turning his face from the rain shot a glance over his shoulder at Gaudaur. The single glance was enough. Hanlan saw himself irretrievably beaten. Gaudaur was six lengths to the fore.

Seeing Hanlan surrender all hope Gaudaur magnanimously slackened speed and passed the stand an easy winner by four lengths. Time 20.29. It was a fine performance under the adverse conditions.

The Late W. Gilbert.

Various sensational and contradictory reports are current as to the lamented death of Mr. Wm. Gilbert. The latest accounts do not show that he was a victim of foul play. He may have retired to the hallway in which he was found when felt himself growing dizzy with the approach of the fatal attack while he was on his way to his hotel for which he had just left his friends. The exact facts can never be known, as he was speechless when he was found lying with blood oozing from his mouth, and he never recovered. The doctors, after a post mortem examination, decided that his death resulted from congestion of the brain. His employers, the Ruttan Manufacturing Company, of Chicago, under whom he held a position of trust, speak very highly of him. Mr. Jones, the President, says:—"If he be the same William Gilbert that was in our employ he has been an upright, moral man. He was a member of the Young Men's Christain Association and of the Third Presbyterian Church. I never knew Gilbert to be addicted to either drinking or gambling." This is in accordance with Mr. Gilbert's reputation while in Peterborough.

Five Men Drowned.

MONTREAL, May 29.—A frightful accident occurred on the river in front of the city to-day. Six Frenchmen took a boat and went over to Nuns' Island last night, buying a plentiful supply of spirits. After fishing and drinking most of the night they started for home in an intoxicated condition early this morning. When near Victoria Bridge the boat capsized and all the men were thrown into the water. Four of them, Chas. Fezeau, Joseph Bobidoux, Wilfred L. Heneaux and Philbas Vanier, went to the bottom. The other two, Celestin Vezeau and Nelson Montreuil, managed to right the boat and get into it, but the former was so intoxicated that he lay down in the bottom, which was half full of water, and was drowned. Montreuil signalled for help, and a boat put out from the shore and rescued him with some trouble.

Important Scott Act Question.

A startling point in a Scott Act case was taken on Friday by Mr. Aylesworth before Judge Armour on a motion for a certiorari to bring up a conviction under the Act. The contention is that the Scott Act is repealed and is not in force in any county in Ontario. The Dominion Statutes of Canada, and by them all the old statutes consolidated therein, have been repealed and re-enacted in the revised form. The Scott Act, it is urged, once repealed cannot be re-enacted except by the voice of the people, and having been repealed it is not in force until it has been again voted upon. Mr. W. Read appeared for the Magistrate. No expression of opinion was given, but the point will be argued fully on the return of the certiorari.—Toronto Mail.

Body Found.

WINNIPEG, Man., May 30.—A Keewatin despatch announces the finding of the body of Duncan McKenzie, in the Lake of the Woods He had been missing since the 20th, and is supposed to have fallen through a trestle bridge while crossing the Lake.

LATEST CABLE NEWS!

THE IMPERIAL INSTITUTE.

LONDON, May 30.—The organizing committee of the Imperial Institute has issued the outline of the scheme of the institution, which is approved by the Prince of Wales. The governing body is to consist of a general council, composed of one hundred members, ten of whom are to be nominated by the Queen, and the remainder by the mayors of towns in combination with the commercial, industrial and learned societies of Great Britain. Each colony will also send a certain number.

COTTON CULTURE.

ODESSA, May 30.—Successful experiments in cotton culture have been made in three different districts of the Caucasus, and a new industry is thus promised. American, Egyptian and Caucasian plants are found to flourish equally. A company has been formed to establish the first extensive plantation, which will be located in the vicinity of Erwan. The Caucasian Agricultural Society is about to send two experts to America to study the system of cotton culture there.

TREACHERY AT KHARTOUM.

CAIRO, May 30.—Bumbasse and Bensasawi who escaped from Khartoum, are to be tried by a court-martial here to-morrow. They are charged with corresponding with the Mahdi, and with having been in league with Farig, the commander of the regiment which was guarding the gate by which the Arabs entered Khartoum.

PRECAUTIONS NEGLECTED.

PARIS, May 30.—The firemen in charge of the theatre were greatly to blame for the catastrophe, all proper precautions having been neglected by them. An official inspection of all the theatres in this city has been commenced. The Pesth Municipal Council has contributer 5000 francs for the relief of the sufferers.

SANK WITH ALL HANDS.

LONDON, May 30.—The tug Retriever while towing the Godiva, sank with all hands. The Godiva is safe.

THE MISSING STEAMER.

CALCUTTA, May 30.—The name of the steamer, with 750 persons on board, which has been missed since the recent cyclone, is the Sir John Lawrence.

THE NEW FRENCH CABINET.

PARIS, May 30.—It is reported that President Grevy, in order to avoid the certain defeat of the new ministry on any important issue, will close the Session of the Chamber of Deputies on June 15. At a meeting of the Cabinet Council held [illegible] General Saussier announced his intention of withdrawing the military bill. His colleagues opposed such action on the ground that it would be inconsistent with the dignity of the country, but General Saussier persisted on withdrawing the bill, and was obliged to surrender the war portfolio, which was accepted by General Feron M. Barbey has been appointed Minister of Marines.

ROBBING THE DEAD.

PARIS, May 30.—Donations for the sufferers have already reached 1,500,000 francs. The Compte de Paris subscribed 10,000 francs and Baron Rothschild gave 15,000 francs. The total number of bodies recovered is 91. Several of those who have been working in the ruins have been taken into custody charged with stealing jewelry and other valuables found in the debris.

REQUIEM SERVICES.

PARIS, May 30.—The archbishop of Paris has offered the church of Notre Dame for the requiem services to be held over the remains of those who perished in the Opera Comique conflagration, instead of the church of the Madeline. The interments will take place in the new Paulist cemetery. The archbishop will preside at a special service at St. Rochs on Wednesday.

ITALY AND THE VATICAN.

ROME, May 30.—The Osservatore Romano interprets the Pope's utterance in his allocation as meaning that no reconciliation is possible between the Vatican and the Quirinal without the restitution of the Pope's temporal power. Well informed circles declare that the Osservatore Romano only echoes the feeling of the interansigeant party of the Vatican. The Reformer, the Government organ, says a reconciliation is only a question of time, and that Italy can wait calmly.

BELLEVILLE.

PETTY BURGLARIES.—The residence of Mr. C. H. Vermilyea, Murney Hill, was entered on Sunday night, and the sideboard stripped of edibles. Nothing in the way of provisions was left. The intruders left the premises by unlocking the front door. Ex-Ald. Fox, living on the corner of Yeomans and Moira streets, was visited the same night. Admittance was gained by cutting a screen from a cellar window. His pants were stolen from his room, an old pair, and the pockets rifled outside. The thieves got the pants, 60 cents in cash and a pocket knife. A purse and a bunch of keys were left on the cellar door. Mr. Fox saw a party of tramps in his neighborhood in the evening.

Pauper Emigrants.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30.—Eighty-four Irish emigrants were detained on the steamer Scandinavian here yesterday, because they could not satisfy the Emigration Inspector that their cases did not come under the act prohibiting the landing of paupers on American soil. Their passage was paid by the English Government. They were from the vicinity of Westport, county of Mayo. All were poor, not being able to show over $20 in possession of the entire party.

GENERAL.

Twelve English people lost their lives in the burning of the Opera Comique, Paris.

The Italian Chamber of Deputies on Saturday passed a bill to increase the army, entailing an additional charge of $2,200,000.

The Montreal Protestant School Board intend opening a fine new school in the west end of this city in commemoration of the Queen's Jubilee.

A scheme for bonusing cheese factories has been formulated by the Manitoba Government, with the view of encouraging their maintenance in the province.

It is stated that the principle transatlantic steamship companies contemplate bringing their passengers direct to Montreal instead of landing them at Quebec as heretofore.

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC.

At the time of selling our stock of Dry Goods to Sheehy & Co., we had fully determined to give up that particular branch of our business, but as previously announced, did not do so, for various reasons. However it is now our intention to dispose of the Dry Goods Trade, and have consequently made up our mind to clear out the whole stock

AT COST PRICE AND UNDER.

This is one of the BEST Dry Goods stocks in the country, having been imported from the best markets direct to ourselves. Remember, this will be a GENUINE CLEARING OUT SALE. While we will still retain our Clothing Trade, yet we will during this sale, offer ALL our Ready-made Clothing, for Men and Boys, (with all kinds of Furnishings) at COST PRICE. Remember the whole Dry Goods Stock must be sold.

T. DOLAN & CO.

The Daily Review

TUESDAY, MAY 31, 1887.

A FAILURE

MR. WM. O'BRIEN has left Canada having concluded his unsuccessful campaign against the Governor-General. The leading Roman Catholic Irishmen, lay and clerical, either protested against his course or silently abstained from even countenancing him by their presence. As might have been expected his attack has created sympathy for Lord Lansdowne instead of doing him injury. If anything was needed to make such a visit a failure it was the presence of Mr. Kilbride posing as an evicted tenant, though living in a style that few Canadians can enjoy, paying less rent than for an ordinary farm here, and being himself that worst species of landlord, reletting land according to his own confession at an advance of over 25 per cent. upon the rent covenanted in his own lease.

In one respect Mr. O'Brien had a limited success—he came "to raise a row," and he partially succeeded. But while condemning these acts of violence, we decline to admit that Canada as a country has been disgraced. Whatever inconvenience he suffered he brought upon himself, while inflicting another wrong upon peaceable people. In the most civilized communities there remain some men who will use violence when excited, and they are to be blamed individually, not the community. There is hardly a capital in Europe that has not been the scene of worse disorders during the last few years, nor a great city on this continent. And except under the Union Jack no Government would allow the ruler, whether monarch, viceroy or president, to be thus attacked. But in the British Empire liberty of speech is tolerated to an extent permitted no where else.

The people of Canada felt that they do not constitute the proper court before which to try questions between Lord Lansdowne and his tenants. They recognise his due performance of his duties as Governor-General, and they have unmistakably shown their appreciation of his public services in that capacity.

NOT A TEMPTING BAIT.

THE Globe in a laboured defence of Commercial Union with the United States, endeavors to make out that Canada would gain if it took an equal share out of the joint receipts, because Canadians pay rather less per capita for customs and excise duties than our neighbors. The absurdity of the Globe's arguments, even apart from its tricks with the figures, is clear from the fact that it never takes into consideration the material circumstance that our payments for duties would be much higher relatively under a joint tariff. Either the scale of duties would be raised to that of our neighbors, when we would have to pay more on our imports, or would be lowered to our standard, when they would have less to pay. In either event we would be contributing a larger portion than we would receive. The truth is that by the United States tariff our payments for duties last year would have been individually twice as large as those of our neighbors. Yet the Toronto Globe says that if we withdrew an equal per capita share we would gain by the transaction, and the New York Sun says we must not have an equal share, because we Canadians are such an impoverished people that our imports must of course be trifling.

And to incur this loss with the prospect of being further defrauded we are asked to ruin the manufacturers and mechanics of Dominion, and to declare commercial war upon the rest of the Empire in alliance with its commercial rivals.

The prospect will not tempt loyal and patriotic Canadians.

It is reported that efforts will be made to float the new Quebec loan of three and a half millions in France, it being considered that more favorable terms could be obtained there than in England.

Sir Alexander Campbell was given a very hearty welcome in the Senate on Friday, and Speaker Plumb congratulated him on the honour he is about to receive in being made Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario.

STREETS AND BRIDGES.

THE ANNUAL REPORT RECOMMENDING IMPROVEMENTS.

The Bridge Building By-Law—Hydrants and Who Want Them—Policemens' Clothes—Accounts, Communications and Reports.

A regular meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening. There was present: His Worship, the Mayor, and Councillors Kendry, Moore, Douglass, Yelland, Stenson, Davidson, Cahill, Menzies, McNeil, Kelly and MacNaughton.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The following communications were received:—

From Richard Cook and Geo. Schneider objecting to a siding being laid on Dalhousie street, as it would injure their property, and stating that they would hold the [illegible] Committee.

From T. E. Bell asking that he be allowed to put an inch iron pipe across Sheridan street—Granted.

From T. E. Pratt and others, Thos. Kent and others, H. Grundy and others, asking for street improvements.—Street and Bridge Committee.

From McFarlane Wilson protesting against a peanut stand being allowed on the corner of Simcoe and George streets.—License Committee.

From W. H. Wrighton asking for a hydraut on McDonnell street.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

From M. Fee and A. Thomas applying for the position of Constable.—Received.

From Geo. Mitchell and others applying for hydrants.—Fire, Water and Light Committee.

ACCOUNTS.

The following accounts were presented;

H. Drake, hack hire	$ 1 00
McAndrew & Noble, pipes	3 50
Wm. Noble, waggon	55 00
J. P. Hurley, railway ticket	1 20
John Gibbs, painting hose reel	10 00
Robt. Duncan, burying rotten meat	4 00
J. Braden, charity order	52 00
M. H. Halpin, charity orders	22 00

The accounts were referred to the Finance Committee, except those of Messrs. Logan, Gibbs and Hurley.

FINANCE.

Councillor DAVIDSON read the following report:—

To the Mayor and Councillors of the Town of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN,—Your Finance Committee beg leave to report and recommend the payment of the following accounts:—

G. T. R.	$ 22 85
Adam Hall	17 25
Ghas Wynn	2 00
Jas Alexander	20
Ed Green	1 88
Wm Hamilton	3 50
Nicholls Hospital	213 10
Metropolitan Grocery	104 10
Northwestern Telegraph Co.	27
Agent of G T R	7 20
	9 75

1 Your Committee cannot recommend the payment of the account of Mr. Brundrette.

2. That the different members of the Charity Committee fill in the names of the several parties receiving charity on the orders.

3. That the petition of Geo. Hilliard asking exemption on his machinery be granted and a by-law be prepared for that purpose, terms to be similar to Brodies and to end the same time and to commence January 1st, 1888

All of which is respectfully submitted.

R. S. DAVIDSON,
Chairman.

Peterborough, June 30th.

Councillor DAVIDSON said that, in reference to clause No. 2, some councillors had given orders drawn simply "to the bearer." The person to whom given might trade it off. With the exception of Councillor McNaughton who always gave his reports in good shape, the orders were rather loose.

Councillor YELLLND said that he always filled in the names.

Councillor DANIDSON apologised to Councillor Yelland.

Councillor DAVIDSON drew attention to the great number of railway tickets given out. He thought Councillor Stenson was going too fast.

Councillor KELLY gave Councillor Stenson credit with getting people out of town who cost the town from $1 to $3 a week.

Councillor DAVIDSON, on Councillor Kendry's suggestion, added the recommendation that the Fire Brigade Band be granted their usual grant of $150.

The report was adopted.

THE F. W. AND L.

Councillor MCNEIL read the following report:—

To the Mayor and Council of the town of Peterborough.

GENTLEMEN.—Your F. W. & L. Committee beg leave to report.—

That the petition of of W. H. Wrighton and 17 others asking for a hydrant to be placed on the corner of McDonald and Waterford streets be not granted as a hydrant has been ordered to be be placed on the corner of London and Waterford streets.—We would also recommend that T. Pratts offer of 500 for the old engine house doors be accepted.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ANDREW MCNEIL,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

THE WHOLE TOWN.

Councillor CAHILL moved, second by Councillor MENZIE—That the question of locating the hydrants be referred to the Fire, Watar and Light committee, with instructions to consider the whole matter and report to this Council.—Carried.

C. P. AND M. RAILWAY.

Councillor MCNAIL moved, seconded by Councillor KELLY,—That whereas the Bill now before the Dominion Parliament for the incorporation of the Cobourg, Blairton and Marmora railway, and mining company propose to authorize the sale and removal of iron now on that portion of the line of the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmora railway and mining company north of the Junction therewith of the Grand Junction division of the Grand Trunk railway of Canada; and whereas this portion of the Cobourg, Peterborough and Marmoura railway, and mining company's line, was constructed with the assistance of the Province of Ontario, and which assistance was granted upon the expressed condition (among others) that the rails should never be removed therefrom; therefore this Council would request their representative in the House of Commons, to use his utmost endeavors to have the said Bill so amended as to leave the conditions upon Provincial, and was granted thereto untouched and thereby in some measure protect the interest of the localities in whose interests such provincial aid was granted.—Carried.

POLICE SUPERVISION.

Councillor KENDRY read the following report:—

To the Mayor and Town Council:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Committee on Police Supervision beg leave to report as follows: That Thos. Dolan be awarded the contract for police clothing at $19.38 per suit. The Committee have instructed Mr. Dolan to put on extra braid on Acting Chief Adams' suit, cost not to exceed four dollars.

JAS. KENDRY,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

A BY-LAW.

A by-law to authorize the issue of debentures to the extent of $25,000 was read its several times and passed. The by-law set forth that the money was to be used for the purpose of building permanent bridges over the creek at Simcoe, Brock and other streets, the payment of the town's share to build the lock's bridge, and for the cribbing of Crescent street; that the debentures were to extend over a period of 20 years bearing interest at 5 per cent; that the town would be called upon to raise $833.00 annually for 20 years to pay principal and interest. The date for taking the vote of the ratepayers was fixed for June 28th.

STREETS AND BRIDGES.

Councillor CAHILL read the following report:—

To the Mayor and Town Council:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Street and Bridge Committee beg leave to report that they have this day made the usual annual inspection of the streets and bridges and respectfully recommend the following improvements:—

1. Recommended that a sidewalk be put down on Brock street between George and Water streets.

2. Dublin street—That the sidewalk on she south side be continued to Division street, and south on Division street to houses on south side of said street, and crossings on Dublin and Division streets at their intersection.

3. Antrim street.—To be graded from George to Water and a sidewalk put down on north side between those points.

4. Water street.—Sidewalk on north side to be rebuilt from Argyle street in a short distance north of M. R., a culvert to be put down across the street at this point and the sidewalk from there north to be properly repaired and a crossing put down at a point north of the M R.

5. That an unnamed street running east and west past the Methodist cemetery be henceforth known as Victoria Avenue.

6. Argyle street.—A new sidewalk to be put down from present walk to Mason's greenhouse.

7. Boundary between town and township of Douro.—A sidewalk to be put down where agreed upon, a portion of which is to be charged against work on said boundary.

8. The sidewalk along M. R. to be continued to the Auburn factory and a sidewalk to be put down on a street running north and south from the last named street south for a short distance.

9. London street.—The sidewalk on the east end to be put in proper repair east from Water.

10. Mill street.—The sidewalk to be continued on to west side from Forsyths's factory to London street.

11. Stewart street—The south end at the creek to be cribbed and filled up.

THOS. CAHILL,
Chairman.

ACCOUNTS.

On motion the accounts of Messrs. Wilson and Jones, $7.50, for services at fire and cleaning hose, was ordered to be paid.

THE BRIDGE.

Councillor CAHILL presented the plans of the proposed Simcoe street bridge, remarking that it looked very well on paper. It was agreed on his suggestion that the Chairman of the Street and Bridge Committee call a committee meeting of the whole Council to consider the plans.

TAXES.

Mr. Beavis addressed the Council, stating that a tenant of his had cleared out and that he had been obliged to pay the Separate school tax. He said that if the Council did not refund the amount paid that he would try to recover it by law.

JESS.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," etc

"If it were not for my eyes and hair I should be very ugly," she said to herself aloud. "If only I were beautiful like Bessie, now." The thought of her sister gave her another idea. What if he were to prefer Bessie! Now she thought of it, he had been very attentive to Bessie. A feeling of dreadful doubt and jealousy passed through her, for women like Jess know what jealousy is in its pain. Supposing that it was all in vain, supposing that what she had to-day given—given with both hands once and for all, so that she could not take it back, had been given to a man who loved another woman, and that woman her own dear sister? Supposing that the fate of her love was to be like water falling unalteringly on the hard rock that heeds it not and retains it not. True, the water wears the rock away; but could she be satisfied with that? She could master him, she knew; even if things were so, she could win him to herself, she had read it in his eyes that afternoon; but could she, who had promised her dead mother to cherish and protect her sister, whom till this afternoon she had loved better than anything in the world, and whom she still loved more dearly than her life—could she, if it should happen to be thus, rob that sister of her lover? And if it should be so, what would her life be like? It would be like a great pillar after the lightning had smitten it, a pile of scattered, smoking fragments, a very heaped up debris of a life. She could feel it even now. No wonder she sat there upon the little white bed holding her hand against her heart and feeling terribly afraid.

Just then she heard John's footstep in the hall.

"I can't find her," he said, in an anxious tone, to some one as she rose, taking her candle with her, and left the room.—The light from the candle fell upon his face and dripping clothes. It was white and anxious, and she was glad to see the anxiety.

"Oh, thank God! here you are!" he said, catching her hand. "I began to think you were quite lost. I have been right down the Kloof after you, and got a nasty fall over it."

"It is very good of you," she said, in a low voice, and again their eyes met, and again the glance thrilled him. There was such a wonderful light in Jess' eyes that night.

Half an hour afterward they sat down as usual to supper. Bessie did not put in an appearance till it was a quarter over, and then sat very silent through it. Jess narrated her adventure in the Kloof, and everybody listened, but nobody said much. There was a sort of shadow over the house that evening, or perhaps it was that each of the party was thinking of his own affairs. After supper old Silas Croft began talking about the political state of the country, which gave him uneasiness. He said that he believed the Boers really meant to rebel against the government this time. Frank Muller had told him so, and he always knew what was going on. This announcement did not tend to raise anybody's spirits, and the evening passed as silently as the meal had done. At last Bessie got up, stretched her rounded arms, and said that she was tired and going to bed.

"Come into my room," she whispered to her sister as she passed. "I want to speak to you.

CHAPTER VII.

LOVE'S YOUNG DREAM.

After waiting a few minutes Jess said "Good night" and went straight to Bessie's room. Her sister had undressed and was sitting on her bed wrapped in a blue dressing gown that suited her fair complexion admirably, and with a very desponding expression on her beautiful face. Bessie was one of those people who are easily elated and easily cast down.

Jess came up to her and kissed her.

"What is it, love?" she said. Her sister would never have divined the gnawing anxiety that was eating at her heart as she said it.

"Oh, Jess, I'm so glad that you have come. I do so want you to advise me; that is, to tell me what you think," and she paused.

"You must tell me what it is all about first, Bessie dear," she said, sitting down opposite to her in such a position that her face was shaded from the light. Bessie tapped her naked foot against the matting with which the little room was carpeted. It was an exceedingly pretty foot.

"Well, dear old girl, it is just this—Frank Muller has been here to ask me to marry him."

"Oh," said Jess, with a sigh of relief, "so that was all?" She felt as though a ton weight had been lifted from her heart. She had expected that bit of news for some time.

"He wanted me to marry him, and when I said I would not he behaved like—like"——

"Like a Boer," suggested Jess.

"Like a brute," went on Bessie, with emphasis.

"So you don't like Frank Muller?"

"Like him! I loathe the man. You don't know how I loathe him, with his handsome, bad face and his cruel eyes. I always loathed him, and now I hate him, too. But I will tell you all about it;" and she did, with many feminine comments and interpolations.

Jess sat quite still and waited till she had finished.

"Well, dear," she said, at last, "you are not going to marry him, and so there is an end of it. You can't detest the man more than I do. I have watched him for years," she went on, with rising anger, "and I tell you that Frank Muller is a liar and a traitor. That man would betray his own father if he thought it to his own interest to do so. He hates uncle—I am sure he does, although he pretends to be so fond of him. I am sure that he has tried often and often to stir up the Boers against him. Old Hans Coetzee told me that he denounced him to the Veld Cornet as an 'uitlander' and a 'verdomde Engelsmann' about two years before the annexation, and tried to get him to persuade the Landdrost to report him as a law breaker to the Raad; while all the time he was pretending to be so friendly. Then in the Sikukuni war it was Frank Muller who caused them to commander uncle's two best wagons and the spans. He gave none himself, nothing but a couple of bags of meal. He is a wicked fellow Bessie, and a dangerous fellow; but he has more brains and more power about him than any man in the Transvaal, and you will have to be very careful, or he will do us all a bad turn."

"Ah!" said Bessie; "well, he can't do much now that the country is English."

"I am not so sure of that. I am not so sure that the country is going to stop English. You laugh at me for reading the home papers, but I see things there that make me doubtful. The other people are in power now in England, and one does not know what they may do; you heard what uncle said to-night. They might give us up to the Boers. You must remember that we far away people are only the counters with which they play their game."

"Nonsense, Jess," said Bessie indignantly. "Englishmen are not like that. When they say a thing they stick to it."

"They used to, you mean," answered Jess with a shrug, and got up from her chair to go to bed.

Bessie began to fidget her white feet over one another.

"Stop a bit, Jess dear," she said. "I want to speak to you about something else."

Jess sat, or rather dropped, back into her chair, and her pale face turned paler than ever, but Bessie blushed rosy red and hesitated.

"It is about Capt. Niel," she said at length.

"Oh," answered Jess with a little laugh, and her voice sounded strange and cold in her own ears. "Has he been following Frank Muller's example and proposing to you, too?"

"No-o," said Bessie, "but"—and here she rose, and, sitting on a stool by her elder sister's chair, rested her forehead against her knee—"but I love him and I believe that he loves me. This morning he told me that I was the prettiest woman he had seen at home or abroad, and the sweetest, too; and do you know," she said, looking up and giving a happy little laugh, "I think he meant it, too."

"Are you joking, Bessie, or are you really in earnest?"

"In earnest! ah, but that I am, and I am not ashamed to say it. I fell in love with John Niel when he killed that cock ostrich. He looked so strong and savage as he fought with it. It is a fine thing to see a man put out all his strength. And then he is such a gentleman!—so different from the men we see round here. Oh, yes, I fell in love with him at once, and I have got deeper and deeper in love with him ever since, and if he does not marry me I think that it will break my heart. There, that's the truth, Jess dear," and she dropped her golden head on to her sister's knees, and she began to cry, softly, at the thought.

And the sister sat there on the chair, her hand hanging idly by her side, her white face set and impassive as that of an Egyptian sphinx, and the large eyes gazing far away through the window, against which the rain was beating—far away out into the night and the storm. She heard the surging of the storm, she heard her sister's weeping, her eyes perceived the dark square of the window through which they appeared to look, she could feel Bessie's head upon her knees—yes, she could see and hear and feel, and yet it seemed to her that she was dead. The lightning had fallen on her soul as it fell on the pillar of rock, and it was as the pillar was. And it had fallen so soon! there had been such a little span of happiness and hope! And so she sat, like a stony sphinx, and Bessie wept softly before her, like a beautiful, breathing, loving human suppliant, and the two formed a picture and a contrast such as the student of Luman nature does not often get the chance of seeing.

It was the elder sister who spoke first after all.

"Well, dear," she said, "what are you crying about? You love Capt. Niel, and you believe that he loves you. Surely this is nothing to cry about."

"Well, I don't know that it is," said Bessie, more cheerfully; "but I was thinking how dreadful it would be if I lost him."

"I don't think that you need be afraid," said Jess; "and now, dear, I really must go to bed. I am so tired. Good night, my dear; God bless you! I think that you have made a very wise choice. Capt. Niel is a man whom any woman might love and be proud of loving."

In another minute she was in her room, and there her composure left her, for she was but a loving woman after all. She flung herself upon her bed, and, hiding her face in the pillow, burst into a paroxysm of weeping—a very different thing from Bessie's gentle tears. Her grief absolutely convulsed her, and she pushed the bed clothes against her mouth to prevent the sound of it penetrating the partition walls and reaching John Niel's ears, for his room was next to hers. Even in the midst of her suffering the thought of the irony of the thing forced itself into her mind. There, separated from her only by a few inches of lath and plaster and some four or five feet of space, was the man for whom she mourned thus, and yet he was as ignorant of it as though he were thousands of miles away. Sometimes, at such acute crises in our lives, the limitations of our physical nature do strike us in this sort of way. It is strange to be so near and yet so far, and it brings the absolute and utter loneliness of every created being home to mind in a manner that is forcible and at times almost terrible. John Niel going composedly to sleep, his mind happy with the recollection of those two right and left shots, and Jess lying on her bed, six feet away, and sobbing out her stormy heart over him, are after all but types of what is continually going on in this remarkable world. How often do we understand one another's grief? and, when we do, by what standard can we measure it? More especially is comprehension rare if we happen to be the original cause of the trouble. Do we think of the feelings of the beetles if is our painful duty to crush into nothingness? Not at all. If we have any compunctions, they are quickly absorbed in the pride of our capture. And more often still, as in the present case, we set our foot upon the poor victim by pure accident or venal carelessness.

Suffering, mental suffering, is a prerogative of greatness, and even here there lies an exquisite joy at its core. For everything has its compensations. Natures such as these can [illegible] that will sweep [illegible] the mass of men. Thus he who is stricken with grief at the sight of the world's misery—as all great and good men must be—is at times lifted up with joy by catching some faint gleam of the almighty purpose that underlies it all. So it was with the Son of Man in his darkest hours; the spirit that enabled him to compass out the measure of the world's suffering and sin enabled him also, knowing their purposes, to gaze beyond them; and thus it is, too, with those deep hearted children of his race, who partake, however dimly, of his divinity.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we life in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Billousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d90

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little suffere at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for Harrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

The Military Camp.

The annual brigade camp for No. 3 District is ordered for the 31st of June, a week later than was first announced. The third regiment of cavalry, including the Peterborough troop, and the Durham Field Battery will go into camp at Kingston on that date.

Kidd has an eagle from the sky down to his window; $5.00 kid boots down to $4.00, down to $.300, down to $2.50, down, down, down!

A. C. A. Book for 1883.

The officers of the A. C. A. would be glad to obtain a few copies of the book and map issued for the meeting at Stoney Lake in 1883. They will pay 50 cents each for copies in good order, which may be sent to Col. H. C. Rogers, Vice-Commodore, or Mr. J. D. Collins, purser of the Northern Division.

Late in the season manufacturers are glad to clear ends of stock at tremendous reductions. See the seamless hosiery Turnbull is selling, three pair for 25 cents. Bought right.

Peterborough Talent.

A grand sacred concert is to be held in St. Mary's Church, Port Hope, on Wednesday, June 1st, at which three Peterborough vocalists will take part, viz: Miss Dunn, soprano; Mr. M. J. Tierney, tenor; and Mr. T. Dunn, baritone. This trio will charm the Port Hope people as they have from time to time the congregation of St. Peter's, Peterborough.

Cobourg, Blairton and Marmora Ry.

The Cobourg Sentinel-Star says: "The Cobourg, Blairton and Marmora Railway and Mining Company Bill, a copy of which has been sent us by our member, Mr. Geo. Guillet, was read a second time on the 27th, and referred to the Railway Committee. The bill cannot be considered, probably, before the 7th, or 10th of June. The bill is to incorporate a railway and mining company, the first directors named in the bill being Messrs. T. P. Pearce, James Crossen, Joseph Henderson, J. B. Pearce and F. S. Waters. The object of the railway is to give a direct route to the mines, and if the company can succeed, with the assistance of the municipalities interested in starting it a large section of country would be opened up that now has no railway facilities. The route to Blairton, which is on a line that could be easily extended to connect with the Canadian Pacific Railway, would enable the Company to touch at Fenella, Burnley, Warkworth, Campbellford, etc., and this trade be diverted to Cobourg. The opening up of this line would also make the establishment of smelting works here almost a surety, as no better point could be selected. Now is the time for our people to look into this matter, and if anything can be done towards furthering the undertaking, have it done at once."

Toronto Conservatory of Music.

The rapid strides musical taste has made in this country within the past few years must have attracted the attention of all who are interested in the Art, and the necessity for carefully nurturing and the proper development of this taste must be apparent to every musical educationist. It is satisfactory therefore to learn that in Canada we are to have a conservatory or college of music similar in its design and objects to the world-renowned conservatories of Germany, Italy, France, England and the United States. The extraordinary success of these institutions is largely based upon the fact that a complete musical education—from the rudimentary principles to the highest form of graduation, and virtually in all departments of music—may be obtained from first-class teachers at rates within the reach of the general public. Mr. Edward Fisher, so well known as conductor of the Toronto Choral Society, Vice-President and founder of the Royal Canadian Society of Musicans, etc., has succeeded in organizing a largely capitalized joint stock company to establish the Toronto Conservatory of Music, to go into operation in September next. Among the very large board of Directors of the Company are such eminent men as Senator George W. Allen, President; Hon. Chancellor Boyd and Geo. A. Cox, of Peterborough, Vice-Presidents; A. M. Cosby, Treasurer; Hon. S. H. Blak, W. B. McMurrich, James Maclennan, Q. C.; D. A. O'Sullivan, etc.

LITTLE LAKE CEMETERY.

Crowd's of Visitors on Sunday—This Year's Improvements.

Many townspeople took advantage of the bright, warm, breezy weather on Sunday afternoon and visited the Little Lake Cemetery. Before the afternoon was half over the rustic seats situated in secluded shade were nearly all occupied; on the winding walks and drives people strolled enjoying the shade of the bending trees and the fragance of springtime,

The growth of the grass this last month has been very rapid, so rapid indeed as to defy the mower. The grounds, however, are very neatly kept. The flower beds have been laid out in different places and the plants are putting on their brightest hues.

Much has been done to improve the addition made to the cemetery last fall. Four hundred young trees of different kinds have been set out, including walnuts, hard and soft maples, European mountain ash, oak leaf mountain ash, horse chestnuts, red cedars, spruce, together with purple fringe and shrubs of different sorts. One hundred and fifty young American elms have been planted all round the outside of the adition, and bordering Ware Avenue and Lake View Avenue. A cedar hedge, which now appears to be growing well, has been set out from the main entrance up to the drive in front of the first fountain. Flower beds will be shortly laid out to each side of the main entrance.

Mr. Kelly, the superintendent, and his five assistants are kept quite busy in attending to all that is necessary to do, and certainly the cemetery this year more than ever speaks of Mr. Kelly's assiduous care.

For a neat fitting Mantle, Dolman, or Wrap, made and trimmend with the newest materials, call at Turnbull's.

THE C. M. B. A.

The Peterborough Branch Present an Address to Bishop Dowling.

About 2 p. m. on Sunday the members of the Peterborough Branch of the C. M. B. A. assembled in the library of the Murray St. School House, for the purpose of presenting an addres to his Lordship Bishop Dowling. There were also a large number of the Cathredal congregation present. Precisely at 2.30 his Lordship arrived, accompanied by the Rev. P. Conway, and Messrs. O'Meara, Sullivan and Hackett. His Lordship having been escorted to a seat, the following address was read by the president, the gentlemen present respectfully standing:

To the Right Reverend J. J. Dowling, D.D., Bishop of Peterborough:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR LORDSHIP,—We, the members of St. Peter's Branch, No. 30, of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association, desire to extend to you our respectful congratulations on your attainment to the exalted position you now occupy.

The knowledge that your Lordship is a member of our Society fills us with pardonable pride, and we justly consider that this fact is the best evidence that can possibly be adduced that our Association is one worthy of the confidence of the Catholic community at large, and that your Lordship's approbation, joined with that of the other Bishops of Canada, cannot fail to materially promote its advancement.

We have already obtained your Lordship's gracious approval and official sanction of our objects, and we now respecfully ask you to add the great weight of your personal assistance to our humble efforts by pointing out as opportunity offers the merits of our Association, and the practical advantages accruing to the beneficiaries of deceased brothers.

We do not intend to dilate upon the feelings of satisfaction animating all the members of the Association on receiving the glad tidings of your promotion to your present dignity. These sentiments have already been more approbriately expressed through the columns of the society's official organs in Canada and the United States, and we can only record our personal gratification that so illustrious a member has been placed in charge of the episcopal see of Peterborough.

We would humbly ask your Lordship in addition to your other sacrifices to sever your connection with the Paris Branch with which you have been so many years associated, and to transfer your membership to the Peterborough Branch, and we would be doubly grateful if you could occasionally attend our meetings, and by your presence and kind words encourage and direct us in the work we have to perform.

We repectfully solicit your Lordship's blessing on our Branch and its individual members, and that you may long be spared to rule over this diocese, and that by your guidance Catholic society may receive an impetus onward and upward in moral and intellectual culture. Your valuable counsel is solicited to promote our society and awaken among our people interest in an association which confers such tangible benefits on afflicted homes.

Signed on behalf of the St. Peter's Branch of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association.

J. O'MEARA, President,
F. H. BRENNAN, Rec.-Sec.
J. D. MCILMOYLE, Fin.-Sec.
M. SULLIVAN, Treasurer.

The Bishop made a pleasing and eloquent reply, of which we can give a mere synopsis. No newspaper report can do justice to the beauty of his language nor the ease and facility with which he delivered his opinions. He expressed the great gratification it afforded him to receive an address from the local branch of the C. M. B. A. He alluded to the fact that he had been presented with addresses from the clergy, from the laity in general, and now a particular society, the C. M. B. A., had come forward to give expression to their sentiments of good will. He said he did not appropriate to himself the various expressions of fidelity which had been uttered. It was in his capacity as a Bishop of God's Holy Church that parties approached him with utterances of respect and devotion. The Bishop then referred to the C. M. B. A. and its workings. It was the antidote of secret societies which destroyed the moral life of Catholic men at the present time. Catholics formerly might have considered themselves justified, looking at the matter from a pecuniary standpoint, in joining societies disproved of by the Church, but now no such excuse existed, as there were many Catholic organizations which paid a stipulated sum to the widows and orphans of deceased members. The C. M. B. A. was one of these societies. He was himself a member of the Association and had many opportunities of observing the good it accomplished. His Lordship cited several instances which had come under his own notice in Western Ontario where the families of members had been saved from penury through its intervention. He also referred to the fact that several educational and charitable institutions to his own knowledge had benefitted through deceased members having bequeathed the amount of their certificates in aid of these places. He advised young men and married men with families to join. His Holiness the Pope had given his blessing to these organizations but while encouraging them it must not be understood that because they were called Catholic the church was in any way responsible for their acts. The C. M. B. A., was a society of business men, governed on business principles. As a business society it is responsible to the public in its corporate capacity, and the church had nothing to do with its business transactions. However so long as charity was combined with business, relief brought to the suffering poor, so long as its members were practical Catholics, and as long as the society was in harmony with the church bishops like himself found themselves free to approve of it. Members should remember that when paying calls they were performing a work of the purest charity, perhaps saving some family which might otherwise be left destitute from want and misery. If these calls were paid in a Christain spirit their reward would be ten fold even if they derived no temporal benefit from the association. It was this that the church approved of and it was the charitable and religious objects of the society that she sought to encourage, but the temporal advantages were also very great. Numbers of the society leaving their homes seeking to obtain employment in other places found themselves taken in hand by officers of the society who did all in their power to assist and help them along. Many priests belonged to the C. M. B. A. for the purpose of encouraging the members He would sometimes attend their meetings as requested, and some future time take the opportunity of referring more at length to the society. He encouraged all to join and closed a very eloquent empromptu effort by again expressing his pleasure at meeting the members of the C. M. B. A., and a number of the congregation. Mr. O'Meara then introduced the members by name, after which introductions to non members followed. After conversing in a very affable and friendly way for about fifteen minutes, His Lordship and the Rev. P. Conway left the hall and returned to the cathedral, where he invested about two hundred children with the Scapular and administered a total abstinance pledge to over one hundred boys who had early in the morning received at his hands the sacred rite of confirmation.

Just arrived at Turnbull's, Gobelin and Drab Cashmeres with handsome trimmings to match, correct shades for the season.

POLICE COURT.

A STIR AT AUBURN.

MONDAY, May 30.—The court this morning was tenanted with Auburn citizens, most of whom were interested in the cases before the court. Mr. T. Menzies, J.P., presided. The first case was that of Adams vs. Mrs. Halpin, in which the defendant was charged with allowing a cow to run at large. As the defendant was not present the case was shelved till Wednesday.

M. McQuade was next called on to give an account of his bovines. He said that he was not guilty of the charge.

Mr. BELL swore that Mr. McQuade's cows did run at large on the 24th and 25th.

Mr. MCQUADE.—You swear that?

Mr. Bell—I swear it.

Mr. MCQUADE—Well, now, I can give evidence that I sold them cows before the 24th. Mr. McQuade said something about not being a customer at Mr. Bell's grocery, and that the case was one of spite or something to that effect, and then sat down.

The MAGISTRATE ruled that the evidence was so conflicting the case would be left over till Mr. Dumble came back. He would have nothing to do with it.

George Billings denied that his heifer ran at large. No witnesses were able to identify George's heifer and that case was also left over till Wednesday.

Wm. Cumming acknowleged that a horse of his had got about ten yards into town, but he brought him back soon after. He was fined $1.

Wm. H. Carr was also fined $1 for allowing his cow ran at large.

Thos. Ray's case was also kept over till Wednesday.

Mrs Kempt pleaded not guilty to the charge that she let her cow run on the streets. "Its just like this, Your Worship," said she, "Mrs. Fleming that lives next to me has often drove my cow home and milked her without knowing but that it was her own cow she was milking. Now it's for Mr. Bell to prove whose cow it was that was a running on the roads."

Mr. BELL seemed to be quiet overcome by this speech. He could not swear for certain, but he thought it was Mrs. Kempt's.

The JUSTICE said that unless Mr. Bell could swear that it was Mrs. Kempt's cow he could not proceed with the case.

The CLERK—He said he thinks it was Mrs. Kempt's cow.

Mrs. Kempt was quite amused at this. That seemed to be the whole nut and kernal of the contention. She defied Mr. Bell to prove it for certain.

This case was also laid over for Mr. Dumble.

TRADE IN

Our MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT, and did we judge alone by the crowds that daily claim attention of our salesmmen advertising this class of goods would be unnecessary—almost a waste of money But then, you know, there's two sides to every subject, Here's the other side to this one, and at the same time our reason for advertising when there's no apparent necessity for doing so.

In making up our stock in this department we provided for great numbers—for many more than have as yet taken advantage of its completeness, to furnish themselves with millinery suitable for the season.

It will therefore require "crowds long continued" to clear out tables of the enormus stock of Millinery with which they are loaded —over-loaded.

A continuous demand then being necessary, we knew of no better way to insure it than to keep you informed as to just what we have and how we are prepared to sell it. We shall, therefore, from now till the close of the season, devote some portion of our card to Millinery News.

We have already said that our stock was large. We have also intimated that our assortment was complete. Now for our goods.

We have just received a six dozen lot of Ladies' and Children's Hats which are the newest in shape and bought at half their value.

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Lech's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

A Meeting in the George Street Church —Music and Addresses.

A meeting was held in the George Street Methodist Church on Tuesday evening under the auspices of that church Auxiliary of the Women's Missionary Society. There was a very good attendance. The Rev. I. Tovell, the pastor, said that, owing to Conference work on hand, he would be unable to preside, but in the Rev. Mr. Leach he had an excellent substitute. Mr. Leach then took the chair and the meeting was opened with devotional exercises.

The CHAIRMAN said that they were all familiar with the objects of the Society. The church was not fully awake to the opportunities afforded of extending the work through this agency. The operations of the Society during the past year had been very successful, as was shown by the reports from the various mission fields. It had almost illimitable opportunities, the only limitation to their work being financial.

Mrs. Daly then sang very sweetly "Consider the Lilies." Miss I. Willoughby, B. A., read a selection, "The Dying Soldier's Wife," in a manner that showed her to be an accomplished elocutionist. Mr. Jacques sang a solo "The Good Shepherd," which was highly appreciated.

The CHAIRMAN said that when the history of the century was reviewed a matter for great surprise would be the fact that the church was so long in recognizing the services which women could render in the mission work. There was no better time for a strenuous effort than the fiftieth year of Her Majesty's reign. He referred to the progress the Empire had made during the half century in extension of territory, increase of population, literature and commerce. The population of the Empire was over 300,000,000, so that about every fourth person on the globe was a British subject. The religious progress made had been very gratifying, but it had not been as great as it should have been in comparison with the progress of the Empire in other ways. He urged them to renewed efforts.

The congregation, led by the choir, sang a hymn.

The Rev. C. L. THOMPSON, of Odessa, who had been for eleven years engaged in missionary work in British Columbia, then delivered an interesting and masterly address. He felt, he said, encouraged on account of the interest that women were taking in missionary work. To-day there were many who, from the deep love they bore to their fellow-women, would not only give of their time and substance, but would devote their lives to missionary work. Some years ago, in a mission field in British Columbia, it was impossible to get twelve men together in a prayer gathering, but the time of the prosperity of the mission work there had dated from the entrance of two Christian women with their husbands. The Methodist Church had more men in the British Columbia field now than any other. He told of the dangers experienced in navigating the Georgian Gulf in a canoe, and described the steamer Glad Tidings, which had been wrongly reported lost with the Rev. Mr. Crosby on board. Methodist pulpits were not always in fine edifices like the one he was speaking in. He had preached in a dance hall, with a billiard table for a pulpit. They always preached Christ, and although the results were sometimes not at once seen, they saw the fruit afterwards. Their aim should be high — the conversion of the world. They could aim at nothing more and should stop at nothing less. All people had a longing after a God, and as they traced back the traditions of the Indians of British Columbia they found they had been nearer the heart of the true God. They, however, like all people, rose no higher in their worship than their conceptions of the Deity. Among those Indians they found beggary, ignorance and filth. Christ came to reconcile the world to God and he only could do it and could answer the cry that came from the inner consciousness of every man for God. When white men came to this continent they brought the Gospel with them, yet they had not all accepted it, and how then could the heathen be expected to receive it? Japan had drifted from her moorings and was in danger of being wrecked on the rocks of refined skepticism, and from there came the Macedonian cry, "come over and help us." The inner self of the Japanese was crying out for the living God. Who would give them the knowledge they sought? They had missionaries in that field, but they could only work in accordance with the assistance sent to them. This society had only been organized a short time, but they should remember the value of one soul reclaimed from darkness. They came to border lands of Christ's kingdom. There were strong walls of wickedness and superstition to overcome, stronger than the walls of Jericho, but they could beat them down. Would they retreat? There might be seeming retreats, but no real ones. Miss Lawrence had returned from the Pacific, but others were ready to fill a place there. He related an incident connected with Miss Lawrence's mission work in British Columbia, when she went a hundred miles alone to teach the Indians about Christ. There were six or eight hundred millions of people without Christ, But they were making progress. More progress had been made in the past 80 years than in the previous 800 years. There was a great work to be done. They had come to a point in their history when a special sacrifice was needed. The regeneration of the world was the cry of liberty. It was the cry of Nihilists, Socialists, and Anarchists. Would they have regeneration from such sources? No, that would be a reversal of progress. When they looked back they saw the grand army of the Lord marching through the dark ages, but now they were marching into the light. Light was spreading, driving back darkness, dispersing the gloom and drawing souls to the living God. Missionaries had penetrated all through China. The time was hastening when the kingdoms of this world would acknowledge Christ. All they had seen of culture and of lifting up of the heathen was through the love of Christ. None could separate them from the love of God. Should they come and say they were simply bringing their frankincsene of prayer to God? That was not enough. They must give gold and silver. They wanted the alter to santify the gift. They wanted to lay on it, not a portion of their time or substance, but their all, that all might be sanctified. If they sent a missionary to a heathen land, they were missionaries, and in Heaven a Japanese or a Chinamen might tell them they owed their knowledge of Christ to them.

The National Anthem was sung and the meeting dismissed with the benediction.

DROWNING ACCIDENT.—On Sunday night George Lotts went up the river to the cemetry. While returning a sudden gust of wind upset the canoe, and the unfortunate young man's feet became so entangled with the carpet of the canoe that he was unable to extricate himself. His body was found about seven minutes later, but life was extinct. Deceased was a promising young man about 24 years of age. He was a member of No. 4 Company, 45th Battalion.

Mr. MILLS asked if instructions had been sent to the Revising Officers not to perform their duties.

QUEEN'S, N. B.

The SPEAKER summoned Mr. Dunn, of Queen's, N. B., to the bar of the House.

Mr. DUNN on the first question being put by Mr. Weldon, asked to be allowed counsel.

Mr. THOMPSON moved that Mr. Dunn be allowed counsel as usual in such cases.

Mr. WELDON fiercely protested against this, as did Mr. Davies and other Opposition members.

Mr. CHAPLEAU taunted the so-called Liberals with their want of liberality. For weeks they had been branding this man as a criminal worthy of gaol, and now they said he was only a witness who should not be allowed counsel.

Mr EDGAR moved that he should be allowed counsel after he had answered all their questions.

Sir J. MACDONALD said this was giving up the whole case, for if counsel were allowed at all it should be when it would be of use. He proved by the practice and precedent that Mr. Dunn had a right to counsel.

Mr. LAURIER and other Opposition members still argued for refusing counsel.

Mr. EDGAR'S amendment was negatived by 119 to 43. Mr. Mackenzie and other Reformers voting in the majority, which was 76.

Mr. THOMPSON'S motion on the demand of the Opposition was put to the vote and was carried by 146 to 2.

Mr. WELDON, assisted by Mr. Davies and others, then questioned Mr. Dunn, who was advised by counsel. The examination was tedious and ludicrous, the only important evidence elicited being that Mr. Dunn had returned Mr. Baird, though, having a minority of votes, instead of Mr. King, because after hearing the arguments he considered that Mr. King had not been properly nominated and so could not be returned as a man having a majority of the legal votes, the return he made being on the legal advice of Mr. McLeod Q. C., Ex-Attorney-General.

Mr. LANDRY moved that Mr. Dunn be discharged from further attendance.

The motion was carried without opposition.

THE METHODIST CONFERENCE.

Four years ago the Toronto Conference of the Methodist Church of Canada held its annual session in Peterborough; to-morrow the members of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist Church assemble. At the former session the subject of union was the most important one dealt with, and many will remember the debate, which lasteds everal days and on one night into the small hours of the morning. That union was consummated, and, in consequence, the Conference which now assembles here is the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist Church, the united body dropping the words "of Canada."

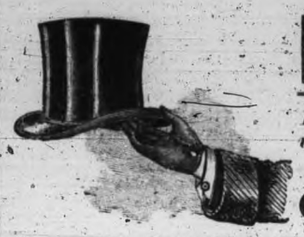
The union of the several bodies—the Methodist Church of Canada, the Methodist Episcopal Church, the Bible Christian Church and the Primitive Methodist Church—added a large number of clergymen to the connection. In addition the Bible Christian system of having the laity represented in the Conference was adopted, which further augmented the number of members of the Church courts. There was, therefore, a readjustment of the Annual Conference boundaries, and new conferences were organized, the Bay of Quinte Conference being one of them.

Many faces which became familiar at the session in 1883 will be missed in this assemblage. The then President, Dr. Cochrane, will not be present. The brothers Hunter and others who took leading parts in the debates will be absent, as they are membe. s of other Conferences, and the venerable Dr. Rice has departed to his eternal home. Dr. Dewart and Dr. A. Sutherland, though not members of this Conference, will probably be present to explain the connectional work in their charge and present the claims of those interests. Many, however, eloquent and earnest ministers, who were present at the last Conference here, will be in attendance again, and many who were then connected with other Methodist bodies will be present. The Rev. Dr. Carman, General Superintendent, formerly Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, will be one of these, as well as the Rev. Dr. Badgley and others who were formerly connected with other Churches, while the presence of lay delegates will be a marked change in the assemblage.

It is not probable that any question as important as the union will come before the conference, though there may be a discussion on a subject of little less moment, namely, the federation of Victoria College with the Provincial University. Many matters of considerable interest will most probably be [illegible] Conference having such important interests and numerous circuits and missions under its charge will always have work to do of more or less importance to the members of the Church. The progress made during the year in the general and principal work of the Church, and the financial position and success of the missionary and other educational branches will be reviewed, and these are not only important to those engaged in the work, but are also of interest to all who desire the spread of the Gospel and the progress of Christianity.

The people of Peterborough welcome the clergymen and delegates to the town, and join in trusting that their stay here may be a pleasant one, and that their deliberations may result in benefit to the important work under their charge.

LEADERSHIP BY COMMISSION.



If our Parliamentary system can be reduced to a farce, it surely will be if Mr. Blake continues to leave the management of the Opposition to the other members of the commission for executing the office of Opposition-leader. On Monday he was out of the House, and so was Sir Richard Cartwright, who with all his faults is not destitute of brains, so Messrs. Weldon, Davies, Laurier, Mills, Edgar, Casey, &c., with Mr. Mitchell as an ally, disported themselves in the most ludicrous manner. They had brought Mr. Dunn, returning-officer for Queen's, N.B., to the bar of the House to pronounce his condemnation, for they had condemned him already, and then they were utterly at a loss what to do with him. They raged at the idea of the man they had arraigned, tried and condemned as a criminal having counsel to assist him, maintaining that he was only a witness. Then they moved such an absurd amendment, allowing counsel only when too late to be of any use, that they drove Mr. Mackenzie and a number of other Reformers into voting against them, so as to raise the Ministerial majority to 76. And the climax was reached when after ranting for hours against Mr. Thompson's motion to allow counsel, they were so impressed at last with the absurdity of their own opposition, that they voted for it with the exception of two, thus bringing the Ministerial majority for the moment to 162. Their examination, which they spun out for the rest of the session, was as ridiculous, the only fact of any importance that was elicted being that Mr. Dunn had acted on the advice of Mr. McLeod, Q.C., ex-Attorney-General. The farce terminated with the discharge of Mr. Dunn from further attendance, and that was the end.

Now it is certain that Mr. Dunn was wrong in one way or another. If Mr. King was not a properly qualified candidate he should not have been allowed a poll: Mr. Dunn's contention is that he was mistaken in allowing the poll, but that his mistake did not alter the fact of Mr. King being disqualified upon which he acted. That he obtained high legal opinion relieves him from the charge of wilful wrongdoing, but though we may defer to the opinion of the Q.C., and ex-Attorney-General, as to the technical law point we are by no means convinced that justice has been done. If it has not the fault lies with Mr. King and with this farcical Opposition in commission. There is a court especially for deciding such cases, but they declined to resort to it, preferring to go to a court only for a penalty against the Returning-Officer, and to wrangle for the seat in the House in the hope of making political capital. Their degree of success in this speculation was that they reduced themselves to 76 of a minority and then all but annihilated their party vote.

DUNN'S BAKING POWDER

THE COOK'S BEST FRIEND

JESS.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD.

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," etc

And so, even in this hour of her intense bitterness and grief, a gleam of comfort struggled to Jess' breast just as the first ray of dawn was struggling through the stormy night. She would sacrifice herself to her sister—that she had determined on; and hence came that cold gleam of happiness, for there is happiness in self sacrifice, whatever the cynical may say. At first her woman's nature had risen in rebellion against the thought. Why should she throw her life away? She had as good a right to him as Bessie, and she knew that by the strength of her own hand she could hold him against Bessie in all her beauty, however far things had gone between them; and she believed, as a jealous woman is prone to do, that they had gone much farther than they had.

But by and by her better self rose up and mastered the promptings of her heart. Bessie loved him, and Bessie was weaker than she and less suited to bear pain, and she had sworn to her dying mother—for Bessie had been her mother's darling—to promote her happiness, and, come what would, to comfort and protect her by every means in her power. It was a wide oath, and she was only a child when she took it, but it bound her conscience none the less, and surely it covered this. Besides, she dearly loved her—far, far more than she loved herself. No, Bessie should have her lover, and she should never know what it had cost her to give him up; and as for herself, well, she must go away like a wounded buck, and hide till she got well—or died.

She laughed a drear little laugh, and went and brushed her hair just as the broad lights of the dawn came streaming across the misty veldt. But she did not look at her face again in the glass; she cared no more about it now. Then she threw herself down to sleep the sleep of utter exhaustion before it was time to go out again and face the world and her new sorrow.

Poor Jess! Love's young dream had not overshadowed her for long. It had tarried just three hours. But it had left other dreams behind.

"Uncle," said Jess that morning to old Silas Croft as he stood by the kraal gate, where he had been counting out the sheep—an operation requiring great quickness of eye, and on the accurate performance of which he greatly prided himself.

"Yes, yes, my dear, I know what you are going to say. It was very neatly done, it isn't everybody who can count out 60 running, hungry sheep without a mistake. But, then, I oughtn't to say too much, for you see I have been at it for fifty years, in the Old Colony and here. Now, many a man would get fifty sheep wrong. There's Niel now"——

"Uncle," said she, wincing a little at the name, as a horse with a sore back winces at the touch of the saddle, "it wasn't about the sheep that I was going to speak to you. I want you to do me a favor."

"A favor! Why, God bless the girl, how pale you look!—not but what you are always pale. Well, what is it now?"

"I want to go up to Pretoria by the post cart that leaves Wakkerstroom to-morrow afternoon, and to stop for a couple of months with my schoolfellow Jane Neville. I have often promised to go, and I have never gone."

"Well, I never," said the old man. "My stay at home Jess wanting to go away, and without Bessie, too! What is the matter with you?"

"I want a change, uncle, I do, indeed. I hope you won't thwart me in this."

Her uncle looked at her steadily with his keen, gray eyes.

"Humph!" he said, "you want to go away, and there's an end of it. Best not ask too many questions where a maid is concerned. Very well, my dear, go if you like, though I shall miss you."

"Thank you, uncle," she said, and kissed him, and then turned and went.

Old Croft took off his broad hat and polished his bald head with a red pocket handkerchief.

"There's something up with that girl," he said aloud to a lizard that had crept out of the crevices of the stone wall to bask in the sun. "I am not such a fool as I look, and I say that there is something wrong with her. She is odder than ever," and he hit viciously at the lizard with his stick, whereon it promptly bolted into its crack, returning presently to see if the irate "human" had departed.

"However," he soliloquized, as he made his way up to the house, "I am glad that it was not Bessie.—I couldn't bear, at my time of life, to part with Bessie even for a couple of months."

CHAPTER VIII.

JESS GOES TO PRETORIA.

That day, at dinner, Jess suddenly announced that she was going on the morrow to Pretoria to see Jane Neville.

"To see Jane Neville!" said Bessie, opening her blue eyes wide. "Why, it was only last month you said that you did not care about Jane Neville now, because she had grown so vulgar. Don't you remember when she stopped here on her way down to Natal last year, and held up her fat hands, and said: 'Ah, Jess—Jess is a genius!—It is a privilege to know her.' And then she wanted you to quote Shakespeare to that lump of a brother of hers, and you told her that if she did not hold her tongue she would not enjoy the privilege much longer. And now you want to go and stop with her for two months! Well, Jess, you are odd. And, what's more, I think it is very unkind of you to go away for so long."

To all of which prattle Jess said nothing, but merely reiterated her determination to go.

John, too, was astonished and, to tell the truth, not a little disgusted. Since the previous day, when he had that talk with her by Lion Kloof, Jess had assumed a clearer and more definite interest in his eyes. Before that she had been an enigma; now he had guessed enough about her to make him anxious to know more. Indeed, he had not perhaps realized how strong and definite his interest was till he heard that she was going away for a long period. Suddenly it struck him that the farm would be very dull without this interesting woman moving about the place in her silent, resolute kind of way. Bessie was, no doubt, delightful and charming to look on, but she had not got her sister's brains and originality; and John Niel was sufficiently above the ordinary run to thoroughly appreciate intellect and originality in a woman, instead of standing aghast at it. She interested him intensely, to say the least of it, and, manlike, he felt exceedingly put out, and even sulky, at the idea of her departure. He looked at her in remonstrance, and even, in awkwardness begotten of his irritation, knocked down the vinegar cruet and made a mess upon the table; but she evaded his eyes and took no notice of the vinegar. Then, feeling that he had done all that in him lay, he went to see about the ostriches; first of all hanging about a little to see if Jess would come out, which she did not. Indeed, he saw nothing more of her till supper time. Bessie told him that she said she was busy packing; but, as one can only take twenty pounds' weight of luggage in a post cart, this did not quite convince him that it was so in fact.

At supper she was, if possible, even more quiet than she had been at dinner. After it was over he asked her to sing, but she declined, saying that she had given up singing for the present, and persisting in her statement in spite of the chorus of remonstrance it aroused. The birds only sing while they are mating; and if is, by the way, a curious thing, and suggestive of the theory that the same great principles pervade all nature, that Jess, now that her trouble had overtaken her, and that she had lost her love which had suddenly sprung from her heart—full grown and clad in power as Athena sprung from the head of Jove—had no further inclination to use her divine gift of song. It probably was a curious one.

The arrangement was that on the morrow Jess was to be driven in the Cape cart to Martinus Wesselstroom, more commonly called Wakkerstroom, and there catch the post cart, which was timed to leave the town at midday, though when it would leave was quite another matter. Post carts are not particular to a day or so in the Transvaal.

Old Silas Croft was going to drive her with Bessie, who had some shopping to do in Wakkerstroom, as ladies sometimes have; but at the last moment the old man got a premonitory twinge of the rheumatism, to which he was a martyr, and could not go, so, of course, John volunteered, and, though Jess raised some difficulties, Bessie furthered the idea, and in the end his offer was accepted.

Accordingly at 8:30 on a beautiful morning up came the tented cart, with its two massive wheels, stout stinkwood disselboom, and four spirited young horses; to the head of which the Hottentot Jantje, assisted by the Zulu Mouti, clad in the sweet simplicity of a mocha, a few feathers in his wool, and a horn snuff box stuck through the fleshy part of the ear, hung grimly on. In they got—John first, then Bessie next to him, then Jess. Next Jantje scrambled up behind; and after some preliminary backing and plunging, and showing a disposition to twine themselves affectionately round the orange trees, off went the horses at a hand gallop, and away swung the cart after them, in a fashion that would have frightened anybody not accustomed to that mode of progression pretty well out of his wits. As it was, John had as much as he could do to keep the four horses together and to prevent them from bolting, and this alone, to say nothing of the rattling and jolting of the vehicle over the uneven track was sufficient to put a stop to any attempt at conversation.

Wakkerstroom was about eighteen miles from Mooifontein, a distance that they covered well within the two hours. Here the horses were outspanned at the hotel, and John went into the house whence the post cart was to start and booked Jess' seat, and then joined the ladies at the "Kantoor," or store where they were shopping. After the shopping was done they went back to the inn together and had some dinner; by which time the Hottentot driver of the cart began to tune up lustily, but unmelodiously, on a bugle to inform intending passengers that it was time to start. Bessie was out of the room at the moment, and, with the exception of a peculiarly dirty looking coolie waiter, there was nobody about.

"How long are you going to be away, Miss Jess?" asked John.

"Two months, more or less, Capt. Niel."

"I am very sorry that you are going," he said, earnestly. "It will be very dull at the farm without you."

"There will be Bessie for you to talk to," she answered, turning her face to the window and affecting to watch the inspanning of the post cart in the yard on which it looked.

"Capt. Niel," she said, suddenly.

"Yes!"

"Mind you look after Bessie while I am away. Listen: I am going to tell you something. You know Frank Muller?"

"Yes, I know him, and a very disagreeable fellow he is."

"Well, he threatened Bessie the other day, and he is a man who is quite capable of carrying out a threat. I can't tell you anything more about it, but I want you to promise me to protect Bessie if any occasion for it should arise. I do not know that it will, but it might. Will you promise?"

"Of course I will; I would do a great deal more than that if you asked me to, Jess," he answered, tenderly, for now that she was going away he felt curiously drawn toward her, and was anxious to show it.

"Never mind me," she said, with an impatient little movement. "Bessie is sweet enough and lovely enough to be looked after for her own sake, I should think."

Before he could say any more in came Bessie herself, saying that the driver was waiting, and they went out to see her sister off.

"Don't forget your promise," Jess whispered to him, bending down as he helped her into the cart, so low that her lips almost touched him and her breath rested for a second on his cheek like the ghost of a kiss.

In another moment the sisters had embraced each other, tenderly enough; the driver had sounded once more on his awful bugle, and away went the cart at full gallop, bearing with it Jess, two other passengers and her majesty's mails. John and Bessie stood for a moment watching its mad career, as it went splashing and banging down the straggling street toward the wide plains beyond, and then turned to enter the inn again and prepare for their homeward drive. As they did so a Dutch Boer, named Hans Coetzee, with whom John was already slightly acquainted, came up, holding an enormously big and thick hand, but them "Gooden daag." Hans Coetzee was a very favorable specimen of the better sort of Boer, and really came more or less up to the ideal picture that is so often drawn of that "simple pastoral people." He was a very large, stout man, with a fine open face and a pair of kindly eyes. John, looking at him, guessed that he could not weigh less than seventeen stone, and he was well within the mark at that.

"How are you, captein?" he said in English, for he could talk English well, "and how do you like the Transvaal? must not call it South African Republic now, you know, for that's treason," and his eyes twinkled merrily.

"I like it very much, meinheer," said John.

"Ah, yes, it's a beautiful veldt, especially about here—no horse sickness, no 'blue tongue,' and a good strong grass for the cattle. And you must find yourself very snug at Om (Uncle) Croft's there; it's the nicest place in the district, with the ostriches and all. Not that I hold with ostriches in this veldt; they are well enough in the Old Colony, but they won't breed here—at least, not as they should do. I tried them once and I know; oh, yes, I know."

"Yes, it is a very fine country, meinheer. I have been all over the world almost, and I never saw a finer."

"You don't say so, now! Almighty, what a thing it is to have traveled! Not that I should like to travel myself. I think that the Lord meant us to stop in the place he has made for us. But it is a fine country, and (dropping his voice) I think it is a free country than it used to be."

"You mean that the veldt has got 'tame,' meinheer."

To be Continued.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we life in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d90

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little suffere at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Our Prices May Startle You, But We Cannot Help That!

THE CHEAPSIDE SHEPPARD PETERBOROUGH

Has the following drives at the prices annexed, and they are positively cheaper, all things being equal, than are shown by any house in the trade. They came into our hands at the prices simply because SHEPPARD bought up the whole stock at a price.

METHODIST CHURCH.

FOURTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BAY OF QUINTE CONFERENCE.

Addresses by the General Superintendent, Dr. Carman—The Rev. John Learoyd Elected President—First Draft of Stations.

The annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Methodist Church commenced in the George Street Methodist Church this morning.

At nine o'clock the Rev. J. S. Clarke, President, took the chair and conducted the Conference prayer meeting. Hymn No. 108, All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name, was sung. During the prayer meeting hymns No. 559, 418, 420 and 561 were sung and the following

The Rev A Carman, D D., Senior General Superintendent, then took the chair and the Rev Joseph Young, Secretary, read a psalm and a chapter from I Corinthians. Hymn No. 661 was sung and the President led the Conference in prayer, the General Superintendent leading in the Lord's Prayer.

Clergymen, led the conference in prayer:—The Revs. Messrs. Cragg, W. Limbert, Wilson, A. R. Campbell, E. M. Baker, M. A. A Campbell, James Greener, T W Pickett nd M L Pearson, and the meeting closed with the benediction by the President.

The Rev. Dr. CARMAN said that he wished to present some things for their consideration. He called their attention to some points in the legislation of the General Conference. The tendency of that legislation was to combine them in love and give them confidence. He saw that tendency in increasing the power of the Annual Conferences and their Presidents, and he rejoiced in it. They saw the same tendencies in the enlarged sphere of the Sabbath Schools, and he urged them to be true to that work. He read a number of citations from the journals of the General Conference which effected the Annual Conferences especially, and the work directly under its charge. Young men were wanted for the work in the Northwest. They knew how their fathers had taken possession of Ontario, and they should not shrink from self-sacrifice in extending the work in the Northwest. He was thankful to God because he believed that all the officers in charge of the departmental work would come before them with reports of success. The Book Room had a surplus of $20,000, $6,000 of which had gone into the Superannuation Fund and enabled he Treasurer to meet all claims. The College work had been very successful. He had only one conviction in respect to that part of the work. They needed their ladies' colleges. He then referred to the educational contribution of the church, and to the educational policy of the church. The policy had been settled by the General Conference on the line of Federation. That was therefore the policy of the church, and as loyal brethren they should stand by the policy. Some brethren said that they must have $450,000. He believed that to be the mind of the most earnest and liberal advocates of federation. He believed the truest friend of federation was he who desired to have it placed on some financial basis. To go in weak was to go in dead. He hoped they would stand for cash basis, and while they cried, "cash basis," he hoped they would place down some cash. The spirit of confidence and fraternity was growing in the church and God was blessing their united Methodism.

He referred to the action of the Montreal Conference on the Temperance question, and said that when the crisis came they must be united. He hoped they would never again see the spectacle of the last election. Politics were as sacred before God as ethics or theology. Were politicians to shut their mouths with some petty political prejudice? He hoped they would be united on the question and speak! speak! and act as they speak. He concluded an eloquent address amid loud applause.

The roll of clergymen and lay delegates was called by the Secretary, and the President read the report of the Transfer Committee.

ELECTION OF PRESIDENT.

The elections of officers then took place. The first ballot for President resulted as follows, the number of ballots cast being 181:—

Rev. M. L. Pearson	76
Rev. J. Learoyd	82
Rev. Dr. Williams	15
Rev. I. Tovell	4
Rev W. Joliffe	2
Rev. T. B. Stretton	1
Rev. Dr. Burwash	1

Their being no election, a motion to adjourn was negatived and a vote was taken, resulting as follows, 92 being required for election:—

Rev. J. Learoyd	95
Rev. M. L. Pearson	85
Rev. Dr. Williams	1
Rev. Dr. Burwash	1

The result was received with applause and Mr. Learoyd was called to the platform.

Mr. LEAROYD said he had always had great confidence in the Conference, and he still retained his confidence. He would try to be honest and brotherly, and to do his duty faithfully. He further, was a Methodist preacher, and he had two sons in the Ministry. He trusted that their deliberations would result in good.

POLICE COURT.

ASSAULT.

Thursday, June 2.—Joseph Lefort was charged by A. Price with having committed an assault upon him. The defendant pleaded guilty. On enquiring into the circumstances it appeared that the assault was an unprovoked one. A fine of $5 or ten days in gaol was imposed.

AGAIN AFTER MR. SHEPPARD.

The High Constable of Montreal to Arrive With Two Warrants.

MONTREAL, June 1.—The June term of the Court of Queen's Bench opened to-day, Judge Church presiding. The Grand Jury brought in a number of true bills, among them being two true bills against Edmund E. Sheppard of the Toronto News on a charge of criminal libel, preferred by Captains Ethier and Bauset of the 65th, when that battalion was at the Northwest rebellion.

His Lordship the Bishop left for Toronto this morning to arrest Mr. Sheppard.

YOUNG'S POINT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PICNIC.—The picnic under the auspices of the Methodist Church, held here on the 24th of May, was a decided success, quite a handsome sum being realized. Great credit is due the ladies for the magnificent supper they got up.

BASE BALL.—The Lakefield club proved too strong for the home club, but a good time was spent until the rain caused the match to terminate. The utmost good followship prevailed.

HONOR ROLL.—The following is the honor roll for S. S. No. 8, Smith, for May:—

Class IV.—1st Louis Kearney, 2nd Harry J. Kearney, 3rd Jennie Kearney, 4th Frank J. Young.

Class III.—1st Ida E. Kearney, 2nd Jos. J. Walsh, 3rd Frank G. Young, 4th Amy A. Blewett.

Class II.—1st Lillie Belleghem, 2nd Dan Costello, 3rd Annie Young, 4th Frederick Young.

Part II.—1st John Belleghem, 2nd Gertie May Blewett, 3rd Minnie Ayotte, 4th Mary Anglesey.

Kidd has an eagle from the sky down to his window; $5.00 kid boots down to $4.00, down to $3.00, down to $2.50, down, down, down!

Sir Alexander Sworn In.

TORONTO, June 1.—Sir Alexander Campbell was sworn in at noon to-day at the Attorney-General's office as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, by Chief Justice Hagarty. All the members of the Cabinet were present except Mr. Pardee.

Turnbull's tailoring department is a grand success. Suits made to order from $12 to $16 out of choice patterns.

Fine Lawns and All-over Laces for summer Dresses at Turnbull's.

Hunt's Brick trowels and the Cincinnati Plastering Trowels are noted for their excellent quality. Plastering and Kalsomine Brushes up to 10|0" for sale by GEORGE STETHEM.

One of the heaviest waves of cheap dress goods that ever struck Peterborough is now on sale at Turnbull's. Forty different patterns to select from at only 12½ cents a yard.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we life in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d99

LATEST CABLE NEWS!

GLADSTONIAN DEMONSTRATIONS.

LONDON, June 1.—Preparations are being made to hold demonstrations in honor of Mr. Gladstone, at all of the places through which he passes en route to Swansea. He has consented to receive addresses at many stations, on the condition that he shall not be expected to make set speeches. In receiving a deputation at Hawarden yesterday, he said: "I must keep what little voice is left me for engagements to which I am already bound."

ROBBERS REPULSED.

LONDON, June 1.—Twelve hundred coal miners at Bachmeet, Russia, who are on on strike, attempted to rob a brewery owned by a firm of Englishmen. Yesterday fifty English workmen attached to the brewery mounted horses and resisted the attack of the strikers. Several of the workmen were killed. Many of the strikers, who are all Russians, have been arrested.

POPE AND QUEEN.

LONDON, June 1.—A Papal rescript has been issued ordering that high mass and a Te Deum shall be sung in all the Catholic churches in England in honor of the Queen's Jubilee.

THE "TIMES" ARTICLES.

LONDON, June 1.—The Times publishes the third and last of its articles on "Parnellism and Crime," detailing the history of the alleged Irish-American conspiracy. It says: "The Clan-na-gael is the soul of the National League. While the latter exists on fine speeches, etc., the former manages the real business. Our narrative shows that Mr. Parnell, Mr. Sexton and other leaders of the Home Rule party are on intimate and confidential terms with the Clan-na-gael miscreants, and that their permission or prohibition of diabolical outrages is a matter of pre-arrangement."

ANTAGONISM TO GLADSTONE.

BIRMINGHAM, June 1.—In the Radical Union Conference to-day a resolution was passed in favor of the largest possible extension of local government to Ireland, subject to the supremacy of the Imperial Parliament and the protection of the Protestant minority. The conference was attended by 2,000 delegates representing all parts of Great Britain. The tone of the speeches was bitterly anti-Gladstonian. It was the first representative unionist meeting where irreconcilable hostility to the Gladstonians has been the rallying cry. Mr. Chamberlain declared his belief that conciliation would be mere deception. Lord Hartington's letter described the Gladstonians as absorbed in the Parnellites, their only object being to retain at any cost the support of the Parnellites by their policy of following unreservedly the leadership and adopting the parliamentary methods of their Irish allies.

OPERA HOUSE FIRE.

LONDON, June 1.—One hundred and twelve persons have been reported missing since the fire in the Paris Opera House. The prefect refuses to give to the public the list of those so reported. The clearing away the debris from the site of the Opera Comique was concluded to-day. No more bodies were found. The Temps says the official number of bodies found is 70, of which 50 have been identified. Two waggon loads of charred limbs have been taken to the morgue.

THE JUBILEE.

LONDON, June 1.—The Queen's route from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey on the 21st inst. has been revised and extended, Windows along the line of march are letting for $150, and single first floor rooms for $250. Americans are credited with being the highest bidders and forcing the prices up. Ten thousand persons are to take part in the Jubilee services at Westminster Abbey.

AFGHAN REBELS.

LONDON, June 1.—The rebels in the Candahar district of Afghanistan have submitted to the Ameer because of the approach of reinforcements from Cabul by the way of Ghuzni.

THE RADICAL UNION.

LONDON, June 1.—The inaugural conference of the Radical Union was opened today at Birmingham by Mr. Joseph Chamberlain. Lord Hartington, in a letter to the conference, said the doubt and confusion surrounding the Home Rule question were still unremoved; Liberals professed to be ready to accept a modification of their original bill granting Ireland Home Rule, but they made no practical suggestion as to what would satisfy them. The action of the Gladstone Liberals, Lord Hartington said, had caused an indefinite postponement of the settlement of the Irish question. The alliance of the Gladstonians with the Parnellites had daily weakened parliamentary authority. Mr. Chamberlain, in an address, referred to the course adopted by Sir Geo. Trevelyan on the Irish question, and said he regretted that Sir Geo. Trevelyan had doffed his armour when the fight was the hottest. The Liberal-Unionists, he continued, had been taunted with their alliance with the Tories. There was satisfaction, however, in knowing that their allies were English gentlemen and not subsidized agents of a foreign conspiracy. The time seemed to be approaching when the formation of a new party would be found necessary.

THE QUEEN'S JUBILEE.

BRUSSELS, June 1.—A brilliant fete was held in the Leopold Park yesterday in honor of Queen Victoria's Jubilee. In the evening a grand banquet was given by the British residents, Lord Vivian, the British Minister, presiding. The Burgomaster eloquently toasted Queen Victoria. Lord Vivian warmly replied and toasted King Leopold. The proceedings were marked with great fervor.

THE FRENCH CRISIS.

PARIS, June 1.—There has been no repetition to-day of the disturbances made last night in front of the opera house in favour of Gen. Boulanger. The excitement has generally subsided.

RUSSIAN DESPOTISM.

BERLIN, June 1.—Negotiations are proceeding between Germany and Austria regarding the Russian ukas prohibiting aliens holding land in Russia. It is probable that a preconcerted representation will be made to the Russian Government that the ukas interferes with the proprietary rights of German and Austrian subjects.

JOY IN GERMANY.

BERLIN, June 1.—The joy felt at the downfall of Gen. Boulangor is more silent than expressed. There is very little confidence, however, in the stability of the new French Ministry.

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC.

At the time of selling our stock of Dry Goods to Sheehy & Co., we had fully determined to give up that particular branch of our business, but as previously announced, did not do so, for various reasons. However it is now our intention to dispose of the Dry Goods Trade, and have consequently made up our mind to clear out the whole stock

AT COST PRICE AND UNDER.

This is one of the BEST Dry Goods stocks in the country, having been imported from the best markets direct to ourselves. Remember, this will be a GENUINE CLEARING OUT SALE. While we will still retain our Clothing Trade, yet we will during this sale, offer ALL our Ready-made Clothing, for Men and Boys, (with all kinds of Furnishings) at COST PRICE. Remember the whole Dry Goods Stock must be sold.

THURSDAY, JUNE 2, 1887.

OUR FARMERS' MARKETS.

A DESPERATE effort is being made by Messrs. Wiman and Butterworth of the United States and their friends in Canada to persuade the Canadian farmers that they would gain by commercial union.

The annual produce of Canadian farms is estimated to exceed $100,000,000. Of this $40,000,000, or a tenth part, is exported being in excess of home requirements. The farmers of the United States export an excess of over $500,000,000, being more than the whole produce of Canadian farms. Yet our farmers are told that they would gain enormously by being allowed to export their surplus $40,000,000 to a country which itself has an agricultural surplus of $500,000,000, and that they would lose nothing by opening their home market of $360,000,000 to this foreign surplus of $500,000. Our farmers are invited also to consider the prospect of supplying a neighboring nation of 60,000,000 consumers, without a hint at the fact that these consumers are still more truly producers, with an excess of production over their own use greater than our whole agricultural product.

But [illegible] Canadian home market the market from which the Canadian farmer gets $90 out of every $100 he receives, leaving him only $10 to receive from outside, and half of that from the mother country? If, as our neighbors of the United States design, they obtain the right of manufacturing for us, would there not be a very serious diminution of the home demand which now absorbs our agricultural produce to the value of $360,000,000? With goods manufactured for us in the United States instead of here would not the farmers of the United States have far the better chance of supplying those working among them?

But some farmers say they were far better off under reciprocity before. Without considering the higher price of wheat then all over the world, we would point out two very important differences in the circumstances. Reciprocity then did not include manufactures, so our farmers were not deprived of the profit of supplying our manufacturing population. Then during the civil war myriads of producers in the United States were turned into consumers and even destroyers, while other myriads had to produce for these non-producing consumers. If our neighbors should again spend hundreds of millions in a great civil war, our farmers would again have the advantage of partly supplying their wants, which they could not wholly supply themselves. Till then our farmers would do better to keep their home market, worth $9 to them out of every $10, and not risk it for the doubtful chance of obtaining a better market for the other one dollar's worth.

THE Montreal Herald, in its newborn craving for free trade, has a long article on "The Sugar Monopoly," the burden of which is that two men in two refineries are able to dictate the price of sugar to 5,000,000 Canadians, and so realize fortunes. If this is the present position of affairs the death of many sugar refiners and the burning down of many refineries must have occurred so recently that the news has not yet been made public. We fancy, however, that the Herald has had the nightmare, and is under a delusion. If, however, it is correct, why does it not hint to some capitalist or body of capitalists among its friends, to start a refinery in opposition to these two lucky men? A third competitor might obviously, if the Herald's assertions are correct, supply 5,000,000 Canadians with cheaper sugar, and yet make a good profit. It is strange that with so much capital seeking investment capitalists should overlook such a chance—if the Herald is right.

MR. MILLS cannot forgive the defeat of his friends in the Northwest by Sir Fred Middleton. To vent his malice he adopted the cowardly expedient of accusing the general of stealing furs, making his slanderous charge in the House, where he is protected from punishment for his baseness.

The Ottawa Free Press says:—"The Peterborough REVIEW wants an export duty imposed upon iron ore mined in Canada. Apparently it has no faith that the new duties imposed upon iron will force the establishment of smelting furnaces in the Dominion."

We have full faith that the new duties will encourage, or if our contemporary prefers the word "force" the establishment of smelting furnaces in the Dominion, if fair play is given. It is for this reason that we do not wish to see iron men from the United States continue their plan of buying up all our richest mines in order to ship the ore to Pennsylvania, so as to frustrate our competition. This is what is being done in Southeastern Ontario, whatever may be the case nearer the capital.

MR. PURCELL, after a little coy delay, declared in the House, on Monday, that he voted for disallowance, though his name had been omitted from the division list. This, with the similar case of Mr. Mitchell, would make the Ministerial majority fifty on that occasion.

APSLEY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY AT APSLEY.—For some time past the promoters of the Union Sabbath School have been trying to get up a tea meeting to be held on the 24th, the proceeds to go towards procuring a library for the children. The appointed day broke forth auspiciously, but towards the afternoon the people were doomed to a little disappointment, as the heavens became black with clouds and down came the rain in torrents. Towards evening, however, it brightned up and soon the hall was comfortably filled. As soon as announced the people set to with a hearty good will, regaling themselves with the bounteous repast spread before them. The viands in their richness, variety and palatableness reflected credit on the ladies around Apsley for their skill in cookery. After the tables were cleared away the programme was commenced, D. Anderson, Esq., filling the chair admirably. The first on the programme, a duet by Miss Webster and Mr. Campbell, was well received, followed by a fine recitation by Mrs. K. Lindsay. The dialogue by Miss Jennie Bullord and Jno. Hales was the best rendition of the evening. Mr. John Lindsay gave a good address, Mr. Fred Boissette as usual gave a recitation in fine style, little Bertha Hales gave a solo which brought down the house, and a selected reading by A. Allingham was loudly applauded. Another dialogue by the Misses Bullords and Mr. B. Hales received the approval of the audience. Mr. Campbell, Presbyterian student, gave a neat address brimful of good humor and concluded by giving a short reading which received the well merited applause of both the address and the reading merited. A trio by Miss Webster and Anderson and Mr. Hales was well rendered. The duet "The Dying Man," by the Misses. Bullords received rounds of approval. A recitation by Annie Lane was particularly good. The quartette by Misses Webster and Jennie Bullord and Messrs. Allingham and Campbell was executed in fine style. Miss Anderson and Miss Webster presided ably at the organ. The chairman then announced the proceeds as $25. The National Anthem was sung with hearty good will, the benediction pronounced, and the people then retired to their homes, well satisfied with the evening's entertainment.

QUEEN'S, N. B.

Mr. WELDON repeated once more his old violent speech as to the Queen's, N. B. election [illegible] to excuse Mr. King for his neglect to apply to the proper court, and moved a resolution declaring that Mr. King should have been returned.

The SPEAKER asked Mr. Baird if he wished to make any explanation before retiring.

Mr. BAIRD rose to speak.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD suggested a postponement as no notice had been given, and and the matter stood till the following day

THE VOTERS LISTS.

Mr. MILLS repeated his speech about the impropriety of advising the Revising Officers not to proceed with the work of revision till the proposed changes were considered.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD said he did not wish money to be wasted, and a measure was being prepared.

Mr. BLAKE related part of the history of the Stuarts.

SUPPLY.

The House went into Committee of Supply and pressed a number of items.

A COWARD'S SLANDER.

Mr. MILLS charged Gen. Middleton and and others with stealing furs from some friend of Mr. Mills while he was in the Manitoba penitentiary.

Sir A. CARON and Mr. Thompson said they heard no complaint as to this matter.

Mixed Marriage.

Archbishop Lynch has issued a circular to the priests of the Archdiocese announcing that the annual retreat will commence on June 27th. It also contains the following deliverance on mixed marriages:—"You will please announce to your people that we, with many other bishops, have determined to grant no dispensations for mixed marriages when the woman is a non-Catholic. The experience of many years has proved that a Protestant mother cannot raise her children Catholics, and she is thus unable to comply with the essential condition on which such dispensation is granted. Accordingly we shall no longer grant such dispensation in those circumstances. They may apply to Rome direct if they will."

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

JESS.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," etc

"Nay, nay. I mean that the land is English now," he answered, mysteriously, "and though I dare not say so among my volk, I hope that it will keep English. When I was Republican, I was Republican, and it was good in some ways, the republic. There was so little to pay in taxes, and we knew how to manage the black volk; but now I am English, I am English. I know the English government means good money and safety, and if there isn't a raad (assembly) now, well, what does it matter? Almighty, how they used to talk there!—clack, clack, clack!, Just like an old black koran (species of bustard) at sunset. And where did they run the wagon of the republic to—Burgers and those d——d Hollanders of his, and the rest of them? Why, into the sluit—into a sluit with peaty banks; and there it would have stopped till now, or till the flood came down and swept it away, if old Shepstone—ah! what a tongue that man has, and how fond he is of the kinderchies!—(little children)—had not come and pulled it out again. But look here, captein, the volk round here don't think like that. It's the 'verdomde Britisch gouvernment' here and the 'verdomde Britisch gouvernment' there, and 'bymakaars' (meetings) here and 'bymakaars' there. Silly volk, they all run one after the other like sheep. But there it is, captein, and I tell you there will be fighting before long, and then our people will shoot those poor rooibaatjes (red jackets) of yours like buck and take the land back. Poor things! I could weep when I think of it."

John smiled at this melancholy prognostication, and was about to explain what a poor show all the Boers in the Transvaal would make in front of a few British regiments when he was astonished by a sudden change in his friend's manner. Dropping his enormous paw on to his shoulder, Coetzee broke into a burst of somewhat forced merriment, the cause of which was, though John did not guess it at the moment, that he had just perceived Frank Muller, who was in Wakkerstroom with a wagon load of corn to grind at the mill, standing within five yards, and apparently intensely interested in flipping at the flies with a cowrie made of the tail of a vilderbeeste, but in reality listening to Coetzee's talk with all his ears.

"Ha, ha! 'nef'" (nephew), said old Coetzee to the astonished John, "no wonder you like Mooifontein—there are other mooi (pretty) things there besides the water. How often do you opsit (sit up at night) with Uncle Croft's pretty girl, eh! I'm not quite as blind as an ant bear yet. I saw her blush when you spoke to her just now. I saw her. Well, well, it is a pretty game for a young man, isn't it, 'nef' Frank?" (this was addressed to Muller). "I'll be bound the captein here 'burns a long candle' with pretty Bessie every night—eh, Frank? I hope you ain't jealous, 'nef'? My vrouw told me some time ago that you were sweet in that direction yourself," and he stopped at last, out of breath, and looked anxiously toward Muller for an answer, while John, who had been somewhat overwhelmed at this flow of bucolic chaff, gave a sigh of relief. As for Muller he behaved in a curious manner. Instead of laughing, as the jolly old Boer had intended that he should, he had, although Coetzee could not see it, been turning blacker and blacker; and now that the flow of language ceased he, with a savage ejaculation which John could not catch, but which he appeared to throw at his (John's) head, turned on his heel and went off toward the courtyard of the inn.

"Almighty!" said old Hans, wiping his face with a red cotton pocket handkerchief; "I have put my foot into a big hole. That stink cat Muller heard all that I was saying to you, and I tell you he will save it up and save it up, and one day he will bring it all out to the volk and call me a traitor to the land and ruin me. I know him. He knows how to balance a long stick on his little finger so that the ends keep even. Oh, yes, he can ride two horses at once, and blow hot and blow cold. He is a devil of a man, a devil of a man! And what did he mean by swearing at you like that? Is it about the Missie (girl), I wonder? Almighty! who can say! Ah! that reminds me—though I'm sure I don't know why it should—the Kaffirs tell me that there is a big herd of buck—vilderbeeste and blesbok—on my outlying place about an hour and a half (ten miles) from Mooifontein. Can you hold a rifle, captain? You look like a bit of a hunter."

"Oh, yes, meinheer," said John, delighted at the prospect of some shooting.

"Ah, I thought so. All you English are sportsmen, though you don't know how to kill buck. Well, now, you take Om Croft's light Scotch cart and two good horses, and come over to my place—not to-morrow, for my wife's cousin is coming to see us, and an old cat she is, but rich; she had £1,000 in gold in the wagon box under her bed—nor the next day, for it is the Lord's day, and one can't shoot creatures on the Lord's day—but Monday, yes, Monday. You be there by 8 o'clock, and you shall see how to kill vilderbeeste. Almighty! now what can that jackal, Frank Muller, have meant? Ah! he is the devil of a man," and, shaking his head ponderously, the jolly old Boer departed, and presently John saw him riding upon a fat little shooting pony that cannot have weighed much more than himself, and that yet cantered away with him on his fifteen mile journey as though he were but a feather weight.

CHAPTER IX.

JANTE'S STORY.

Shortly after the old Boer had gone, John went into the yard of the hotel to see to the inspanning of the Cape cart, when his attention was at once arrested by the sight of a row in active progress—at least, from the crowd of Kaffirs and idlers and the angry sounds and curses that proceeded from them, he judged that it was a row. Nor was he wrong about it. In the corner of the yard, close by the stable door, surrounded by the aforesaid crowd, stood Frank Muller, a heavy sjambock in his raised hand above his head, as though in the act to strike. Before him, a very picture of drunken fury, his lips drawn up like a snarling dog's so that the two lines of his white teeth gleamed like polished ivory in the sunlight, his small eyes all shot with blood, and his face working convulsively, was the Hottentot Jantje. Nor was this all. Across his face was a blue wheal where the whip had fallen, and in his hand a heavy white handled knife which he always carried.

"Hullo! what is all this?" said John shouldering his way through the crowd.

"The swartsel (black creature) has stolen my horse's forage and given it to yours!" shouted Muller, who was evidently almost off his head with rage, making an attempt to hit Jantje with the whip as he spoke. The latter avoided the blow by jumping behind John, with the result that the top of the sjambock caught the Englishman on the leg.

"Be careful, sir, with that whip," said John to Muller, restraining his temper with difficulty. "Now, how do you know that the man stole your horse's forage, and what business have you to touch him? If there was anything wrong you should have reported it to me."

Our Prices May Startle You, But We Cannot Help That!

THE CHEAPSIDE SHEPPARD PETERBOROUGH

Has the following drives at the prices annexed, and they are positively cheaper, all things being equal, than are shown by any house in the trade. They came into our hands at the prices simply because SHEPPARD bought up the whole stock at a price.

BOYS' SUITS Wholesale price in Montreal, $3.75, our price to-day $2.95. Boys' Suits made specially for Sheppard in Germany and cost $4.25 we are now selling at $3.25. MENS' SUITS—Wholesale price in Toronto $5.00 is now offered for $3.25.

LADIES' JERSEYS Ladies' Fine Braided Jersey's in Mid Brown, Seal Brown and Black, wholesale price was $3.50, Sheppard is now selling for $2.50, and commences on Jerseys at 95 cents.

DRESS GOODS A deep clean-cut has been made in our Dress Goods. We have a large stock and they must be sold. The Season is now advancing and and down go the prices. SHEPPARD is not advertising Gold or Silver presents, neither is he paying return railway fares from the Pacific Slope to the Atlantic Seaboard, nor yet selling at cost, but the prices above are fully 20 per cent less than actual cost of the same goods bought in the regular way. SHEPPARD has the cheapest Buttons and Trimmings in Canada. We are not giving them away, but next door to it.

Men's Hats 10c., Men's Caps 6c., Men's Straw Hats 5c., Men's Overalls 25c., 3 Pairs Socks 25c., Men's Pants $1.00, Men's Vests 50c., Crash Coat and Vest $1.75, Boys' Wool Suits $1.00, Boys' Felt Hats 25c. Carpets cheap and Cottons cheap, all reduced from actual prices. The public will not deviate one step but go straight to the Great Cheapside.

Stories of Swill Milk.

The swill milk fraud is a perennial sensation in New York city. Disgusting as the newspaper accounts of the swill stables are, they scarcely do justice to the subject. I once spent a very risky and laborious month among the muscular "milkmaids," who carry a club instead of a milking stool, and whose muscles are more of a fortune to them than their faces, and I am willing to admit that when my job was done and in print, I fought shy of the neighborhood of the stables for a good many months. Long before my time, Albert Bergheus had explored the same paper in all its grisly horror. Since my time other reporters have done good work at it, but swill milk continues to be drawn and sold in spite of the revelations the press makes. I suppose a healthy person can drink the stuff with comparative immunity, but it must be perilous to sickly and weak organisms, as those of invalids and children.

I knew an Englishman, a clever inventor, some years ago, who came to this country and went to live in a big cheap boarding house here. He had a wife and child—a lusty, beefy, British baby, that seemed as sound as one of its father's machines. The child was fed on milk procured in the house. It became unaccountably ill, and at the end of a hot summer it died. The father, who was a skillful chemist, had his suspicions directed to the milk. He analyzed it and found it pure poison. He knew nothing of swill milk, and believed the deleteriousness of the fluid to be caused by a foreign poison. But having traced it to the dairy and witnessed the method of its production, his eyes were opened. The swill milk man came down with a handsome sum in compromise of a threatened damages suit. He did not dare risk an exposure in court.—Alfred Trumble in New York News.

The Lot of a Russian Recruit.

I had occasion to pass through a suburban park, where a large number of young conscripts were being put through the goose step. The drill master was a big man. He thought nothing of stepping up to the end of the line and dealing two or three resounding blows on the face of eight or ten of the unfortunate squad. At the next word of command the result was still unsatisfactory, and the corporal expressed his displeasure by attacking a sickly, consumptive looking Jewish recruit, striking him with clenched fist full in the ribs. The unfortunate lad doubled up, and was dragged to the rear a little beyond, where the corporal of another squad was slowly and deliberately dressing the line by savagely kicking the legs and stamping his iron heel on the toes of the poor recruits. The thud of the blows and kicks and the groans of the less hardy of the unfortunate youths were horrible to hear.—London Daily News.

An Interesting Image.

The Smithsonian Institution, at Washington, has just received the great stone image secured for it last year on Easter Island.

While almost nothing is known of the past history of this remarkable image, the discoveries of the future may bring to light an interesting prehistoric chapter. The image weighs fifteen tons, and is shaped like a gigantic human figure from the waist up.

Easter Island is in the Pacific, and is about 2,300 miles from South America. It is about eleven miles long and six wide, and has about 1,000 inhabitants, savages of the Polynesian race. There are several hundred immense statues on the island, one of them being forty feet high and nine feet across the shoulders. The fact that the present inhabitants have no knowledge of art, no tools and no means of moving huge masses of stone, leaves the origin of the statues to speculation.—Atlanta Constitution.

The world does not forgive us either our talents nor our successes, nor our marriage, nor our friendships, nor our future. The only thing which is looked upon with indulgence is our death.—Queen Elizabeth of Roumania.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it. Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d92

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for Diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

If the Sufferers from Consumption Scrofula and General Debility, will try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with hypophosphites, they will find immediate relief and a permanent benefit. Dr. H. V. Mott, Brentwood Cal., writes: "I have used Scott's Emulsion with great advantage in cases of Phthisis, Scrofula and Wasting Diseases. It is very palatable." Put up in 50c and $1 size.

Edinburgh Street.

Messrs. Robinson and Coulter are the most enterprising citizens on Edinburgh street. They have constructed a boulevard and planted a row of trees in front of their residences.

Oddfellows' Demonstration.

The Oddfellows' Demonstration Committee met on Wednesday evening. A good deal of detail work was done. It was decided to send invitations to Major-Gen. Eddy, of Rochester, and Lieut.-Gen. Underwood, of Kentucky, to participate in the Demonstration.

Drinking Fountain.

The Brown memorial was placed in the Central Park on the understanding that it would be utilized as a drinking fountain. It was connected with the water works system, but on only the day of the unveiling ceremony has it been used as such. What is now needed is an ice box to cool the water and a cup for people to drink out of. Those interested should see to it.

Personal.

Captain W. J. Aunesley, Royal Navy, has arrived in Peterborough to take charge of the Barnardo Home and has entered on his duties as Governor.

Mr. Thos. Blezard, M. P. P., was in town to-day. He has recovered from his recent accident but his eye is still painful and it is feared that he may not recover the sight of it. He intends, when he becomes stronger, to consult a specialist at Montreal in regard to it.

Orange Officers.

The Grand Black Chapter of British North America, now sitting in Belleville, has elected its officers, and among them Mr. J. B. McWilliams of Peterborough as a Deputy Grand Master. As usual in regard to Peterborough, high office among the Orangemen goes to a leading Reformer, to the hardest and most zealous worker for Mr. Mowat in the County. Yet with the Orange influence used for all it is worth against Conservative candidates in these Ridings, it is constantly asserted by unscrupulous Reform journals that the Orange order is a Tory party organization. If so Mr. Mowat must be the Tory.

"Antidote for the Blues."

Bishop Dowling is reported as having said the other day that the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association was "the antidote of the secret societies, which destroyed the moral life of men at the present day." The Masonic fraternity of this town have provided another antidote, which should have the approval of all classes, enabling those who are troubled with the "Blues" to leave the cares of State, Church or Office behind them for a day or two and join them in their Railway Jubilee Excursion to Toronto via G. T. R., Thursday next, 9th of June. The antidote costs only $1.75 for the round trip. See posters.

A Resolution on Temperance.

The following motion, which was adopted at the annual meeting of the Peterborough District of the Methodist Church held in Millbrook, has been handed in for publication:—

"Moved by Rev. J. C. Wilson, and seconded by Thos. Johnston, Esq., and resolved,—That we, the members of the annual district meeting assembled in Millbrook desire to express our gratitude for the adoption of the Scott Act by so many counties of the Dominion of Canada, inasmuch as it is a step in the direction of the total prohibition of the liquor traffic. That while the enforcement of the Act is not in all respects satisfactory yet we believe it to be the best measure yet adopted and superior to any License law that could be formulated. That we regret the disposition on the part of many officials to leave the enforcement of said law to private persons and to make so many second and third offences first offences. We are of the opinion that this law should be enforced by government officials, the same as in any other civil law. That we regret the action of some Council Boards in condemning the Act and asking for its repeal before it has had sufficient time to become fully effective in its operations and without giving any evidence to justify them in declaring it a failure.

That we are of the opinion that now is the time for united and earnest action on the part of temperance workers, and that our motto as a church shall still be "Total abstinance for the individual and total prohibition for the country."

Just arrived at Turnbull's, Gobelin and Drab Cashmeres with handsome trimmings to match, correct shades for the season.

THEOLOGICAL UNION.

Annual Lecture and Meeting of the Bay of Quinte Branch.

The public meeting in the George Street Church on Wednesday evening was under the auspices of the Bay of Quinte Branch of the Theological Union. The Rev. T. J. Edmison, B. D., President of the Branch, occupied the Chair, and the meeting was opened by singing and prayer by the Rev. Wm. Williams, D. D.

The Rev. F. H. WALLACE, M. A., B. D., delivered a lecture on "Christianity and Other Faiths." It was a comprehensive lecture, reviewing the religions and philosophies which were accepted as religious, and contrasting them with Christianity. It was full of thought, showing research and study, and a careful analysis of the teachings and tendencies of the various faiths that had taken a hold on the mind of man. He pointed out that Christianity appropriated all that was good in other religions and that it transcended them all. He could not think that the superiority of their faith depended on the absolute vanity of all other faiths. They sympathised with the yearning shown for communion with God, which in their true religion was satisfied with Christ. The orthodox fathers of the early church had recognized truths in the teachings of Socrates and the Stoics. The amazing strides of religion had excited interest, and the result of the examination was to see in all religions a preparation for the truth and in Christianity the true religion to which all tended. In religious revelation, as in all things, God treated man as free, and that caused diversity of opinion. The light was obscured by the medium through which it was received. They need not hesitate to trace a Divine impulse in the lowest forms of religion. He referred to the "nature religions," in which God was a natural power personified, and said that above them were the ethical religions. The teachings of Zoroaster and Confucius were reviewed and their moral maxims spoken of appreciatively. The ethical religions were all national. The world religions were three: Buddhism, Mahommedanism and Christianity. In Buddhism the evil was suffering; in Christianity it was sin. In Buddhism the aim was to get rid of suffering, in Christianity suffering was made a stepping stone to higher joy. Buddhism was the religion of despair; Christianity the religion of hope. Christianity had elements that adapted it to the contemplative and the active sides of nature and it triumphed everywhere. Mohammedanism taught no new doctrine, and what it borrowed from Judaism and Christianity it had corrupted. It was God's agent to sweep away a depraved form of Christianity from one part of the world, and it was preparing the way in another for the true religion. [illegible] God and man, and furnished a perfect ideal of personality. The inherent superiority and manifest universality of Christianity was shown in its true conception of the relations between God and man. The deepest desire of all religions was communion with God. In the conception of Christ religion reached its highest consummation. In the Incarnation God and man were perfectly made one. God condescended to humanity and humanity was lifted to God. In Christ they found what all religions desired. The religion which possessed the perfect God-man was perfect. No higher state of communion could be than God giving himself to man and man giving himself to God.

The Rev. Prof. REYNAR said that his disposition was not to talk, but to sit and think. At one time he had an idea that all the good in the world was confined to Christianity, and that all the good in Christianity was confined to Methodism. He had outgrown that and recognized that God was the Father of all. All truths led up to the great truth of Christianity. Every truth was God's truth, and they should be careful in attacking error not to attack the truths mixed with it. The young men, he believed, would not be called on to deal with physical religion so much as social and political religion.

The Rev. J. J. LEACH eulogized the lecture delivered by Mr. Wallace, and Prof. Reynar's address. He moved that a vote of thanks be tendered Mr. Wallace.

The Rev. Dr. BURWASH seconded the motion, and spoke highly of the addresses. They should, he said, clearly distinguish between what Mr. Wallace had called nature religions and the ethical religions, the latter being moral reforms rather than religions. They might freely recognise the hand of God in the philosophies or moral reforms, but they must feel that heathen religions were corrupt and destructive. Christianity stood alone. All other religions were predominated by a downward tendency. Christianity alone came in to save the world from sin.

The motion was carried and Mr. Wallace briefly acknowledged the vote of thanks. The public meeting was concluded by the doxology and benediction.

ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Branch of the Union was then held. The Rev. Mr. Wallace was, by motion, requested to furnish the Canadian Methodist Magazine with a copy of his lecture and the editor was asked to publish it. The following officers were elected:—

PRESIDENT,—Rev. F. H. Wallace, B. D.

SECRETARY-TREASURY,—Rev. O. R. Lamby, M. A.

REPRESENTATIVE,—Rev. E. N. Baker, M. A.

LECTURER TO STUDENTS,—Rev. William Williams, D. D.

ANNUAL LECTURER,—Rev. C. W. Watch.

The Rev. Wm. Burns was appointed to give an address to lead the discussion on the annual lecture, and after transacting other business, the meeting adjourned.

TESTING THE HAMMER.

The Huge Machine at the Central Iron Works in Motion.

The ponderous steam hammer that arrived in town for the Central Iron Works a few days ago has been set up and was tested on Wednesday afternoon.

The machine stands on a foundation of cedar and oak seven feet deep, twelve long and ten feet wide. It took four thousand feet of lumber to build it. It is thirteen feet high and weighs twenty thousand pounds. It is what is known as an automatic steam hammer, the first ever made inthis country, and the largest steam hammer ever made in Canada.

There were quite a number present to see the test. Among those present were Mr. Alex. Bertram, of Bertram & Sons, Dundas, the manufacturers of the hammer; Mr. Brooks, Manager of the Lock Works, Mr. Stevenson, Secretary of the Lock Works, Lieut.-Col. Harry Rogers, Mr. Ruf. Stevenson and others. Mr. Wm. Hamilton of the Hamilton Manufacturing Company, arrived just after the first test was made.

The steam, which feeds the hammer by way of a three inch pipe, was turned on precisely at four o'clock. After a few premonitory puffs the hammer head moved and instantly after the huge iron block weighing two thousand pounds went slipping up and down, gracefully and regularly. The first test made was that in "drawing out" a piece of iron. A bail was brought from the forge and was soon reduced to a long slender bar. Mr. Law then put a stick on the anvil block, and by nice work of the lever just dinged it. This is one of the beauties of the machine. One wholly unaccustomed to it can manage it simply by adjusting the lever. The force of the blows delivered ranges from 12 ounces to twenty four thousand pounds, and the number per minute from ten to one hundred. The next test was similar to the first. Another piece of iron about five inches in diameter and eight inches long was brought from the forge. At first the blow were delivered gently and slowly, Mr. Bertram officiating at the lever. "Now," said he "we'll give it a few good cracks" and at the word tremendous blows rained in quick succession flattening the iron out completely. The hammer is capable of working a piece of iron twenty inches in diameter, and will then have a good stroke.

The test was thoroughly satisfactory in every respect. There was not one hitch in "the performance." This must be gratifying to Messrs. Bertram & Sons, especially as this is the first automatic hammer they have built. Mr. Law was under the impression that he would have had to go to the United States for it until Mr. Bertran called on him. But when the former gave a discription of what he wanted, the [illegible] made in Canada. And so it was, with the result that a very important addition has been made to the efficency of the Central Iron Works.

Messrs. Bertran & Sons have done quite a trade with Peterborough during the last year or two. They have built machines of various kinds for both of the Hamilton factories.

Late in the season manufacturers are glad to clear ends of stock at tremendous reductions. See the seamless hosiery Turnbull is selling, three pair for 25 cents. Bought right.

Blessing the Bell.

The solemn service of blessing the bell will take place in the parish church, Ennismore, on Sunday June 5th, at 10 a. m. His Lordship Dowling Bishop will preside on the occasion.

For a neat fitting Mantle, Dolman, or Wrap made and trimmend with the newest materials, call at Turnbull's.

Very Low.

Up till this forenoon Mr. John Erskine was no better. He is in a very low condition and his recovery is doubtful.

TRADE IN

Our MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT, and did we judge alone by the crowds that daily claim attention of our salesmmen advertising this class of goods would be unnecessary—almost a waste of money. But then, you know, there's two sides to every subject. Here's the other side to this one, and at the same time our reason for advertising when there's no apparent necessity for doing so.

In making up our stock in this department we provided for great numbers—for many more than have as yet taken advantage of its completeness, to furnish themselves with millinery suitable for the season.

It will therefore require "crowds long continued" to clear out tables of the enormus stock of Millinery with which they are loaded—over-loaded.

A continuous demand then being necessary, we knew of no better way to insure it than to keep you informed as to just what we have and how we are prepared to sell it. We shall, therefore, from now till the close of the season, devote some portion of our card to Millinery News.

We have already said that our stock was large. We have also intimated that our assortment was complete. Now for our goods.

We have just received a six dozen lot of Ladies' and Children's Hats which are the newest in shape and bought at half their value.

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Lech's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

METHODIST CHURCH.

FOURTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BAY OF QUINTE CONFERENCE.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

The afternoon session on Wednesday was opened with devotional exercises, and the minutes of the morning session were read.

The Conference then proceeded to elect a Secretary.

The first ballot resulted as follows, 64 being necessary for election:—

Rev. Wm. Burns	42
Rev. F. H. Wallace	29
Rev. Wm. Joliffe	13

There were a number of scattered ballots for nine other clergymen. The second ballot resulted in the election of Mr. Burns. Eighty-two votes were necessary for election, and the vote stood:—

Rev. W. Burns	88
Rev. F. H. Wallace	58

The Rev. Mr. BURNS made a neat speech on taking his place on the platform, and thanked the members for the confidence they had shown in him.

The Rev. W. R. Young and Rev. W. Limbert were elected Assistant Secretaries, and Rev. C. W. Watch Journal Secretary.

The Rev. Dr. BREDIN moved, seconded by the Rev. J. CURTIS—That the cordial thanks of this Conference be tendered to the retiring President, the Rev. J. S. Clarke, for his courtesy and fidelity in the office.

The motion was carried by a standing vote.

Mr. CLARKE acknowledged the vote in a brief speech.

The Rev. Dr. Potts, Educational Secretary, was introduced to the Conference, and he asked to be allowed to address the Conference next morning.

The Rev. I. TOVELL moved, seconded by the Rev. F. H. WALLACE, B. D.,—That the Conference has learned with great regret of the sore bereavement that has befallen the Rev. A. C. Courtice, B. D., of the Toronto Conference, in the death of his wife, a daughter of the late Rev. J. W. Butcher, of this town and Conference, and that the Conference tender its sympathy to the bereaved husband, mother and family.

The resolution was adopted by a standing vote.

On motion, the thanks of the Conference were tendered to the Rev. Jos. Young, the retiring Secretary, and were suitably acknowledged by Mr. Young. The services of the Assistant Secretary were recognized in a similar manner.

A communication was read from the President and Secretary of the Young Men's Christian Association, inviting the members of the Conference to make use of the privileges of the Association.

Dr. S. P. FORD gave notice of a resolution on prohibition, which he would move on Monday afternoon, which was as follows:—

"Whereas, the vile traffic in intoxicating liquors still continues to exert its baneful influence throughout the length and breadth of the land, wasting the material resources of the country, entailing poverty and crime, and involving annually the destruction of many thousands of human lives; and

"Whereas, there is abundant evidence to show that prohibitory legislation, where it has been granted and even fairly well enforced, has invariably been followed by the diminution of drunkenness and crime, and an increase of temporal prosperity among the people; therefore

"Be it resolved, that the members of this Conference view with alarm and indignation the efforts now being made to seriously impair, if not repeal, the Canada Temperance Act, accompanied as these efforts are by indecision on the part of professing friends, by thorough organization on the part of avowed enemies, and by the unfriendly attitude of the Dominion Government, as manifested by its recent appointments to the Senate of men in sympathy with the liquor traffic; and that we memorialize the Legislature of the Dominion, now in session, not to sanction any legislation that would impair the operations of the Canada Temperance Act in those counties where it is now in force.

"Resolved, also, that believing the time to be fully come when party alliances and party predilictions must be subordinated to the great cause of temperance Reform, the members of this Conference do hereby pledge themselves by every legitimate means in their power, in the pulpit, on the platform, in the press and at the ballot box to oppose any Government, or any party, or any individual member of Parliament, who either by vote or influence shall seek to destroy, or seriously impair the existing prohibitory legislation.

"Resolved, also, that we declare our readiness to unite with all other Conferences, Synods, Assemblies and Associations throughout the country in educating and directing public sentiment to the point of demanding from the House of Commons an efficient prohibitory enactment for the whole Dominion."

The examination of Ministerial character was taken up and no objections were reported. The questions regarding probationers were taken up.

The following were received into full connection and ordered to be ordained:—Wm. H. Buckler, H. V. Mounteer, M. E. Wilson, D. S. Houch, N. D. Drew, G. Carpenter.

The following have travelled three years and are to be continued on probation: John G. Lewis, Henry E. Bayley, S. G. Thompson.

TWO YEAR MEN.—Percy M. Punshion was discontinued on account of ill-health. The following were continued on trial: Chas H. Coon, George H. Baley, and Fred. A. August.

ONE YEAR MEN—G. A. Love, H. S. Anderson, J. M. Kemp, W. B. Osterhout.

The Conference adjourned for ten minutes to allow Districts to assemble and elect a Nominating Committee. When Conference resumed the following Nominating Committee was reported: The Rev. Messrs. Jos. Young, Jas. Curts, J. F. Ockley, Dr. Bredin, W. Williams, J. C. Wilson, F. B. Stratton, J. S. Clarke, M. L. Pearson and Messrs. John A. Halgate, Chas. John A. Halgate, Chas. James, J. S. Louden, Geo. Webb, S. Caldwell, R. J. Clarke, F. Reynolds, A. M. Hamilton and J. F. Cunning. The Rev. Jas. Curts was appointed Convener.

On motion of the Rev. I. Tovell the hours of session were fixed at from 9 to 12 a. m., and 2 to 5.30 p. m.

After announcements a verse was sung and the benediction pronounced.

FRIDAY.

The Conference opened session at 9 o'clock, the Rev. J. C. Seymour leading in prayer.

The minutes of the last session were read.

ALMA COLLEGE.

The Board of management and trust for Alma College reported. The report showed that the attendance was large, 180 altogether. The four departments of work, Literary, Music, Fine Arts, and Commercial were receiving large patronage. The thoroughness of each department was described. The capacity of the building was fully tested during the past year, and the need of increased accommodation was urgently shown. The sum of $8,000 had been raised for the erection of a new building, but as the cost of building had increased since the project was launched, it was thought better to defer operations till fall. The last school year showed the largest receipts and attendance since the opening. The report was signed by B. F. Austin, President; and R. I. Warner, Secretary.

EDUCATIONAL.

JOHN POTTS, D. D., General Superintendent of Education, briefly addressed the meeting on the subject of College Federation. It was the general intention to have Toronto raise $200,000 and to have the outside Methodists raise $250,000, making up the total $450,600. In Toronto the subscriptions amounted to $137,000, with the promise of a $30,000 subscription during this season. He spoke of the success had at other places, especially in the Montreal Conference.

The Rev. F. H. Wallace, M. A., B. D., was invited to act as secretary while subscriptions were asked for. Subscriptions were then taken as follows:—

THE BODYKE EVICTIONS.

DUBLIN, June 2.—The evictions at Bodyke have begun again, the sheriff having recovered from his illness. The sheriff is protected while doing his work by a force of 600 policemen and troops. At one house in which the inmates were barricaded the officers made a hole through the wall with timber and then removed the furniture. There is great excitement in the district.

A FISHERY DISPUTE.

LONDON, June 2.—The German Government has released the British smack Lady Godiva, but has retained her gear, and keeps her captain in prison. The crew deny that they were fishing within the three mile boundary and assert that the German gunboat purposely collided with the smack with the object of disabling her. The commander of the boat explains that he was compelled to do so or fire a heavy gun. The British Consul has been ordered to watch the case on behalf of British fishermen.

THE OPPOSITION LEADER.

Mr. Blake Retires For a Period of Rest—The Advisory Committee.

The Toronto Globe contains the following announcement:—

"The whole country will learn with profound regret that Hon. Edward Blake, acting under the advice of his physicians, finds himself compelled to take a period of rest. It is quite likely that he will wholly abandon Parliamentary work for the remainder of this session. His absence will be felt severely by his colleagues, who appreciate so highly his great grasp of public business, his devoted labors in the attending to and perfecting of all measures of legislation, and his lofty aims and noble character. Mr. Blake has struggled hard to get through the session, but his condition does not improve and rest has become an absolute necessity. Satisfactory arrangements have been made for the conduct of the Opposition in his absence under the direction of the Advisory Committee. A caucus was held to-day, and the work for the remainder of the session discussed in detail.

WORTH PRESERVING.

Our suggestion to place an export duty upon iron ore calls forth the following editorial remarks from the Kingston Whig:

"The Peterborough REVIEW suggests an export duty on iron ore, on the ground that the mineral wealth of the country is worth preserving. There is a duty already on every ton of ore shipped into the United States from Canada, and the addition of an export duty on the part of our government would put an end to mining in this vicinity. There is no present hope of smelting works, and anyway there is more iron ore in the country than the people know what to do with. Every month new discoveries of it are being made, and the indications are that our resources in this respect are simply inexhaustible. The REVIEW is under the impression, apparently, that there is a scarcity of ore, and that Canada has a corner in it. Yet the telegrams tell us that new finds have been made in the Western States, the pits in one place revealing the presence of ore enough to supply the demands of the whole world for the next hundred years."

This is the old story of supplies of ore, timber, and so forth, supposed to be inexhaustible till they are sadly depleted Who can tell what the world's demands for iron may be in the next hundred years? What was the comparative demand a hundred years ago, and who can say that the enormous increase will not continue with accelerated velocity? As for these wonderful finds in the Western States, our concern is not with them, but with our own ores in our own country.

The question whether we should preserve our ores for our own advantage instead of sending them abroad to enrich foreigners, might not be immediately urgent were it not for recent circumstances. In many journals, the Whig amongst them, we have recently read various accounts of wealthy foreign syndicates with a gigantic capital ndeavouring to make a corner in ore, to monopolize our iron mines. This is not only the case with the district north of Kingston, but also with our own County of Peterborough and the adjoining townships of the County of Hastings. It seems as if these foreigners had determined to buy up every rich mine in Eastern Ontario, so as to have the entire control of this class of property.

We regret to see the Kingston Whig scouting the idea of smelting works, which we hope to see enriching the people among whom the Whig circulates. If our contemporary will give the matter a second thought it will see its mistake in assuming that smelting cannot be carried on profitably in Ontario. It knows that our iron ore has been exported to furnaces in the United States, and evidently looks for a continuance of this practice. Presumably the pig iron was made from this ore at a profit. Now to smelt a given quantity of the ore an equal quantity of fuel is required. If, therefore, it pays to carry the ore to the fuel, why should it not pay just as well to carry a similar quantity of fuel to the ore? There is also the further chance that waterborne coke from Nova Scotia might be found even cheaper than coal from Pennsylvania.

Then what have become of the acres of forest that Mr. Coe and his associates were allowed to buy cheap, that they might make iron from their cheaply purchased mines?

The people of Ontario will not show much enterprise if they content themselves with the idea that other people should manufacture their iron for them.

TRENT VALLEY NAVIGATION.

THE statement made by the Minister of Railways and Canals that a commission would be appointed to examine during the recess into the nature and cost of further works to open the Trent Valley Navigation, will not be favourably regarded in this district. The nature and cost of these works have already been fully investigated and if the Ministers insist upon their officials producing them they will find ample materials on which to form a judgment. Indeed on the information before them they some time ago formed a judgment, recognized the value and feasibility of this great improvement and promised to carry it out as promptly as the finances permitted. So far they have continuously prosecuted the works, but the section now in hand is now near its completion, and for the first time since it was recommenced there will be a cessation of the work.

There is no disposition to dread an investigation on account of want of confidence in the merits of this improvement. The more it is investigated the more clearly it will appear that for a comparatively small outlay a route can be opened that will be of great value to the country at large. Its benefits have been plainly demonstrated and have been officially admitted. Mr. Starke's careful estimates showed that it would be far from costly for a route of such great importance, and nothing has since arisen to modify this view. If a commission is to be appointed we hope it will consist of men of sound judgment, and then there can be no fear of their reporting adversely to this necessary work.

But, as we have before remarked, we see no need of a commission. The stage of investigation is passed. Another section, say from here to Lakefield, might well be placed under contract, for the plans and estimates are ready. Many railways that have been subsidized in other parts of the Dominion are of far less public importance than this navigable route. To Montreal alone it would be as beneficial as is the Erie Canal to New York, and that carries more grain into the city than all its numerous railways.

A BOON FOR PETERBOROUGH!

GOUGH, THE BIG CLOTHIER,

Determines to carry no unseasonable goods over, and in order to make room for the immense fall stock which is now in process of manufacture, proposes organizing the most Gigantic Sale ever offered to the people of Peterborough. The grand sale will take place, commencing,

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 1ST, 1887,

And will continue for the following 20 days only; when I will offer, any and all of my big stock at wonderfully reduced prices. Bear in mind, Gough never yet advertised anything he did not do, nor will he in this instance, a fact you will all be convinced of the first day of this grand sale.

Some designing dealers ask the question, why pay $12 for a Worsted Suit that they sell for $8.50. Gough repudiates the assertion. This boasted Worsted Suit is nearly all cotton, and as a guarantee that what I herein state is true, I will forfeit $1,000 if I cannot prove it. I challenge a contradiction. Gough's regular price for this Boasted $8.50 Suit is $7.50.

I ask the attention of the discrimatining public particularly to this Great Sale, and if they don't find it Straight Forward, Honorable and Bonafide; then Brand me as a Cheap—Side—Store, and not the great Forepaugh I claim to be.

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

The Fishery Question—Trent Valley Navigation — Precautions Against Cholera - Queen's, N. B., Again.

WEDNESDAY, June 1st.—Some more private bills were introduced, and a number of questions were answered by Ministers.

LIEUT.-GOV. MASSON.

Sir J. MACDONALD, in reply to Mr. Rinfret, said Lieut. Governor Masson had resigned on the ground of ill-health, but his resignation had not yet been accepted.

THE FISHERY QUESTION.

Sir C. TUPPER, in reply to Mr. Mitchell, said the Dominion and Imperial Governments were doing their best to obtain a settlement of the Fishery Question, but the public interest did not allow him to say more.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Mr. POPE in reply to Mr. Barron said the works begun on the Trent Valley Navigation would be completed, and a commission would be appointed to examine into the nature and cost of the further works to open the route.

THE CHOLERA.

Mr. CARLING, in reply to Col. Amyot, said quarantine would be enforced on both coasts against vessels coming from South America where there was cholera.

QUEEN'S, N. B.

Mr. WELDON moved not to concur in the report of the Committee on Privileges and Elections as to Queen's, N. B., but that the Returning-Officer should have declared Mr. King elected.

Mr. BAIRD explained his position. When asked to become a candidate he found that the voters' lists had been revised in favour of the Reformers, all the local officials working against the Conservatives. It was announced that the Sheriff if made Returning Officer would throw out some Conservative polling places on the technical objection that the revision there had been conducted by a deputy revising officer, who had not been the required number of years at the bar. He asked Mr. King not to take advantage of this technicality, but met with a refusal. If the lists were legalized he would at once resign and run again, or he was willing to do so as soon as there was a real revision. He thought if Mr. King had a good claim to the seat he should apply to the Courts. He had to fight for his constituents, who complained to him that they had been tricked out of their votes by the Reformers by methods that would have made highwaymen blush. He was quite ready to resign his seat and appeal to the electors on a fair list. He then withdrew from the House.

Mr. THOMPSON said there was not a precedent for the House interfering as proposed. Mr. King should have applied to the courts and he had ample time to do so, after the matter had come before the House. He moved in amendment the adoption of the report of the Committee.

Mr. DAVIES went over the English cases of felons being excluded, on which he relied as precedents. He moved in amendment to the amendment that the Returning Officer be summoned to the bar to amend his return by giving Mr. King the seat.

Mr. WELDON (Albert) thought Parliament had acted wisely in relegating such cases to the courts. They would be establishing a dangerous precedent if they reserved jurisdiction to themselves. He thought Mr. King had a grievance, but he had his remedy and need not ask the House to choose between candidates.

Mr. AMYOT and Mr. Ellis supported the motion.

Mr. PATTERSON (Essex) said he would vote as before for what he considered justice. But the opposition must not count him as approving of their policy which he repudiated.

Mr. COCKBURN said he was not a lawyer and as they were asked to make a precedent he would like to know how far it would carry them, so he would put a question. Mr. Davies admitted that he had committed an informality as to his deposit. Would Mr. Davies be content to let him move to unseat him in consequence and let a majority of the house decide as to his seat.

A number of other members took part in the debate.

Mr. DAVIES' amendment to amend the return was negatived by 104 to 85.

Mr. THOMPSON's amendment to adopt the Committee's report was carried by 105 to 85.

EXPLANATORY NOTES BY S. I. CURTISS, PH. D., D. D.

Lesson X of the International Series (Second Quarter), for Sunday, June 5. Text of the Lesson, Ex. xvi, 4-12—Golden Text, John vi, 35.

The Wilderness of Sinai.—After Israel's great deliverance they were introduced to life in the wilderness of Sinai. This wilderness is a triangle. Its base is 150 miles in length. Its apex divides the Red sea into two arms. The side on the western arm, known as the Gulf of Suez, extends 190 miles; the side on the eastern, called the Gulf of Akaba, is 120 miles in length. Thus the peninsula of Sinai contains an area of 11,600 square miles. As the peninsula of Sinai extends like a wedge into the Red sea, so the desert of Et Tih, which was the scene of the wanderings of the children of Israel, whose base is on the Mediterranean, extends like a wedge into this same peninsula. The desert of Et Tih, which is also known as the Wilderness of Paran, is divided into two nearly equal parts, by the Wady el Arish, or the river of Egypt, the western boundary of Israel's promised possessions, which has several branches, especially on the south and east sides. From Gaza to the foot of the Dead sea is the base of another triangle which takes up the northeast corner of Et Tih, and which was known as the Negeb, or South country. Here Abraham, Isaac and Jacob dwelt.

The most fertile part of this country, which is inferior to the region above it, is the Negeb; the Wilderness of the Wanderings, Et Tih is comparatively sterile, and the Sinaitic peninsula produces but little vegetation except in the wadies, or stream beds. It is believed, however, by prominent geographers and explorers, for seemingly weighty reasons, that the Sinaitic peninsula was once far more fertile than at present. Even now more than 5,000 Bedawin find at least a partial subsistence in it, although their provisions are, to some extent, supplemented from Egypt. Doubtless the peninsula has suffered from a loss of trees, which were at one time ruthlessly destroyed to furnish charcoal for exportation.

But we may not suppose, under any circumstances, that the Sinaitic peninsula could have begun to support 2,000,000 of people, or even a hundredth part of that number, if they had to depend on the resources of the country.

Under Rameses II there were mines which were worked on the west side of the peninsula. It may be that they were discontinued under Mernephtah.

It is not possible to determine precisely the route which the Israelites took. After crossing the Red Sea they went three days without water, and then on coming to Marah found only that which was bitter. The presence of natrun in the soil makes the water bitter. It is commonly believed that Ain is Wady Gharandel. There they found twelve springs of water and seventy palm trees (Ex. xv, 27). They could not always remain in this delightful place. They passed on, therefore, to the wilderness of Sin.

At the end of six weeks the prospect seemed most discouraging. The congregation of [illegible] without food. No wonder they murmured, and that they forgot their hard bondage and longed for the fleshpots of Egypt (Ex. xvi, 3).

THE LESSON.

What was the Manna? (v. 4).—God therefore undertakes to make provision for his people, and promises to rain bread from heaven for them each day. There has been much discussion as to what is intended here by the manna. Many think that it is the product of the tamarisk tree, such as is found to-day in small quantities. The yield is not more than 600 or 700 pounds. Unless the quantity was miraculously increased, like the five loaves and two fishes, it could never have furnished food enough for the Israelites. Besides, this manna which comes from the tamarisk tree is to be had only during two months.

The object of giving this food to Israel was not only that God might preserve life, but also that he might prove them whether they would walk in his law or not.

V. 5. Evidently the supply was miraculous. On the sixth day they were to make preparations for the seventh, for on that day there was to be no fall of manna.

A Daily Reminder (vs. 6-8).—The people were to have a daily reminder of their dependence on God. In the beginning at even they were to know that the Lord had brought them out of the land of Egypt, in the gift of quails. These were to be furnished in such numbers and abundance that they should recognize that it was the direct provision of God's hand, and that the same hand which had smitten the firstborn of the Egyptians, and had opened a way through the sea for them, was now feeding them. In the morning they were to see a sight which had never greeted their eyes before. They were to see the ground covered with the pure white manna. This must have been a peculiarly impressive spectacle to them, as in Egypt they had perhaps never seen snow or hoar frost, which the manna resembled (Ex. xvi, 14).

They were reminded, too, that God heard their murmurings, that these murmurings were not directed against Moses, God's servant, but against God himself.

The Congregation Before Jehovah (vs. 9-12).—Heretofore the people had probably been more or less scattered. Now Aaron bids them appear as a congregation before the Lord. While he is speaking to them they behold a wonderful sight. Looking toward the wilderness they see the glory of the Lord appear in the cloud, while he utters to Moses almost the same words as those which they had already heard, and assures them that between the two evenings they shall eat flesh and in the morning they shall be filled with bread. In this way they were to know that he was the Lord their God.

POINTS TO BE REMEMBERED.

1. The path to Canaan lay through the wilderness for the Israelites. It may be our lot to pass through the wilderness before we reach the heavenly Canaan.

2. God appoints our lot in life. If we murmur under trial we murmur against him.

3. God will provide for us if we trust in him. The psalmist spoke the truth of the inspiration and experience when he said: "I have been young and now am old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken nor his seed begging bread." (Ps. xxxvii, 25.)

4. We should remember that daily food is God's gift and is an evidence that we have a Father in heaven who hears the petition that our Lord taught us to pray.

5. Jesus is the bread of life, the heavenly manna. If our souls feed on him we shall not long for the fleshpots of earthly pleasures.—Sunday School World.

THE MARKET REPORTS.

REVIEW OFFICE,
Thursday evening June 2.

There has been quite a revival in the wheat trade during the past week. On Saturday last there must have been close on fifty loads marketed, brought out, no doubt, by the high prices. From 90 to 92 cents per bushel was paid on that day and at the beginning of this week, but yesterday the prices fell two cents in sympathy with the Toronto market. There was quite a flurry in the Chicago market, yesterday on "the clique" taking all the wheat offered for June delivery. Prices advanced rapidly from 89¼ to 91½, but subsequently reacted to 89 and thereabouts. This price seems high as compared with the price and general conditions at this time last year. On May the 26th the visible supply in the United States and Canada, according to the Chicago estimate, was 43,209,076 bushels; on May 29th, a year ago, it was 34,888,667 bushels, or 8,320,409 bushels less. Last week the visible supply increased 160,000, and there is another prospective increase for this week. Added to this the crop prospects are very favorable. Under these conditions the price now is 89 cents, while at this time last year it was ranging between 75 and 80 cents. It is claimed, however, that last year's prices were abnormally low, and that the wheat is actually worth the present price. The receipts of wheat from India in Europe is increasing. Week before last the receipts were 1,000,000 bushels, as compared with 1,360,000 last week. All cheese is quoted at 62 shillings. New cheese is not yet quoted at Liverpool.

Cheese.

W. Heapy & Sons, of Liverpool, writes as follows on May 19: "Market during the week has ruled rather unsettled, medium sorts being most pressed for sale. Finest descriptions fall makes holders have been free sellers, but buyers to obtain quality have been compelled to pay our extreme quotations. A few lots of finest new have come forward this week and realized from 60s to 62s. About 4,000 boxes were offered by public auction on Tuesday last, poor and medium descriptions, but not without reserve, and only 1,000 boxes were sold. Official quotations: Finest new, 60s @ 62s. Our quotations are: Extra fine September makes, white, 64s; colored, 62s @ 64s; mediums, useful qualities, 58s @ 56s; half meats, 35s @ 42s; skims and common sorts, 10s @ 10s; New York quotations, 56s, c. i. f.

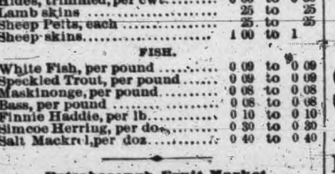
Astonishing Success



It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottles were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d99

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for Diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

THE GREAT ENGLISH PRESCRIPTION

A successful medicine tested over 30 years in thousands of cases. Promptly cures Nervous Prostration, Weakness of Brain, Spinal Cord, and Generative Organs of either sex. Emissions and all ills attendant by indiscretion or over-exertion. Six packages is guaranteed to effect a cure when all other medicines fail. One package $1, six packages $5, by mail. Sold by druggists. Write for Pamphlet. EUREKA CHEMICAL CO., Detroit, Mich.

Palmo-Sulphur Soap.

Is Marvelously Efficient in clearing the Skin of Impurities, and keeping it in a perfect state of health. It beautifies the complexion, while as a Healing agent for Sores or Wounds it passes all praise. There is no Form of Eruptive Disease for which this Renowned Soap has not proved efficacious. In the Bath it is as beneficial as the waters of the Renowned Sulphur Springs. Linens and Woolens washed with it are rendered superlatively white, and are disinfected when germs of disease linger in the material. The value of Sulphur as a Cleansing and Purifying agent is everywhere recognized. Ask for Palmo-Sulphur, and refuse all others, and you wont be deceived.

FRIDAY, JUNE 3, 1887.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

To my many friends in the town and country please remember I have no connection with W. VanEvery. Partnership dissolved. J. W. BRISBIN, Hunter street.

Baptist Church.

On Sunday morning at the Baptist Church the Rev. Mr. Buchanan, at present attending the Methodist Conference, will preach, and in the evening the Rev. F. J. Ockley, will conduct the service.

Personal.

An Ottawa correspondent says:—Major Boulton of Portage la Prairie, is in the city. He has submitted a colonization scheme to the Government, his object being to promote the emigration of desirable young men from Great Britain.

Canton Toronto.

Mr. A. McNeil received this morning the first acceptance from the Cantons in responce to the invitations issued. Mr. J. B. Smith, clerk of Canton Toronto, writes to say that No. 7 will attend the Oddfellows Demonstration. They expect to muster 35 swords.

GO to KIDD'S for your goat boots, your kid boots, for your cow boots, your calf boots and for all your boots.

Imitating Their Illustrious Ancestors.

During the building of King Solomon's Temple, a great many Masons were employed, who made frequent excursions [illegible] and round Ajmut. These excursions while they did not partake exactly of the same nature as the Masonic excursion to Toronto to come off on Thursday next, the 9th of June, were at least prompted with the same idea and spirit and for a similar object namely, the erection [illegible] the one at ancient Jerusalem, the other at progressive Peterborough. History does not let us into the secret of how cheap railway travelling was in the old Temple times, but if you desire to take in this trip with the Masons, on the 9th inst., you can combine one or two days business and pleasure in the city for the small sum of $1.75 for the round trip.

FOR choice hams, bacon, lard, etc., try BRISBIN.

Complimentary.

On Thursday evening a pleasing occurrence took place in the lodge room of Peterborough Lodge, I. O. O. F., No. 111. P. G. Galley presided. He called upon P. G. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., who read a farewell address to Bro. J. C. T. Lecey, P. G. who is about to leave for Toronto. The address dwelt upon Bro. Lacey's prominence in the order, the interest he had taken in founding the objects of the Oddfellowship and his uniform kindness and courtesy to all, regretting his departure and wishing him God speed in his new home. A P. G., and P. C. P. jewel was then presented to him. P. G. W. H. Moore stepped forward and pinned the glittering medalion on Bro. Lacey breast. The jewel was inscribed as follows: Presented to P. G. and P. C. P. J. C. T. Lacey by the brethren of Peterborough Lodge No. 111 and members of Mount Hebron Encampment No. 56 I. O. O. F., June 1st 1887. It is a handsome jewel made by Morrison of Toronto, and reflects credit upon his handiwork. Bro. Lacey replied in feeling terms acknowledging the good wishes and substantial token of the brethern's esteem.

Obituary.

John Erskine died at his residence, Ashburnham, early this morning. He had been ailing for some time, but he has been seriously ill for the past two weeks only. He was afflicted with malarial fever for a time. He recovered from it only to have a pre-existent disease of the heart manifest itself. His weak condition was unable to cope with this trouble, which ultimately carried him away. John Erskine was born in the south of Fifeshire, Scotland, in the year 1837. He was a descendant of one branch of the Mar family, and for many years maintained a correspondence with the present Earl of Mar. He came to this country while still a young man and after prospecting for a time settled in Peterborough in the year 1862. He opened a dry goods store on George street, and subsequently removed to Hunter street, where he has done a good business. He was a man of retiring disposition, never striving for office or place. He has, however, been elected President of the St. Andrew's Society and for more than ten years has been elder in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church. He was a devout Christain and a charitable man. He was ever doing some act of kindness which rarely reached the ears of the outside world. In politics he was a Reformer until recently.

EDUCATIONAL SOCIETY.

Annual Public Meeting—Addresses on the Educational Work.

The educational meeting was held on Thursday evening in the George Street Church. It was opened with devotional exercises, the President, who presided, leading in prayers.

The PRESIDENT said that they knew that higher educational institutions, from which flowed the leading men, were of importance, and they should keep them under religious influences.

The Rev. Dr. BURWASH dwelt on the importance of the educational work of the church. The General Conference had decided on an educational policy, and the question for them now was the carrying out of that policy. Some said that policy could not be carried out, but that could only be decided after a fair test. From a moral and spiritual point of view their institutions, especially the University, commended themselves to the people. The University had just closed a most prosperous year, having the largest number of students in every faculty, and had the largest graduating class, he believed, any university ever had in the British possessions of America. There were only about half a dozen students who were not earnest Christians. Of 32 graduates this year 14 of the brightest were going into the ministry.

The Rev. Dr. WILLIAMS, Treasurer of the Educational Society, read the annual report. The contributions amounted to $1,376.74, as compared with $1,458 39 last year. This evening's collection might make up the balance. Peterborough District's contribution was $306.35.

Mr. Geo. A. COX, Bursar of Victoria University, explained his position on University Federation. He had no fear that the University at Cobourg was in danger of dying out, but he supported federation because he thought it would be the best thing to do. He was not in favour of going to Toronto unless in a strong financial position, but he still thought it in the interest of the church to remove the University to Toronto. He was opposed to any movement being made until the $450,000 required was raised, and he hoped this Conference would pledge itself to do all it could towords raising that amount. The financial position of the University was not so bad as supposed. Last year the ordinary revenue exceeded the ordinary expenditure. The amount required was a small one for this great church, with 300,000 members to raise it.

The Rev. Dr. POTTS, Secretary of the Educational Society, congratulated the President on his election. [illegible] had been weak in the past, but he proposed that it be vigorous in the future. Last year they raised about $11,000, and he believed that every Conference would report an increase this year. He gave advice as to [illegible] purpose in each congregation. He was a federationist. Before the General Conference he was a federationist from conviction. Since that time he had been a federationist from loyalty as well. The whole church was committed to it, because every member of the church was represented in the General Conference. In all their intercourse with the Ontario Government they met nothing but fairness and frankness. They had secured from the Government a site of five acres in the best part of Queen's Park, worth $60,800, which they got for a dollar a year as long as they were in federation. And should they wish to purchase in twenty years they could do so at a price fixed by arbitration now. As to the Act of the Ontario Legislature, they could scarcely have a better bill. The only question now was money. Dr. Burwash said that to stay in Cobourg $300,000 would be required; to go to Hamilton, $500,000; to go to Toronto independent, $700,000; to go to Toronto in federation, $450,000. This was a grave crisis in the history of the church. If united they could do anything; if not united he did not know what the consequences would be. He closed with an earnest appeal for all to be united.

The Rev. Dr. CARMAN said that they should give the educational policy of the church a fair and honorable chance. If the church decided on a matter of policy differently from his opinion, he was Papist enough to believe that the church was right. They must have religious higher education. They dare not leave that education to chance or state influence. The church had a responsibility in the matter. Methodism was under obligation to put converting power in with scientific education, so that in attending college the student was as apt to be converted as educated. It would be sad and humiliating to Methodism if the declared policy of the church could not be carried out on account of the lack of money. It was a question of connectional loyalty and cash now. What the Church wanted on the educational question was arousing and union. Working unitedly God would bless their efforts. His address was an eloquent, earnest and effective appeal for united effort and liberal aid.

A collection was taken up. The meeting concluded by the singing of the doxology and by Dr Carman pronouncing the benediction.

Journalists Drowned.

CORNWALL, Ont., June 2—While out boating this morning on the river below Ogdensburg, Wm. Phillips, of New York, American manager of the European Press Association, and Chas. E. George, of Ottawa, Canadian manager of the same association, were capsized by a passing steamer and drowned. Both were strong swimmers, but were forced to sucumb to the current after keeping up for about half an hour. Both are well known journalists in both the United States and Canada. Mr. George would have reached shore had he not helped Mr. Phillips. They were en route to Ottawa. At the time of his death he held a position on the staff of the Ottawa Free Press.

TRADE IN

OUR MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT, and did we judge alone by the crowds that daily claim attention of our salesmmen advertising this class of goods would be unnecessary—almost a waste of money. But then, you know, there's two sides to every subject. Here's the other side to this one, and at the same time our reason for advertising when there's no apparent necessity for doing so.

In making up our stock in this department we provided for great numbers—for many more than have as yet taken advantage of its completeness, to furnish themselves with millinery suitable for the season.

It will therefore require "crowds long continued" to clear out tables of the enormus stock of Millinery with which they are loaded—over-loaded.

A continuous demand then being necessary, we knew of no better way to insure it than to keep you informed as to just what we have and how we are prepared to sell it. We shall, therefore, from now till the close of the season, devote some portion of our card to Millinery News.

We have already said that our stock was large. We have also intimated that our assortment was complete. Now for our goods.

We have just received a six dozen lot of Ladies' and Children's Hats which are the newest in shape and bought at half their value.

EPPS'S COCOA

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette."

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Loch's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1887.

THAT Mr. Blake has been obliged to resign for a time the leadership of the Opposition will not surprise the public, since his wish to do so has been repeatedly published, and with truth, though the Reform journals have insultingly derided those who made known the fact. It is to be regretted that the necessity for this step should have arisen from ill-health, but we may hope that a short rest will lead to a complete recovery. Now that the vacancy is avowed the Opposition should choose some leader and not turn the House into a beargarden by their undisciplined and disorderly efforts.

Late in the season manufacturers are glad to clear ends of stock at tremendous reductions. See the seamless hosiery Turnbull is selling, three pair for 25 cents. Bought right.

TRENT VALLEY NAVIGATION.

We have been requested to publish the following correspondence:—

OTTAWA, May 30, 1887.

Hon. J. H. Pope, Minister of Railways and Canals:

DEAR SIR,—Will you oblige me with stating the determination of the Government with respect to pressing forward the construction of the Trent Valley Canal?

A number of Deputations have been appointed to wait on the Government and to urge the immediate progress of the work.

I remain, very truly yours,
J. STEVENSON.

OTTAWA, May 31st, 1887.

MY DEAR STEVENSON,—I have your note of yesterday, in which you urge an appropriation of money for the extension and continuance of the Trent Valley Canal, and also state that you are very anxious about the matter and that you hope the Government will press the work forward.

I have to say, in reply, that, inasmuch as I would like to meet your views respecting this matter, I will press on the work, so far as already begun, to completion this season if possible. In so far as the balance of the work on the Trent Valley Canal is concerned, I have to say that, before proceeding further, we will, after the session, send on a commission to report fully upon the whole matter.

Hoping this may meet your approval,
I remain, my dear sir,
Your obedient servant,
J. H. POPE.

J. Stevenson, Esq., M.P., House of Commons.

CONFERENCE NOTES.

Biographical Sketches of the President and Secretary—Other Notes.

THE PRESIDENT.

The Rev. John Learoyd, who was elected to the highest office in the gift of the Bay of Quinte Conference, is in his 57th year. His family is one of Methodist ministers—his father, the Rev. Amos Learoyd, was in the Wesleyan Methodist Ministry in England and he has two sons in the ministry in Canada, the Rev. W. H. Learoyd in this Conference and another son in the Montreal Conference. The President is a native of Yorkshire, England, where he was born in the year 1830. He came to Canada to enter the ministry in 1856, and has since been a zealous and faithful worker o various fields, having filled many important stations. He is at present pastor of the Bridge Street Church, Belleville, one of the best in the Conference, and Chairman of the Belleville District. He is a good speaker, an earnest worker, faithful to his duties, and will make an efficient presiding officer and executive head for the Conference.

THE SECRETARY.

The Rev. Wm. Burns, who was elected to the other most important office, is a native of Canada, having been born in the County of Carlton, near the city of Ottawa. He entered the Ministry of the old Wesleyan Methodist Church in the year 1850, and for the last thirty-seven years has faithfully labored in the pasterate of this church without any interruption. Mr. Burns has a vigorous constitution, speaks with a clear, commanding voice, easily heard by all members of the Conference, and judging from appearances has many years of useful service before him, in the itinerant work of the Methodist Church. He has a son in the ministry, the Rev. R. N. Burns, M.A., of the Toronto Conference.

NOTES.

In the Bible class room in the basement the Methodist Book Room carries on a trade in literature. The volumes, large and small, embracing heavy theological works, commentaries, histories, poetry and other classes of literature, as well as publications purely Methodistical, are [illegible] arranged and displayed.

The basement possesses also a post-office where letters are mailed and delivered stamps supplied and the regular business of a post-office carried on. A son of the Rev. J. C. Wilson, of Ashburnham, is the postmaster, and an obliging and efficient one he is.

The Rev. Dr. Carman is an excellent presiding officer. Prompt in decisions, he expedites business, while his courtesy and his wit keep the Conference in good humor.

The following will give an idea of the General Superintendent's humor, which is almost constantly playing. When the Rev. Wm. Burns was elected Secretary by a small majority over the Rev. F. H. Wallace, "Let's see," said Dr. Carman, "was it not Burns who wrote 'Scots wha hae wi' Wallace bled?'"

The Rev. J. A. Jewell, B.A., has been called away from the Conference to attend the funeral of a parishioner.

The Conference adjourned from 2 o'clock this afternoon until 9 a. m. on Monday, to give the Committees an opportunity to get on with their work.

THE JUBILEE.

Arrangements for the Celebration Going on Apace.

The second meeting of the General Committee on the Queen's Jubilee celebration was held on Friday evening. Owing to several of the members having engagements, the attendance was not so large as at the previous meeting.

The Chairmen of the various sub-committees, however, were present, and were prepared to submit reports. The Programe Committee have completed their work. The programme for the forenoon will be the same as that published in the REVIEW a week ago. The Chairman of the Musical Committee stated that the words of the songs suggested had been printed on slips and placed in the hands of the Superintendents of the various Sunday Schools, and practice would be held next week. Several rehersals will be held in the Roller Rink previous to the 21st of June.

On the programe for the afternoon there is a list of sports, including a baseball match, Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Co. vs. Lock Works. These sports will take place in the Riverside Park. No admission fee will be charged, it being decided that on Jubilee day everything should be free. The prizes will be handsome.

The regatta on the Little Lake will take place in the evening at six o'clock, when canoe races and skiff races will take place. After dark there will be a grand illuminated canoe parade. The Otonabee Canoe Club have very kindly consented to take charge of the regatta and canoe parade.

This is the programme prepared by the Committee appointed for the purpose. As it is a good programme no doubt the General Committee, which will probably meet on Tuesday evening, will adopt it.

The citizens are asked by the General Committee to illuminate their stores and residences at night, the citizens to choose their own means of illumination.

Turnbull's tailoring department is a grand success. Suits made to order from $12 to $16 out of choice patterns.

The Churches.

The following is a list of services in the several churches to-morrow:—

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL.—At St. Peter's Cathedral, Roman Catholic, there will be three masses celebrated, the first at 7 a. m. the second at 8 a. m., and the third at 10.30 a. m. Vespers at 7 p. m.

ST. LUKE'S.—The regular services at St Luke's Church will be conducted as follows: Morning Prayer, Litany and sermon at 11 a. m., evensong at 7 p. m.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—The regular services will be conducted as follows:—Holy Communion at 8.30 a.m.; Morning Prayer, Litany sermon and Holy Communion at 11 a.m.; Evening Prayer and sermon at 7 p. m. Prof. Jones, of Trinity College, will officiate both morning and evening.

GEORGE ST. CHURCH.—9 a. m. Love-feast. Rev. James Curts. 11 a. m.: Ordination Sermon, Rev. S. S. Nelles, D. D., LL. D. 2.30 p. m.: Sabbath School. Revs. W. J. Young, G. W. Dewey, and W. Johnston, Esq. 7 p. m. Rev. William Williams. Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Rev. J. Learoyd.

CHARLOTTE ST. CHURCH.—11 a. m.: Rev. Joseph Young, ex-Secretary of Conference. 2.30 p. m.: Sabbath School. Revs. J. A. Jewell, B. A., J. J. Leach, and T. W. Pickett, 7 p. m.: Rev. W. H. Emsley. Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Rev. A. C. Wilson.

ASHBURNHAM CHURCH.—11 a. m.: Rev. Gilbert Horton. 2.30 p. m.: Sabbath school. Revs. John A. McAmus, R. T. Courtice, and J. E. Robeson, 7 p. m.: Rev. [illegible] Jolliffe. Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Rev. W. Burns.

ST. PAUL'S (Presbyterian).—11 a. m.: Rev. E. I. Badgley, LL. D. 7.30 p. m.: Rev. J. J. Leach.

ST. ANDREWS (Presbyterian).—11 a. m.: Rev. O. R. Lambly, M. A. 7 p. m.: Rev. J. J. Rice.

BAPTIST CHURCH.—11 a. m.: Rev. Wm. Buchanan. 7 p. m.: Rev. J. F. Ockley.

OPERA HOUSE.—4 p. m.: Gospel Temperance meeting. Speakers—Rev. S. F. Depew, Rev. Amos Campbell and S. P. Ford, Esq., M. D.

Still They Come.

The invitations to the different Cantons [illegible] to participate in the "Oddfellows Jubilee Demonstration," at Peterborough, in August next, are being accepted by all "Cantons" along the line. The Secretary of the Committee has received word from the "Canton Ontaouais," Ottawa, accepting the invitation to Peterborough August 10th, in which they say: "We accept your very kind invitation and Ontaouais Canton will enter heartily into the matter and boom it for all they are worth. I have every reason to believe that the demonstration will surpass the most sanguine expectations of the Peterborough brotherhood." The Dominion Oddfellow says:—"Toronto Encampment, No. 8, is enjoying a regular boom. On Thursday evening last, a special meeting was held, at which three brothers received the First Degree, four the Second and four the Third, and all these, with others, are making for the Canton, and, if successful, will add greatly to its working strength. The canton is looking forward with pleasure to their proposed visit to Peterborough in August next."

Blessing the Bell.

The solemn service of blessing the bell will take place in the parish church, Ennismore, on Sunday, June 5th, at 10 a. m. His Lordship Bishop Dowling will preside on the occasion. We understand that a large number from the town have signified their intention to be present. The Ennismore choir will be reinforced by the best local talent of Peterborough.

For Young Men.

Several of the young men attending the Methodist Conference will be present at the young men's meeting in the Y. M. C. A. Hall to-night at 8 o'clock. Others will take part in the meetings on Sunday at 4 p. m and at 8.30 p. m. All young men strangers or citizens will receive a hearty welcome.

Illumination.

Mr. Jas. Stevenson, President of the Gas Company, was interviewed to day in regard to putting up an arch of gas lights on George street on the evening of the Queen's Jubilee day. He consented to put one up at any point the Committee might think proper.

Worthy of Note.

In another column will be found an advertisement of Messrs. Hall Innis and Co., for tenders for alterations in their stores on Simcoe street. With a rich, enterprising and progressive firm like this, contractors will find it to their advantage to communicate.

Fainted.

On Friday afternoon a little girl, daughter of Mr. O'Leary, Otonabee, fell in a faint on the corner of Water and Simcoe streets. She was picked up, placed in a hack and driven to Walsh's drug store, where consciousness was restored.

Band.

The practice of the Fire Brigade Band will be held this evening in the band hall. All members are requested to be present.

Town Council.

A special meeting of the Town Council will be held on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Fine Lawns and All-over Laces for summer Dresses at Turnbull's.

Smothering Children.

NEW YORK, June 3.—The World's London cable says: Dr. Danford Thomas, one of the metropolitan coroners, has made an extraordinary statement apropos of the death by suffocation of a little child, by accidental smothering in the bed by its parents, declaring that he had over two hundred such cases before him. Dr. Thomrs suggests a cot as an alternative and sternly denounces the practice of letting babies sleep between their parents.

A Great Political Plot.

MEXICO, June 3.—The Monitor Republicano, an influential Liberal paper, claims ta have special information, dispite the repeated denials of the story, that vast organizations of the Clerical party have been perfected for the purpose of overthrowing the Republic and placing Don Carlos in power.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d99

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC.

At the time of selling our stock of Dry Goods to Sheehy & Co., we had fully determined to give up that particular branch of our business, but as previously announced, did not do so, for various reasons. However it is now our intention to dispose of the Dry Goods Trade, and have consequently made up our mind to clear out the whole stock

AT COST PRICE AND UNDER.

This is one of the BEST Dry Goods stocks in the country, having been imported from the best markets direct to ourselves. Remember, this will be a GENUINE CLEARING OUT SALE. While we will still retain our Clothing Trade, yet we will during this sale, offer ALL our Ready-made Clothing, for Men and Boys, (with all kinds of Furnishings) at COST PRICE. Remember the whole Dry Goods Stock must be sold.

The Daily Review

SATURDAY, JUNE 4, 1887.

THE REASON WHY.

THE conduct of some of the Opposition leaders immediately after the vote relegating the Queen's County case to the duly authorized law courts, showed the wisdom of that vote. Sir R. Cartwright and Mr. Mitchell were so carried away by passion at being denied the right to decide who should be members of the House of Commons that they behaved like common street rowdies, using grossly disorderly language and setting the Speaker at defiance. Such a scene shows the wisdom of Parliament in removing these election questions from the political area to the calmer atmosphere of the courts. It would be a misfortune if a precedent were established for making the members judges of each other's rights to their seats.

We are still of the opinion that Mr. King should have been returned, judging from the facts before us, but neither Mr. King nor the electors of Queen's cared to apply in the proper quarter under our law for the redress of their grievances. Possibly the explanation given by Mr. Baird as to the Reform doings and plottings in the riding explain their unwillingness to face the searching scrutiny of a court of law.

Though neither Mr. King nor the Reform electors deserve much sympathy since they have obstinately refused to seek in the manner prescribed by our laws redress for any wrong they may have suffered, we hope that Mr. Baird will carry out his manly promise of resigning. We have no wish to see members elected through technicalities.

TOWN DRAINAGE.

SOME months ago a special committee was appointed to investigate as to providing drainage for the Town, and to report to the Town Council. No report has yet been presented, and we would beg to ask if anything is being done.

If the committee is making an investigation, we have no desire to hurry it unduly, for it is a very important matter, requiring full examination and mature deliberation. But if the question is being allowed to sleep, the reference to the committee lying in some dusty pigeon hole, we would suggest that the matter is of pressing importance and should not be neglected.

A Ministerial reply in the House of Commons shows that extraordinary precautions as to quarantine are now being taken to prevent the introduction of cholera into Canada from South America, where it is prevalent, but it would be rash to rely upon its exclusion. This is one reason why we should not delay in looking after our sanitary arrangements, but the ordinary requirements of a population of the density of that of Peterborough are in themselves sufficient to demand prompt action.

The committee should bestir itself.

It is not surprising that the Ministerial majority should have been demolished on the division as to the Queen's County seat. Though the majority of the House, even including those who thought Mr. King should have been returned, came to the wise conclusion not to break through the established rule of leaving such question to the law courts, it was not unnatural that more impulsive and less prudent members should be eager to do what they held to be justice, even at the cost of setting a dangerous precedent, by interfering with the administration of the law. They were like those amiable, but mistaken, offenders, who are sometimes fined by judge or magistrate for taking the law into their own hands, even while the Bench expresses some sympathy with their generous impulse.

One of the heaviest waves of cheap dress goods that ever struck Peterborough is now on sale at Turnbull's. Forty different patterns to select from at only 12½ cents a yard.

The report was adopted.

The Rev. Dr. BURWASH moved, seconded by Mr. W. F. Hall, the following resolution:

1st. That this Conference regards the following scheme, based on an estimate made by the Dean of the Theological Faculty of Victoria University, as a fair and feasible plan for raising the money required for buildings, endowments, &c., of Victoria College in the city of Toronto:—

1. Towards the endowment of four chairs: Subscriptions of Messrs. Cox, Goodcrham and two others $125,000
2. Amount already subscribed for building and endowments 75,000
3. Amount to be raised by Conferences:
   - Toronto Con., including Toronto $75,000
   - Niagara Con. 50,000
   - Bay of Quinte Con. 35,000
   - London Con 35,000
   - Guelph Con 32,000
   - Montreal 20,000

   $250,000

$450,000

2nd. That this Bay of Quinte Conference, consisting of ninety circuits, pledges itself, with the help of the Secretary of Education, to raise, within the period of three, or, if possible, two years, the sum allotted to it in this scheme, that is an average of $400 per circuit and $1.50 a member, amounting in the aggregate to $37,000.

3rd. That the Chairmen of Districts, after consultation with delegates, meet before the close of this Conference and agree upon the proportion to be raised by each District; and that each Chairman, at such time and place as he may deem expedient, shall, in consultation with representatives from the circuits, sub-divide the amount allotted to his District, according to the financial strength of the several circuits.

Rev. Dr. BURWASH made an eloquent and earnest address in support of his motion, reviewing the action of the General Conference and advocating the policy decided on.

Rev. J. S. MCMULLEN resented the insinuations that had been thrown out that the opponents of federation wished the efforts to raise subscriptions to fail.

Rev. E. N. BAKER opposed federation.

Prof. REYNAR also opposed the motion, arguing that the condition, prescribed by the General Conference had not been met.

Rev. Dr. WILLIAMS adopted Prof. Reynar's contention, and spoke of bringing the College under state influence.

Rev. F. B. STRATTON protested against the Conference pledging the amount named, and placing that additional burden on their people.

Rev. E. D. LEWIS argued that the General Conference had not imposed the conditions referred to by Prof. Reynar, and that the College would be sufficiently protected from state influence.

Dr. WILLIAMS moved, seconded by Dr. BREDIN,—That this Conference having had brought to its attention a series of resolutions proposing to assess certain amounts required for the working of federation upon this Conference and the districts within its limits; that while we are willing to do what we conscientiously can for the accomplishment of the educational purposes contemplated by the General Conference, we cannot consent to any arrangement which would require from this Conference any definite or fixed amount.

Rev. I. TOVELL said that the great question of federation had been settled and the requirement now was to see if it could be carried out. They did not, he believed, represent one-twentieth of the wealth of the Conference, yet they had subscribed over $5,000, a seventh of the sum asked for. He suggested that the motion be amended so that this "Conference pledges itself to do our utmost to raise," etc, which was accepted.

The Rev. J. S. CLARKE objected only to the pledging of a definite sum. It was taxing the loyalty of the people in a way he did not like, but if a definite levy was not made he believed the money would be raised.

Rev. Wm. BURNS said the motion was not a direct levy, but a promise to do their utmost to raise a certain amount.

Rev. M. L. PEARSON had opposed federation, but as it had been decided on he favored Dr. Burwash's resolution.

Rev. A. BROWNING argued against making assessments on the circuits which they must raise or be dishonored.

Rev. Dr. BADGELY opposed the motion as abandoning the voluntary system, because they were not fully informed what federation meant and because by federation their work would be limited and their control over the students to a certain extent would be superseded.

Dr. BURWASH, replying, held that federation would bring the Provincial University under the influence of all the Churches. The bill provided for Biblical history being placed on the University curriculum, and that was a great point gained. The President of the College would still guide and be responsible for the teaching of their students.

Dr. BREDIN rose to speak, but was ruled out of order.

At the request of Rev. M. L. Pearson, Dr. Burwash withdrew from his resolution the last (3) clause.

The amendment was put and carried by a vote of 104 to 61.

The SECRETARY read a telegram of greeting from the Niagara Conference, referring to 1 Cor. iii., 12-13. The Secretary was authorized to send a suitable reply.

On motion, the editor of the Christian Guardian was unanimously asked to publish the federation act passed by the Ontario Legislature.

The recommendation of the Stationing Committee that Revs. D. O. Crossly and G. W. Dewey be set apart for evangelistic work was taken up, Rev. Mr. Lambly moving the adoption of the recommendation, which was adopted.

The question, who go to College? received the following replies:—H. E. Bayley, Geo. A. Love, J. J. Thompson and J. Willett Puffer, and the names were referred to the Committee.

The Conference adjourned.

A BIG SPRING TRADE.

BRIGHT PROSPECTS FOR A BIG SPRING TRADE AT

THE CITY CLOTHING STORE.

I have completed my Stock of Cloths, Clothing and Furnishings for Spring and Summer Wear. The Cloths are the pick of the best markets and of the most Fashionable Patterns.

SPRING OVERCOATS

I have a large line of handsome and durable material so Cheap that any one can afford to have a Spring Overcoat. Nothing is more needed at this Season of the year than a Light Weight Overcoat.

CUSTOM WORK

OUR CUSTOM WORK will still keep its high rank. Fit, Style and Finish is our hobby. Mr. DRESSER, the cutter, is as painstaking and exact as ever, and we undertake to turn out suits equal to any in the Dominion. SUITS MADE UP TO ORDER ON SHORT NOTICE.

READY-MADE CLOTHING

I can now show a Stock which has the Style and Finish of Ordered Clothing, in Men's Boys and Youth's Suits, and at prices that will astonish you. or example: TWEED SUITS at $5.00, $7.00 and $9.00; WORSTED SUITS at $10.00 and $12.00. BOYS' SUITS actually as low as $2.00. If you don't understand how we can do this, and give a good article, too, come in and see for yourselves. The precentage on all our clothing is close, to be sure, but our facilities for buying at lowest market prices are unsurpassed by any in trade. Bear in mind, too, that our Clothing is all good. Undergrade Clothing may be offered to buyers elsewhere, but not at the City Clothing Store.

Our Prices May Startle You, But We Cannot Help That!

THE CHEAPSIDE SHEPPARD PETERBOROUGH

Has the following drives at the prices annexed, and they are positively cheaper, all things being equal, than are shown by any House in the trade. They came into our hands at the prices simply because SHEPPARD bought up the whole stock at a price.

BOYS' SUITS Wholesale price in Montreal, $3.75, our price to-day $2.95. Boys' Suits made specially for Sheppard in Germany and cost $4.25 we are now selling at $3.25. MENS' SUITS—Wholesale price in Toronto $5.00 is now offered for $3.25.

LADIES' JERSEYS Ladies' Fine Braided Jersey's in Mid Brown, Seal Brown and Black, wholesale price was $3.50, Sheppard is now selling for $2.50, and commences on Jerseys at 95 cents.

DRESS GOODS A deep clean cut has been made in our Dress Goods. We have a large stock and they must be sold. The Season is now advancing and and down go the prices. SHEPPARD is not advertising Gold or Silver presents, neither is he paying return railway fares from the Pacific Slope to the Atlantic Seaboard, nor yet selling at cost, but the prices above are fully 20 per cent less than actual cost of the same goods bought in the regular way. SHEPPARD has the cheapest Buttons and Trimmings in Canada. We are not giving them away, but next door to it.

Men's Hats 10c., Men's Caps 6c., Men's Straw Hats 5c., Men's Overalls 25c., 3 Pairs Socks 25c., Men's Pants $1.00, Men's Vests 50c., Crash Coat and Vest $1.75, Boys' Wool Suits $1.00, Boys' Felt Hats 25c. Carpets cheap and Cottons cheap, all reduced from actual prices. The public will not deviate one step but go straight to the Great Cheapside.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Controverted Elections—Warriors in the House—Committee of Supply—Unpatriotic Opposition.

THURSDAY, June.—The Speaker took the chair at 3 o'clock.

CONTROVERTED ELECTIONS.

Mr. THOMPSON introduced a bill to amend the controverted Election Act, so as to enable the work in Ontario to be divided among the judges, who had suggested the change.

Sir R. CARTWRIGHT wanted a clause introduced as to the return of members.

Mr. MITCHELL wanted to provide that partizans should not be made candidates.

NORTHWEST TERRITORIES.

Mr. THOMPSON introduced a bill as to appeals from the Northwest Territories pending in the Manitoba courts.

THE SENATE.

Sir J. MACDONALD declined to tell Mr. Coquette who had been applicants for seats in the Senate.

THE WARRIORS.

Col. AMYOT on motion to go into Committee of Supply renewed his complaints of the treatment of himself and his regiment. He thought he had been badly treated after exposing himself to great danger.

Sir A. CARON denied that he had insulted the 9th, but said their colonel had done so by wanting them to guard the provisions while cowboys did the fighting. As to the discrepancy in the accounts, Col. Amyot could obtain the papers if he moved for them. Even as to that Col. Amyot had changed his views more than once.

COL. AMYOT twitted the Minister of Militia with never having smelt powder, and with not carrying the district of which he had charge at the general elections.

Mr. Mulock renewed the complaint of the York and Simcoe Battalions not receiving an allowance for their kit. As for their supplies being given by the Municipality, other battalions had received the allowance under the same circumstances.

Sir A. CARON said that the department had arrived at its decision on information given by a Major of the Battalion.

Col. O'BRIEN and Major TYRWHITT said they had not given such information, and both urged that the allowance should be granted.

Sir A. CARON said he would bring down the papers.

SUPPLY.

The HOUSE went into Committee of Supply and passed a number of items.

The Opposition leaders objected to the Experimental Farms, to the contribution to the Imperial Institute, and to the settlement of the Northwest, disparaging Canada and lauding the United States, drawing from Sir Charles Tupper the rebuke that the people of the United States though differing in policy did not run down their own country like the Canadian Reformers.

Advice to Farmers.

The Mail has often impressed upon farmers the necessity of castrating young lambs. Last year the advice was acted upon in many localities, and the results were most satisfactory. We take pleasure in publishing the following letter from Messrs. G. D. Matheson & Son, live stock salesmen, East Buffalo, who write from an extensive experience in the trade. "I have frequently written to your journal regarding the advisability of the castration of lambs when young, pointing out the great loss the farmers sustain by not attending to this. I claim, and I have twenty years' experience in the trade here, that the farmer of Ontario and the drovers combined lose from $150,000 to $200,000 a year by not doing so. After August a wether or castrated lamb will bring ½c per pound more than a buck, and later on there will be a difference in favor of the wether of ½c per pound. It must also be remembered that wethers gain in quantity and weight. Bucks are a terrible nuisance in a load of lambs, damaging not only themselves but the balance of the flock. The operation is simply and easily performed and seldom results in the loss of the animal. Last year I advised the drovers with whom I do business to buy lambs early and send them to their men to castrate them, taking all risks. In no case did the animal die from the effects. The farmers are also losers in another way; they must sell the bucks early, the drovers know this and buy them at almost their own figures. I wish you, with your very large circulation, would impress these facts upon them. I hope all the papers of the country will take the matter up as well. It is a small thing to the farmers and their neglect to attend to it is due to thoughtlessness or want of knowledge. It is of greater necessity this year than last, as lambs are likely to sell much lower. Wethers can readily be held back for the later and better markets while bucks cannot."—Toronto Mail.

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

OVER WORKED WOMEN

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and over-worked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent Specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. It is a powerful, general as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, debility and sleeplessness, in either sex. Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under our positive guarantee. See wrapper around bottle. Price $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

Salvation Army.

The Salvation Army have purchased from Mr. Geo. Kingdom a lot on Simcoe street, south side, near Aylmer street, upon which they will erect the barracks. The price paid was $1,680. The barrack's builder for the Army will be here in a few days and prepare plans for the new place of meeting. It is understood that the new building will be of brick, 90x50, and will be capable of seating one thousand people.

The British Empire.

A full synopsis of the annual report of the British Empire Mmtual Life Assurance Compady will be found in another column. The facts and figures there given show the high standing of the old established and successful office. In Mr. E. E. Henderson the Company has a representative in Peterborough who does it credit and should secure it a large share of the life insurance business of the locality.

On a Hunt.

For some time past the proprietor of the C. P. R. hotel has been disturbed by strange noises at night, which appeared to come from the roof. A few nights ago he made an investigation and found two lads under the mansard roof. They had climbed from one building to another, scaled the mansard roof, crept along on the ledge and broken into one of the windows. They were after pigeons, bevies of which make their home in this place. The boys were dismissed with a warning.

Bearing One Another's Burdens.

To-morrow the pulpits of the various Protestant Churches in town will likely be occupied by Methodist clergymen of eminence, and the probability is that the pews will be well filled. This is as it should be. What a grand opportunity for the Free Masons to get a notice read out from each of the pulpits announcing their excursion to Toronto on Thursday next, June 9th. It is hardly likely that the ministers will consent; though for that matter where's the harm? If newspaper men will persist in injuring the preaching business by publishing sermons of Spurgeon, Talmage and The Laymen (of our own town) no one could blame the clergy if they retaliated, and did a little pulpit advertising for the Freemasons.

METHODIST CHURCH.

FRIDAY EVENING.

The Friday evening meeting was devoted to the reception of the candidates for the Ministry who had completed their probation.

The meeting was opened with devotional exercises.

The President said that by their services and fruits the ordination class had shown themselves to be worthy to be received into full connection. After a hymn had been sung the President called on some of the young men.

Rev. GEO. CARPENTER said that when still a boy he was called home by a message that his mother was dying. When he arrived home she was apparently dead, but she opened her eyes, took his hand and said, "Be a good boy and meet me in heaven." In 1878, while listening to preaching, these words came to him with force and led to his conversion. Feeling that he had a call to the Ministry he had entered the work. He was anxious to go where God wished him to work, and soon he would go to British Columbia.

Rev. M. E. WILSON spoke of the influence of his Christian home. He always had a reverence for God and for all that was good and having a longing for the peace and joy of a Christian, he received them through prayer and through working for God.

H. V. Mountier, W. H. Buckley, U. S. Houcks and N. D. Drew also spoke, relating the circumstances of their conversion and the evidence of their call to the Ministry.

The Rev. M. L. PEARSON moved that the young men be received into full connection, and that they be ordained on Sunday morning. He referred to objections from ritualists and others to preaching, and dwelt on the importance of the preaching of the Gospel. They needed to be careful of whom they received into the ministry. He had been gratified with the testimony of the young men, and the evidences of their call to the ministry were clear and strong. No greater honor could come to the young men than when, kneeling before the representatives of the Most High, they were given authority to perform the duties of ministers. He gave advice to the class on preaching, emphasizing the importance of preaching Christ with a view to the conversion of [illegible] rather than paying too much attention to oratorical finish.

The Rev. J. B. CLARKSON in a brief speech seconded the resolution.

The resolution was carried unanimously.

The Rev. Dr. CARMAN addressed the young men. He dwelt on the necessity for complete consecration to God, and of standing on the truth of God when they could command. He closed by addressing to them words of encouragement.

A hymn was sung and the Rev. J. S. Clarke pronounced the benediction.

SATURDAY MORNING.

The session was opened with the reading of Scripture, singing and prayer.

The SECRETARY read the reply to the greeting of the Niagara Conference, referring to II. Thess. II. 16.

A second report from the Nominating Committee amending the Educational Committee, and appointing a Children's Fund Committee, as follows—

EDUCATION.—The President of the Conference, Revs. Dr. Bredin, J. B. Clarkson, J. S. Clark, W. R. Young, Messrs. C. R. Mallory, Dr. Harrison, George Hilliard and Elias Clapp. They recommended Dr. Badgely for Secretary and Dr. Williams for Treasurer.

CHILDREN'S FUND.—Revs. W. H. Emsley, A. Martin, J. E. Robeson, E. Cragg, W. M. Pattyson, T. W. Pickett, H. Thomas, Messrs. J. T. Allen, Geo. Sills, J. Brock, T. Richardson, C. Howarth, A. V. Price, J. Bruce and A. Harvey.

The report was adopted.

The following were received on trial for the ministry:—Geo. R. Clare (allowed one year), I. Willett Puffer, Kenneth B. Boothe.

Wilmot Clarke, a two years' probationer, was continued on trial, as was also F. A. August, who goes to Manitoba.

Several memorials were read from Districts asking permission to sell church property, and were referred to the Church Property Committee.

The roll of superannuated ministers was called and all continued in that relation. The Rev. John Bredin, D.D., and Rev. J. W. Andrews were recommended for superannuated relations. The supernumerary roll was also called, and other routine work gone through.

In moving the recommendation in Dr. Bredin's case, the Rev. J. S. Clark made an affecting address, regretting Dr. Bredin's retirement and expressing good wishes for his future. Dr. Bredin has been 55 years in active ministerial work.

The following clergymen were reported to have died during the year:—W. H. Palmer, Belleville District, and C. P. Frizzell, Napanee District. Obituary notices of the deceased brethren were read and several clergymen bore testimony of their zeal and virtues. A hymn was sung and the Rev. J. S. Clarke led in prayer, pleading especially for the families of the deceased brethren.

Rev. Prof. DYER, of Albert College, addressed the Conference. The work of the year in the college, he said, had been gratifying indeed. Every department was in a healthy state and the outlook was bright. The number of students was 161, 107 young men and 54 ladies. This year the college had been self-sustaining and would have a surplus of a few hundred dollars. He gave particulars as to the departments. Over fifty per cent. of the students were converted men and women, and they had not had a case of sickness.

Prof. REYNAR moved a resolution expressing the gratification of the Conference with the report from Albert College and pledging the sympathy and the assistance of the members.

The motion was seconded by the Rev. A. Browning, supported by the Rev. J. J. Rice and adopted.

On motion of Rev. T. W. Pickett, a resolution was adopted endorsing the work of and commending Alma Ladies' College at St. Thomas.

The Conference adjourned until 9 o'clock on Monday morning.

THE BRITISH EMPIRE.

It will be interesting to the members to read a brief synopsis from the Fortieth Annual Report of the Directors of the BRITISH EMPIRE MUTUAL LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY, held on Tuesday, April 5th, 1887, in LONDON, ENGLAND, for the year ending Dec. 31st, 1886. 2,444 applications were received during the year for assurances amounting to $5,851,435, the new annual premiums payable thereon, exclusive of single premiums, being $168,310. In consideration of $17,000 eight annuities have been granted for an annual payment of $2,252. The surplus income of the year is $122,668.75. The accumulated fund (assets) now amounts to $5,684,234; the securities are of the highest class, yielding a large interest. The total income is now $1,201,438; the number of policies in force is 18,000, assuring $29,000,000. The mortality experience still continues to be favorable. All deeds and documents relating to the securities have been carefully examined by the auditors, who have also duly certified as to the correctness of the accounts and balance sheet for the year ending Dec. 31st, 1886. The members will be gratified to learn that the anticipations of the Directors have been so far fulfilled, that while the business of the year 1886 is considerably in excess of the year 1885 the ratio of management expenses to premium income has been reduced by more than two per cent. This must not, however, be considered the limit of the reduction contemplated by the Directors, for they fully expect as the result of the arrangements they have made, that a still further diminution of expenditure will from time to time be apparent.

In reference to the CANADIAN BRANCH OF THE COMPANY it has again been very satisfactory during the past year; there has been a considerable reduction in the cost of obtaining the business, which in the face of the excessively keen competition, speaks highly for the esteem in which the company is held throughout Canada. All the reserves are deposited with the Receiver General, thus affording undoubted security. The death claims amounted to $15,000 as against $33,000 in 1885. The energy and tact displayed by the agents and general agents of the Company in Canada in placing its many advantages before the public again call for the hearty thanks of the Directors, and they have only to assure these gentlemen that their interests and the interests of the friends they assure in this Company shall at all times have their utmost care and attention.

No company has a more prosperous future before it than the British Empire. Its business is increasing every year, and is of a very permanent character, which is one of the main secrets of success in life assurance.

Its expenses are decreasing, whilst the rate of interest earned on its investments is increasing, owing to the facilities the company has for placing money in this country.

Every advantage is given to policy holders to enable them to keep their policies in force and death claims are paid immediately on proof to the Canadian Board.

The report is signed by the Canadian Board of Directors, viz: the Hon. JOHN HAMILTON (Director Bank of Montreal); JAS. BURNETT, Esq., (President Montreal Stock Exchange); JOHN HOPE, (of John Hope & Co.); A. MURRAY, Esq., (Director Bank of Montreal); ROBT. SIMMS, Esq., (of R Simms & Co.); F. STANCLIFFE, Esq., General Manager; A. A. BROWNE, M. D., Chief Medical Adviser.

This splendid, substantial Company is represented in Peterborough by Mr. E. E. HENDERSON, General Agent, who is very industrious and obliging in the discharge of his duties.

TRADE IN

Our MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT, and did we judge alone by the crowds that daily claim attention of our salesmmen advertising this class of goods would be unnecessary—almost a waste of money. But then, you know, there's two sides to every subject. Here's the other side to this one, and at the same time our reason for advertising when there's no apparent necessity for doing so.

In making up our stock in this department we provided for great numbers—for many more than have as yet taken advantage of its completeness, to furnish themselves with millinery suitable for the season.

It will therefore require "crowds long continued" to clear out tables of the enormus stock of Millinery with which they are loaded—over-loaded.

A continuous demand then being necessary, we knew of no better way to insure it than to keep you informed as to just what we have and how we are prepared to sell it. We shall, therefore, from now till the close of the season, devote some portion of our card to Millinery News.

We have already said that our stock was large. We have also intimated that our assortment was complete. Now for our goods.

We have just received a six dozen lot of Ladies' and Children's Hats which are the newest in shape and bought at half their value.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend, carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Lech's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

The Daily Review.

MONDAY, JUNE 4, 1887.

LORD RANDOLPH CHURCHILL.

A Grand Scheme for Protecting the Country and Saving Money.

LONDON, June 4.—Lord Randolph Churchill in his speech at Wolverhampton advised the Unionists to make a solid stand and show Mr. Gladstone that they were equally determined as himself in the matter of the Irish question. He was gratified to believe in the power of the Government to smash obstruction at any moment they please. The Government had been very patient but the limit had been reached, and when Parliament reassembled, stringent measures ought to be adopted to prevent the Crimes bill from being amended till it became useless. Continuing Lord Randolph said that in event of war England might, after a maddening delay and great outlay of money put 150,000 men in the field. Doubtless England had a very powerful fleet on paper, but not a single fortress of strategic importance throughout the empire was properly armed and provisioned. Indeed, many were entirely unarmed and unprovisioned. During the the critical state of Europe at the close of last year there was not a single cartridge in store for the machine guns. At the close of his speech Lord Randolph Churchill said he had a plan which, while it was undoubtedly a radical, sweeping and revolutionary one, would place the country in a position to fairly perfect its military and naval preparations and save £4,000,000.

The Standard, commenting on the speech, admits the importance of the subject, but complains that Lord Randolph, while weakening his party at a time when all its strength is required to be centred in the Irish difficulty, keeps his grand scheme of reform to himself.

LONDON, June 5.—The Times, commenting on Lord Randolph Churchill's speech, says: "Let Lord Randolph Churchill convert his indignation into a steady fire of resolute purpose, and mature his plans with patient and sober industry. Then he may become a terror to evildoers and some day the opportunity may come for putting his ripened purposes into execution."

CROWN PRINCE OF GERMANY.

Dr. Morell Mackenzie's Opinion of His Throat Disease.

BERLIN, June 4.—Dr. Morell Mackenzie, the English Surgeon who assisted in making an examination of the Crown Prince, Frederick William's throat, has written to the editor of the Deutscher Revue, stating that it was fully established by the miscroscopic examination made by Dr. Virchow that the Crown Prince's disease is not a cancer but a non malignant growth. The latter, he says, can be cured by careful treatment, and there is no reason to think that the Crown Prince's case will prove an exception; as, however, his throat is very irritable, it is very important in Dr. Mackenzie's opinion that the case be conducted without undue haste.

Another operation will be made upon the Crown Prince's throat on Wednesday. Dr. Mackenzie will arrive here from London on Tuesday.

RETURN OF CARDINAL GIBBONS.

A Party of Friends Sail Down New York Bay to Welcome Him.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Cardinal Gibbons arrived here to-day on the Umbria. He was met at the quarantine by a large party of his friends who went down on the steamer Myndert Starin.

Terrible Storm.

KANSAS CITY, June 4.—A terrible storm visited this section of country last evening. At Rosedale, Lewis Hackett, while sitting at his front door, was struck by lightning and killed, and the house was consumed. Eight miles east of this city, David Custer, who was on horseback, took refuge in a tree which was struck and both horse and rider were killed.

MEMBERS of the conference have given tangible proof of the fact that KIDD's is the place for bargains in boots, shoes and slippers.

MR. O'BRIEN IN NEW YORK.

Labour Demonstration—The Agitator Refuses to Take Part.

NEW YORK, June 5.—The hundreds of thousands that formed the parade last night in honour of William O'Brien were composed of the 69th regiment, the Irish societies, labour unions and Socialistic societies. They were, however, greatly surprised to find that Mr. O'Brien did not put in an appearance, he having expressed himself as being averse to taking part in such a demonstration. He came to try to better the condition of the poor of Ireland and could not take part in any political or labor demonstration. Henry George, D. McGlynn, and other labor and Socialistic leaders were present, also some of the extreme Irish element. Several speeches were made by those on the platform which had been erected for the occasion. Mr. O'Brien did not leave his hotel.

Mr. O'Brien has written to a newspaper a statement of his reasons for not appearing, as follows:—"I most deeply regret that anything should occur which prevents me from expressing in person my gratitude to the working classes of New York for the loyal and hearty service I am quite sure they intended to render to the cause of Ireland by their demonstration last night. I was forced to abstain from participation in the proceedings because the only alternative left to me was to inflict what I knew would be a deadly blow at the movement in which the happiness of our people during the present generation is bound." He goes on to say he found that the gentleman nominated to preside and present the address of welcome to him was one whose choice, for reasons which he must decline to discuss, but which in no degree apply to his office as president of the labour union (United Labour Party), would be used to give colour to the malignant representations of the London Times and would involve the most calamitous results for the Irish movement. He says:—"The deputation seemed to acquiesce heartily in the reasonableness of my objection, and gave me to understand that the nomination would be set aside. Later in the evening resolutions were handed to me. I found that two of the resolutions distinctly characterized our movement as one to abolish private property in land and sought to identify it with an American movement with that object. I pointed out that this description was in direct contravention of the objects of the Irish National League, and would inevitably be used to entangle us in American issues. I suggested a revision of the resolutions. I was told no change could be made in the chairmanship, and that my proposed change in the resolutions could not be accepted. Under these circumstances I intimated that, after most anxious consideration, I felt coerced in the interest of the Irish soil to decline participation in the demonstration."

A stormy meeting of the Central Labour Union was held to-day. Resolutions were adopted denouncing Editor O'Brien for his action.

McGlynn Demonstration.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Arrangements for the monster demonstration in favor of Dr. McGlynn are now about completed, and contemplate the biggest affair of the kind that New York has ever witnessed. It is said that over one hundred thousand men will be in line, including the Knights of Labor and Trade Unions of this city, Brooklyn and Jersey City. A crowd from St. Stephen's parish will lead off. The affair will occur on June 15th, the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo having been purposely chosen.

The American Agriculturist as a Daily.

During the continuance of the great Dairy and Cattle Show, held in New York City in the second week of May, the American Agriculturist Monthly, issued a daily paper on the grounds every morning at ten o'clock, of eighteen pages, describing the scenes and incidents from day to day, and presenting illustrations of the various cattle and farm implements as premiums were awarded them. Every number contained from thirty to forty engravings of cattle, etc., etc. It was rather a novelty for the veteran American Agriculturist, now not far from its fiftieth birthday.

Texas Train Robbery.

FORT WORTH, Texas, June 5.—A Texas and Pacific Express train was robbed by 4 masked men eight miles west of here last night. One thousand three hundred and sixty dollars were taken from the express car and three registered letters from the mail car. The passengers were not molested.

BLESSING THE BELL.

An Interesting Ceremony at the Ennismore Church—Address to the Bishop.

A number of gentlemen drove out from Peterborough to Ennismore on Sunday morning to attend the ceremony of blessing the bell at the Ennismore Church. Those who had not been there before for some time were surprised at seeing such a fine church and residence for the parish priest. There was a very large congregation present. High Mass was celebrated by his Lordship Bishop Dowling and Rev. Father Keilty, and was more than usually impressive, as the good Ennismore choir was strengthened by several voices from St. Peter's Cathedral.

After Mass an address was presented to Bishop Dowling from the parishioners, congratulating him on his appointment to the Bishopric, welcoming him to the parish and expressing their gratification with his appointment and visit; to which the Bishop replied at some length.

A large collection was taken up to be applied to the bell fund, and Father Keilty announced that a kind Peterborough friend had sent a cheque for $75. A number of persons came forward and kissed the episcopal ring on the Bishop's hand.

His Lordship explained the importance and depth of meaning in the ceremony of blessing the bell. The very impressive ceremony was then performed, the bell being called "Thomas Joseph," in honor of Bishop Dowling. The sponsors were Mr. Mr. Crough, Reeve of Ennismore, Councillors McCarthy, Galvin, Young, and Messrs. M. Crough, John Scollard, M. Leonard, B. Sullivan, M. O'Reilly, J. Harrington, Timothy Murphy and Garret P. Galvin. At the conclusion of the ceremony several availed themselves of the privilege of ringing the bell on the first day.

The bell was in the entrance to the church and was prettily decorated. It is a high and heavy one, being one of the largest in the county. The tone was much admired.

Several gentlemen from Peterborough were afterwards presented to Bishop Dowling in Father Keilty's house.

POLICE COURT.

SCOTT ACT.

MONDAY, June 6.—The following Scott Act cases came before the Court this morning:—Adams vs. Mitchell, Adams vs. Rush, Adams vs. Chamberlain, Adams vs. Wm. Clancy, Adams vs. J. Clancy, Adams vs. J. Clancy, Adams vs. Cavanagh, Adams vs. Condon and Adams vs. Van Every. Pleas of guilty having been entered a $50 fine was imposed in each case.

NON-SUPPORT.

W. J. Carveth was charged by his wife with not having provided food, lodging and clothing for her, he being liable being her husband. The defendant pleaded not guilty, stating that if his wife would stay with him he was willing to provide for her, and that she had gone away of her own accord. It appeared that the discord between them arose from disputes about religion. The Magistrate advised them to forget past unpleasantness and live together as they should. The defendant agreed to receive his wife back and the case was dismissed without costs.

The Fish! The Fish!

Mr. A. Wilson has let out the biggest fish yarn of the season (so far). He says that he can say with a clear conscience that a gentleman named Thompson caught a brook trout which measured 17½ inches from stem to stern. It was caught in a brook out in Manvers. Messrs. Lech, Bennett, Stone, and others have not yet been heard from.

New Uniforms.

Acting Chief Adams has donned his new uniform, and the rest of the force will soon follow suit. The uniforms are of a handsome style. They were made by Messrs. T. Dolan & Co.

GENERAL.

It is now supposed that over two hundred persons lost their lives in the Paris Opera Comique fire.

LATEST CABLE NEWS

THE FLOODS IN HUNGARY.

VIENNA, June 4.—Zezedin is crowded with fugitives from the submerged districts. That town is safe for the present, but great anxiety is felt, as all attempts to repair the dykes have proved futile. A large boat filled with granite blocks was directed towards the breach, but before it could be sunk the rush of water smashed it to splinters. One hundred thousand acres of splendid wheat crops have been destroyed. Great indignation is expressed against the contractors for the dykes, which cost one million pounds.

MR. PARNELL'S HEALTH.

LONDON, June 4.—Mr. Parnell's health is greatly improved and he will be in his place in the House next week. The debate on the Coercion bill promises to be exciting.

MR. GLADSTONE SERENADED.

SWANSEA, June 4.—Mr. Gladstone was serenaded by three hundred Welsh choristers last evening. He warmly thanked them for the honor.

TO OBEY THE CIVIL LAWS.

LONDON, June 4.—It is stated that the Pope has ordered the priests in Ireland to advise their flocks to obey the civil laws.

MURDERED BY ANARCHISTS.

MADRID, June 4.—Three surveyors have been stabbed to death by members of an anarchist league at Valguarnera, Spain, called the Holy Land League." The members of the league are mostly workers in the sulphur mines. Other persons have been warned to expect death.

MME. ALBANI BEFORE ROYALTY.

LONDON, June 4.—A state concert was given at Buckingham Palace last evening before the Prince and Princess of Wales, on behalf of the Queen. Mme. Albani sang Tennyson's "Carmen." Stanford, the composer, conducted the orchestra. Mme. Nordica also sang.

BOULANGER IN THE CROWD.

PARIS, June 4.—It is stated that General Boulanger was on the street during the demonstration in his favor last Tuesday night but was not recognized.

OF MILITARY IMPORTANCE.

BERLIN, June 5.—Prof. Stein, the eminent political economist, has issued a pamphlet showing the military importance to Great Britain of the Canadian Pacific Railway, which he says has apparently been overlooked by the powers. The pamphlet has attracted a great deal of attention in Berlin, and has also been widely read throughout Europe. It calls attention to the absolute independence of England in the event of war with Russia or any other European power in the matter of using the Suez Canal, which she could ignore altogether and send her troops overland through Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

THE BALTIC CANAL.

BERLIN, June 5.—Operations on the Baltic canal will not be begun on a grand scale until the autumn, as the necessary preparations are not yet complete.

CANALS IN DEMAND.

PARIS, June 5.—M. Delattre, a member of the French Chamber of Deputies for the Seine, has given notice that he will interpellate the Government regarding the construction by Germany of the North Sea and Baltic Canal. He will ask what the Government expects will be the result of the construction of this water way upon French commerce and also whether the Government intends to effect a scheme to make Paris a seaport and construct a canal from the Mediterranean to the Atlantic.

AN UNEASY FEELING.

LONDON, June 4.—An uneasy feeling prevails here concerning the Queen's progress in state from Buckingham Palace to Westminster Abbey on June 21. An impression has somehow got abroad that an attempt will be made on the Queen's life, either on her way to or from the Abbey, and the rumors on the subject have been strengthened by the series of the articles on "Parnellism and Crime" in the Times, wherein it is distinctly stated that we are on the eve of some great catastrophe. Of course every precaution will be taken to guard the Queen from danger.

THE DURATION OF PEACE.

BERLIN, June 5.—A high official of the Government here was asked for how long a time peace was secured. His answer was "For this year and if the Czar meets the two Emperors in the autumn and consents to sign a treaty of alliance probably for five years. The nature of the Russian's response to Prince Bismarck's overtures, however, is doubtful."

RUSSIAS' FRIENDSHIP.

BERLIN, June 5.—The assertion of the Kreuz Zeitung regarding the restoration of friendly relations with Russia is born out by no apparent facts. On the contrary, the Pan-Slavist press continues to display hostility to Germany, and practical enmity in the repression of the German element in the Baltic provinces and of German trade and traders everywhere in Russia, continues unabated.

THE AMEER'S POSITION.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 4.—News has been received from Herat that the Ameer of Afganistan is in a critical position. He has withdrawn the garrisons of Herat and Balkh for the purpose of reinforcing the troops defeated in the recent encounter with the Ghilzais.

JUBILEE JUMP.

LONDON, June 5.—Lawrence Donovan, who jumped off Brooklyn bridge and also off Suspension bridge at Niagara Falls, today jumped from the London bridge into the Thames. He refused to permit a collection to be taken up, saying the jump was made merely in honor of the Queen's jubilee. He intends to jump, at an early day, off the Clifton Suspension bridge in Bristol, the highest in England.

IN CENTRAL ASIA.

LONDON, June 5.—A despatch from St. Petersburg says the Ameer of Bokhara has dismissed all the officials of his Government intriguing against Russia. He has informed the Governor of Turkestan that he and his subjects are impatiently waiting for the great link which will connect their country with Russia and diffuse civilization throughout Central Asia.

POLICE ASSESSMENT.

CORK, June 5.—The Inspector General of Police having assessed this county £3,868 for extra police, the court of quarter sessions yesterday passed a resolution protesting that the ordinary police force was more than sufficient.

WASTED WATER POWER.

We reproduce in full from the Dominion Mechanical and Milling News a very able and suggestive article descriptive of our magnificent water power, and its enormous capabilities. The impression produced upon an intelligent observer, thoroughly qualified to judge of such matters, is calculated to bring more vividly before the minds of our people, a truth which to some extent loses its force by being so familiar. The enormous power of the Otonabee has so long been running to waste, that the wastefulness fails to strike us as it does a stranger, looking on it in wonder at such neglected advantages.

When the adoption of the National Policy gave an impetus to manufacturing in Canada, Peterborough was not prepared to take advantage of the opportunity, because its means of carriage were so inadequate, compared with other localities, which thus secured the preference. Now, however, in addition to unsurpassed water power, we have railway connections which will compare favorably with those of most towns or cities. There is therefore no longer a sufficient reason for the waste of which "Proctor" speaks.

Steps should be taken to make the facts more widely known. It is a pity that the water privileges, being private property, the municipality cannot adopt such a comprehensive plan as is suggested, but any manufacturer wishing to establish an industry here, especially if a new one, would no doubt be able to secure reasonable terms. He could hardly secure equal advantages elsewhere.

LOST—10,000 HORSE POWER.

Riding eastward on the C. P. R. train the other day, the writer happened to glance northward out of the car window, while passing over the long bridge that spans the Otonabee River, just eastward of the station at Peterborough. The river, a little fuller than usual, was pouring down a great flood of water into Lake Chemong, and on through the tortuous windings of the stream into Rice Lake, and on by the Trent into the Bay of Quinte. Some one in a seat behind remarked: "That's a busy, prosperous town, that Peterborough," and some one else replied: "Yes, there are a lot of enterprising men in it." And the writer—with his eye still on the great river below—thought: This may be all true, but the people of Peterborough have not yet risen to a just conception of the privileges and advantages bestowed upon them, or they wouldn't let all that wealth of water power pour down untrammelled to the lake below.

It very seldom occurs that cities or towns are planned, laid-out and developed from the beginning with the broadest purposes of municipal good influencing and controling their promoters. Indeed, all our cities and towns are but the result of personal convenience, and have been built up in the development of personal purposes of gain. Hence, it almost always happens in municipal matters in our towns and cities, that the municipality suffers on this account in after years, and is hindered and hampered and kept from prospering until such a rearrangement and purchase of personal interests shall have been made as shall restore unto them their "birthright." The writer holds firmly to the doctrine that all the natural advantages, natural forces, and natural necessities of a town or city ought to be their property and possession.

Now for Peterborough's water power! "Personal property!"—that covers it. Run for purposes of personal gain! That explains these naked river banks, stretching from the C. P. R. track away up to the woollen mill on the one side, and all but the other on the other side, and it explains, too, this great unused wealth of water rolling down between these banks, singing and laughing in its rippling roll at the foolish people on its banks, who, refusing to fetter it, let ten thousand dollars a day pass by their doors, which, if they were wise to all their advantages, they might put into their pockets. The town of Peterborough has one of the best water privileges in the Province of Ontario. The writer knows whereof he affirms, and does not except the magnificent water powers of the Ottawa, the Sault Ste. Marie, or the Lake of the Woods, in this comparison. Some of these may have an advantage over the Otonabee at Peterborough in a few points, but taking all the important advantages into consideration that are necessary in the combination of conditions that go to make up a first-class water privilege, Peterborough stands at the head. Let us look at the list:

Unlimited supply: The Otonabee is the natural outlet for drainage of about 6,000 square miles of the central portion of Ontario, and includes in its feeders about ninety lakes, with an area of perhaps 1200 square miles.

Controllable supply: With even the present system of dams and stop-logs, at Lakefield, Young's Point, Burleigh, and a few other places on the back waters, the water supply is so arranged that high or flood water is a rarity, and low water almost as much so. In fact, with a reasonable amount of systematic care, either flood or low water is very nearly an impossibility.

Opportunity for using the water supply in the production of power: A substantial dam can be kept up at small cost and without any expensive engineering, to form a head water level for a canal down either bank; and between this canal and the river front—especially on the Peterborough side of the river—one of the most accessible river fronts that can be found anywhere, exists for the location of manufacturing concerns.

Excellent location of the town itself: This is, to the mind of the writer, one of the most important factors in the value of this water privilege. Situated in the centre of the Province; connected by railway with all the important centres of commerce in the Dominion; located in the midst of one of the richest agricultural districts in Canada; with an almost inexhaustible supply of the raw material for manufacturing, i. e., wood, iron, marble, &c., in the county, this town of Peterborough enjoys (the comparatively unused privilege) of having within her reach, at very moderate expense, the opportunity of supplying the power for manufacturing purposes to give employment to twenty thousand operatives and millions of capital.

Private interests are used for private and personal gain, and never with the design of any bread purpose of public good. Peterborough's water privileges are private property, and are undeveloped because the owners can probably see no opportunity to make money out of their development. The town ought to own this water franchise (and also the water works and electric light system, and gas works), and having secured the control of it, ought to put a first-class stone flume along where the present mud ditch is, with stone ports every 50 feet, and then lease the fronts for a nominal rental for manufacturing purposes. In other words, furnish the power gratis to possible manufacturing concerns, and by doing so develop all the important interests of the town.

Some one may query: How could the town make any money out of such a transaction? Let me show you. As it is now, all this waterpower is lost to the town. Supposing such an arrangement were made as suggested above, every single horse power redeemed from the river would be worth about $50 per annum. This, to any manufacturing concern, with its accumulations from year to year, would be a very substantial advantage (bonus, if you choose to call it so). If it enriched the manufacturing concern, then it enriched the town by enriched one of its citizens. If it was one of the strong factors that enabled the receivers of it to thrive and prosper, then his or their thrift or prosperity meant so much for the town. Multiply the "one horse" by ten thousand, and behind the water wheels and the horse power put the operatives, and study out the picture, reader. There are principles and solid facts involved that are worth pondering. "Proctor" in Dominion Mechanical and Milling News.

The Farmer's Market.

The farmer should remember that the building up of centres of population by manufacturers creates far the best possible market at home. This is one great object of the development of manufactures in the United States, and for that reason their farmers are content with a protective policy When, therefore, overtures for commercial union are made which would cripple our manufacturers, the farmers may well reply, we will do as you do and not as you say. We will develop our own home market, which is the best, and we will look with suspicion on any overtures tending to cripple or destroy it. For that would undoubtedly injure us.—Monetary Times.

A Heartless Hoax.

The report that two journalists, Mr. Phillips of New York and Mr. George of Ottawa were drowned in the St. Lawrence was untrue, being a deliberate and heartless hoax by a miscreant who should be detected if possible.

"Heaven is not reached at a single bound," sung Dr. Holland, and the same may be said of health. But many a sick person would make rapid strides in the direction of complete health by using Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It is a sovereign remedy for all forms of scrofulous diseases, king's evil, tumors, white swellings, fever-sores, scrofulous sore eyes, as well as for other blood and skin diseases.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d90

A BOON FOR PETERBOROUGH!

GOUGH, THE BIG CLOTHIER,

Determines to carry no unseasonable goods over, and in order to make room for the immense fall stock which is now in process of manufacture, proposes organizing the most Gigantic Sale ever offered to the people of Peterborough. The grand sale will take place, commencing,

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 1ST, 1887,

And will continue for the following 20 days only; when I will offer, any and all of my big stock at wonderfully reduced prices. Bear in mind, Gough never yet advertised anything he did not do, nor will he in this instance, a fact you will all be convinced of the first day of this grand sale.

Some designing dealers ask the question, why pay $12 for a Worsted Suit that they sell for $8.50. Gough repudiates the assertion. This boasted Worsted Suit is nearly all cotton, and as a guarantee that what I herein state is true, I will forfeit $1,000 if I cannot prove it. I challenge a contradiction. Gough's regular price for this Boasted $8.50 Suit is $7.50.

I ask the attention of the discriminating public particularly to this Great Sale, and if they don't find it Straight Forward, Honorable and Bonafide; then Brand me as a Cheap—Side—Store, and not the great Forepaugh I claim to be.

BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

METHODIST CHURCH.

FOURTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BAY OF QUINTE CONFERENCE.

CONSECRATION MEETING.

On Saturday evening the consecration meeting was held in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church. The attendance was small. The meeting was conducted by the Rev. J. C. Seymour. The Rev. G. W. Dewey gave an earnest address on consecration and holiness. The Rev. D. O. Crossly then took charge of the meeting. Messrs. Dewey and Crossly are the men set apart by the Conference for evangelistic work, and, judging from Mr. Dewey's earnest address, and Mr. Crossly's quieter and convincing speech (especially as he is a good singer), it does seem that a better selection it would have been difficult to make.

SUNDAY.

ORDINATION.

The ordination service was held in the George Street Church at 11 o'clock. The Rev. J. Learoyd, President, Rev. J. S. Clarke, ex-President, Rev. Wm. Burns, Secretary, and the Rev. S. S. Nelles, LL. D., D. D., occupied seats behind the pulpit, while the Rev. Dr. Williams, Rev. Dr Bredin, Rev. M. L. Pearson, Rev. J. Tovell, Rev. Wm. Jolliffe and the Rev. Jas. Curts, sat within the altar rail. The Rev. J. S. Clarke led in prayer in the opening services, and the choir sang "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains." The Secretary read the 3rd chapter of Jonah and the first 16 verses of the 1st chapter of Ephesians.

The Rev. Dr. NELLES took for his text Ecclesiastics 1, 4; "One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh: but the earth abideth forever," and St. John iv; 38:—"Other men labored, and ye are entered into their labors." There was, he said, something always passing away. Not only did generations pass away, but also some of the results of the labors of men. Nations passed away, and some would fall sooner than they thought if they did not pay more heed to the teachings of God. There was always in human history an imperishable element, and that blessed them. The labors of the past did not always die. Three forms of labor left results that came down to them and into which they entered. One was the labors of faith. He dwelt on the influence and power of faith, and showed how the works of faith of Abraham, Moses, the three Hebrew boys who were cast into the fiery furnace, John the Baptist, Socrates, the Apostles, the Fathers, the noble army of martyrs, and Luther and Wesley benefitted the people now. Again there were the labors of the men of thought. The Bible was the greatest book of thought. Two examples of the ideas of the Bible showed that, namely, the idea of the fatherhood of God and the other idea of the brotherhood of man. At the time of the civil war in the United States, over the rattle of muskets, roll of drum and boom of cannon, came the echos of Paul's sermon on Mar's Hill, when he announced the brotherhood of man. All the thoughts and acts of science were in their bosom, their homes, their shops and their farms helping them. There were people in the world who could not worship God because they had not the Gospel, and there were people in the great cities, who, through physical circumstances, were as effectually debarred from the Gospel as if they were in the heart of China. He hoped men of science would devise means for the relief of these poor people. Every truth of science and every great thought rolled on, increased and swelled and benefitted the world. There was also the labors of the men of action. Freedom and constitutional government they owed to statesmen and patriots. The Spartans fought, and the Grecians hurled back the Persian hordes for them; and barons forced from John the Great Charter, Cromwell's soldiers fought for and William III secured the great boon of constitutional Government and religious liberty, for them. When Wolfe met Montcalm at Quebec there was a battle of two principles and systems, and the weal and woe of thousands for years to come were in the balance. Wolfe's glory could not fade. It was an hour of heroic struggle that preserved for them the freedom of British Government. The pioneeer Methodist preachers of this land were first of all men of faith, men of thought—of vigorous intellects and students—and men of action. If they had advancement of culture and of comfort, and better churches and schools, they owed it to nothing more than to the pioneer preachers. He advised the young men to keep the old Methodistic fire, faith and simplicity, and made an appeal in behalf of the permanency of the strength of the institutions established by their fathers.

Mrs. Daly sang a solo in a charming manner while the collection was being taken up. A hymn was sung and the ordination of the young men then took place. The President officiated, assisted by the clergymen on the platform, and the Rev. W. M. Pattyson, Rev. Wm. Young and the Rev. D. Wilson, venerable fathers in the church. After readings, exhortations, prayers and examination of the class, the young men were ordained by the imposition of hands, and, being each presented with a copy of the Bible, were given authority to preach and administer the sacraments. The service concluded with the benediction.

TEMPERANCE MEETING.

A Gospel temperance meeting was held in the Opera House on Sunday afternoon. There was a large attendance. The Rev. J. S. Clarke, ex-President of the Conference, presided, and the Rev. Wm. Burns, the Rev. M. L. Pearson, the Rev. A. Campbell and the Rev. A. Browning occupied seats on the platform. "Hold the Fort" was sung, and the Rev. Mr. Pearson led in prayer.

The Rev. A. CAMPBELL said that they could not work for the church without working for temperance. They should not be discouraged. He was a politician, but he believed they should lay aside political prejudices and support the man who would vote for prohibition. The Scott Act was good, but in some places it was not enforced, and they could not abolish the drinking custom with it. Therefore, members of churches should unite to bring about entire prohibition. He enforced that view in a short speech.

The Rev. Wm. BURNS, who, when the Scott Act went into force in Northumberland, preached at Warkworth a funeral sermon on King Alcohol from the text "He shall have the funeral of an ass," said that he had nothing good to say of it, living or dead. He urged all to ascertain their duty and do it.

The Rev. A. BROWNING, who took Dr. Ford's place, said that Peterborough might be the Thermopolæ or the Marathon of the Scott Act. He called for cheers for Cox, Flavelle, Rositer & Co., and the applause was hearty. He went on, sometimes humorous, always earnest, arguing that they should disconnect themselves from political parties and unite in a prohibitory party.

The Rev. Wm. Burns pronounced the benediction.

MONDAY MORNING.

The session opened with the usual devotional exercises.

Several committees reported organization.

On motion by the Rev. J. C. Wilson a resolution was adopted fixing the end of the official year at the 15th May.

Rev. Dr. NELLES, Chancellor of the University, reported verbally as to the work of the University. They had had a remarkably good year, in view of the general unsettledness that had prevailed. The attendance was larger than usual and the graduating classes the largest in their history. There were 32 graduates in Arts (B.A.) and six M.A.; three in Science, three in Divinity, one in Law (LL.D.), and several in Medicine, making altogether 135, as compared with 103 in the previous year. This was not a result of lowering the standard, for the courses had been widened. They had arranged the Arts curriculum to be of more benefit to theological students. They had 34 medical graduates from a French (Roman Catholic) school affiliated with Victoria University. The University had 2,219 graduates in all. Of these 542 were graduates in arts. The religious work of the year had been very satisfactory indeed, for which credit was due to the Dean of the Theological Faculty. They had not had occasion for several years past to discipline a student. He believed the institution never stood so high as it does to the people as regards its intellectual and religious work as it did now. Other colleges had more professors and larger libraries, but no college had done better well rounded work in the University course than Victoria College during the past 25 years. They had had during the year a remarkable revival of religion in Cobourg, and nearly every one of the students came under that influence and were converted. He recommended Messrs. Crossley and Hunter, who had conducted the revival. The college's deficit at the end of the year was less than one half of what it was the previous year, and Mr. Cox, the Bursar, had no doubt that this year the ordinary revenue would meet the ordinary expenditure. The fees during the year were $5,175 and the total income $19,996. The regular endowment was $169,348. They were largely indebted to Mr. G. A. Cox for the improved state of things. They had formerly paid $400 for similar services, but the chief gain was the confidence given to the Board and to the people in having a man of Mr. Cox's financial ability and high commercial standing in that position. They knew how he (Dr. Nelles) had voted on federation in the General Conference. He then stated that, whatever might be the decision, he, as an executive officer, would endeavor to carry it out. As near as he could understand Mr. Cox's position, Mr. Cox's position was his own.

On motion of the Rev. J. B. CLARKSON, seconded by the Rev. F. H. WALLACE, a resolution was adopted expressing the pleasure of the Conference with the address and gratification with the report.

On motion of the Rev. J. S. CLARKE, seconded by the Rev. Dr. BREDIN, thanks were tendered to Dr. Nelles for his sermon on Sunday morning and Dr. Nelles was asked to have it put in enduring form.

The Rev. W. H. Elmsly read the report of the Board of Examiners, which was adopted.

The Rev. M. L. Pearson was elected clerical representative to the Central Board of Missions on the second ballot.

The Rev. W. JOHNSTON read the report of the Committee on Conference Relations, recommending Dr. Bredin, H. Williams and J. W. Andrews for superannuated relation, which was adopted.

The Rev. J. S. CLARKE moved, seconded by the Rev. J. B. Clarkson, a resolution expressing appreciation of Dr. Bredin's labors as a pastor and as an official of Conference, and regretting his retirement to a superannuated relation.

The resolution was adopted by a standing vote, and acknowledged by Dr. Bredin in a brief and appropriate speech, in which he said that the first act of his ordained life was performed in Peterborough 45 years ago.

The Conference then adjourned.

NOTES.

The Belleville Intelligencer has the following note in reference to the Rev. J. Learoyd's election to the Presidency:—"Mr. Learoyd is not only popular with the Conference but he is popular with his congregation. His people here are pleased with this mark of confidence in their pastor."

The Stationing Committee will probably complete their final report to-day.

It is expected that the Conference will conclude its labors to-morrow.

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution will be established.

Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption, to the worst Scrofula, or blood-poison. Especially has it proven its efficacy in curing salt-rheum or "tetter," Fever-sores, Hip-joint Disease, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands, and Eating Ulcers.

Golden Medical Discovery cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating, and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. It promptly cures the severest Coughs.

For Torpid Liver, Biliousness, or "Liver Complaint," Dyspepsia, and Indigestion, it is unequalled as a remedy. Sold by druggists.

DR. PIERCE'S PELLETS—An Active Purgative and Cathartic. Biliousness and Cathartic. 25c. a vial, by druggists.

METHODIST CHURCH.

FOURTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BAY OF QUINTE CONFERENCE.

CONSECRATION MEETING.

On Saturday evening the consecration meeting was held in the Charlotte Street Methodist Church. The attendance was small. The meeting was conducted by the Rev. J. C. Seymour. The Rev. G. W. Dewey gave an earnest address on consecration and holiness. The Rev. D. O. Crossly then took charge of the meeting. Messrs. Dewey and Crossly are the men set apart by the Conference for evangelistic work, and, judging from Mr. Dewey's earnest address, and Mr. Crossly's quieter and convincing speech (especially as he is a good singer), it does seem that a better selection it would have been difficult to make.

SUNDAY.

ORDINATION.

The ordination service was held in the George Street Church at 11 o'clock. The Rev. J. Learoyd, President, Rev. J. S. Clarke, ex-President, Rev. Wm. Burns, Secretary, and the Rev. S. S. Nelles, LL. D., D. D., occupied seats behind the pulpit, while the Rev. Dr. Williams, Rev. Dr Bredin, Rev. M. L. Pearson, Rev. I. Tovell, Rev. Wm. Jolliffe and the Rev. Jas. Curts, sat within the altar rail. The Rev. J. S. Clarke led in prayer in the opening services, and the choir sang "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains." The Secretary read the 3rd chapter of Jonah and the first 16 verses of the 1st chapter of Ephesians.

The Rev. Dr. NELLES took for his text Ecclesiastics 1., 4; "One generation passeth away, and another generation cometh: but the earth abideth forever," and St. John iv; 38:—"Other men labored, and ye are entered into their labors." There was, he said, something always passing away. Not only did generations pass away, but also some of the results of the labors of men. Nations passed away, and some would fall sooner than they thought if they did not pay more heed to the teachings of God. There was always in human history an imperishable element, and that blessed them. The labors of the past did not always die. Three forms of labor left results that came down to them and into which they entered. One was the labors of faith. He dwelt on the influence and power of faith, and showed how the works of faith of Abraham, Moses, the three Hebrew boys who were cast into the fiery furnace, John the Baptist, Stephen, the Apostles, the Fathers, the noble army of martyrs, and Luther and Wesley benefited the people now. Again there were the labors of the men of thought. The Bible was the greatest book of thought. Two examples of the ideas of the Bible showed that, namely, the idea of the fatherhood of God and the other idea of the brotherhood of man. At the time of the civil war in the United States, over the rattle of muskets, roll of drum and boom of cannon, came the echos of Paul's sermon on Mar's Hill, when he announced the brotherhood of man. All the discoveries of men of science were in their bosom, their homes, their hospitals and their farms helping them. There were people in the world who could not worship God because they had not the Gospel, and there were people in the great cities, who, through physical circumstances, were as effectually debarred from the Gospel as if they were in the heart of China. He hoped men of science would devise means for the relief of these poor people. Every truth of science and every great thought rolled on, increased and swelled and benefitted the world. There was also the labors of the men of action. Freedom and constitutional government they owed to statesmen and patriots. The Spartans fought, and the Grecians hurled back the Persian hordes for them; and barons forced from John the Great Charter, Cromwell's soldiers fought for and William III secured the great boon of constitutional Government and religious liberty, for them. When Wolfe met Montcalm at Quebec there was a battle of two principles and systems, and the weal and woe of thousands for years to come were in the balance. Wolfe's glory could not fade. It was an hour of heroic struggle that preserved for them the freedom of British Government. The pioneeer Methodist preachers of this land were first of all men of faith, men of thought—of vigorous intellects and students—and men of action. If they had advancement of culture and of comfort, and better churches and schools, they owed it to nothing more than to the pioneer preachers. He advised the young men to keep the old Methodistic fire, faith and simplicity, and made an appeal in behalf of the permanency of the strength of the institutions established by their fathers.

Mrs. Daly sang a solo in a charming manner while the collection was being taken up. A hymn was sung and the ordination of the young men then took place. The President officiated, assisted by the clergymen on the platform, and the Rev. W. M. Pattyson, Rev. Wm. Young and the Rev. D. Wilson, venerable fathers in the church. After readings, exhortations, prayers and examination of the class, the young men were ordained by the imposition of hands, and, being each presented with a copy of the Bible, were given authority to preach and administer the sacraments. The service concluded with the benediction.

TEMPERANCE MEETING.

A Gospel temperance meeting was held in the Opera House on Sunday afternoon. There was a large attendance. The Rev. J. S. Clarke, ex-President of the Conference, presided, and the Rev. Wm. Burns, the Rev. M. L. Pearson, the Rev. A. Campbell and the Rev. A. Browning occupied seats on the platform. "Hold the Fort" was sung, and the Rev. Mr. Pearson led in prayer.

The Rev. A. CAMPBELL said that they could not work for the church without working for temperance. They should not be discouraged. He was a politician, but he believed they should lay aside political prejudices and support the man who would vote for prohibition. The Scott Act was good, but in some places it was not enforced, and they could not abolish the drinking custom with it. Therefore, members of churches should unite to bring about enbire prohibition. He enforced that view in a short speech.

The Rev. Wm. BURNS, who, when the Scott Act went into force in Northumberland, preached at Warkworth a funeral sermon on King Alcohol from the text "He shall have the funeral of an ass," said that he had nothing good to say of it, living or dead. He urged all to ascertain their duty and do it.

The Rev. A. BROWNING, who took Dr. Ford's place, said that Peterborough might be the Thermypolæ or the Marathon of the Scott Act. He called for cheers for Cox, Flavelle, Rossiter & Co., and the applause was hearty. He went on, sometimes humorously, always earnest, arguing that they should disconnect themselves from political parties and unite in a prohibitory party.

The Rev. Wm. Burns pronounced the benediction.

MONDAY MORNING.

The session opened with the usual devotional exercises.

Several committees reported organization.

On motion by the Rev. J. C. Wilson a resolution was adopted fixing the end of the official year at the 15th May.

Rev. Dr. NELLES, Chancellor of the University, reported verbally as to the work of the University. They had had a remarkably good year, in view of the general unsettledness that had prevailed. The attendance was larger than usual and the graduating classes the largest in their history. There were 32 graduates in Arts (B.A.) and six M.A.; three in Science, three in Divinity, one in Law (LL.D.), and several in Medicine, making altogether 135, as compared with 103 in the previous year. This was not a result of lowering the standard, as the courses had been widened. They had established a new curriculum to be of more benefit to theological students. They had 32 medical graduates from a French (Roman Catholic) school, affiliated with Victoria University. The University had 2,219 graduates in all. Of these 542 were graduates in arts. The religious work of the year had been very satisfactory indeed, for which credit was due to the Dean of the Theological Faculty. They had not had occasion for several years past to discipline a student. He believed the institution never stood so high in the esteem of the people as regards its intellectual and religious work as it did now. Other colleges had more professors and larger libraries, but no college had done better well rounded work in the University course than Victoria College during the past 25 years. They had had during the year a remarkable revival of religion in Cobourg, and nearly every one of the students came under that influence and were converted. He recommended Messrs. Crossley and Hunter, who had conducted the revival. The college deficit at the end of the year was less than one half of what it was the previous year, and Mr. Cox, the Bursar, had no doubt that this year the ordinary revenue would meet the ordinary expenditure. The fees during the year were $5,175 and the total income $19,996. The regular endowment was $169,348. They were largely indebted to Mr. Geo. A. Cox for the improved state of things. They had formerly paid $400 for similar services, but the chief gain was the confidence given to the Board and to the people in having a man of Mr. Cox's financial ability and high commercial standing in that position. They knew how he (Dr. Nelles) had voted on federation in the General Conference. He then stated that, whatever might be the decision, he, as an executive officer, would endeavor to carry it out. As near as he could understand Mr. Cox's position, Mr. Cox's position was his own.

On motion of the Rev. J. B. CLARKSON, seconded by the Rev. F. H. WALLACE, a resolution was adopted expressing the pleasure of the Conference with the address and gratification with the report.

On motion of the Rev. J. S. CLARKE, seconded by the Rev. Dr. BREDIN, thanks were tendered to Dr. Nelles for his sermon on Sunday morning and Dr. Nelles was asked to have it put in enduring form.

The Rev. W. H. Elmsly read the report of the Board of Examiners, which was adopted.

The Rev. M. L. Pearson was elected clerical representative to the Central Board of Missions on the second ballot.

The Rev. W. JOHNSTON read the report of the Committee on Conference Relations, recommending Dr. Bredin, H. Williams and J. W. Andrews for superannuated relation, which was adopted.

The Rev. J. S. CLARKE moved, seconded by the Rev. J. B. Clarkson, a resolution expressing appreciation of Dr. Bredin's labors as a pastor and as an official of Conference, and regretting his retirement to a superannuated relation.

The resolution was adopted by a standing vote, and acknowledged by Dr. Bredin in a brief and appropriate speech, in which he said that the first act of his ordained life was performed in Peterborough 45 years ago.

The Conference then adjourned.

NOTES.

The Belleville Intelligencer has the following note in reference to the Rev. J. Learoyd's election to the Presidency:—"Mr. Learoyd is not only popular with the Conference but he is popular with his congregation. His people here are pleased with this mark of confidence in their pastor."

The Stationing Committee will probably complete their final report to-day.

It is expected that the Conference will conclude its labors to-morrow.

Explanation.

J. J. Sheehy's card to the public appears in this edition of the REVIEW on the first page.

Our Prices May Startle You, But We Cannot Help That!

THE CHEAPSIDE SHEPPARD PETERBOROUGH

Has the following drives at the prices annexed, and they are positively cheaper, all things being equal, than are shown by any house in the trade. They came into our hands at the prices simply because SHEPPARD bought up the whole stock at a price.

BOYS' SUITS Wholesale price in Montreal, $3.75, our price to-day $2.95. Boys' Suits made specially for Sheppard in Germany and cost $4.25 we are now selling at $3.25. MENS' SUITS—Wholesale price in Toronto $5.00 is now offered for $3.25.

LADIES' JERSEYS Ladies' Fine Braided Jersey's in Mid Brown, Seal Brown and Black, wholesale price was $3.50, Sheppard is now selling for $2.50, and commences on Jerseys at 95 cents.

DRESS GOODS A deep clean cut has been made in our Dress Goods. We have a large stock and they must be sold. The Season is now advancing and and down go the prices. SHEPPARD is not advertising Gold or Silver presents, neither is he paying return railway fares from the Pacific Slope to the Atlantic Seaboard, nor yet selling at cost, but the prices above are fully 20 per cent less than actual cost of the same goods bought in the regular way. SHEPPARD has the cheapest Buttons and Trimmings in Canada. We are not giving them away, but next door to it.

Men's Hats 10c., Men's Caps 6c., Men's Straw Hats 5c., Men's Overalls 25c., 3 Pairs Socks 25c., Men's Pants $1.00, Men's Vests 50c., Crash Coat and Vest $1.75, Boys' Wool Suits $1.00, Boys' Felt Hats 25c. Carpets cheap and Cottons cheap, all reduced from actual prices. The public will not deviate one step but go straight to the Great Cheapside.

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep, by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Golden Medical Discovery

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution will be established. Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption, to the worst Scrofula or blood-poison. Especially has it proven its efficacy in curing salt-rheum or Tetter, Fever-sores, Hip-joint Disease, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands, and Eating Ulcers.

Golden Medical Discovery cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating, and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. It promptly cures the severest Coughs.

For Torpid Liver, Biliousness, or "Liver Complaint," Dyspepsia, and Indigestion, it is unequalled remedy. Sold by druggists.

MONDAY, JUNE 6, 1887.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

Board of Education.

The regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held to-morrow evening.

Peterborough Canoe Club.

The monthly meeting of the Peterborough Canoe Club will be held this evening at the club boat house at 8 o'clock.

Lacrosse.

The Y.M.C.A. Lacrosse Club will meet for practice to-night at 7 o'clock, sharp, if the weather is fair. All who wish to join are invited.

Young Men's Social.

Music, business and refreshments will occupy the attention of the members of the Young Men's Christian Association in their monthly social to-night.

Fifty Years Queen.

Mr. Blade, Superintendent of the Horticultural Gardens, has set out two beds of flowers in honor of the Queen's Jubilee. One, to the left side of the walk leading up to the fountain, has the plants arranged in the form of a crown and two stars. On the other the device, "50 years," is artistically described. The two beds attract much attention.

For a neat fitting Mantle, Dolman, or Wrap, made and trimmend with the newest [illegible] at Fahndrich's.

Band Competition.

The Fire Brigade Band will give an open air concert in the park this evening, when they will practice the competition programme. From the park they will go to the G. T. R. station and take the 8.50 train to Port Hope, to proceed to Bowmanville to take part in the competition to-morrow. The band will compete in the first class, and will thus be in competition with the best bands in the province.

Serious Accident.

This forenoon Mrs. J. R. Stratton, accompanied by Mrs. (Rev.) Mason, was driving in a buggy along McDonnel street. The train coming down the "Missing Link" gave two or three sharp whistles and the horse shied to the side of the street near a culvert. The front wheels of the buggy went over the boards of the culvert and the ladies were both thrown out on a pile of stones. Mrs. Stratton was badly cut on the head, from which wound the blood flowed profusely. On examination, however, the injury was found to be not so serious as was at first thought. The cut is a severe one, but not dangerous. Mrs. Mason was bruised pretty badly and is suffering considerably from the shock, but fortunately no bones were broken. Dr. Kincaid was the attending physician.

High Standing.

Mr. W. Packenham, of Ashburnham, has made a good showing at the recent examinations at Toronto University. His standing was 1st in history, 2nd in English, 2nd in German, 4th in Italian. In these four subjects he took first-class honors. In French he took second class honors. The examination was a very trying one, as is evidenced by the large number who were plucked. Mr. Packenham is a second year man. Mr. F. C. Armstrong (first year), Peterborough, has also taken a high stand. He secured the scholarship in modern languages, taking first in French, second in English, and fourth in German. Miss Carrie Fair, Peterborough, and Mr. A. J. Armstrong, Bailliboro, have taken the degree B. A. Mr. Geo. A. H. Scott, son of the late W. H. Scott, took honors in law in his second year.

Church Notes.

In several of the churches the ministers attending the Methodist Conference preached on Sunday.

St. Paul's Church pulpit was occupied in the morning by the Rev. Dr. Badgley, and in the evening by the Rev. J. J. Leach.

The Mark Street Methodist Church was handsomely decorated with flowers. The Rev. G. Horton preached at the morning service. In the afternoon a Sunday School meeting was held in the church, at which the Rev. J. A. McCamus, Rev. R. T. Courtice and Rev. J. E. Robeson, gave addresses. The Rev. Wm. Jolliffe conducted the evening service.

At the Charlotte Street Methodist Church the Rev. Joseph Young preached at the morning service. At the mass meeting of Sunday School children held in the church the Rev. J. J. Leach and the Rev. T. W. Pickett delivered addresses. The Rev. W H. Emsley preached the sermon in the evening. The sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered by the Rev. A. C. Wilson.

Bankers and Lawyers v. Rest of Club.

A very pleasant match was played on Friday afternoon, bankers and lawyers vs. the rest of the club, a draw being the result. The bankers and lawyers batted first and scored 88, of which 68 were made by Strathy in fine style. Peck played very steady cricket, nearly 70 runs being got while he and Strathy were together. Ray was the most successful bowler for the other side, getting 7 wickets. For the rest of the club, Ray and Stirling made a fine stand against the excellent bowling of Strathy and Long, Stirling being run out with the score about 50, of which he got 17 by good cricket. All the efforts of the bankers and lawyers failed to separate Ray and Sailsbury, and when time was called the score was 78 with only two men out. Ray got 45 in his usual fine form, and Sailsbury had some rattling hits in his 16. Score:

The Baby.

About a week ago a little baby girl made its appearance at the residence of Councillor McNeil, adding a unit to that Councillor's family. Since the event Mr. McNeil played off a good joke on some of his friends. They were discussing the question of the scarcity of servant girls, when Mr. McNeil remarked that his girl was not able to get out of bed. "When did you get her?" they queried. "Last Tuesday." "And when did she take to her bed?" "The very day she came." "What like is the matter?" "Oh, she don't seem to have the proper use of her limbs." "Who's attending?" they went on. "Dr. King." "You ought to get her removed to the hospital, Mack," they advised. "I'm afraid she's in such a condition that the doctor wouldn't consent to have her removed," replied the Councillor with concern. Councillor Davidson, who occupies a seat on the Nicholls Hospital Board, had heard the last part of the conversation. "That's bad luck you're having. I'll tell you what I'll do," said he. "When she's fit for removing I'll get her into the hospital for you." The father of the baby fairly burst with inward laughter. He nevertheless restrained it, expressed his thanks and let them go to tell about how ill his servant girl was.

Just arrived at Turnbull's, Gobelin and Drab Cashmeres with handsome trimmings to match, correct shades for the season.

Decoration Day.

The joint committee of the Oddfellows Lodges in town held a meeting on Saturday evening, and as a result of their deliberations decided to recommend that the decoration of the graves in the Little Lake Cemetary be proceeded with this year as usual and the date suggested to be on Tuesday June 28th. The report of the committee will be submitted to Otonabee Lodge No. 13 at the regular meeting this evening and Peterborough Lodge No 111 on Thursday evening, for approval. The many friends who so kindly contributed flowers on past occasions for this commendable object will again be respectfully invited to assist the society in their efforts. It is intended that the decorations this year will be of a more interesting character than ever before. The remains of many of Peterborough's most prominent citizens of past days who were members of the society, are resting in our beautiful cemetary. This alone should interest our people in the touching ceremony and cause them to give every assistance to the Oddfellows.

Young Men's Christian Association.

The young men's meeting on Saturday night was addressed by Rev. Messrs. Thompson, Houck and McMullen, members of the Methodist Conference. The meeting was a very good one. On Sunday night the hall was filled and crowds turned away for want of room. The meeting was conducted by Revs. D. O. Crossley and G. W. Dewey, who are to be the Conference evangelists for the coming year.

WORKING TOOLS

It is generally admitted that all Masons require working tools. The only essential thing necessary for the Masonic Excursion on Thursday first, June 9th, via G. T. R. to Toronto, is One Dollar and Seventy-Five Cents, which will make your ticket good for two days. Special Train will leave here at 7.15 a.m.

One of the heaviest waves of cheap dress goods that ever struck Peterborough is now on sale at Turnbull's. Forty different patterns to select from at only 12½ cents a yard.

Naturally Reduced Iron.

On the North Saskatchewan river, in the northwest territory of Canada, about seventy miles above the town of Edmonton, Alberta, there is an interesting example of naturally reduced iron. Along the river bank a lignite formation crops out for several miles, overlaid by clay shales and soft argillaceous sandstones containing nodules of clay ironstone. These nodules are similar to others found at Edmonton, and proved by analysis to be carbonates of iron, containing 34.98 per cent. of metallic iron. The Saskatchewan seam of lignite has at some time or other been burnt, leaving a bed of ashes, clinkers and burnt clay, in places twenty feet thick, and now covered by a dense growth of grass and underwood. From this mass of burnt clay pieces of metallic iron can be picked out, weighing in some cases fifteen pounds or twenty pounds. They have evidently been reduced from the nodules above mentioned by the heat of the burning lignite. Most of the pieces of iron are much rusted, but when scratched with a file they show a bright surface. The observation is interesting, and to some may help to explain how primitive man originally discovered the reduction of iron ore.—Engineering.

Missed His Opportunity.

A wagon loaded with wood and drawn by a poor old horse, driven by a negro, was standing on Montcalm street the other day, when a pedestrian stopped and said:

"My colored friend, did you ever hear of transmigration?"

"No, sah. Is it suthin new?"

"Not very. It is the theory that man, after death, takes some other form."

"Might turn into a hoss, eh?"

"That's it. You might turn into a poor old horse like this and be overworked and ill treated, as this one evidently is. Just back there a little way I saw you beat him with the butt of the whip."

"Yes, I did; but you look heah. I want to tell ye right yere and now dat if I turn into an ole hoss, an' I doan' kick de dash board in de fust time I'ze struck I won't hev nuffin to say no moah. Dis ole hoss missed his opportunity thirty years ago, an' he hain't got no remarks to make now."—Detroit Free Press.

A Valuable File.

Nearly every one in New York has heard of "Back Number" Budd, who puts away every day fifty copies of each New York newspaper to sell them to customers years hence at 500 to 5,000 per cent. profit. It is reported that he once received $700 for a single newspaper. Recently he was called upon by some Kansas men, among whom was Senator Ingalls, who asked his assistance in procuring a complete file of The Leavenworth Journal for the two years that it was under the management of John Henderson, during the agitation that resulted in the Leavenworth constitutional convention and the establishment of Kansas as a free state. The file was desired for the Kansas Historical society, and they were willing to pay $10,000 for it.—New York Tribune.

TRADE IN

Our MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT, and did we judge alone by the crowds that daily claim attention of our salesmmen advertising this class of goods would be unnecessary—almost a waste of money. But then, you know, there's two sides to every subject, Here's the other side to this one, and at the same time our reason for advertising when there's no apparent necessity for doing so.

In making up our stock in this department we provided for great numbers—for many more than have as yet taken advantage of its completeness, to furnish themselves with millinery suitable for the season.

It will therefore require "crowds long continued" to clear out tables of the enormus stock of Millinery with which they are loaded—over-loaded.

A continuous demand then being necessary, we knew of no better way to insure it than to keep you informed as to just what we have and how we are prepared to sell it. We shall, therefore, from now till the close of the season, devote some portion of our card to Millinery News.

We have already said that our stock was large. We have also intimated that our assortment was complete. Now for our goods.

We have just received a six dozen lot of Ladies' and Children's Hats which are the newest in shape and bought at half their value.

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Lech's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

TUESDAY, JUNE 7, 1887.

METHODIST CHURCH.

FOURTH ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BAY OF QUINTE CONFERENCE.

The Monday afternoon session was opened with the usual devotional exercises.

The Rev. WM. BRIGGS, D.D., Book Steward read a report on the work and business of the book room. The report showed the large total increase of 15,000 in the circulation of the Sunday School publications, and also an increase in the circulation of the Magazine. He read a list of recent volumes published, giving particulars regarding some of them. The Book Room had published 35,800 bound volumes, in addition to 15,000 hymn books and a half million tracts and pamphlets. The financial results of the year were very satisfactory indeed.

The Rev. E. H. DEWART, D. D., editor of the Christian Guardian, was introduced. He dwelt on the great educating power of the press, and while some literature was untriendly, they should have religious papers for a counteracting force. The chief duties of the religious press were the diffusion of religious information, giving lessons for life, defence of the Gospel and their principles, and the enlisting of sympathy for connectional enterprises. He urged that the Guardian should be supported, and efforts made to extend its circulation in the interests of the church.

The Rev. I. TOVELL moved seconded by the Rev. J. B. CLARKSON, a resolution expressing gratification with the reports and pledging loyal support to the Book Room and publications.

A LAY DELEGATE said that he had dropped the Guardian because of its defence of the Ross bible and of Parnell. He did not think Parnellism was Methodist principles. (Hear.)

The motion was adopted.

The Rev. J. GRAY read the annual report regarding the Superannuation fund, and also read an interim report of the General Conference funds.

Mr. GEO. A. COX read a report regarding the Ontario Ladies' College, Whitby. The number of pupils enrolled was 170 and the regular attendance 130, with an average of 103 resident pupils. The finances were in a satisfactory state and the accommodation would be increased.

Dr. S. P. FORD, on rising to move the temperance resolution of which he had given notice, was received with applause. He asked permission to make two changes and moved as follows:—

"Whereas, the vile traffic in intoxicating liquors still continues to exert its baneful influence throughout the length and breadth of the land, wasting the material resources of the country, entailing poverty and crime, and involving annually the destruction of many thousands of human lives; and

"Whereas, there is abundant evidence to show that prohibitory legislation, where it has been granted and even fairly well enforced, has invariably been followed by the diminution of drunkenness and crime, and an increase of temporal prosperity among the people; therefore

"Be it resolved, that the members of this Conference view with alarm and indignation the efforts now being made to seriously impair, if not repeal, the Canada Temperance Act, accompanied as these efforts are by indecision on the part of professing friends, by thorough organization on the part of avowed enemies, and by the unfriendly attitude of both the Dominion and Provincial Governments, as manifested by the recent appointments to the Senate of men in sympathy with the liquor traffic and the retention of men in the position of Inspector, Commissioner and Magistrate who take every opportunity of frustrating the proper enforcement of the law; and that we memorialize the Legislature of the Dominion, now in session, not to sanction any legislation that would impair the operations of the Canada Temperance Act in those counties where it is now in force.

"Resolved, also, that believing the time to be fully come when party alliances and party predilictions must be subordinated to the great cause of temperance Reform, the members of this Conference do hereby pledge themselves by every legitimate means in their power, in the pulpit, on the platform, in the press and at the ballot box to oppose any Government, or any party, or any individual member of Parliament, who either by vote or influence shall seek to destroy, or seriously impair the existing prohibitory legislation.

"Resolved, also, that we gratefully acknowledge our obligations to Mr. Jamieson and Mr. Fisher for their faithful exertions in the House of Commons in behalf of the cause of temperance.

"Resolved, also, that we declare our readiness to unite with all other Conferences, Synods, Assemblies and Associations throughout the country in educating and directing public sentiment to the point of demanding from the House of Commons an efficient prohibitory enactment for the whole Dominion."

Dr. FORD urged that the present was a critical time in temperance reform and that they were engaged in a mortal combat. To him these motions meant a great deal. He had not come up to the stand point of them without a struggle and "knee drill," because he had been a party politician. The last straw which had broken his political back was a letter written by a man in Peterborough, interested in the liquor traffic, saying that to them "it was a question of bread and butter." To him it was question of right or wrong, and he had pouled his last party vote until this great question was settled. If he could do that, why not other laymen, and if the Methodist Church could come up to that standpoint, why not other churches? Then parties and governments would go down, and the liquor traffic would go down.

The Rev. A. BROWNING seconded the resolution in an earnest speech.

Mr. GEO. A. COX said that he was entirely in accord with that resolution and with every word Dr. Ford had said, yet he did not believe it would amount to anything. Brethren were in earnest now, but when elections came their resolutions would do no good. Dr. Ford was an earnest and consistent temperance man, and he believed that he (Mr. Cox) was the same, yet for the last twenty years they had voted on different sides, and he believed they would continue to believe their own candidates were the best friends of temperance.

The Rev. M. L. PEARSON said that what Mr. Cox said was true. It had been true in the past, and would continue to be true, [illegible] showed they would vote for prohibition [illegible] they should be careful not to preach sermons in opposition to Governments.

The Rev. R. DUKE moved, seconded by the Rev. M. L. PEARSON,—That the resolutions be referred to a special committee to be nominated by the President. The mover suggested an addition saying that the resolutions be intensely operative until within six weeks of an election.

Mr. WEBB approved of what Dr. Ford had said. He would favor the resolutions only the world would say it was a farce, because similar resolutions had formerly been a farce.

The Rev. J. B. CLARKSON said that if other resolutions had been inoperative, was that an argument against these? Were they craven, that they should fear politicians? They should stand on the platform of the resolution and continue to stand on it. Who knew but that if the esteemed Bursar of Victoria University had been a prohibition candidate, he might have been a member of Parliament.

Mr. CUNNINGS said that formerly such resolves had not always been without effect, because in Victoria County the temperance question had effected an election.

The Rev. J. S. CLARKE supported the resolutions.

The Rev. J. C. WILSON spoke eloquently in favor of the resolutions.

The debate was continued by several clergymen and laymen.

Dr. FORD closed the debate in a short address.

Mr. COX made some explanations.

The amendment to refer to a committee was withdrawn and the motion carried by a large majority. It was decided to send copies to Mr. Jamieson, M. P. for South Lanark, and the Hon. A. S. Hardy.

The Rev. John Shaw, of Toronto, and the Rev. C. A. Simpson, of Toronto Conference, were introduced.

The Rev. F. B. STRATTON read the statement of the Treasurer of the Superannuation Fund.

The Conference adjourned.

MISSIONARY MEETING.

The Rev. John Shaw, D.D., formerly of Peterborough, presided at the missionary meeting on Monday evening. Addresses were made by the Rev. Prof. Dyer, of Albert College, Belleville, and the Rev. Silas Huntington, the latter vividly describing the missionary work in the Nipissing district.

McGlynn on O'Brien.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Nearly 4,000 people attended the meeting of the anti-poverty society in the Academy of Music last evening. Louis T. Post presided. Dr. McGlynn was the principal speaker. In reference to the action of Wm. O'Brien in refusing to recognize the demonstration of Saturday night, Dr. McGlynn said:—"It was a great mistake for the advisers of Mr. O'Brien to keep him from appearing on the same platform with Mr. McMackin. Mr. O'Brien probably did not know who John McMackin was, but he knows to-day. John McMackin believes in free speech. He appeared at the Cooper Union with Mr. Tynan. Mr. McMackin may not have been acquainted with the deed with which Tynan is said to have been connected. I know nothing about it, and I don't care."

Undesirable Immigrants.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Assistant Secretary Maynard to-day addressed a letter to the Collector of Customs at San Francisco, transmitting an extract from a despatch from the United States commercial agent at Noumea, New Caledonia, a French penal colony, in regard to the proposed exportation of convicts from that colony to San Francisco. Judge Maynard instructs the collector to take especial care that the immigrant laws are properly enforced so as to prevent the landing of any persons so shipped to this country, if found to be convicts, as prohibited, or if found to belong to any of the class of aliens whose landing is prohibited. The collector is also instructed to convey this information to the commission of immigration at San Francisco.

The Queen Returns Thanks.

CHICAGO, June 4.—In reply to the cablegram sent by the International Sunday Convention congratulating Queen Victoria on the occasion of her jubilee, the following cablegram was received this morning:

London, June 4, 1887.

Mr. Reynolds, President, &c., Chicago:

The Queen thanks the International Sunday School Convention of the United States and Canada for their kind congratulations. PONSONBY.

LATEST CABLE NEWS

SHOCKING CATASTROPHE.

BERLIN, June 6.—During a circus performance at Neschen last evening a storm arose and a portion of the circus structure was blown off. The pendant lamps hanging from the roof were broken and the blazing petroleum poured down upon the heads of the people below. There were 2,000 spectators and a fearful panic arose. In the midst of the tumult one of the lightly built walls of the structure fell in, and the whole building immediately collapsed. A large number of persons were burned and many tramped to death, and three hundred were more or less injured.

AN OARSMAN'S CHALLENGE.

LONDON, June 6.—A despatch from Sydney, Australia, says that Trickett, the oarsman, has challenged Beach to a contest for the championship of the world and that Beach has accepted the challenge.

DAVITT'S ADVICE.

DUBLIN, June 6.—Michael Davitt addressed a National League meeting in the Bodyke District yesterday. He again urged the people to offer the utmost resistance to eviction, and to retake possession of the houses whence they have been evicted. He declared that it was the duty of the manhood of the district to assemble and rebuild the houses that have been razed. He announced his intention to hold a meeting next Sunday of 30,000 or 40,000 men for the purpose of building every house demolished during the coming week. Care should be taken, he said, that pecuniary and generous assistance be given during the incarceration of members of any family. He suggested that a fund be opened to carry on the plan of campaign upon a more extended basis, and he promised to subscribe £100 himself. He expected that within six weeks £100,000 would be subscribed in Ireland, and within six months one million pounds would be collected throughout the civilized world.

A MUNIFICENT GIFT.

LONDON, June 6.—Mr. Isman, of the firm Isman & Imbrie, has offered £20,000 to start a pension fund in Liverpool for disabled seamen.

A RUSSIAN THREAT.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 6.—The Novoe Vremya states the first attempt that is made to replace the present Emir of Bokhara by his brother will be a casus belli for Russian occupation of the country. The Novoe Vremya suspects the English to be intriguing in Bokhara and warns England that such conduct instead of rendering Russia more pliable in accepting the proposed settlement of the Egyptian question, will have a contrary effect.

PLAN OF CAMPAIGN.

DUBLIN, June 6.—The plan of campaign has been successful on the Ponsonby estate. The landlord has accepted the terms of the tenants.

THEY OBJECT AS USUAL.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 6.—The French and Russian ambassadors have lodged the objections of their governments to the ratification by Turkey of the Anglo-Turkish convention relative to Egypt.

HIDDEN TREASURE.

MADRID, June 6.—It is reported that hidden treasure to the value of ninety-five million pounds sterling, has been discovered in the palace of the decessed Vizier at Robat, Morocco. The Sultan, it is said, has confiscated the treasure, and is having it conveyed to the Imperial coffers.

NO BASIS OF SETTLEMENT.

LONDON, June 6.—The Unionists are of opinion that Mr. Gladstone's recent speech will not form the basis of a settlement between the Liberals and the Unionists on other points in the dispute.

A ROUND ROBIN.

LONDON, June 6.—The Conservative members of Parliament are signing a "round robin" urging the Government to make a vigorous attempt to end the Coercion debate.

A DISPUTE.

LONDON, June 6.—A despatch from Lagos says that a rather serious dispute has arisen between the English and the French with reference to the ownership of a portion of territory on the coast near Porto Novo. The English and the natives had hauled down the French flag.

A GRAVE DIFFICULTY.

LONDON, June 6.—The Times says Mr. Gladstone audaciously triumphs in his own wrong. His apology in his speech at Swansea for the obstructive methods in Parliament of the opponents of the Government's Irish bill, it admits gives the Government a grave difficulty to confront.

DESTRUCTIVE STORMS.

LONDON, June 6.—Violent hailstorms have done immense damage in the Temesvar and Buzias district in Hungary. Thunderstorms on Saturday in Southwestern Germany, resulted in the loss of several lives and great damage to crops. The Saar, Moselle and other tributaries of the Rhine are rising.

The Recent Earthquake.

QUEBEC, June 5.—It appears that the recent shock of earthquake at Les Eboulements and Murray Bay were also felt very severely on the South Shore in L'Islet county. A mountain in the rear of the Seigniory of St. Roche des Aulnais was shaken with great violence and great rocks, measuring 30 and 40 feet square, were hurled from its summit to the valley beneath, tearing down trees 40 and 50 feet high and completely levelling the forest on its flank over a breadth of 200 yards.

"Heaven is not reached at a single bound," sung Dr. Holland, and the same may be said of health. But many a sick person would make rapid strides in the direction of complete health by using Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It is a sovereign remedy for all forms of scrofulous diseases, king's evil, tumors, white swellings, fever-sores, scrofulous sore eyes, as well as for other blood and skin diseases.

To the Sufferers from Consumption

Scrofula and General Debility, will try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with hypophosphites, they will find immediate relief and a permanent benefit. Dr. H. V. Mott, Brentwood Cal., writes: "I have used Scott's Emulsion with great advantage in cases of Phthisis, Scrofula and Wasting Diseases. It is very palatable." Put up in 50c and $1 size.

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC.

At the time of selling our stock of Dry Goods to Sheehy & Co., we had fully determined to give up that particular branch of our business, but as previously announced, did not do so, for various reasons. However it is now our intention to dispose of the Dry Goods Trade, and have consequently made up our mind to clear out the whole stock

AT COST PRICE AND UNDER.

This is one of the BEST Dry Goods stocks in the country, having been imported from the best markets direct to ourselves. Remember, this will be a GENUINE CLEARING OUT SALE. While we will still retain our Clothing Trade, yet we will during this sale, offer ALL our Ready-made Clothing, for Men and Boys, (with all kinds of Furnishings) at COST PRICE. Remember the whole Dry Goods Stock must be sold.

CANADA'S CHEESE.

In a long letter to the Toronto Mail, Mr. Thos. Shaw, Secretary of the "Permanent Central Farmers' Institute, of Ontario," renews his attempts to persuade Canadian agriculturists that they would gain by throwing open our markets to the enormous surplus produce of the United States, and at the same time diminishing the local demand by closing Canadian factories in favor of foreigners. To give an idea of the fallacious nature of his arguments we will quote one specimen. He says:—

"Why cannot the manufacture and the [illegible] Ontario? The [illegible] the face of the world's competition, and fettered by disabilities of their own imposing, an army of indomitable heroes. The cheese industry has captured the market of Britain in the face of the cannonading of all nations."

The facts as to the growth of the cheese industry in Canada till it has attained its present importance, are well known to our farmers. They can remember the time when instead of exporting cheese, Canada imported it from the United States. Now Canadian cheese not only supplies our home market, but an enormous quantity is exported to the Mother Country, where it is deservedly held in high esteem. It has become an industry that is of great importance to the country as a whole, while individual farmers have found it contribute to their receipts in a most satisfactory manner. This remarkable and beneficial change is due to the encouragement afforded by bonuses and protective duties. Our farmers, both as producers and as conductors of cheese factories, deserve the highest credit for the enterprize and skill with which they have given to the Canadian cheese industry the position it now occupies. But can they suppose that the well organized system, the quantity produced and the excellent quality would be what they are now if it had not been for this encouragement of which they have availed themselves so well? As manufacturers of cheese our farmers have seen in their own case the benefit of the Canadian policy, and therefore they can the more easily understand how other manufacturers may benefit by similar encouragement. And if our manufacturers and mechanics thrive and multiply their prosperity must be shared by our farmers who supply them with food. No free trade sophistries will controvert this evident truth.

We are glad to see that not a single Conservative journal that has come under our notice has uttered an unkind or even light word in reference to the ill health that has forced Mr. Blake to retire for a time from active political life. They have all extended kindly sympathy to the leader of the Opposition in his trouble. We would have been ashamed of our contemporaries if they had acted otherwise, and we are far from wishing to claim any especial merit for them because they have acted as common humanity dictated. But we would point out to the Reform journals how very differently they have behaved. They have positively gloated over the prospect of Sir John Macdonald being disabled from leading the Conservative party whenever he has been unwell or they have chosen to assume that he was failing in vigour. And many of them are now discussing in the unkindest spirit the probable retirement of Mr. Chapleau from active politics, because his medical adviser tells him that if he does not take needed rest it will be at the risk of his life. We trust that for very shames sake Reform journals will desist in future from such manifestations of vindictiveness.

In the year 1886 the production of pig iron in the United States increased by 1,640,017 tons. The production in the United Kingdom fell off by 579,992. Yet there are Canadians who find fault with Canada for adopting the policy that our neighbors have found so beneficial.

JESS.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," etc

"He lies, baas, he lies!" yelled the Hottentot in tremulous, high pitched tones. "He lies; he has a ways been a liar, and worse than a liar. Yah! yah! I can tell things about him. The land is English now, and the Boers can't kill the black people as they like. That man—that Boer, Muller, he shot my father and my mother—my father first, then my mother; he gave her two bullets—she did not die the first time."

"You yellow devil! You black skinned, black hearted, lying son of Satan!" roared the great Boer, his very beard curling with fury. "Is that the way you talk to your masters! Out of the light, voorloaper" (soldier)—this was to John—"and I will cut his tongue out of him. I'll show him how we [illegible]"

[illegible] he made a rush for the Hottentot. As he came, John, whose blood was now thoroughly up, put out his open hand and bending forward pushed with all his strength on Muller's advancing chest. John was a very powerfully made man, though not a very large one, and the push sent Muller staggering back.

"What do you mean by that, rooibaatje!" shouted Muller, his face livid with fury. "Get out of my road, or I will mark that pretty face of yours. I have some goods to pay you for as it is, Englishman, and I always pay my debts. Out of the path, curse you!" and he again rushed for the Hottentot.

This time John, who was now almost as angry as his assailant, did not wait for him to reach him, but springing forward, hooked his arm around Muller's throat, and before he could close with him with one tremendous jerk managed not only to stop his wild career, but to reverse the motion, and then, by interposing his foot with considerable neatness, to land him, powerful man as he was, on his back in a pool of drainage that had collected from the stable in the hollow of the inn yard. Down he went with a splash and amid a shout of delight from the crowd, who always like to see an aggressor laid low, his head bumping with considerable force against the lintel of the door. For a moment he lay still, and John was afraid that the man was really hurt. Presently, however, he rose, and without attempting any further hostile demonstration or saying a single word, tramped off toward the house, leaving his enemy to compose his ruffled nerves as best he could. Now, John, like most gentlemen, hated a row with all his heart, though he had the Anglo-Saxon tendency to go through with it unflinchingly when once it began. Indeed, the whole thing irritated him beyond bearing, for he knew that the story would, with additions, go the round of the country side, and, what is more, that he had made a powerful and implacable enemy.

"This is all your fault, you drunken little blackguard!" he said, turning savagely on the tottie, who, now that his excitement had left him, was sniveling and driveling in an intoxicated fashion, and calling him his preserver and his baas in maudlin accents.

"He hit me, baas; he hit me, and I did not take the forage. He is a bad man, Baas Muller."

"Be off with you and get the horses inspanned, you are half drunk," he growled, and, having seen the operation advancing to a conclusion, he went to the sitting room of the hotel, where Bessie was waiting in happy ignorance of the disturbance. It was not till they were well on their homeward way that he told her what had passed, whereat, remembering the scene she had herself gone through with Frank Muller, and the threats that he had then made use of, she looked very grave. Her old uncle, too, was much put out when he heard the story on their arrival home that evening.

"You have made an enemy, Capt. Niel," he said, "and a bad one. Not but what you were right to stand up for the Hottentot. I would have done as much myself had I been there and ten years younger, but Frank Muller is not the man to forget being put upon his back before a lot of Kaffirs and white folk too. Perhaps that Jantje is sober by now." This conversation took place upon the following morning, as they sat upon the veranda after breakfast. "I will go and call him, and we will hear what this story is about his father and his mother."

Presently he returned, followed by the ragged, dirty looking little Hottentot, who took off his hat and squatted down on the drive, looking very miserable and ashamed of himself, in the full glare of the African sun, to the effects of which he appeared to be totally impervious.

"Now, Jantje, listen to me," said the old man. "Yesterday you got drunk again. Well, I'm not going to talk about that now, except to say that if I find or hear of your being drunk once more—you leave this place."

"Yes, baas," said the Hottentot meekly. "I was drunk, though not very; I only had half a bottle of Cape Smoke."

"By getting drunk you made a quarrel with Baas Muller, so that blows passed between Baas Muller and the baas here on your account, which was more than you are worth. Now when Baas Muller had struck you, you said that he had shot your father and your mother. Was that a lie, or what did you mean by saying it?"

"It was no lie, baas," said the Hottentot, excitedly. "I have said it once, and I will say it again. Listen, baas, and I will tell you the story. When I was young, so high"—and he held his hand high enough to indicate a tottie of about 14 years of age—"we, that is, my father, my mother, my uncle, a very old man, older than the baas" (pointing to Silas Croft), "were bijwoners (authorized squatters) on a place belonging to old Jacob Muller, Baas Frank's father, down in Lydenburg yonder. It was a bush veldt farm, and old Jacob used to come down there with his cattle from the High veldt in the winter when there was no grass in the High veldt, and with him came the Englishwoman, his wife, and the [illegible] day.

"How long ago was all this?" asked Mr. Croft.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we live in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out, with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d90

THE BRIDGE INDUSTRY.

A LONG DISCUSSION ABOUT LEASING PART OF A STREET.

Necessary to Enable Mr. Law to Remove His Factory to the "Brick Works"—The Lease to be Granted.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday afternoon, commencing at three o'clock. There were present: His Worship the Mayor and Councillors Hartley, Kendry, Menzies, Moore, Douglass, Yelland, Stenson, McNeil, Kelly, McNaughton, Davidson and Cahill.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

The MAYOR announced that he had called the Councillors together for the purpose of considering the state of the progress of the Trent Valley Canal and to dispose of Mr. Carnegie's proposition in regard to the street near the Romaine Brick Works.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

The MAYOR stated that he had received from the Minister of Railways and Canals a letter giving his opinion in regard to the prosecution of the work of constructing the Trent Valley Canal, the contents of which letter has already been published in the Review. It was for the Council to say what should be done—whether in the face of this it was better to send a deputation to Ottawa to urge an appropriation.

Councillor CAHILL spoke strongly in favor of sending a deputation. In fact it was important that a stronger deputation than ever went down should go now. If the necessary plans were not completed they had the plans for this section at least. Several years ago Sir Charles came up through here and gave every assurance that the canal would be built and it should now be carried forward. The Government might say that they were poor but he did not think that an excuse. Other sections were pressing for improvements and if they waited till there was abundance of money in the Treasury they might wait for a long time. He pointed out the great advantage which would accrue by the Peterborough-Lakefield section being built. By building this section it would be building a connecting link to throw open for navigation an immense stretch of waters and to allow the back country an outlet for their produce at a point where there was connection with the Canadian Pacific railways.

Councillor MOORE thought that the more the Government neglected this matter the more they should agitate. They should show the Government that they were determined to have the canal gone on with. Money was voted for many projects none of which were more deserving than this.

The MAYOR said that the Government were trying to be as saving as possible.

Councillor MOORE said that their claim was not a claim of yesterday; it was one of many years and needed attention. He pointed out the necessity of obtaining something more definite from the Government than the appointment of a commission—that meant nosing at all. They should pledge the Government to have the work gone on with.

Councillor HARTLEY spoke in a similar strain. The Government should be shown that the constituencies along the Trent Valley Canal route meant business.

Councillor KENDRY urged the desirability of a strong deputation going to Ottawa. He thought $100,000 or more should be placed in the estimates.

BRIDGE WORKS.

Councillor MOORE introduced a by-law, and in doing so explained that Mr. Carnegie had modified his request for portions of certain streets. Mr. Carnegie now asked the Council to grant him a lease of a part of Dalhousie street, east of George street. He said that similar grants had been made to the Dickson Company and to Mr. Wm. Hamilton.

Councillor DAVIDSON said that this matter had been referred to the Finance Committee and that Committee had done nothing with it. He asked who had authorized Mr. Moore to bring the matter up in this way.

Councillor MOORE said that this was a different thing altogether. The subject under the Committee's discussion was the "giving" of streets. This was the "leasing" of part of a street.

Councillor DAVIDSON asked if this was a legal meeting. They had adjourned to meet at a fixed date.

The MAYOR said that the meeting was perfectly legal.

Councillor MCNAUGHTON enquired who drew out the by-law, and no one answering, declared that there were enough ratepayers in No. 1 Ward to oust it.

Councillor MOORE said that the by-law was worded precisely the same as the "Wilson" by-law, giving the use of a street to Mr. Hazlitt.

The by-law passed its first reading and the council went into a committee of the whole on the second reading, Councillor Menzies to be Chairman.

Councillor KENDRY pointed out that Mr. Hamilton had been granted a similar privilege and why not treat all alike?

Councillor DAVIDSON detected some flaws in the by-law. It merely stated "for manufacturing purposes," it did not state for what kind of manufacturing. There should be more discussion on it. It also provided for a perpetual lease.

Councillor MENZIES left the chair to speak. He opposed the passage of the by-law now. It should be referred.

He then returned to the chair.

Councillor Douglass twitted the others on their being so ready to give away the streets when Mr. Wm. Hamilton asked for them. He was the only one who opposed it then, while Mr. Menzies was quite willing to give the streets away.

Councillor MENZIES—I deny the charge.

He beat Mr. Hamilton and Mr. Bertram when they went to get it legalized, but he voted for granting Mr. Hamilton part of the street. He would do so now in Mr. Carnegie's case.

Councillor YELLAND said that when Mr. Carnegie put in a switch he should compensate the property owners whose property was injured by it.

Councillor Kendry said they weren't discussing the question of the switch now.

Councillor DAVIDSON asked Mr. Carnegie if he would agree to give bonds for any costs the town might incur through granting his request.

Mr. CARNEGIE replied that he would agree to do so.

Councillor DAVIDSON said that there was no use in trying to pass the by-law now as it was against the law to do so. He read from the Ontario Statutes setting forth that such by-laws must be published a month before passed.

Councillor CAHILL, though opposing the giving away and closing up streets was in favor of the present proposition. He would vote for it if the "40 feet" were reduced to "36 feet."

The reduction was agreed to.

Councillor MCNEIL saw no reason why the by-law should not be passed when Mr. Carnegie offered to indemnify the town in the event of any costs being incurred.

Councillor KELLY asked if it was legal to pass the by-law.

Mr. CARNEGIE said he would bear the responsibility.

Councillor KELLY spoke strongly in favor of the by-law. Instead of discouraging manufacturing interests they should do all in their power to help them along. Some people seemed to think that Mr. Law could do better in Peterborough than any other place. That was a mistake. Mr. Law could get a bonus to remove to Stratford tomorrow. He believed in treating everybody alike no matter who they were; and if that by-law wasn't passed he would move a motion to rescind the "Wilson" by-law.

Councillor KENDRY—And I'll second it.

Councillor KELLY—If its wrong to pass this by-law I'll see that the Council will be set right in the other.

The MAYOR spoke in favor of the by-law. By Mr. Law moving there he would be able to put a large number of men to work, and the Lock Manufacturing Co. would be enabled to increase their staff by 20 or 30 men.

Councillor MOORE amended the bylaws so that the lease would terminate in 20 years; so that Mr. Carnegie should give his bond to indemnify the town in case costs were incurred, and so that the town would be entitled to tear down the buildings erected and reclaim the ground in case the ground was not used for a year within the time specified.

Councillor DAVIDSON objected to have the bylaw pass. He urged that it be referred to the Finance Committee.

Councillor MOORE said that Mr. Carnegie wanted to proceed with the work of putting up the building at once. It was important to him to have the bylaw passed or not passed now, as his negotiations with Mr. Law were about completed. He accused Councillor Davidson of being an obstructionist.

Councillor DAVIDSON said that so far as personal feelings were concerned he did nothing to throw cold water on Mr. Carnegie's project, but he thought the council should act twice before passing the by-law. He said that the by-law did not describe the ground in accordance with the plan submitted and pointed to past experience the council had in rushing bylaws through too fast.

Councillor CAHILL said that he owned some property near the Brick Works, and he would be making a sacrifice to vote for the by-law. Indeed it had been said that he was well paid to not oppose it, but he wished to make public a denial of any such thing, and more than that, Mr. Carnegie had never mentioned the matter to him, nor had he heard of the [illegible] Moore told him of it to-day.

THE MINUTES READ.

Councillor MOORE moved for a third reading.

Councillor DAVIDSON moved in amendment, seconded by Councillor MCNAUGHTON,—That the by-law be not read a third time, but referred to the Town Solicitor for his approval.

The amendment was defeated on the following division:—

NAYS—Councillors Cahill, Kelly, McNeil, Douglass, Moore, Kendry and Hartley.

YEAS—Councillor Davidson, McNaughton, Stenson, Yelland and Menzies.

The motion for third reading was carried on the same division.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

Councillor MCNEIL moved, seconded by Councillor KELLY,—That this Council having learned with regret that the Dominion Government do not intend to place any appropriation in the supplementary estimates to place under construction another section of the Trent Valley Canal, resolved, that the members of this Council proceed to Ottawa at once and urge upon the Government the necessity of proceeding with the construction of this important work and that the Clerk notify the municipalities along the route asking their co-operation.—Carried.

Councillor MCNEIL moved, seconded by Councillor Kendry,—That His Worship, Mayor Stevenson, invite His Excellency, Lord Lansdowne, to visit Peterborough on August 10th (Civic Holiday.)

Councillor MCNEIL said that on that day the Oddfellow's Demonstration would take place. It would be a demonstration such as the inhabitants of Peterborough had never before witnessed. They expected 12 uniformed cantons and five hundred uniformed Oddfellows. The affair was now being published from Montreal to Windsor, and there would no doubt, be an unusual turn-out. They had been led to believe that if a official invitation was sent to His Excellency he would come. The expense would be trifling. His Excellency would arrive in the morning and go away in the evening.

Councillor MCNAUGHTON objected. He did not believe in making the poor man pay for these Generals receptions.

The motion was carried.

SEWER.

Councillor CAHILL moved, seconded by Councillor Yelland,—That the Street Inspector be instructed to sink a shaft at the north end of the main sewer.—Carried.

THE 12TH.

The Mayor was given permission to allow the Orangemen to erect arches over the streets on July 12th.

DRAIN.

Councillor MCNEIL moved, seconded by Councillor Stenson,—That the Chairman of the Property Committee have the stoppage in the town building's drain removed.

The Council adjourned.

GENERAL.

The traffic receipts of the Grand Trunk railway for the week ending May 28th were $333,799, an increase of $17,981 compared with the corresponding period last year.

The Caspian, from Baltimore to Liverpool, struck a sunken wreck while making for Halifax harbor on Saturday, and received injuries that will delay her journey for several days.

Thirty-nine thousand dollars has already been subscribed in Kingston towards the increased endowment of Queen's University, making, with Mr. Carruther's donation of $10,000, a total of $49,000.

A memorial from Quebec and Montreal shipping agents and leading captains of the St. Lawrence urging the desirability of providing a harbour of refuge at Father Point will shortly be forwarded to Ottawa.

Bradstreet's reports a total of 159 failures throughout the country during the week ending June 3rd, against 171 for the week previous. Nineteen of the number were in Canada, two less than the preceding week.

The Oregon, from Liverpool, with the weekly mails and 43 cabin, 19 intermediate and 340 steerage passengers, arrived at Rimouski at 11.15 Saturday night. The mails were forwarded at 1 o'clock Sunday morning.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

It is so hot!—Let's go to ROWSE'S for some of those $3.00 parasols they are advertising for $1.50. They say they are lovely goods.

Explanation.

J. J. Sheehy's card to the public appears in this edition of the REVIEW on the first page.

Jubilee.

A meeting of the jubilee celebration committee will be held this evening in the Fire Hall.

Porter's Prize.

Mr. Chas. Porter on Monday evening offered the band a handsome prize in the event of their taking either first or second place in the Bowmanville band competition

The Band.

The Fire Brigade Band gave a short open air concert on Monday evening and then marched down street to the Grand Trunk station, where they took the train for Bowmanville to take part in the band competition.

For a neat fitting Mantle, Dolman, or Wrap, made and trimmend with the newest materials, call at Rogers'.

The Rev. E. D. Lewis, D. C. and other members of the order who are attending the Methodist Conference, will be present this evening at the regular meeting of Peterborough Council of Royal Templars.

Notice.

A meeting of ladies will be held in the Y. M. C. A. Parlor on Thursday 9th of June at half past three o'clock to make arrangements for the annual garden party at the Barnardo Home. All who are interested are particularly requested to attend.

Canoeists.

The Otonabee Canoe Club held a meeting on Monday evening to draft a programme for the Jubilee day regatta and illuminated canoe parade. The programme was satisfactorily arranged and will be presented at the meeting of the General Jubilee Celebration Committee this evening in the Fire Hall.

Accident.

On Monday afternoon while Mrs. Rogers, who lives on Murray street, was alighting from a conveyance in front of her house, she slipped and fell to the ground breaking her left arm. Dr. Kincaid was called and performed the necessary surgical operation.

Fourth Degree.

Arrangements have been completed for working this useful and imposing degree on Thursday first June 9th in the city of Toronto, Whe the sun is at its meridian (noon) none are excluded from participating in the ceremony. Young and old, Pagan or Christian, all who go with the Masonic excursion via G. T. R. will be supplied at the Walker House with the working tools, knife and fork, for a small additional sum to the $1.76 which will pay for your ticket. A good dinner will be ready.

The June Fair.

To-day is the June fair day. As usual, there was a display of reapers, mowers, ploughs, and other farm implements on the market square. The display this year was uncommonly good. A large number of firms throughout the country were represented. Conspicuous in the exhibit were the implements shown by Mr. H. Owens. He had a Sawyer & Co. separator running in full blast, a portable engine supplying the motive power. Mr. Owens also showed binders and other implements.

Fire.

On Monday evening at about nine o'clock the fire alarm was sounded. In just a trifle over half a minute from the first tap of the bell the hose waggon was rattling up Water street. The fire was in Ashburnham, at the head of Elizabeth street, the continuation of Hunter street. The frame house which was afire was vacant, it having just been moved down from the corner of the street westward about twenty yards, so as to bring it into pretty close quarters with another dwelling. There were no tanks from which to draw a supply of water and the river was too far away to get it there, and a well had to be used to get any at all. This supply soon gave out and the engine was moved to another, which in turn gave out also. Good service was done, however, in saving the contiguous dwelling. The burned house was the property of Mr. Alex. Rutherford. The cause of the fire is unknown. The loss will be about $250.

Turnbull's tailoring department is a grand success. Suits made to order from $12 to $16 out of choice patterns.

THE LATE WM. GILBERT.

The Result of Careful Investigation on the Spot.

The following letter, in reference to the lamented death of Mr. W. Gilbert, has been received from the officials of the Y. M. C. A. at St. Paul. The Mr. Rogers mentioned in the letter is, like Mr. Goodrich, a representative of the Ruttan Company, and hastened to St. Paul to sift the matter on receiving the sad news. It will be satisfactory to Mr. Gilbert's many friends to see that his good repute remains unclouded, and that he was not the victim of foul play:—

ST. PAUL, June 3, 1887.

Geo. E. Williams, General Secretary, Peterborough, Ontario:

DEAR SIR AND BROTHER,—Your letter of above date, regarding the death of Wm. Gilbert, has been referred to me, as I had given the matter careful investigation.

I was quite well acquainted with Gilbert, having known him as a yokefellow in the Chicago Association while I was employed there as Membership Secretary during the winter of 85-86, and when the word came to me from the Chicago Association, Thursday afternoon, asking if it were "our Gilbert," I took the matter carefully in hand to satisfy them. The enclosed cuttings, from one of our city papers, cover the matter fairly, and as clear as newspapers generally get such things. Mr. Goodrich one of the firm, and with whom Gilbert had been until an hour and a half of the time he was found in a dying condition, told me at the inquest that Gilbert left the Ryan Hotel, where Goodrich was stopping, about 20 minute to eleven, saying he would go to the Grand Central Hotel and see Mr. Rogers before starting out in the morning. The Ryan is on Sixth st., three blocks east of Wabasha; the Grand Central Hotel is on the corner of Seventh and Wabasha, and there is every reason to believe than Gilbert was taken sick while coming up Sixth street, and wandered up the stairs leading to the negro dive and fell on the door step, while unconscious. The entrance to the Grand Central Hotel is on Seventh st., about one hundred feet from Wabasha, and up a stair way one flight, while the stairway he went up was about the same distance from Wabasha on the Sixth. There was no evidence whatever to show that the colored woman knew of his being there until one of the inmates of the house found him as she was coming in from a walk. The one who had his watch in her hand when the police took charge, explained it by saying that it dropped from his pocket when the body was turned over to see if he was dead. He died in the hospital about an hour after his removal there.

The papers on Friday stated that bruises were found on his body, &c., but that was all a mistake. I saw the body at the inquest, and was told by the Coroner, Dr. Quinn, that his death was from apoplexy, [illegible] certainly deserve great credit for their interest. They had a very high appreciation of Gilbert's services, and spoke of him as being one of their best salesmen. I understand fully how apt people are to take up such matters and enlarge upon malignant reports regarding those who are thought to be above reproach; I suppose it is human nature to do so, perhaps no real harm is meant, but wrong comes of it.

Wm. Gilbert was loved very much by the boys of his acquaintance in the Chicago Association, and his many friends in that city. As a personal friend of Mr. Gilbert, I extend to his mother my deepest sympathy, and believe me, I am only too glad to add to what I have already said that the circumstances connected with his death have in no way shaken the confidence I have always given to Wm. Gilbert.

Most truly yours,
T. E. HELMICK.
Fin. Secy.

I fully concur in the above and the general belief is that Mr. Gilbert's good name is untarnished.

BURGLARIES.

Five Houses Entered in Port Hope—Not Much Booty.

On Saturday morning about two o'clock, we learn from the Times, Mrs. John Hume, of Port Hope, when leaving the room of one of the children, who was ill, found herself face to face with a burglar, who quickly decamped. He had taken three bottles of sherry and some bread and cheese. Early on Monday morning, Mrs. C. Williams, hearing a noise, got up and saw a man glide out of the house. He took half a dozen brook trout. On the same morning a burglar slipped into Mr. T. H. Ambrose's cellar, took a loaf of bread, a ham, and a bottle of ale, feasted on the door step, and left the remains of the ham. Judge Benson's residence was entered the same morning through a window into the laundry, but the burglars (the tracks showed there were two) got no further and withdrew. Early on the same morning Mr. R. Deyell was also awakened by some one in the house, but on finding himself discovered the person decamped. Mr. Deyell's little daughter says that she was awakened by a man's presence in her room, that she screamed and the man put his hand on her throat. The child was so terribly frightened she was too ill to attend school that day.

THE Improved Health Corset suits every time. You can get them at ROWSE'S.

Received with Thanks.

The Fire Brigade has received the following letter from Mr. T. G. Hazlitt, Manager of the Dickson Co., inclosing a cheque for $25:—

T. Rutherford, Esq., Chief of Fire Department:

DEAR SIR,—Please accept the enclosed cheque for $25 with the compliments of the Dickson Co., asking the Fire Brigade to receive it as a trifling acknowledgment for the valuable services rendered by them at the fire on Hunter street on the 19th May.

Yours very truly,
THOS. GEO. HAZLITT.

THE TEMPERANCE VOTE.

To the Editor of the Review.

DEAR SIR,—I wish to say that the statement I made in the debate in the Conference on the resolution on Temperance yesterday to the effect that I did not cast my ballot at the recent election because neither of the candidates were professed Prohibitionists, did not apply to the candidates in this county, my vote being in another county.

Cattle.

Mr. Fred Winch left to-day for Cobourg, where he will ship two car loads of heavy cattle to the Montreal market. The cattle were purchased in the vicinity of Cobourg by the enterprising local firm of drovers, Winch & Webber.

THE only place in town where you can get black, colored and opera shades in kid gloves at 25 cents is ROWSE'S Trade Palace. They are selling ladies' 4 button opera kid gloves, Josephine, for 50 cents, really worth $1.25.

Late in the season manufacturers are glad to clear ends of stock at tremendous reductions. See the seamless hosiery Turnbull is selling, three pair for 25 cents. Bought right.

WHO sells the cheapest? A visit to ROWSE'S Trade Palace answers the question. $1.50 silks for $1.00, $1.25 silks for 84 cents, 75 cent silks for 49 cents at ROWSE'S.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

AS A TONIC.

Dr. John Gerdine, Athens, Ga., says: "In dyspepsia, accompanied with prostration from mental overwork, I think it is a fine tonic."

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

TRADE IN

Our MILLINERY DEPARTMENT

IS NOW AT ITS HEIGHT, and did we judge alone by the crowds that daily claim attention of our salesmmen advertising this class of goods would be unnecessary—almost a waste of money. But then, you know, there's two sides to every subject. Here's the other side to this one, and at the same time our reason for advertising when there's no apparent necessity for doing so.

In making up our stock in this department we provided for great numbers—for many more than have as yet taken advantage of its completeness, to furnish themselves with millinery suitable for the season.

It will therefore require "crowds long continued" to clear out tables of the enormus stock of Millinery with which they are loaded—over-loaded.

A continuous demand then being necessary, we knew of no better way to insure it than to keep you informed as to just what we have and how we are prepared to sell it. We shall, therefore, from now till the close of the season, devote some portion of our card to Millinery News.

We have already said that our stock was large. We have also intimated that our assortment was complete. Now for our goods.

We have just received a six dozen lot of Ladies' and Children's Hats which are the newest in shape and bought at half their value.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Loch's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

A LITTLE MUDDLED.

THE ORDER OF BUSINESS OUT OF GEAR AT THE BOARD MEETING.

the Institute—Public Schools—Over. Crowding in one of the Rooms—Communications—Ross Bible.

A regular meeting of the Board of Education was held on Tuesday evening. There were present:—Messrs. Sproule, Kendry, English, Wrighton, A. Rutherford, T. Rutherford, Stratton, Weir, McWilliams, Errett and Dr. Burnham.

Mr. A. Rutherford was elected to the chair,

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

ENQUIRIES.

Mr. SPROULE enquired whether the High School monthly reports were changed.

Mr. LONG replied that the monthly reports for the High Schools were only issued for two months.

Mr. SPROULE said that the parent who spoke to him had a child who just entered the Institute. Of course the reports would be different from the Public School reports.

PROPERTY.

Mr. Wrighton read the following report:—

To the Board of Education of the Town of Peterborough

GENTLEMEN,—Your Property Committee beg leave to report having purchased and delivered at the several schools wood to the amount of $332.36. The quantity delivered at each school, being as per memorandum herewith attached. Sixteen new window blinds have been procured for South Ward school costing $36.00. The seating has been rearraigned thereby giving the pupils better light and more room. The water closets have been cleaned, costing $20.00. The matter of selecting a school site in the North Ward referred to your committee has had their attention, but nothing definite has been done. Your Committee hope to report on a suitable site at the next Board meeting. Your Committee are favorable to the purchasing of a school site if one can be got at a reasonable price, but are not favorable to the erection of any building this season.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

W. H. WRIGHTON,
Chairman Property Committee.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Communications were read as follows:—

From Rev. Geo. R. Northgraves, Ingersol, enclosing a circular giving details of a recent publication.

From Geo. S. Bean, applying for an increase of salary.

From Boiler Inspector Company giving a statement of the condition of the steam boiler in the school buildings.

From Wm. Brundrette, asking that June 22nd be set apart as a holiday.

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE.

The following statement of the attendance at the schools for March was read:—

	On roll.	Av. att
Collegiate Institute		161
West Ward school	181	143
South Ward school	239	219
Central school	672	545

The following statement for May was read:—

	On roll.	Av. att.
Collegiate Institute		158
South Ward school	251	224
West Ward school	192	140
Central school	606	570

FEES.

The following statement of fees was read:—Collegiate Institute (for May), $146.50; public schools, $2.50. Collegiate Institute (for April), $137.50; public schools, $8.75.

NORTH WARD SCHOOL.

MR. KENDRY took objection to the clause in the report of the Property Committee. He urged that the ward school be built at once.

Mr. STRATTON moved, seconded by Mr. KENDRY,—That the Property Committee report be amended, adding thereto the following:—And that the Property Committee be requested to report to this Board at its next meeting any or all of the available sites, together with the cost of same, on which a ward school could be erected with advantage to the ward.—Carried.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The CHAIRMAN announced that the communications had been received. Mr. Beans communication was referred to the Committee on Appointments.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT.

High School Inspector Seath's report was read. In the matter of water closets, school grounds, class rooms, and desks, no changes were made since last inspection. Refering to the library he stated that $19 worth of books were mislaid or lost, and $23 worth had been entered twice. About $50 worth of books were needed still. Referring to the apparatus he stated that gas and water supply was needed for the laboratory. There were sufficient charts, maps and globes. He urged the establishing of a gymnasium. The organization of the staff did not suit him. He stated that a well organized commercial department must be a matter of necessity in a town like Peterborough. The character of the teaching in the different departments, the general estimates ranging from 1, the highest, to 5 the lowest, was as follows:—English I to IV; mathematics, II to IV; science, II to IV; classics, III; modern languages, II. The order and discipline in all of the departments he said, were good. He referred to an irregularity in the admission of pupils to the High School. Some had been admitted who had not passed the entrance examination and where admission was not justifiable.

Mr. STRATTON, Chairman of the School Supervision Committee, said that by the next meeting they would have the school equipped with all appliances needed.

Mr. LONG, in explanation of some items in the report, said that the entrance of books twice had been caused by his continuing a report commenced by the late Dr. Tassie. All of the books in the library at the time of his appointment as Principal were there now. In reference to the admission of pupils he had asked Mr. Seath whether those who had not passed the entrance examination should be kept out of the High School. Mr. Seath replied that discretion should be used; that all should not be kept out, and when he used his discretion Mr. Seath held that it was an abuse of privilege.

PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

The Public School Inspector made a verbal report. He made some remarks upon the admitting of pupils to the Institute, and defended the action of the Examining Committee. He reported improvement of penmanship in the public schools. He gave [illegible] crowding in one of the rooms. One teacher had at the West Ward school was only moderate.

ROSS BIBLE.

Mr. SPROULE moved seconded by Mr. ENGLISH—That the use of the book commonly known as the Ross Bible be and is hereby discontinued from this date and the use of the word of God, known as the Holy Bible used instead in our Public and High Schools and that the books known as the Ross Bible be taken from the schools and placed in the care of the chairman of this Board, James Stevenson, M. P.

Mr. MCWILLIAMS thought the matter was out of order.

Mr. SPROULE—This is a new matter.

Mr. MCWILLIAMS—This question was settled at the last meeting.

DR. BURNHAM—I don't think it was settled either one way or the other.

Mr. WIER—The Chairman distinctly declared the motion lost if it was settled that he had only one vote. It was shown that the chair had only one vote and the former motion was legally lost.

Mr. SPROULE—He declared both lost.

Mr. STRATTON read the rules of order where it stated that any question once decided could not be brought up again within the same year unless by a majority of the whole Board. A question of privilege might be re-introduced.

Mr. WRIGHTON claimed that this was a question of privilege. The Department had given them the privilege of either using or not using the book.

The CHAIRMAN favored leaving the matter over till the next meeting.

Mr. KENDRY held that the matter had not been decided, as both amendment and motion had been declared lost.

Mr. SPROULE attacked the Ross bible on account of the eliminations which had been made in the selections. He offered to show anyone who was unbiassed that anything Protestant was always left out of the Ross bible. He had the interest of Almighty God at heart and as a member of this Board was not ashamed to stand up in defence of the Holy Bible, which they had such a struggle to keep in times past. He would show anyone who would read the book over with him chapter by chapter, word by word and verse by verse, and compare it with the Holy Bible, where the terrible danger was in leaving it in the schools.

Mr. WRIGHTON asked the Chairman to rule on the question of privilege.

Mr. STRATTON said that a question of privilege related to a member being attacked or misrepresented.

The CHAIRMAN ruled that it was not a question of privilege and that the motion was out of order.

OVER CROWDING.

Mr. MCWILLIAMS moved, seconded by Mr. WIER,—That as an experiment the Inspector be instructed to have one half of the children in Miss Simin's room attend school in the forenoon and the other half in the afternoon.

The Board adjourned.

UP TO THE LAKE.

The Executive and Regatta Committees in Session.

On Tuesday the Executive and Regatta Committees of the Northern Branch of the American Canoe Association went to Stoney Lake.

At Lakefield Mr. R. C. Strickland placed his tidy steam yacht at their disposal and a pleasant sail was made to Burleigh Falls Hotel, where dinner was had.

After dinner the Committees went to the A. C. A. Island and examined it. The Committees then went into session. It was decided that the course for the paddling and sailing races should be the same as last year's course. Jas. Jackman was appointed caretaker of the camp grounds during the meet. Dr. Douglas and Mr. R. C. Strickland being a consulting committee to give directions to the caretaker.

Mr. A. Elliott, Peterborough, was appointed storekeeper and Dr. Douglas was appointed to locate the camps.

It was decided that the races commence on the first Saturday in August.

"PARNELLISM AND CRIME."

The "Times" Returns to the Charge—More Alleged Revelations.

LONDON, June 7.—The Times, this morning, publishes another instalment of its "Parnellism and Crime" articles. Opposite its leader page it prints the fac simile of the tenth page of the Irish World, of New York, of February 16, 1884, and also the greater portion of Patrick Ford's address, published in the same edition. The publications are accompanied by an explanitory article, describing the various funds mentioned, and the fate of the men connected therewith. In an editorial on the subject, the Times says: "The whole conspiracy, whether carried on by mealy-mouthed gentlemen, who sit at London dinner tables, or by friends who organize murder, is one and indivisible. It is paid out of the same purse, worked by the same men, directed to the same ends, and is spread by one universal hatred of England, and a determination to bring about, if possible, a complete separation between England and Ireland. Whether the money goes to support Gladstonians in Parliament or to equip desperadoes for the committal of outrages in English towns is a mere matter of tactics. Whenever we find the constitutional agitators with the mask laid aside, as in the case of Mr. Davitt, at Bodyke, we find that their language, sentiments and aims are identical with those of the ruffians by whose support they live, and whom they in Parliament pretend to be ignorant of."

SMELTING WORKS FOR KINGSTON.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 7.—Hon. D. L. Gibbons, Secretary of the Kingston and Pembroke Iron Company, is in the city. He has established an office here and appointed George Osborn assistant secretary. In an interview with him, a correspondent learned that it is possible that smelting works will be established here. He says that Kingston is the best location in Ontario for the works. He is endeavoring to interest citizens in the matter. To-night he goes to Ottawa to interview the Government to take the matter as at present imposed will be continued, I have no doubt but that all the needed capital can be raised in New York," were his final words.

REFORM LEADERSHIP.

Mr. Laurier Succeeds Mr. Blake as Leader of the Reform Party.

The Globe's Ottawa correspondent writes: "A Liberal caucus was held on Thursday at which various matters of interest to the party were discussed, particularly with reference to the leadership. It is understood that Mr. Laurier has been offered and will accept the leadership for the remainder of the session."

THE JUBILEE.

The Details for the Celebration all Arranged.

The general committee on the Jubilee Celebration met in the Fire Hall on Tuesday evening.

From the various reports submitted it appeared that everything was in a very satisfactory condition. One new feature in the morning's programme will be the reading of the Jubilee address to the Queen by the Chairman of the general committee. He will also make a few remarks.

It was decided to have lemonade provided for the children. Messrs. Ostrom and Long have each contributed a case of lemons and no doubt others will follow. The Jubilee songs are now in the hands of the Superintendents of Sunday schools and practice will be commenced at once. A flag will be provided for every child marching in the procession. It is expected that fifteen hundred children will be present. When singing the Jubilee choruses the children will wave the flags.

The sporting events will commence to be run off in the Riverside Park in the afternoon at 2 o'clock. Suitable prizes are being contributed by citizens. Among other events there will be a baseball match, Lock Works vs. Hamilton Manufacturing Company.

The draft of the programme for the regatta and canoe parade presented to the committee by the Otonabee Canoe Club gave great satisfaction. It is proposed to have a regatta consisting of thirteen events. Two courses will be marked out, and the races will be contested two at a time—a somewhat novel arrangement. The canoe parade, which promises to be something glorious, will be led by Commodore John Miller.

So far very satisfactory arrangements have been made for illumination. Mr. Stevenson, President of the Peterborough Gas Co., has consented to erect a gas arch over the street, probably at the post office. The Sons of England will erect an arch illuminated by electric light over George street between Hunter and Simcoe streets. It is understood that Mr. Hazlitt, President of the Electric Light Company, will have a tower erected in the Horticultural Gardens.

The citizens are especially requested to put forward active effort in illuminating their premises—both places of business and residences—at night and decorating them during the day. It will add greatly to the success of the celebration if the citizens join heartily in this. The Fire Brigade Band will favor the citizens with music several times during the day and evening.

For Coughs and Colds, use Allen's Lung Balsam. Relief is warranted or money refunded

LATEST CABLE NEWS

COURTING GEN. BOULANGER.

PARIS, June 7.—The gossip in certain circles of Parisian society treats of an attempt to win over the popular general to the cause of the Orleans princes. The Duchess d'Uzes, say the gossips, has been intrusted with the delicate task, and it is certain fact that the general has been frequently to the Duchess' residence and greets her with a most elaborate sweep of the hat upon all occasions. To win over the General would be a great victory for the princes, and that would atone many times over for the loss of their rank and influence in the army. The victory is, however, most improbable, even though it may have been attempted.

THE LIBERAL QUARREL.

LONDON, June 7.—The Daily News says it will not be Mr. Gladstone's fault if the Liberal quarrel is not healed. It is neither he or his supporters who are irreconcilable.

MR. PARNELL INTERPOSES.

LONDON, June, 7.—Mr. O'Doherty having moved an amendment to the Crimes Bill, Mr. Parnell interposed, saying that owing to the advanced stage of the session, and the large number of important matters that had not yet been debated, he would suggest that his friends move only such amendments as they regard as indispensible. It was obvious, he said, that time would not permit a discussion on the smaller points. Mr. O'Doherty withdrew his amendment. Several more amendments were rejected, the last with the aid of the cloture, the vote being 229 to 98. Mr. Smith then moved that clause 3 stand as part of the bill. The motion was carried by 211 to 83.

DAVITT'S COURSE CONDEMNED.

DUBLIN, June 7.—At the regular meeting of the National League held here to-day the consensus of opinion of those present was that the course of Mr. Davitt, in advising the tenants to resist eviction by every means in their power, was not wise. Mr. Timothy Harrington, Secretary of the League, announced that the Organizing Council would implore the tenants not to allow anything to drive them to violence, which would be to play into the enemy's hands. Mr. Harrington, in his address to the League, quoted fully the closing words of the speech made by Mr. Parnell on the night the Irish Crimes Amendment Act was introduced in the House of Commons.

EVICTING UNDER UMBRELLAS.

ing an entry into the fourth house at Bodyke yesterday, protected themselves with umbrellas, while a detachment of police formed a close cordon around the house and pointed their rifles at the windows. Messrs. Dillon, Cox and Sheehy afterwards made speeches denouncing the affair, and advising the tenants to resort to any resistance. The brother and two sisters who were arrested were afterwards released.

ASSAULTED IN A CAR.

BORDEAUX, June 7.—M. Montgolfier, proprietor of extensive steel works, while travelling in a railway carriage, was assaulted by a man, who dealt him twenty-one blows with a loaded cane. The culprit was arrested. M. Montgolfier is in a critical condition.

ITALY AND THE VATICAN.

ROME, June 7.—The Roman Catholics have scored a great success in the Genoa municipal elections. King Humbert has decorated the Archbishop of Milan. This is regarded as a further indication that he is in favor of effecting a reconciliation with the Vatican.

FLOODS IN HUNGARY.

VIENNA, June, 7.—The distress in Hungary increases hourly. Numerous lives have been destroyed by the flood. Entire herds of cattle have been drowned at Mako. The flood has reached Csanad county, and fully 50,000 acres of wheat land will soon be inundated. Csongrad is submerged. It is calculated that 500 families have been ruined by the floods.

WHAT THE SEA GAVE UP.

PARIS, June 7.—Among the baggage lost in the recent disaster to the steamer La Champagne was a trunk which evidently belonged to a German staff officer. It was recovered and found to contain accurate and complete sketches of a number of French forts. It is believed the officer was drowned.

THE WAR IN AFGHANISTAN.

CALCUTTA, June 7.—The troops of the Ameer of Afghanistan and the Ghilzais who are in revolt against the Ameer's authority, retain the same positions they have occupied for some time past and are apparently trying to starve each other out.

Hunting Down Murderers.

WINNIPEG, June 7.—A Regina despatch says: Gaudy and Rosette are now in a coulee, about seven miles north of Broadview, where it is difficult to get at with a small force. A special train left Regina for Broadview this morning with twenty-seven men fully mounted. They expected to capture the murderers to-day, but it is feared blood will be shed before the work is accomplished.

Indians Becoming Ugly.

WINNIPEG, June 7.—A special train arrived at Broadview this morning with 28 policemen, bringing the force there up to 60. Notwithstanding denials, it has leaked out that the Indians on the reserve are acting in an ugly manner. There is a possibility of trouble. Fifty police left Broadview for the reserves to-day, and the citizens are organizing a home guard.

A Protestant Cathedral.

NEW YORK, June 7.—The first active steps towards raising funds for the proposed Protestant cathedral were taken yesterday. It is said that pledges aggregating $500,000 have been made, but the exact figures will not be made public until Thursday.

The Daily Review

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 8, 1887.

THE IRON DUTIES.

THE Standard, of London, England, is very angry over the iron duties, and is as absurd as angry people often are. It assumes that Canada is unfriendly to the Mother Country, because it wishes to manufacture its own iron, and that it is acting so as to injure Great Britain. The British freetraders raised the same cry when the National Policy was first adopted, and would not listen to the assertions of its advocates that our imports from Great Britain would increase rather than diminish with the increased prosperity due to the impetus given to manufacturing in Canada. The friends of the National Policy, however, were proved to be true prophets, and so it will be again when the iron trade is giving employment to tens of thousands in Canada. The Standard indeed seems to have a glimmering of this result, though beclouded by the freetrade fog in its mind, for it says: "The larger the trade with the United States is, the richer will the Canadian people become and the more business will they do with other countries." This would not be the result of the suicidal plan of selling to the United States our raw material cheap, and then purchasing it back at a higher price when manufactured by them, but the people of Canada will grow richer by manufacturing their own rich ores, and thus will become better customers of the Mother Country. The effrontery of the Standard is stupendous in denouncing Canadians as "selfish" for being unwilling to trample under foot any longer some of the richest iron ores in the world, while buying the pig iron we need from others. It might as well call us selfish for catching our own fish and tilling our own soil.

The fact is that the Standard is slow in learning a lesson which is being rapidly taught to many people in Great Britain, that by a misscalled free trade policy they are allowing foreigners to invade their industries. If the Standard wishes to foster the British iron trade let it advocate the use of British iron in Great Britain. Let it abandon the advocacy of a foolish policy [illegible] Britain to purchase Belgian instead of British iron, while it asks Canada to neglect its own iron ore in order to purchase from Great Britain the pig iron that is crowded out by importations from abroad.

The Canadian opponents of Canadian industries are of course delighted at this angry protest from the Standard, but to show their consistency they are intriguing to persuade Canada to adopt the tariff of the United States, which is far heavier on British iron.

In reference to some excentric remarks by General Butler as to his preference for defending guilty clients, the Globe very properly describes the ethics of the bar, showing that counsel are in duty bound to see that even a guilty client is not convicted until the evidence to prove his guilt is thoroughly sifted, and to take care that any mitigating circumstances are fully set forth. In a civil case also in which money, property or position is at stake, the defendant is similarly entitled to the same sifting of evidence and consideration of the circumstances. Yet in a question as to a seat in Parliament the Globe and its friends are maintaining that those who claim to be wronged may shrink from an appeal to the law courts, and insist instead upon a decision by interested political partizans, without counsel, judge or jury—without any examination of evidence or consideration of law points.

THE United States authorities are lamenting that they cannot get rid of their surplus. The people of the United States know now, if they did not know at the time, that their agents by means of fraudulent claims and fraudulent evidence obtained some millions more than was just for the damages done by the Alabama and other Southern cruisers. No claimants can be found for the money, which still remains in the U.S. treasury. The Washington authorities might restore to the British Government this money obtained by fraud. And then the mother country might hand the money over to Canada in compensation for Mr. Gladstone's stupid neglect in allowing the United States by a time limit to exclude the question of damages inflicted by the Fenian raids, from the consideration of the Washington joint commission.

IN some remarks on the Franchise the Toronto Globe informs us that "in Ontario there is an almost unanimous sentiment for manhood suffrage." If so the Globe, Mr. Mowat, his colleagues, and their supporters, must all have been either very short sighted or very dishonest. A short time ago they were all bitterly opposing manhood suffrage when Mr. Meredith and his friends moved in its favour. They would not even listen to anything said in its support but rejected it contemptuously. It appears however, that in this instance as in so many others, the people of Ontario have seen the advantage of the Conservative policy and the Reform leaders have been compelled, though reluctantly, to adopt it.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Jubilee Address to the Queen—Third Reading—A Canadian by Statute—Colonization Companies—Prohibition—Indian Timber.

MONDAY, June 6.—Several private bills were introduced.

ADDRESS TO THE QUEEN.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD moved concurrence in the following jubilee address to the Queen as adopted by the Senate:—

"To the Queen's Most Excellent Majesty

MOST GRACIOUS SOVEREIGN,—We, Your Majesty's loyal and dutiful subjects, the Senate of Canada in Parliament assembled, beg to offer our sincere congratulations on the happy completion of the fiftieth year of your auspicious reign.

The Supreme disposer of events has made Your Majesty the ruler of the fifth part of the habitable globe. Hundreds of millions of almost every race and tongue are proud to own your sway. But among them all, there is no community that cherishes a more heartfelt attachment to Your Majesty's person and Throne, than the people of the Canadian Dominion.

Once a colony of France, won in a struggle not less honorable to the vanquished than the victors, it was not long till its fidelity to the Crown was severely tried. How it stood the test was known to Your Majesty's illustrious father, when he honored with his friendship the hero of Chateauguay—the brave De Salaberry. And when the daughter of the Duke of Kent ascended to the throne the event was hailed as the dawn of a era which should bring to British and French Canada not only prosperity and progress, but the spirit of unity and good-will. Under the influence of the great gift of constitutional self-government, conferred on Canada in the early years of Your Majesty's reign, the country has made rapid progress. It has shared in the general advancement of the last half century, in the wonderful discoveries and application of science—the railway, the steamship, the telegraph, and their conquests of time and space; the multiplication of manufactures, the expansion of commerce, the blessings of legal reform, the diffusion of education, and in the wearing away of prejudices through increased intercourse between man and man. If the empire's progress compares favorably during the last fifty years with that of the world at large, so does the progress of Canada compare favorably with that of the Empire. From a few scattered Provinces it has become a great Federation stretching from ocean to ocean, and linking by its iron path the European to the Asiatic portions of Your Majesty's domain.

It has been the good fortune of the people of Canada to enjoy, from time to time, the honor of the presence and countenance of several members of the Royal Family, and this relationship not only deepened their loyal devotion to the head of the British Empire, but enhanced their regard for the wife and mother, their veneration for the memory of the husband and father.

Our earnest prayer is that He who is the Ruler of all nations and the King of all Kings may uphold, direct and preserve Your Majesty for many long years to reign over a prosperous and contented people."

He declared that he need not dwell at length on the subject, as the address so well expressed the feelings of Canadians. He sketched the history of Canada during the reign and eulogised the Queen in fitting terms.

Mr. LAURIER expressed the pleasure he felt in seconding the motion, while he regretted that his leader should be absent through illness. The sentiments expressed in the address were fully shared by Her Majesty's French subjects. He eloquently described the glories of the reign and the progress of the empire especially of Canada. On behalf of his race he wished that this glorious reign would long continue.

Col. Amyot said Canada had never been conquered.

The address was ordered to be engrossed and forwarded to Her Majesty.

The members then united in singing "God Save the Queen."

A CANADIAN.

Mr. KENNY thought Hansard was incorrect in making Mr. Jones add to his denial of being a Canadian that he was a Nova Scotian.

Mr. JONES said those were the words he used. He had added in the words of Mr. Howe that he was a Canadian by Act of Parliament.

COLONIZATION COMPANIES.

Mr. WHITE in reply to Mr. Mallory said that nineteen colonization companies had not surrendered their contracts. No money had been received from these companies since the beginning of 1876, but in some cases land has been taken back.

THE FRANCHISE.

Mr. LAURIER withdrew his motion to repeal the Franchise Act, as the matter could be considered on the bill to amend it.

PROHIBITION.

Mr. JAMIESON'S motion to adopt prohibition was made the first order of the day for Wednesday to give time for a full discussion.

RELEASE OF PRISONERS.

Mr. SPROULE moved in favor of a release of prisoners in honor of the Jubilee.

Mr. THOMPSON on behalf of the Government dissented from the proposal.

Mr. MILLS on behalf of the Opposition did the same.

Mr. SPROULE withdrew his motion.

INDIAN TIMBER LIMIT.

Mr. BARRON moved for papers as to the setting apart of an Indian reserve under the Robinson Treaty in the Georgian Bay district and the sale of some of the timber upon it.

"Heaven is not reached at a single bound," sung Dr. Holland, and the same may be said of health. But many a sick person would make rapid strides in the direction of complete health by using Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It is a sovereign remedy for all forms of scrofulous diseases, king's evil, tumors, white swellings, fever-sores, scrofulous sore eyes, as well as for other blood and skin diseases.

METHODIST CHURCH.

CLOSE OF THE ANNUAL MEETING OF THE BAY OF QUINTE CONFERENCE.

To Meet Next Year At Lindsay—Reports of Various Committees—Resolution of Thanks—Appointments Made.

TUESDAY.

MORNING SESSION.

The morning session on Tuesday was opened at 10 o'clock with devotional exercises.

The President retired to attend the Stationing Committee and the Rev. Jos. Young was called to the chair.

The Rev. W. H. EMSLEY read the report of the Temperance Committee. It recognized an advancement toward prohibition, for which the Scott Act was preparing the way. They mentioned the services of laymen of the church, including Messrs. Cox and Flavelle, of Peterborough, and Miller and Robinson, of Brighton. They recommended that the fines secured under the Scott Act be paid to the Commissioners for enforcement, and the organization of Young Men's Prohibition Clubs.

The report was adopted.

The Rev. J. J. LEACH read the Educational Committee's report. It was very satisfactory in regard to the educational institutions. They recommended that the Revs. J. Learoyd and W. Williams, D.D., be appointed to the Board of Albert College, and the Rev. J. B. Clarkson, M.A., on the Alma College Board.

The report was adopted.

The Rev. W. JOHNSTON read the report of the Sunday School Committee. It showed an increase in the number of schools and of scholars, and 1,391 conversions during the year, an increase of 178. The Rev. Wm. Joliffe was recommended for re-election as Secretary-Treasurer. It recommended the more systematic use of the Catechism.

The report was adopted.

The Rev. J. MCFARLANE read the report of the Statistical Committee. It showed an increase of membership in each District, the total being 2,777. The amounts raised for the different funds were:—

Children's Fund	$ 21 95
Contingent Fund	28 41
Educational	1,389 19
General Conference	551 35
Superannuation	5,751 19
Church Relief	413 10
Missionary (as far as reported)	1,266 07
Week (Incl.)

The report was adopted.

The Rev. D. [illegible] read the report of the Children's Fund Committee, showing a small balance on hand and recommending the abolition of the fund.—Adopted.

The Rev. R. DUKE read the report on Sabbath Observance. It regretted that the violation of the fourth commandment was on the increase. The running of railway trains and steamboats was a breach of the moral law. They were pleased that Toronto was maintaining its proud position as the best Sabbath observing city on the continent. It recommended the members of the Conference to strengthen the hands of those endeavouring to amend the laws. It condemned the practice of Sunday visiting and recommended the sanctity of home life as the best corrective.

It was adopted.

The President came in and took the chair.

The Rev. F. H. WALLACE read the report of the Committee recommending that the Conference meet next year in the Bridge Street Church, Belleville, on the first Thursday in June at 9 o'clock, and that a blanketing fund be instituted with the Rev. J. C. Wilson as Treasurer.

The Rev. Jos. YOUNG moved in amendment that the next Conference be held in Lindsay.

The amendment was carried. It was also decided that the Superintendent in whose church the Conference met be Treasurer of the billeting fund.

The Rev. DR. WILLIAMS read the pastoral address from the Conference to the people, prepared by the Committee. It was adopted.

DR. WILLIAMS also read the report of the Treasurer of the Educational fund.

The Rev. DR. BREDIN moved, seconded by S. P. FORD, M. D., a resolution congratulating Her Majesty Queen Victoria on the completion of the fiftieth year of her reign.

The members of the Conference rose and sang God Save the Queen, after which the meeting adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The afternoon session was opened with devotional exercises.

The Rev. W. E. Wilson and Rev. George Carpenter presented the President with a group photograph of the ordination class. The President returned thanks in a neat speech.

Master Gardam Wilson, son of the Rev. J. C. Wilson, the Conference Postmaster, was called forward and presented with a purse, amid applause.

The Rev. J. C. ASH read the report of the Church Property Committee, recommending that various trustees be appointed to sell church property on circuits, and apply the proceeds to church and parsonage funds.

The Rev. O. R. LAMBLY, M. A., Secretary, read the list of stations for the coming year, which were published yesterday.

The Chairmen and Financial Secretaries for each district were then elected as follows:—

BELLEVILLE DISTRICT—Chairman, the Rev. John Learoyd; Financial Secretary, the Rev. Arthur Browning.

NAPANEE DISTRICT—Chairman, the Rev. James Curts; Financial Secretary, the Rev. C. L. Thompson.

PICTON DISTRICT—Chairman, the Rev. Wm. Joliffe; Financial Secretary, the Rev. J. F. Ockley.

BRIGHTON DISTRICT—Chairman, the Rev. Wm. Buchanan; Financial Secretary, the Rev. R. N. Adams.

COBOURG DISTRICT—Chairman, the Rev. Wm. Williams, D. D.; Financial Secretary, the Rev. G. H. Copeland.

PETERBOROUGH DISTRICT—Chairman, the Rev. I. Tovell; Financial Secretary, the Rev. J. C. Wilson.

LINDSAY DISTRICT—Chairman, the Rev. M. L. Pearson; Financial Secretary, the Rev. Wm. Johnston.

MADOC DISTRICT—Chairman the Rev. O. R. Lambly, M.A.; Financial Secretary, the Rev. W. C. Beer.

CAMPBELLFORD DISTRICT—Chairman, the Rev. J. S. Clark; Financial Secretary, the Rev. F. Johnston.

The Rev. F. MCAMMOND, B.A., read the report of the Treasurer of the Contingent Fund, showing the income to be $800 75 and and the expenditure for same, $178 being expended in assisting weak circuits.

The President and the Rev. M. L. Pearson were appointed to arrange for the services of the next Conference.

The Rev. DR. WILLIAMS moved, seconded by the Rev. M. L. Pearson,—A resolution tendering the thanks of the Conference to the ministers and members of the Methodist and other congregations in Peterborough for their generous hospitality, and praying that the richest temporal and spiritual blessings attend them through a long life.

On motion of Dr. Ford, it was decided to establish a Sustentation Fund.

The President nominated the Rev. Messrs. Dr. Bredin, D. Wilson, J. B. Clarkson, M.A., Jos. Young and R. T. Courtrice as the Conference General Committee.—Adopted.

A motion was adopted cherishing the hope that the appropriations from the Book Room to the Superannuation Fund would be continued in proportion to the profits of the Room.

A resolution commending the Rev. Silas Huntingdon's missionary work in the Nipissing District was carried.

Resolutions of sympathy with the Rev. H. Williams and the Rev. Richard Jones, who were afflicted with sickness, were adopted.

The minutes were read, hymn No. 751 was sung and Dr. Ford and the Rev. James Curts led in prayer. The President pronounced the benediction and the Conference sessions ended until next year.

NOTES.

The Rev. F. H. Wallace received a large vote for the Chairmanship of Peterborough District, but the Rev. I. Tovell was re-elected.

Mr. Tovell and Mr. Wallace are each popular with their brethern.

Harmony and good feeling prevailed generally in all the debates of the Conference during the week.

At every session there were spectators in attendance, who occupied seats in the gallery or on the floor behind the bar.

A clergyman during the past year became ill and his mind was affected. A sum was sent from the District Meeting to his wife and six children, and over $100 was subscribed and sent to her from the Conference with the sympathy of the members.

The REVIEW desires to acknowledge the courtesies of the Secretaries and other officials of the Conference to its representative at the Conference sessions.

A minister expected his wife to be at the Conference on the last day. On entering the church he saw a lady dressed in black, as his wife was, and having the same colored hair. He sat down beside her, threw his arm along the back of the seat and spoke to her in a familiar tone, when, oh the agony of such a moment! he discovered that she was someone else. An explanation made matters right, but did not save him from considerable chaffing from his brethren.

Late in the season manufacturers are glad to clear ends of stock at tremendous reductions. See the seamless hosiery Turnbull is selling, three pair for 25 cents. Bought right.

Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d90

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

It is so hot!—Let's go to ROWSE'S for some of those $3.00 parasols they are advertising for $1.50. They say they are lovely goods.

Explanation.

J. J. Sheehy's card to the public appears in this edition of the REVIEW on the first page.

One of the heaviest waves of cheap dress goods that ever struck Peterborough is now on sale at Turnbull's. Forty different patterns to select from at only 12½ cents a yard.

Early Closing.

The shoemakers have agreed to close their places of business from this date till September 1st at 7. p.m. The advertisement will be seen in another column.

WE buy our hosiery at ROWSE'S Trade Palace. You can get all colors and blacks, and the price suits every time.

On the Morrow

You will get to Toronto via G. T. R. by the Masonic Excursion for $1.75, tickets good for two days. Children half-fare. Train leaves here at 7.45 a.m. Excursionists can return home on the following day by only [illegible]

For a neat fitting Mantle, Dolman, or Wrap, made and trimmed with the newest materials, call at Turnbull's.

Prints! Prints!

To-day we offer a large assortment of prints, former price 10 and 12½ cents, for 7½ cents. The public may look out for special lines in Dry Goods lower than ever before offered. We can and will do it. H. S. GRIFFIN & Co.

KIDD has the best $1.25 ladies, solid leather button boots in town.

Petty Pilfering.

Mr. Blade, Superintendent of the Horticultural Gardens, says that between three and six o'clock yesterday morning some one stole two plants out of one of the beds in the Gardens and also disfigured quite a number of others. Himself, assisted by R. White, Jr., have traced one of the bouquets pilfered but have not yet laid hands on the guilty party.

THE only place in town where you can get black, colored and opera shades in kid gloves at 25 cents is ROWSE'S Trade Palace. They are selling ladies' 4 button opera kid gloves, Josephine, for 50 cents, really worth $1.25.

The Late W. Gilbert.

At a regular meeting of Chicago Clan Gordon, held on Thursday evening, May 26th, a committee on resolutions was appointed and presented the following:—

"Whereas it has pleased the Grand Chief of the Universe to call from us our late Bro. W. H. Gilbert, be it therefore

"Resolved, that in the death of Bro. Gilbert, Clan Gordon, No. 18, sustains a loss that can never be replaced, his mother an affectionate son, and his sisters a loving brother, and the community at large a gentleman that was respected by all."

MEMBERS of the conference have given tangible proof of the fact that KIDD'S is the place for bargains in boots, shoes and slippers.

Bankrupt.

Mr. Gough, the Great Clothier, has just returned from Montreal and informed a REVIEW reporter to-day that he effected the purchase of a bankrupt stock of Ready Made Clothing amounting to $18,500 at 40 cents on the dollar. Low as his prices have been in the past, he promises to astound the public now by offering Men's Suits at $2.75 and Boys' Suits at $1.25 each. This certainly is a paralizer, and we predict for Mr. Gough a big rush. The goods are expected to arrive to day or to-morrow and will be open for Saturday. See his advertisement.

Just arrived at Turnbull's, Gobelin and Drab Cashmeres with handsome trimmings to match, correct shades for the season.

THE Improved Health Corset suits every time. You can get them at ROWSE'S.

Hunt's Brick trowels and the Cincinnati Plastering Trowels are noted for their excellent quality. Plastering and Kalsoming Brushes up to 100 for sale by GEORGE STETHEM.

Turnbull's tailoring department is a grand success. Suits made to order from $12 to $16 out of choice patterns.

THE BAND.

The Peterborough Band in the Competition at Bowmanville.

The Fire Brigade Band has returned from Bowmanville, where they competed in the first class in the competition held under the auspices of the Dominion Organ and Piano Company and the Board of Trade. The managers of the competition were fortunate in obtaining the services of Prof. Claus, of the Boston Conservatory of Music, who acted as judge in a thoroughly competent and impartial manner. The Peterborough band won the third prize, and the circumstances of the competition and the prize won are in every way creditable to them.

Three bands entered the competition in the first class. These were the Massey Manufacturing Co. Band, of Toronto, 27 strong; the Waterloo Band, 33 strong, and the Fire Brigade Band of Peterborough, 18 strong. The two other bands were not only stronger than the Peterborough band in numbers, but also in reed instruments, and thus possessed a double advantage, the instruments being a great advantage.

The result of the competition, in the number of points credited, was as follows:—Massey Co. Band, 26 points; Waterloo Band 10 points; Fire Brigade Band, 13 points. Although the Peterborough Band thus secured the second place in points by their good musical abilities, the Waterloo Band was awarded the second prize on account of their better instrumentation, they being able, with the instruments they possessed, to play a heavier class of music. The third prize, awarded to the Peterborough Band was $75.

At the conclusion of the competition the judges called the bandmasters forward and explained his decision, paying a high compliment to Bandmaster Miller and the Peterborough band for their musical ability and correct playing.

The Peterborough band have reason to be well satisfied with their success, and the people of the town have reason to be not a little proud of the band and its record.

CHEESE.

The second fortnightly meeting of the Peterborough Cheese Board of the season was held on Tuesday afternoon. The cable stood at 55 shillings (for 112 pounds.) The offer all colored cheese, was as follows:—

Factory.	No. of boxes.

Messrs. Taylor and Drummond conducted the sale. There were seven buyers present—Messrs. Wm. Cook, for Warrington, Montreal; M. Bird, for Hodgson & Son, Belleville; J. W. Flavelle and R. Leary, Lindsay; Wm. Cluxton, W. H. Wrighton and R. Green, Peterborough.

The bids were made as follows, coming out in lively style:—Cook 9 cents for the Peterborough section; Bird 9¼ for selections; Cook, 9¼ for Peterborough section; Cluxton, 9¼ for selections; Leary, 9¼ for the whole board; Cluxton, 9⅜ for selections. The bidding then ceased and the following factories were chosen by Mr. Cluxton:—Warminster, Warsaw, Trewern and North Smith.

Mr. Cluxton then offered 9¼ for further selections. Mr. Leary offered 9¼ for the whole board. The bidding ceased and the factories were called off. All of the salesmen accepted the offer except the representatives of Norwood, Westwood and M. Abbey.

As compared with the second meeting held last season this meeting was a success. At the second meeting held in 1886 only 19 factories were represented; at this meeting there were 24. Then there were only 1,436 cheeses boarded; at this meeting there were 2,002. Then the cable stood at 42 shilling; now it stands at 55. Mr. Cluxton at that meeting paid seven cents for selections; at this he paid 9⅜. Mr. Flavelle bought the Victoria cheese at that meeting for 6⅞; at this Mr. Leary paid 9¼ for it. There has been a gain all round which must be very satisfactory to all concerned.

NOTES.

Mr. Cook advised the continuing of coloring of the cheese. He said that factories all along the St. Laurence and the Lake, were making white cheese principally. This made a scarcity of colored, and for that reason Peterborough was commanding a higher price then otherwise.

VICIOUS DOG.

WEDNESDAY, June 8.—Joseph Simm was charged by A. Arsenau with keeping a vicious dog. The case was dismissed on the defendant agreeing to destroy the dog.

Ladies go into ecstacies over the new perfume, "Lotus of the Nile."

The Long and Short Haul Clause.

ST. PAUL, June 6.—At the meeting of the Railroad Commissioners on Saturday to consider the application of the Minneapolis & St. Louis road for the suspension of the long and short haul clause of the Inter-State Railroad Law, Vice-President Truesdell explained the injury which the new law had worked to his line. They were unable he said to compete with the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Burlington & Northern, which had made a seven cent rate on flour, so that they were unable to do any through business. The freight trains to the east were mainly made up of empty cars, for which they paid three-quarters of a cent mileage in returning them to Eastern Roads. He said if the Commissioners restricted the roads of the State to the law which they prescribed, every line would be in the hands of a receiver in less than a year.

Canadian Labor.

DETROIT, June 6.—The competition of Canadian labor with that of resident Detroiters is assuming a deep degree of interest throughout the city, and on Thursday evening next a meeting will be held at Beecher Hall under the auspices of the Knights of Labor for a discussion of the subject by the ablest talent obtainable. In order that the legal status of the question with the decisions of the courts upon cases brought under the Labor Importation Act may be fully and clearly presented, Congressman Chipman, among others, will be asked to address the meeting.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Loch's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

Boy Murderers.

NEW YORK, June 8.—So small were two boys who were arraigned at the Tombs Police Court yesterday that the Magistrate was obliged to rise from his seat and lean over his desk to see them. They were John Meehan, 9 years old, of No. 71 Hester street, and William Berger, aged 11 years, of No. 147 Hester street. The charge against them was homicide. They on their way home from school the two boys met an aged Italian, Louis Maskropetro, at the corner of Grand and Mott streets. William pushed John against the man, who fell. He got up and moved away, but the boys stoned and jostled him until he fell again, fracturing his skull. The old man was taken to the hospital, where he died, and the hoodlums are to be tried for murder.

A Second Operation.

BERLIN, June 8.—Dr. Mackenzie to-day performed a second operation upon the tumor in the Crown Prince's throat and successfully removed another portion of the growth. Cocaine was used to deaden sensation in the throat. The spirits of the Crown Prince was much raised by Dr. Mackenzie's assurance of a cure. The patient went out driving after the operation. He will go to London on Monday, accompanied by Dr. Wegner, the court physician, and Dr. Mackenzie, under whose care he will remain either at Norwood or Weymouth until a sufficient number of operations have been performed to prevent a regrowth of tumor. He will then go to Isle of Wight to recruit his health.

Canada's Iron Mines.

KINGSTON, June 8.—Hon. D. L. Gibbons, of the Kingston and Pembroke Iron company, has returned from Ottawa. From conversations with Ministers and others, he found much interest manifested in the proposed smelting works. He left for New York to-day, and on his return will, he says, be able to talk with definiteness. To make the project feasible the Government must give a substantial guarantee that sweeping charges will not be made in the tariff. He thinks $250,000 would be invested first, and ultimately several millions would be utilized, so that the company would take a leading position in Canada.

Hudson Bay Railway.

WINNIPEG, June 8.—The Government has withdrawn its first measure respecting aid to the Hudson Bay Railway, and has submitted another, which provides that the company may issue $10,000,000 worth of bonds, the interest on four and a half millions of which the Government will guarantee at four per cent for twenty-five years The money will be placed in the hands of three trustees, one of whom will be appointed by the Government, one by the bond-holders and one by the company, and they will expend this money in building the line.

Tea by C. P. R.

The Montreal Times says.—The beginning made last season in commercial relations between Canada and Japan, is well brought out by the British Consul at Hyogo in Japan. He states that there has gone either in sailing vessels from Hyogo, or in steamers thence to Yokohama for transshipment there into sailing vessels bound for Port Moody, tea to the amount of 3,980,000 lbs., to the Pacific terminus of the Canada Pacific Railway, for transit by that line to the eastern parts of the Dominion, or to the United State.

Anarchists.

COLUMBUS, O., June 8.—A lodge of bloodthirsty Anarchists has been discovered in this city. It numbers ninety men and women, and some of the circulars are of the most revolutionary character. The organization dates from the visit of Mrs. Parsons last March. Their work in this, as in other cities, is carried on with the greatest secrecy, and it is difficult to locate their place of meeting or to learn much about their work.

Bribed with a Baked Pig.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 8.—The Honolulu Gazette renews its attack on King Kalakaua for alleged bribery in the opium matter. It printed sixty affidavits charging that he was bribed with $75,000 and a baked pig to grant a Chinaman named Aki a license to sell opium, but that he finally gave the license to another chinaman, Chung Lung.

NORWOOD.

NEW CHURCH.—The foundation of the new Baptist Church on Queen street is completed and the brickwork will be commenced in a few days. Messrs. Cumming & Son have the contract for the carpenter work.

THREE STRAIGHTS.—On Tuesday the Norwood and Keene Lacrosse Clubs crossed sticks on the grounds of the latter club. The match lasted about an hour and was hotly contested. The Norwood team won by three straights. Dr. Shaw, of the Keene team, played a fine game in the flags. The teams were composed as follows:—

NORWOOD.		KEENE.
J Kempt	Goal	Dr Shaw
R J Stewart	Point	M Kennealy
F Stephenson	Cover Point	J Bryce
L Wessels	1st Defence Field	W McCrae
H Hill	2nd "	J McCamus
R Hill	3rd "	W Anderson
J A Harper	Centre	J McCrae
W Hendren	3rd Home Field	J Campbell
R Moore	2nd "	J Dixon
A Eaton	1st "	T Kindred
Fred Pearce	Outside Home	T Wallace
J Jory	Inside Home	D Wallace

Mr. H. English filled the position of referee to the entire satisfaction of both teams. Mr. J. C. McConkey acted as field captain for the Norwood team and Mr. A. Dixon acted in the same capacity for the Keene Club. The umpires were Messrs. J. McCann and M. Weir.—Register.

CAMPBELLFORD.

STEAM ELAVATOR.—Mr. H. M. Fowlds, of Hastings, has purchased Mr. R. Cockburn's storehouse at the station, and is changing it into a steam elevator.

CHEESE MARKET.—At the weekly cheese market on Friday last there were 578 boxes of white and 116 boxes of colored offered. The highest price paid was 9⅝ cents, by Mr. McCarger who purchased 381 boxes. The highest price asked was 9¾ cents.

STOCKING THE LAKES.—We are informed that Mr. Chas. Wilmot, Superintendent of the Newcastle fish hatchery, and Mr. Chas. Wilkins will take a trip back in the country north of Campbellford, soon, and stock the lakes with fry. They will probably visit Round Lake, Belmont Lake, Oak Lake, and Twin and Sand and Koshabog Lakes.

DANGERS OF RIVER DRIVING.—On Tuesday afternoon last, as five of Gilmour & Co.'s men were proceeding down the river below Rapney's Falls, their [illegible] swell and upset, and they were thrown into the [illegible] carried dow the river about half a mile, and reached the shore. The remaining two grabbed the boat when it went over and clung to it, and landed safely on Meyer' Island, about one mile and a half distant.—Herald.

WEATHER NOTES. — Regarding our weather, the heat of May has assuredly made up for the cold of April, and although the farmers, in common with others, while growing discontented with the backwardness of the former month, were feeling a little out of tune with the continual high temperature of the latter month. From the 2nd to the 31st inclusive only on five days did the thermometer fall below 70 deg. in the shade at 3 p.m., and it went up to 94 deg. on the 22nd, and on 10 days it reached 80 and over, leaving the mean temperature of the month at 58 28-31. Rain fell on 7 days but only to the depth of 1 17-100 in., being very light for May. There was fog on one morning, white frost on the morning of the 14th, being the last of the season, and no doubt the night on which so much barley was frosted throughout the country. We had thunder on two days, but no rain. Swallows were first seen on the first of the month. Our migrating birds have now all returned, excepting the lovely humming birds. The following are the different points from which the wind was blowing at sunrise during the month:—West, 4 days; south, 5 days; east, 8 days; south-east, 10 days; north-west, 3 days; south-west, 4 days; north-east, 2 days.

HASTINGS.

LACROSSE.—The lacrosse match between the Silver Stars of Bensfort and the Ironclads of this village, came of on Friday last. The Bensfort Club reached here about one o'clock, on the steamer Beaver, and brought a large excursion party with them. They are a sturdy lot of men, and on an average were a great deal heavier than our boys. They were all good runners, had lots of wind and, were regular stayers from the word go. But they lacked in team play. If they practised that, and played more into each other's hands, they would be a hard team to play against. Mr. M. Kennealey, Keene, acted as referee. Mr. T. Howard captained the Ironclads, and D. W. Dodds the Bensfort boys. The Ironclads won by three straight games.—Star.

BELLEVILLE.

THREE YEARS IN PENITENTIARY.—Two young men giving the names of Miller and Howard were on Wednesday found guilty of pocket picking and sentenced by Judge Fraleck to three years in the Penitentiary.

Late in the season manufacturers are glad to clear ends of stock at tremendous reductions. See the seamless hosiery Turnbull is selling, three pair for 25 cents. Bought right.

VICTORIA.

I.

O! mistress of an empire grand,
Whose subjects number ocean's sand,
Linked by the indissoluble band
Of filial love;
Whose realms extend from sea to sea—
Blest land in which all men are free—
Ten million prayers ascend for thee
To Heaven above.

II.

What time thy anxious heart is torn
With cares of state, when thou art worn,
'Tis then Britannia's sons are sworn
To strict obedience.
Thou guardian of a nation's weal,
Be ours the task to set the seal
On all the love for thee we feel—
And fond allegiance.

III.

Adown the future path of time
No evil tongue can thee malign,
But all unite in praise sublime
Of thee, Victoria.
And gray-haired sires in the shades
Shall tell to youthful lads and maids
How all men's tongues for five decades
Sang—tibi gloria.

IV.

All honor to our noble Queen.
Let all unite in one glad pean
To her whose shield is as the sheen
Of spotless truth.
May God see fit our Queen to spare
For many years our joys to share,
And then the spotless robe to wear—
Eternal youth.

Manslaughter.

[illegible] in Toronto on a charge of having caused the death of John Crowe, aged 12.

Paris Exhibition.

PARIS, June 8.—It is said the Government contemplate postponing the Paris Exhibition, which was to have been held in 1890.

Blaine and O'Brien.

NEW YORK, June 8.—Mr. and Mrs. Jesam G. Blaine and their daughters and Mr. Wm. O'Brien sailed for Europe to-day.

Smallpox Raging.

CHICAGO, June 8.—Two new cases of smallpox were reported from the infected house on Clark street to-day. The district is one of the most densely populated in the city.

The Dead Identified.

KINGSTON, June 8.—James Perkins was the man killed on the Grand Trunk Railway at Collins' Bay on Tuesday morning His remains were identified here to-day. He went to sleep on the track while intoxicated. His home was near Deseronto.

Off the Track.

OTTAWA, June 7.—The down freight train on the Canada Atlantic ran off the track at Greenfield last evening and delayed the up passenger train for some time. Judge Armstrong, of Montreal, was one of the passengers. Six freight cars were derailed and some damage done. The line is now clear.

Hon. Mr. Mercier Banqueted.

NEW YORK, June 8.—The banquet given last evening at Delmonico's to Hon. Honore Mercier, Premier of Quebec, was a representative political, legal, mercantile and religious gathering. Brief speeches were made by Erastus Wiman, Judge Gildersleeve and others. Reciprocity between the United States and Canada was the chief topic of discussion, and was earnestly advocated by Hon Mr. Mercier.

Children Burned to Death.

KINGSTON, Ont., June 8.—Last night about eleven o'clock the house of A. Brown, near Bedford, on the Kingston and Pembroke Railway, was burned to the ground. Four children, between the ages of three and nine, were burned to death, and Mr. and Mrs. Brown escaped in their night clothes. Every effort made to save the children was unavailing. The bodies were buried to-day in Verona Cemetery.

The Monopoly Defended.

WINNIPEG, June 8.—In the Legislature, last night, Hon. Mr. Murray, Conservative member for Assiniboia, defended the Canadian Pacific Railway, and said it had done much good to the country by lowering the prices of the necessaries of life. He compared the prices now and some years ago before the railway was built. He said the cry of monopoly was a bugbear and a humbug, and should be stopped. For this remark he was hissed from the public galleries.

Burglary at Newcastle.

NEWCASTLE, June 8.—Burglars broke into the Rev. Mr. Drummond's house last night through a front window and stole about $7 in silver. While they were in Mrs. Drummond's bedroom she heard them, but thinking it a dream, she went to sleep again. They did not discover their loss till this morning. Mrs. Drummond's waking up scared the robbers away. Mr. Drummond and his daughter are absent from the manse, having started on a trip to Europe. There is no clue to the visitants.

LONDON, June 8.—Very little anxiety is felt in diplomatic circles over the protests on the part of France and Russia to the proposed Egyptian convention.

Just arrived at Turnbull's, Gobelin and Drab Cashmeres with handsome trimmings to match, correct shades for the season.

LATEST CABLE NEWS.

ANOTHER MINING DISASTER.

BERLIN, June 8.—An explosion occurred to-day in a coal pit at Gelsenkirchen, a town in Westphalia. Forty-one bodies have been taken out, and it is believed that there are still twelve bodies in the pit.

THE VENUE CLAUSE.

LONDON, June 8.—The News believes that the Government has abandoned the venue clause of the Crimes bill in favor of a clause providing for trial by a commission of Judges, one of whom must be English.

RENT TROUBLES.

DUBLIN, June 8.—Captain Vandaleur offers his Kilrush tenants reductions of 15 to 25 per cent. in rents. The tenants, who have adopted the plan of campaign, demand reductions of 25 to 40 per cent., and have commenced barricading their houses in anticipation of attempts to evict them.

THE LAND BILL.

LONDON, June 8.—It is expected that the Irish Land bill will reach the House of Commons next week, and that the Government will ask the second reading thereof before taking up the final stage of the Crimes bill.

ALSACE-LORRAINE.

BERLIN, June 8.—The Strasburger Post denies semi-officially that Prince Von Hohenlohe will resign the Governor-Generalship of Alsace-Lorraine.

THE MAHDI.

CAIRO, June 8.—The Mahdi, at a recent council of war at Omdermann, decided to refrain from making an attack on the frontier, because such hostilities would prolong the English occupation of Egypt.

UNIVERSAL SUFFRAGE.

PARIS, June 8.—At a meeting yesterday, the extreme left adopted M. Laborder's proposal to elect the senate by universal suffrage, and it was decided to submit the proposal to the radical left with a view to joint action.

THE THISTLE.

LONDON, June 8.—It is stated that the owner of the yacht Thistle intends to make certain alterations in her before competing for the America's cup.

DUEL AT PARIS.

PARIS, June 8.—M. Arene, a member of the Chamber of Deputies, challenged M. Mayer, [illegible] of La Lanterne for an attack through [illegible] paper on the Corsicans. M. Mayer accepted the challenge and the duel was fought yesterday. Ms. Clemenceau and Lockroy acted as seconds for Mayer, and M. Reinach, editor of La Republique, and Deputy Mertion appeared in the same capacity for M. Arene. Swords were the weapons. Mayer was slightly wounded in the hand and arm. M. Clemenceau dined with General Boulanger last night.

A BICYCLIST'S MISHAP.

LONDON, June 8.—Temple, the American bicyclist, met with a painful accident yesterday while practising on the track at Coventry. He was going at top speed when his machine broke and he was thrown heavily to the ground. He was severly cut and bruised.

DISTRESSING EVICTIONS.

DUBLIN, June 8.—The gunboat Banterer took the sheriff of County Clare and a body of police to Clare Island, where they evicted twelve tenants. The scenes witnessed while the writs of eviction were being executed were deplorable.

GERMAN CROWN PRINCE.

BERLIN, June 8.—If the result of Dr. Mackenie's examination of the Crown Prince's throat is favorable, the Prince will start for London on Saturday. From there he will go to the Isle of Wight, where he will make quite a long stay.

BRITISH POLITICS.

LONDON, June 8.—Mr. Parnell's conference with Mr. Morley and Sir Charles Russell resulted in the adoption by the Irish leader of the Gladstonian tactics of opposition. The Gladstonian leaders will meet to-day or Thursday and go carefully over the amendments to the Crimes Bill, and expunge all that are redundant. The Government will, for the present, continue the method of cloture adopted prior to the holidays. The Cabinet will meet at the end of the week to decide whether to propose an urgency motion. Mr. Chamberlain will address the Liberal Unionists next Tuesday, when he will deal with Mr. Gladstone's speeches in Wales.

O'BRIEN CONGRATULATED.

DUBLIN, June 8.—At a meeting of the National League yesterday Mr. Clancy congratulated Wm. O'Brien on the success of his mission to Canada, and denounced the flippant language of Lord Lansdowne, which, he said, had incited the outrage on Mr. O'Brien. A resolution of the executive committee, endorsing Mr. O'Brien's action in regard to the labor meeting in New York, was read and approved.

THE QUEEN'S JUBILEE GUESTS.

LONDON, June 8.—The Queen's jubilee guests will occupy all the royal and many aristocratic private residences in London. Large calls are being made upon the leading hotels. The Queen will move her court to Windsor on June 16 and to London on June 20. Already elaborate preparations are being made to illuminate the public buildings.

A MEDDLER DEPOSED.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 8.—An order has been issued removing General Bogdanonitsch from his post in the Russian service. The removal is due to the fact that on his recent visit to Paris the General made efforts to promote a Franco-Russian alliance.

ANGLO-TURKISH CONVENTION.

PARIS, June 8.—The Government has informed French ambassadors abroad that France cannot assent to the Anglo-Turkish convention except as a basis for negotiations.

THE IMPERIAL TRIO.

LONDON, June 8.—The Standard's Berlin correspondent telegraphs that he is informed on reliable authority that a meeting of the three Emperors is likely to occur soon.

RISE IN COTTON.

MANCHESTER, June 8.—The Guardian says:—The effect of the latest rise in cotton at Liverpool will undoubtedly be to cause a further curtailment of the consumption of cotton. The opinion is held that a further advance in cotton will be absolutely beneficial, as it will hasten the closing of the mills and the adoption of the short time movement. There is no sign of improvement in business, or even in the current demand at low prices.

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC.

At the time of selling our stock of Dry Goods to Sheehy & Co., we had fully determined to give up that particular branch of our business, but as previously announced, did not do so, for various reasons. However it is now our intention to dispose of the Dry Goods Trade, and have consequently made up our mind to clear out the whole stock

AT COST PRICE AND UNDER.

This is one of the BEST Dry Goods stocks in the country, having been imported from the best markets direct to ourselves. Remember, this will be a GENUINE CLEARING OUT SALE. While we will still retain our Clothing Trade, yet we will during this sale, offer ALL our Ready-made Clothing, for Men and Boys, (with all kinds of Furnishings) at COST PRICE. Remember the whole Dry Goods Stock must be sold.

The Daily Review

THURSDAY, JUNE 9, 1887.

TRENT VALLEY NAVIGATION.

THE Monetary Times has before now displayed its prejudice against the Trent Valley Navigation, a prejudice which evidently, as is often the case, springs from gross ignorance of the subject. In its present issue it renews its unwarranted attack as follows:—

"The portion of the Trent Valley Canal works, now in hand, is to be completed this year. A party of engineers is to be sent out to report on the balance of the work on the route. When the Hon. H. Killaly was Chief Engineer of the Government, he reported strongly against the whole scheme, and we cannot help thinking that he was in the right. Starting from Lake Ontario you go a long distance up the Trent, and then find yourself provokingly near the point where you set out. We fear that what has been done had a political motive, with no result to justify the expenditure. But even now it would be better to abandon the work than go on with it; for it finished it would serve no purpose adequate to the cost."

In its remarks upon the route the Monetary Times displays disgraceful ignorance of the geography of its own Province. Such ignorance is most disgraceful, for it might be cured by a glance at any map of Ontario, and it is nothing short of dishonest to condemn an important public improvement without even spending five minutes in getting an idea of its geography. It is a barefaced falsehood to say that after going a long distance from the starting point on Lake Ontario you "find yourself provokingly near the point where you set out," for there is no instance of the course winding so as to approach nearer the starting point. The truth is that the route is so nearly direct as to save many miles in the distance between Lake Huron and Lake Ontario.

As to any old time reports against the route, they were founded on the erroneous supposition that there would be a deficient water supply for the highest level. A more thorough knowledge of the country long ago exploded that mistaken idea, for there is such a net work of lakes draining into Balsam lake (the summit level) that water enough to float a royal navy could be stored. This is plainly shown by the able and full report of Mr. Stark, C. E., who also showed how cheap, efficacious and advantageous the route would be, avoiding dangers and saving time and distance.

Our contemporary's statement that the work "if finished would serve no purpose adequate to the cost," is as erroneous as its other imaginings. It would avoid all the dangers of Lakes St. Clair, Erie and Ontario, with their connecting links. It would greatly shorten the distance from the Northwest to our great ports by saving the detour by the peninsula of South western Ontario. It would be to Montreal what the Erie canal is to New York, and that mere ditch in comparison conveys to that city more grain than all its railways combined. It will, in fact, be a short safe and inexpensive route.

We regret that there should be a prospect of a year's delay in carrying out the promises made years ago and constantly reiterated by the Government of pushing forward this great improvement. Those promises, we hope, will be fulfilled by a supplementary estimate for a new section. We have, however, not the slightest fear that a delay, if it takes place, would mean abandonment, for the merits of the route are so great that if a commission of fair minded men is appointed they cannot fail to report that the cost would be a mere trifle as compared with the advantage to our country.

Some years ago Sir Charles Tupper and other Ministers who examined the route for themselves were fully convinced of its feasibility and advantages. The work since then has been steadily advanced though not so rapidly as we might have desired. The present difficulty and previous tardiness, seem to have arisen from lukewarmness on the part of scientific officials at the head of the department whose interest was so engrossed by the great works on the main line of the St. Lawrence as to make them grudge money, time or trouble spent on another canal which they deemed of secondary importance. Yet, the Trent Valley Canal would be a feeder of inestimable value to our own ports, while the Welland Canal has so far proved a very costly feeder of United States ports, to the prejudice, rather than benefit, of our own. Unfortunately, too, the Minister of Railways and Canals is far more conversant with railway matters than canals, so that he has naturally been at the mercy of the dawdling and extravagant methods adopted by his scientific advisers in regard to the Trent Valley Canal. Annoying and dispiriting as is the present delay, it may have the compensation of clearing up the whole matter and placing it on a proper basis, when success must be assured.

IT may not be out of place to call the attention of the members of the Bay of Quinte Conference to the fact that Toronto papers published the first draft of stations for the Toronto Conference over twenty-four hours before the Conference met, so great was the lack of interest felt in this draft by the ministers and Methodist people. At the Bay Conference the officers (acting conscientiously, and it may be properly,) refused to allow the Peterborough papers to publish the first draft on the evening before the Conference assembled, although courteously furnishing a copy to be published after the Conference met. The result was that the Toronto papers published the draft on the morning of the first session and ahead of the local papers. The officers acted in accordance with a custom which was considered law, but which the action of the Toronto Conference seems to show is not law. Would it not be advisable, if this be the case, for the Bay of Quinte Conference officials to allow the local papers where the sessions are held to publish the list as soon as prepared, or at least the evening before the Conference meets, and thus give the papers within the bounds of the Conference and where they assemble, the preference, in place of giving outside papers an advantage? We submit this for their consideration, knowing that it will be courteously considered and believing that that the suggestion is a proper one that will be acted on.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Prorogation Near at Hand—No Voters List Revision—Counterfeit Money—P. E. I. Subsidy—Trade With France and Spain.

PROROGATION.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD moved that the House sit on Saturday to expedite business. In reply to an Opposition enquiry he said that he hoped they might prorogue on Saturday, June 18.

VOTERS' LISTS.

Mr. THOMPSON, in reply to Mr. Charlton, said they would proceed with the bill to defer revisions of the voters' lists.

[illegible]

INTEREST.

Mr. THOMPSON introduced a bill to provide for payment of interest by the Crown.

DEFACING FALSE MONEY

Mr THOMPSON moved the House into Committee on his bill as to defacing counterfeit money.

Mr. MILLS objected to the clause providing a penalty for advertisement in the form of a note.

Mr. THOMPSON said it was to protect illiterate persons who were sometimes defrauded.

The bill was reported and read a third time.

CONTROVERTED ELECTIONS.

Mr. THOMPSON moved the House into Committee on his bill for the divisions of election cases among the courts.

Mr. MILLS advocated trial by two judges.

Mr. THOMPSON declined to make so great a change in the law.

The bill was reported and read a third time.

Several other bills received their third reading.

P. E. I. SUBSIDY.

Sir C. TUPPER moved the House into Committee on the resolution to increase the P. E. I. subsidy by $20,000 a year. He explained that it was in consequence of the Island not having been benefitted like other Provinces by railway expenditure.

Sir R. CARTWRIGHT thought there would be a continuation of these demands, and that the whole question should be settled on a comprehensive basis.

Mr. DAVIES said he was not satisfied.

Sir C. TUPPER offered to oblige him by withdrawing the resolution.

Mr. DAVIES said he was dissatisfied because he thought the grant should be larger, as the Island had built its own railway.

Mr. WALSH was of the same mind.

The resolution was adopted and a bill was introduced.

TRADE WITH FRANCE.

Mr. AMYOT, on motion to go into Supply, advocated further efforts to increase our trade relations with France.

Mr. CHAPLEAU described the efforts that had been already made.

Sir R. CARTWRIGHT thought they had not been very successful.

Sir C. TUPPER said that arrangements had been made for a line of steamers between France and Canada, and the first vessel had already sailed. He also described the promising stage of the negotiations with Spain.

SUPPLY.

The House went into Committee of Supply and passed a number of items.

GENERAL.

The civil servants at Ottawa intend asking the Government to grant them a special bonus in honor of the Jubilee year.

The Queen will discard her black attire at the Jubilee ceremony. She will wear a pale mauve dress, trimmed with lace and a purple velvet train.

The Governor General and Lady Lansdowne will go on a fishing trip to Metapedia at the close of the session, afterwards visiting the citadel at Quebec.

A special cable says emigration to British North America is still increasing. In May 7,723 persons emigrated thither, against 5,299 in May of last year.

The operatives of the Montreal Cotton Company's mill at Valleyfield, numbering over five hundred, are on strike, with no likelihood of a speedy settlement.

The report of the Meteorological Department shows that last month was the warmest May on record at the Toronto observatory and the driest with the exception of 1850.

The Government has decided that all bona fide orders of goods given by merchants prior to May 13, including goods in warehouses, may be entered at the old rate of duty until July 1.

It is rumoured in Montreal political circles that Mr. Coursol, M. P., has been offered a seat in the Dominion Cabinet in view of the reported resignation of Mr. Chapleau, and that Mr. Girouard, M. P., will be asked to accept it if Mr. Coursol refuses.

A daring robbery was perpetrated on Monday morning in the Montreal postoffice, a package containing from twenty to twenty-five registered letters being abstracted through the wicket of the registry office while the clerks' backs were momentarily turned. The thief got safely away with his booty, and so far no clue has been obtained.

"Heaven is not reached at a single bound," sung Dr. Holland, and the same may be said of health. But many a sick person would make rapid strides in the direction of complete health by using Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It is a sovereign remedy for all forms of scrofulous diseases, king's evil, tumors, white swellings, fever-sores, scrofulous sore eyes, as well as for other blood and skin diseases.

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

Horsford's Acid Phosphate.

AS A TONIC.

Dr. John Gerdine, Athens, Ga., says: "In dyspepsia, accompanied with prostration from mental overwork, I think it is a fine tonic."

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

To the Sufferers from Consumption

Scrofula and General Debility, will try Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil, with hypophosphites, they will find immediate relief and a permanent benefit. Dr. H. V. Mott, Brentwood Cal., writes: "I have used Scott's Emulsion with great advantage in cases of Phthisis, Scrofula and Wasting Diseases. It is very palatable." Put up in 50c and $1 size.

EPPS'S COCOA
BREAKFAST.

"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there was a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

JESS.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," etc

Sanje counted on his fingers for some seconds, and then held up his hand and opened it four times in succession. "So," he said, "twenty years last winter. Baas Frank was young then; he had only a little down upon his chin. One year, when Om Jacob went away, after the first rains, he left six oxen that were too poor (thin) to go with my father, and told him to look after them as though they were his children. But the oxen were bewitched. Three of them took the lungsick and died, a lion got one, a snake killed one, and one ate 'tulip' and died too. So when Om Jacob came back the next year all the oxen were gone. He was very angry with my father, and beat him with a yoke strap till he was all blood, and, though we showed him the bones of the oxen, he said that we had stolen them and sold them.

"Now, Om Jacob had a beautiful span of black oxen that he loved like children. Sixteen of them were there, and they would come up to the yoke when he called them and put down their heads of themselves. They were tame as dogs. These oxen were thin when they came down, but in two months they got fat and began to want to trek about as oxen do. At this time there was a Basutu, one of Sequati's people, resting in our hut, for he had hurt his foot with a thorn. When Om Jacob found that the Basutu was there he was very angry, for he said that all Basutus were thieves. So my father told the Basutu that the baas said that he must go away, and he went that night. Next morning the span of black oxen were gone too. The kraal gate was down and they had gone. We hunted all day, but we could not find them. Then Om Jacob got mad with rage, and the young Baas Frank told him that one of the Kaffir boys had said to him that he had heard my father sell them to the Basutu for sheep which he was to pay to us in the summer. It was a lie, but Baas Frank hated my father because of something about a woman—a Zulu girl. Next morning, when we were asleep, just at daybreak, Om Jacob Muller and Baas Frank and two Kaffirs came into the hut and pulled us out, the old man, my uncle, my father, my mother and myself, and tied us up to four mimosa trees, with buffalo reims. Then the Kaffirs went away, and Om Jacob asked my father where the cattle were, and my father told him that he did not know. Then he took off his hat and said a prayer to the Big Man in the sky, and when he had done Baas Frank came up with a gun, and stood quite close and shot my father dead, and he fell forward and hung quite over the reim, his head touching his feet. Then he loaded the gun again and shot the old man, my uncle, and he slipped down dead, and his hands stuck up in the air against the reim. Next he shot my mother, but the bullet did not kill her, and cut the reim, and she ran away, and he ran after her and killed her. When that was done he came back to shoot me; but I was young then and did not know that it is better to be dead than to live like a dog, and I begged and prayed for mercy while he was loading the gun.

"But the baas only laughed, and said he would teach Hottentots how to steal cattle, and old Om Jacob prayed out loud to the Big Man and said he was very sorry for me, but it was the dear Lord's will. And then, just as Baas Frank lifted the gun he dropped it again, for there, coming softly, softly over the brow of the hill, in and out between the bushes, were all the sixteen oxen. They had got out in the night and strayed away into some kloof for a change of pasture, and come back when they were full and tired of being alone. Om Jacob turned quite white and scratched his head, and then fell upon his knees and thanked the dear Lord for saving my life; and just then the English woman, Baas Frank's mother, came down from the wagon to see what the firing was at, and when she saw all the people dead and me weeping, tied to the tree, and learned what it was about, she went quite mad, for sometimes she had a kind heart when she was not drunk, and said that a curse would fall on them, and that they would all die in blood. And she took a knife and cut me loose, though Baas Frank wanted to kill me, so that I might tell no tales; and I ran away, travelling by night and hiding by day, for I was very much frightened, till I got to Natal, and there I stopped, working in Natal till the land became English, when Baas Croft hired me to drive his cart up from Maritzburg; and living by here I found Baas Frank, looking bigger but just the same except for his beard.

"There, baas, that is the truth, and all the truth, and that is why I hate Baas Frank, because he shot my father and mother, and why Baas Frank hates me, because he cannot forget that he did it and I saw him do it, for, as our people say, 'one always hates a man one has wounded with a spear;'" and having finished his narrative, the miserable looking little man picked up his greasy old felt hat, that had a leather strap fixed round the crown, in which were stuck a couple of frayed ostrich feathers, and jammed it down over his ears, and then fell to drawing circles on the soil with his long toes. His auditors only looked at one another. Such a ghastly tale seemed to be beyond comment. They never doubted its truth; the man's way of telling it carried conviction with it. And, indeed, two of them at any rate, had heard such stories before. Most people have who live in the wilder parts of South Africa, though they are not all to be taken for gospel.

"You say," remarked old Silas, at last, "that the woman said that a curse would fall on them and that they would die in blood? She was right. Twelve years ago Om Jacob and his wife were murdered by a party of Mapoch's Kaffirs, down on the edge of that very Lydenburg veldt. There was a great noise about it at the time, I remember, but nothing came of it. Baas Frank was not there. He was away shooting buck; so he escaped and inherited all his father's farms and cattle and came to live here."

"So," said the Hottentot, without showing the slightest interest or surprise. "I knew it would be so, but I wish I had been there to see it. I saw that there was a devil in the woman, and that they would die as she said. When there is a devil in people they always speak the truth, because they can't help it. Look, baas, I draw a circle in the sand with my foot, and I say some words so, and at last the ends touch. There, that is the circle of Om Jacob and his wife the Englishwoman. The ends have touched and they are dead. An old witch doctor taught me to draw the circle of a man's life and what words to say. And now I draw another of Baas Frank. Ah! there is a stone sticking up in the way. The ends will not touch. But now I work and work and work with my foot, and say the words and say the words, and so—the stone comes up and the ends touch now. So it is with Baas Frank. One day the stone will come up and the ends will touch, and he, too, will die in blood. The devil in the Englishwoman said so, and devils cannot lie or speak half the truth only. And now, look, I rub my foot over the circles and they are gone, and there is only the path again. That means that when they have died in blood they will be quite forgotten and stamped out. Even their graves will be flat," and he wrinkled up his yellow face into a smile, or rather a grin, and then added in a matter offact way: "Does the baas wish the gray mare to have one bundle of green forage or two?"

To be Continued.

FENELON FALLS.

THE LOCK GATES.—The three pairs of gates in the Government locks in this village are now finished, all but the painting, which has been interrupted by the rain, but, should the weather permit, the last brushful will probably be put on at the end of the week, and then as soon as the paint dries the gates will be ready for use. We have before spoken of the immense amount of material used in their construction, and we have lately learned that the centre pair alone—which, however, are the largest—weigh very nearly fifty tons. The total cost is about $10,000, which makes each gate, including the machinery for working it, equal in value to a good-sized, well-finished dwelling house on a stone foundation, with a roomy kitchen and good woodshed. They appear to be, and no doubt are, a credit to Mr. Wynn, the contractor, and his staff of employees.—Gazette.

HARVEY.

From Our Own Correspondent.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Harvey Council met at the Town Hall on the 30th of May. Members all present. A Court of Revision was formed, after making and subscribing the required oaths. There was only four appeals: Mrs. Hunter's property at Hall's Bridge was lowered $200, the assessment of Thomas Esson was reduced $200, Lewis Winter's assessment was raised to $100, F. J. Bell's lot 5, con 13, was reduced $100. The roll was then passed by the Court, and the members resumed in Council on general business. An order was drawn on the Treasurer in favor of James Richmond for his salary as Assessor, $40. The following sums were granted for roads: North Harvey, $150; South Harvey, $150, and East Harvey, $100. Some alterations were made [illegible] and the Council adjourned to meet at Scott's Mills on the first Monday in July next.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

It is so hot!—Let's go to ROWSE'S for some of those $3.00 parasols they are advertising for $1.50. They say they are lovely goods.

Explanation.

J. J. Sheehy's card to the public appears in this edition of the REVIEW on the first page.

Decoration.

The Golden Lion dry goods house is preparing to decorate and illuminate on June 21st. Something elaborate may be looked for.

Pretty.

The little park at the Grand Trunk station is looking very pretty. The grass is kept closely cut and the flower beds are laid out with much neatness and taste.

Lawn Social.

The Mission Band of St. Paul's Church intend giving a lawn social at Mr. Wm Hamilton's, Reid street, on Thursday, 23rd instant. Full particulars later.

Prohibition Club.

The Young Men's Prohibition Club will meet in the Commercial College hall this evening. All map interested in temperance work are invited.

For a neat fitting Mantle, Dolman, or Wrap, made and trimmend with the newest materials, call at Turnbull's.

Improvement.

The building occupied by the Lindsay-Seldon Furniture Co. is being covered with corrugated iron painted red. This will add to the appearance of the building, besides being a great protection in case adjacent buildings took fire.

Prints! Prints!

To-day we offer a large assortment of prints, former price 10 and 12½ cents, for 7½ cents. The public may look out for special lines in Dry Goods lower than ever before offered. We can and will do it. H. S. GRIFFIN & Co.

St. Andrew's S. S. Picnic.

The annual picnic of the St. Andrew's Sabbath School will be held on Thursday next (the 16th inst), and will be to Campbelltown by steamer Golden Eye. Fare: children, 20 cents; adults, 35 cents. The Golden Eye will leave the Peterborough wharf at 8.30 a. m. sharp.

One of the heaviest waves of cheap dress goods that ever struck Peterborough is now on sale at Turnbull's. Forty different patterns to select from at only 12½ cents a yard.

The Wheel.

The Norwood Register says:—"Mr. A. Gibson, the champion bicyclist of Peterborough, paid Norwood a visit last week. Although the roads were both muddy and rough he succeeded in making the trip in two hours and three-quarters. Distance, 20 miles."

Cutlass Exercise.

An exhibition of navy cutlass exercise was given in St. John's Church School room on Tuesday evening. Mr. Cocks, late of the Royal Navy, who drilled the boys, was in charge. Twelve lads, dressed in neat sailor's suits and armed with tin swords, went through the various movements with great credit. Several ladies and gentlemen assisted in rendering vocal and instrumental music.

WHO sells the cheapest? A visit to ROWSE'S Trade Palace answers the question. $1.50 silks for $1.00, $1.25 silks for 84 cents, 75 cent silks for 49 cents at ROWSE'S.

Incidental Excursions.

The Railway and Steamboat Committee in connection with the Oddfellows Demonstration Committee have made arrangements to run incidental excursions during the demonstration. An excursion will be run on the Golden Eye up the river on August 10th for the benefit of those who wish to visit Peterborough, and on the 11th one will be run down the river to Idyl Wild for the benefit of the Oddfellows. On the same day an excursion will be run to Stoney Lake, where the visitors will have an opportunity of seeing the A. C. A. Camp. The committee have arranged with the Grand Trunk and all of the boats plying between Lakefield and the lake. Cheap fares are to be issued for both excursions.

Hunt's Brick trowels and the Cincinnati Plastering Trowels are noted for their excellent quality. Plastering and Kalsoming Brushes up to 100 for sale by GEORGE STETHEM.

Go to H. S. Griffin for Parasols; great reduction in prices.

Arrested.

John Dwyer was arrested this forenoon on a charge of thieving flowers from the Horticultural Gardens.

On Saturday Night.

The general committee in charge of the Jubilee celebration will meet in the Firemen's Hall on Saturday evening.

Want it Repeated.

Mr. Cocks has been requested to repeat the exhibition of naval cutlas exercise given in St. John's Church school room on Tuesday evening. It will probably be repeated.

Orillia's Celebration.

Orillia's Jubilee celebration is announced by large posters on the Peterborough bill boards. We like to know what our neighbors in the north are doing, and are pleased to see that they are going to have a celebration, but they cannot expect to draw people from this vicinity on that day. Peterborough is going to have a celebration that will not only keep the townspeople at home, but will also attract many visitors.

Turnbull's tailoring department is a grand success. Suits made to order from $12 to $16 out of choice patterns.

Wm. Gilbert's Death.

The following has been sent to the REVIEW for publication:—

"We, the undersigned medical practitioners, having made a careful examination of the body of the late Wm. Gilbert, hereby certify that, owing to the amount of decomposition, and the fact that a post mortem examination had already been made by surgeons in St. Paul, U.S., we are unable to ascertain the true cause of death.

"R. W. BELL, M.D.

"Peterborough, 6th June, 1887."

Masonic Excursion.

The Masonic jubilee excursion left the Grand Trunk Station this morning precisely at 7.32. The train arrived from Campbellford and Hastings a few minutes previous, with about one hundred people on board. There were nearly two hundred and fifty Peterborough people armed with excursion tickets waiting on the platform and in the station. With these on board the train started and made first rate time until Lindsay was reached. Here the Company had to take on another [illegible] crowd. The train consisting of seven coaches, carrying about 500 people, when Toronto was reached at 11 o'clock.

Go to KIDD'S for your goat boots, your kid boots, for your cow boots, your calf boots and for all your boots.

Paralysis.

Mr. W. J. Mason's many friends will learn with regret that he is suffering from the effects of a stroke of paralysis. On Tuesday evening Mr Mason was in his grocery store alone. Mrs. Greatrix entered and left an order for some groceries to be sent to her house. To his surprise Mr. Mason found himself unable to return an answer. He then went to put his right hand in his vest pocket to get his pencil, but the hand refused to obey. He then got the pencil with his left hand and tried to grasp it with his right hand without success. Mrs. Greatrix did not know what was the matter, and wondering what it could be left the the store. In a minute or two Mr. Mason slightly recovered himself and went out the back way to Mr. Clegg's store. Mr. Clegg was at the back end of the store. On entering Mr. Mason tried to say that he was poorly, but he said it in such a thick voice that Mr. Clegg thought he was trying to mimic some one. On closer observation Mr. Clegg saw that the left side of Mr. Mason's face was drawn up and that his right hand was rigid. He helped Mr. Mason back to the store and called a cab to drive him home. Dr. FMe was called. The stroke which was only a light one is passing away. On Wednesday evening he was out of bed and to-day is doing well.

Fares.

Mr. McNeil has received from the Grand Trunk Railway Company a statement of the return fares to be charged the general public on that line during the Oddfellow's demonstration. The fares from the different points to Peterborough and return are as follows:—

THE only place in town where you can get black, colored and opera shades in kid gloves at 25 cents is ROWSE'S Trade Palace. They are selling ladies' 4 button opera kid gloves, Josephine, for 50 cents, really worth $1.25.

SMITH.

From Our Own Correspondent.

COURT OF REVISION.—The Council of the township of Smith met as a Court of Revision on the assessment roll of 1887 on Monday, May 30th. The Clerk reported two appeals, namely, Jos. Nugent, overcharge on personal property, and E. Strickland, overcharge on real property, but neither of the appellants appearing the assessments were confirmed. After making several changes in the roll as to property which had changed hands since the assessment was made the roll was finally passed by the court and certified by the Clerk.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Council met in session after Court of Revision. A grant of $8 was made to S. D. No. 76. The Clerk was instructed to notify all parties known to have taken sand from the road allowance where the Communication road strikes Mud Lake, at 15 cents per load, and all parties neglecting or refusing to settle for the same are to be prosecuted. The Treasurer was instructed to settle with the Superintendent of Nicholls Hospital for care of Mrs. Stuart. Messrs. Middleton and McIlmoyl were appointed to examine the road on the 6th con. line in regard to closing a culvert thereon and to report to this Council at the next meeting. The sum of $30 32 was allowed the Collector as abatement on his roll of 1886, $5 of which is for statute labour shown to have been performed, and $18 45 is to be returned to County Treasurer to be charged against land. Mr. Garbutt was appointed to examine a portion of 15th con. line and report to this Council as to probable cost of draining a pond thereon. The Council then adjourned till Monday, the 8th August.

HONOR ROLL.—The following is the report of S. S. No. 4, Smith, for May, 1887. Miss M. S. McDonald, teacher:—

Number on roll, 40. Average daily attendance, 30.

Tablet Class—1st Hiram J. Fredenburgh, 2nd Fred Fredenburgh, 3rd Braden Fitzgerald.

Second Class—Marks obtainable, 200—1st Lulu Rosborough 165, 2nd Harry Davidson 115.

Third Class—All examined took less than 50 per cent. of marks obtainable.

Fourth Class—Marks obtainable, 450—1st Robert Davidson 261, 2nd Florence Davidson 253, 3rd J. W. Fitzgerald 231.

Go to H. S. Griffin & Co's for Millinery; prices away down.

WE buy our hosiery at ROWSE'S Trade Palace. You can get all colors and blacks and the price suits every time.

BUCKHORN.

From Our Own Correspondent.

PRESENTATION.—Last week the people of Buckhorn presented the Rev. A. L. Adam with a well filled purse as a mark of their high appreciation of his services as a Christian Minister during the past year. Mr. Adam was surprised to find that so much hard cash could be got out of the hard rocks of Harvey, and thinks that the hearts of the people can by no means partake of the nature of the country in which they live. In speaking of the kindness of the people Mr. Adam expressed himself in the warmest sentiments.

THE Improved Health Corset suits every time. You can get them at ROWSE'S.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we life in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d90

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC

FROM

J. J. SHEEHY

I beg to say that contrary to announcements which appeared in the Peterborough papers for the past two months, I DO NOT intend to remove to T. Dolan & Co's Dry Goods Store, nor have I any connections whatever with that establishment. The final arrangements not being satisfactory to me, I withdrew from the projected change, and intend carrying on the Dry Goods business in my usual stand next to Loch's Hat Store.

It is my intention in the future as in the past to show at all seasons nothing but new and fresh goods in the various lines of Dry Goods and Gent's Furnishings; and by doing so, hope to retain the confidence which I am proud to say, I have enjoyed from the public since commencing business two years ago.

ESCAPED FROM SALT LAKE.

Two English Young Women Flee from Mormondom.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Eleanor Paston, a young woman, who, with a companion named Amelia Clegg, was taken from Cornwall, England, to Salt Lake City by Elder Bascom a month ago, arrived here last night. When the girls reached Salt Lake City they were taken to the house of Elder Bascom. Bascom had three wives, the principal one of whom was called Hannah. She was a gray-haired women. When the elder announced his intention of sealing to himself the two new converts, Hannah became jealous and angry.

Both the converts objected to becoming members of the elder's household. So one night they tied together some clothing and lowered themselves out of the window. Elder Wells, who sides with the Government, aided them to escape and put them on board a train bound for the east. They related their story to the passengers and a purse was taken up for them. At Omaha Miss Clegg left the train with a lady who promised her a situation, while Eleanor remained on the train until it reached Jersey City. Miss Paston is of bright intellect. She says she had no idea of the intention of Bascom to marry her until she reached Salt Lake. She has been sent to friends in Williamsburgh.

EXPLOSION.

A Vulcanizer Blows Itself to Pieces—Mr. Nimmo Hurt.

This forenoon at about 11 o'clock the the window in the workshop connected with Mr. R. Nimmo's dental rooms, George street, was suddenly blown out with a great crash. A dense cloud of smoke burst out and glass went flying in all directions.

The merchants in the vicinity ran up stairs expecting to see someone killed, but instead of that they found Mr. Nimmo coolly washing the blood from his right hand.

The explosion was caused by the vulcanizer, a machine used to harden rubber, getting up a too high temperature. Mr. Nimmo was operating at the chair, and the vulcanizer was in the adjoining workshop. He went in to look at it and found that the temperature was too high. He reached out his hand to turn down the flame when off it went. He was stunned for the moment but soon recovered. Finding his hand bleeding he went to the lavatory and was there found by those who crowded in. Mr. Nimmo suffered more from the shock than he appeared to have suffered. While the people were standing around asking questions he sank to the floor in a faint. He was carried out into the reception room and laid on a sofa. Dr. Clarke was called and Mr. Nimmo soon regained consciousness. He was then driven home.

It is fortunate that Mr. Nimmo stood apart from the machine when turning down flame. Had he stood over it he would have surely been killed, as it flew up and went through the ceiling. The tools in the work shop are thrown into confusion. The instrument Mr. Nimmo had in his hand was buried in the wall.

The injuries Mr. Nimmo sustained are not serious. He suffered from the shock and his right hand is hurt. A week or so should suffice to make him all right again. It is indeed fortunate that he escaped so well.

The Whisky Supply.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 9.—At a meeting of Kentucky distillers to-day a resolution recommending the cessation of the production of whisky until Oct. 1st, 1888, was adopted. An officer of the association stated that there were now in bond in Kentucky 30,000,000 gallons of whisky, of which 18,000,000 gallons were distilled in the last year. There are 5,000,000 gallons in foreign ports belonging to Kentucky men, and all this makes a supply great enough to last three years. He thought there would not be a drop of whisky distilled in Kentucky this year.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Resolution for Prohibition—Amendents to Permit Light Wine and Beer, and to Repeal the Scott Act—The Debate Adjourned.

WEDNESDAY, June 8.—Mr. Thompson introduced a bill making some slight corrections in the Representation Act.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Mr. JAMIESON moved his resolution in favor of prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of intoxicating liquors. He stated that he spoke as representative of the Dominion Alliance, which from the large number and character of its members should have great weight. They desired this question of prohibition to be brought before the House, and so before the people of Canada. In the Dominion about $40,000,000 was spent in intoxicating liquor, an amount greater than the revenue of the country. There were 3,000,000 bushels of grain destroyed as regards their natural use as food. Such expenditure diverted into other channels must benefit our trade and commerce. The liquor traffic was also productive of a large amount of crime. It was said that we could not make men sober by act of Parliament, but we could at least desist from making them drunk by act of Parliament. The Scott Act was in force in 60 counties, and was doing good service, but they valued it chiefly as an educating measure, and required prohibition. They wished to prevent the manufacture and importation as well as the sale. It was said that they should wait till public opinion was ripe, but law was a great educator. He would not now discuss compensation. He had much sympathy for those whose interests were involved in the traffic, but he had a far deeper sympathy for those whom it injured.

Mr. FISHER seconded the motion, urging that they should advance further in the principle of restriction. For the public good they admitted that individual liberty had been interfered with. If the Scott Act had not been more successful it was not be cause the law was defective. There were breaches of the law in licensed counties as well as Scott Act counties.

Mr. GIROUARD would favour prohibiting spirits, but believed the use of beer, cider and light wine would promote temperance. Such was the experience of other countries. He moved an amendment that:—

"This House, while admitting that brandy, gin, whiskey and other liquors might be prohibited, is of opinion that the dealing in cider, ale, porter, lager beer, claret and other light wines should be exempt from the operations of the Canada Temperance Act."

The SPEAKER, after discussion, ruled the amendment in order.

Mr. FREEMAN dwelt on the evils of intoxicating liquors and the duty of the House to remove the evil. He denied that the permitting of beer in England had done good. Light drinks only educated in the use of stronger drinks. Thirteen counties in Nova Scotia had adopted the Scott Act out of seventeen and not half as much liquor was sold. In Quebec, also, temperance sentiment was growing.

Mr. CARGILL urged that the Scott Act had been a failure in Bruce. At first liquor was sold secretly, but now openly. He held that the Scott Act interfered improperly with the vested rights of brewers and dealers, and that it was injurious to the growth of that important crop, barley. He moved in amendment to the amendment:—

"Inasmuch as the Canada Temperance Act has not, in those counties in which it has been enforced, resulted in the promotion of the cause of temperance, and the general enforcement of the law has not been attained in consequence of public opinion amongst a large portion of the people not being in favor of the said law, therefore the Canada temperance Act should be repealed."

The SPEAKER after discussion ruled the amendment to the amendment in order.

Mr. PATTERSON (Essex), in seconding Mr. Cargill's amendment, said that the Scott Act was not enforced, and thus was most demoralizing. The marked improvement in the drinking habits of the people was most shown in counties where there was no Scott Act. He would repeal the law, leaving the Provinces to try high licenses and strict enforcement, which he believed would do more for temperance than prohibitory legislation.

Mr. MACDONALD (Huron) quoted statistics to show the amount of crime and other evils caused by drinking. If the Scott Act had been a partial failure at one time, it was now being enforced. He would maintain the Scott Act unless they could obtain prohibition, which he held to be preferrable.

Mr. CURRAN said he would support the platform of the Irish Catholic Temperance Societies that moral suasion was better than prohibition, holding that a strict license system and religious teaching would but promote temperance. He would not keep a law on the statute book that was not enforced.

Mr. FOSTER said but for the amendments he would not have spoken, as he had pronounced in favour of prohibition and had not changed his views. He was so strongly apposed to the admittance of beer and wine that he would give up the Scott Act rather than see it thus mutilated. He strongly supported prohibition from the experience of other countries, and pointed out the growing feeling in favour of it as shown by the declarations of Presbyterian Synods and Methodist Conferences.

Mr. WALDIE claimed that the Scott Act was now enforced and that prohibition, if adopted, would be a success.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD moved the adjournment of the debate till Monday.

Killed by Falling Walls.

A NEW WAR SHIP.

Another Valuable Addition to the Imperial Navy.

LONDON, June 9.—Another large war vessel, the Immortalite, was launched at Chatham yesterday. She is a twin-screw and belted steel cruiser, and was commenced in January, 1886, having thus been less than 18 months in reaching her present state of construction. Her armor belt is 10 inches thick. She is of 5,000 tons displacement, of 8,500 horse-power and is expected to steam eighteen knots. She will carry twelve breech loading guns besides an equipment of Nordenfeldt and torpedoes. The Immortalite is the sister ship of the Australia, the Undaunted and several others. The ceremony of christening was performed by Mrs. Graham, the wife of the Comptroller of the Royal Navy, who was himself present with Prince Leiningen, the Commander-in-Chief of the Nore. As the vessel was being launched her anchor caught in the side of the ship and several workmen narrowly escaped injury from the falling of huge blocks of wood.

THE APACHE OUTBREAK.

Affairs Growing Serious—Alarming Reports of Outrages.

NOGALES, Ariz., June 9.—The Indian outbrake in this territory is assuming serious proportions. The widespread depradations indicate that there are more than 17 bucks as at first reported, on the warpath. The whole country is fired with excitement, and it is feared parties will organize to visit the San Carlos reservation. In such an event there will be great slaughter. Advices of outrages are coming from all directions.

Word has been received at Tucson of the killing of Mike M. Grace and the narrow escape of Billy Williams and Billy Lee from two Apaches at Tompona Gulch, 35 miles south of Crittenden.

The Kingston Dry Dock.

KINGSTON, June 9.—As a public meeting last evening the citizens unanimously endorsed a resolution that in the interest of the existant inland marine, and the encouragement of its further growth, it was important that a dry dock be built in Kingston; that as such a work was beyond private enterprise, they approved of the request made to the Government to construct it, and that as public money could not now be utilized for the purpose they endorsed the proposition that the Government undertake its construction by convict labour. Many citizens spoke emphatically on the subject, showing the great necessity for such a dock, and the meeting by its endorsation of the proposition showed that they were not opposed to the work being done by the convicts. Free labour would not suffer but be benefited by the construction of such works.

Brandon's Chance.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 9.—The Sun, of this city, says that Sir George Stephen wrote to Mr. Cliff, of the Brandon Mail, intimating that if that city were to come out, hold a big pubic meeting, oppose the present agitation, and support disallowance, the Canadian Pacific Railway would build up the city as against Winnipeg. He promised that the company would build an independent branch line from Brandon into South western Manitoba, and further intimated that the principal work shops of the province would be located there, and the work taken away from Winnipeg.

M'Leish's Murderers.

BRODVIEW, N. W. T., June 9.—McLeish's murderers are now believed to be the same as those who murdered McLean. The Gaddys and Rosettes, the principals in the crime, have been long the terror of their neighbors. They were in McLean's vicinity about the time of the murder. The police are still searching in the vicinity of the coulee and are assisted by about thirty Indians and a few half-breeds. Chief Yellow Calf is also assisting. The Mounted Police are pleased with the disposition shown by the Indians in this matter.

Big Strike Expected.

CHICAGO, June 9.—Another strike of large proportions is expected to be inaugurated here on Monday. The carpenters, whose last strike ended less than two months ago, will lay down their tools again and refuse to work unless the employers go back on their determination to re-establish the nine hour working day. The association of the master carpenters include over 300 contractors and employs nearly four-fifths of all the carpenters in Chicago.

Moulders Return to Work.

DETROIT, Mich., June 9.—The moulders returned to work in the Peninsular and Michigan stove works this morning, under an agreement made between the companies and the men yesterday. The "Buck" system will not be enforced, and no able moulder is to employ a helper.

Woman Suffrage in Manitoba.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 9.—The Legislature yesterday passed an amendment to the Municipal Act giving to all women who were property holders the municipal franchise, whether they are married or not. The Legislature will, it is expected, prorogue to-morrow.

A Petition to the Pope.

NEW YORK, June 9.—It is stated that Dr. McGlynn's friends will send a monster petition to the Pope asking him to reinstate the doctor in the parish of St. Stephens, and sufficient funds have been guaranteed to meet the expenses of a delegation to Rome.

The Protestant Cathedral.

NEW YORK, June 9.—Four hundred thousand dollars has thus far been subscribed toward the erection of the Protestant Episcopal Cathedral in New York. D. Willis James, John Jacob Astor and Cornelius Vanderbilt have each given $100,000.

An Obnoxious Clause Dropped.

LONDON, June 9. Lord Hartington and Mr. Chamberlaine had an interview with members of the Government, yesterday, and it is reported that the result was the dropping of the venue clause of the Crimes Bill in favor of a provision for a trial by a commission of judges.

DAVITT MAKES ANOTHER SPEECH.

DUBLIN, June 9.—Michael Davitt made another speech at Bodyke yesterday. He said he had received a letter from Mrs. Davitt, intimating that if he should be arrested she would speak at the evictions. For the last eight years he had counselled moderation. The result had been his imprisonment. A brazen English Government had given the Irish kicks and insults for their moderation. As soon as the Tory blackguards showed moderation he would return the favor.

SS. CASTLEFORD ASHORE.

LONDON, June 9.—The Ss. Castleford, from Montreal for Newcastle, is ashore on the Scilly Islands. It is believed she will prove a total loss. Wreckers are at work removing her cargo. Fourteen bullocks have been landed at the Scilly Isles from the steamer Castleford. All the cattle occupying pens between decks were drowned. The prospect of saving any considerable portion of the cargo is bad.

DUKE OF EDINBURGH HONORED.

ROME, June 9.—King Humbert yesterday conferred upon the Duke of Edinburgh the Insignia of the Order of the Annunciada.

THE HUNGARIAN FLOODS.

VIENNA, June 9.—The inhabitants of Lele, in the flooded district, have been rescued in boats, and are are now camping round Mako, where one thousand men are working with frantic energy at the dykes. The water is within three hundred yards of the town, and the place is doomed unless flood soon subsides. The Government has sent funds to relieve the immediate wants of the sufferers.

THE SUEZ CANAL.

PARIS, June 9.—The annual meeting of the Suez Canal Company was held yesterday. The reports show that the receipts were $1,060,000 less than those of 1885. A dividend was declared of 73½ francs per share. Charles DeLesseps announced that there would be no further reduction of the tariff until the receipts enable the company to pay a dividend of 90 francs per share. The report was adopted. The old directors were re-elected.

THE GOVERNMENT'S DUTY.

LONDON, June 9.—Right Hon. W. H. Smith speaking at the banquet of the Constitutional Union Meeting, He [illegible] of the measures he proposed to adopt regarding the Crimes Bill, but said it was the Government's duty to press forward the bill until a final verdict had been obtained. He gratefully acknowledged the sacrifices by the Unionists in support of the Government.

WILL NOT LET HIM JUMP.

LONDON, June 8.—Lawrence Donovan was arrested on the Westminster Bridge this afternoon while attempting to jump therefrom into the Thames, and was taken to the Bow Street Police Court where he was charged with disosderly conduct. The constable who arrested him testified that Donovan had pulled of his coat and hat and climbed upon the parapet of the bridge when he was seized by two men and dragged to the bridge floor after a severe struggle. An enormous crowd was attracted to the spot by the proceedings. Donovan, in his turn complained to the magistrate that the police had meddled with his affairs. He had wanted to show the public that it was possible for him to jump from the bridge and swim ashore. The magistrate cautioned him against again attempting to jump and discharged him.

PATIENCE COUNSELLED.

DUBLIN, June 9.—United Ireland, Mr. Parnell's organ, urges the Irish people to further patience. The Daily Review

FRIDAY, JUNE 10, 1887.

LEARN FROM OPPONENTS.

WHATEVER views people may hold as to Mr. Wiman's crusade on behalf of the commercial, if not political, annexation of Canada by the United States, he certainly cannot be accused of slothfulness in his campaign. We have just received from him another pamphlet containing documents in favour of commercial union.

The first of these documents is a letter from Mr. R. R. Hitt, a member of the United States Congress from Illinois. Mr. Hitt is a thorough-going advocate of commercial union and puts the case very forcibly from the point of view of his fellow countrymen. But some of his arguments, though very conclusive as to the benefits to be derived by our neighbours from the suggested change, seem to us strong reasons why Canada would lose by the bargain. He says:—

"In a commercial union, with a common tariff and the border free, probably a larger part of the imports of Canada than at present would enter by way of New York and the New England ports, and the receipts at Canadian ports would, of course, correspondingly fall off."

Now it may be very satisfactory to Mr. Hitt, Mr. Wiman and their friends that the United States ports should gain business taken from Canadian ports, but we must confess we fail to see why the shipowners, the importers, the merchants, in fact the whole people of Canada, should be very eager to strip themselves of business in order to hand it over to foreigners.

Again Mr. Hitt says:—

"Everyone would see the benefits of a wider market for our manufacturers and an ampler supply of raw materials."

That is, of course, everyone in the United States would see the benefit of manufacturing Canadian raw materials and selling them at an advanced price to Canadians, reserving all the profits of the lucrative operation. Their manufacturers of course would see the obvious benefit of supplying our markets, their mechanics would see the benefit of earning wages to supply our wants, their farmers would see the benefit of feeding the additional consumers thus [illegible] their carriers by land or water [illegible] see the benefit of being paid by Canadians to carry away their raw materials and to carry them back when manufactured, in short their whole people would see the benefit of gaining profitable business at our expense. But we cannot understand how Canadian manufacturers and mechanics can see the benefit of closed factories and dwindling industries, how Canadian farmers can seen the benefit of losing a profitable home market, how the Canadian people can see the benefit of becoming mere Helots of the people of the United States.

Again Mr. Hitt says:—

"The Manitoba farmers could buy their implements and supplies and sell their crops in St. Paul."

That might be satisfactory to the people of St. Paul, but how would it suit the people of Canada who bought the Northwest, who settled it, who opened communications through it at heavy expense, only, as is suggested, to hand it over to foreigners to profit by it? And how would the farmers of the North-West profit by the abandonment of a policy which has given them implements and supplies from their own people cheaper than they obtained them from foreigners, and has afforded them a better price for their crops than the farmers of the neighboring territories could obtain.

Another statement made by Mr. Hitt is as follows:—

"Receipts from revenue might fairly be divided between the two countries according to population. The rate of revenue now collected by our Government from customs and internal revenue is about $6.07 per inhabitant; that in Canada is about $5.90."

Even if we allow these figures to be correct, which we doubt, it is evident that it would be a bad bargain for Canada to receive an equal share per head from the joint fund. At present we import far more dutiable goods and pay far more duty per head than our neighbours (it is their larger excise bill for whiskey that brings up their total), and with the tariffs assimilated our proportional payments would be greatly increased, while we would only share equally.

Another inducement held out by Mr. Hitt is:—

"It would secure to our fishermen rights to fish on every shore cidar to the pole, to buy bait and everything else, and it would give our people free fish."

That is, in consideration of allowing our factories to be closed, our ports deserted, our raw materials sacrificed, our payments increased and our receipts diminished, we are to be graciously permitted to throw open our valuable fisheries to the Pole on both our coasts to foreigners, who by their reckless greed and improvidence have ruined their own fisheries, and, therefore, long to work havock in ours.

These benefits pointed out by Mr. Hitt are very strong reasons why his countrymen should wish to throw down the barriers between us, but they afford even stronger reason why Canada should not submit to such an invasion.

We have to thank Mr. Wiman for supplying us and other Canadians with such weighty arguments against commercial union.

COUNCIL MEETING.—The council met on May 28. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. In the matter of circular requesting a delegate to go to Ottawa respecting the P. V. Canal delegation the council took no action. On the petition of 20 ratepayers interested, the council granted $50 to aid in improving 4th con. line from lot 19 to 24, under H. A. Moore. On motion the following township officers were appointed: Robert Brown, Pathmaster vice John Hunter Jr. resigned; John Dewart, vice John S. Murphy, resigned. Jas. Wigmore vice Wm. R. Howson, resigned; Samuel Smylie, for new division no. 9; Geo. Parker vice John Parker. The Clerk was instructed to notify Wallace Darling and Geo. P. Newnham to remove their fences or other obstructions off the 5th con. line opposite lot 12. Council voted $500 as a road fund, $100 for each of the road divisions, members of council to be the commissioners with power to appoint sub-commissioners for expending the same. On petition, Arthur F. Choate was appointed an arbitra'or in terms of section 86, Pub. School Act, 1885, to aid in forming a Union School section out of S. S No. 3, Dummer, and certain lots on the first concession of Douro. Council appropriated $60 on the boundary between Dummer and Asphodel under Thos. Webster and George Kirk, commissioners, provided Asphodel grant a like sum. The Clerk was instructed to notify the County Treasurer to abate the amount of taxes on S. W. corner 1 in 4 concession. The following orders were granted:—To Wm. F. Darling, salary as Assessor and equalizing rate for U. S. S. No. 7, $38. Fred W. Wilkins, survey and diagram of lot 9 con. 9 $11. James Dewart, refund arrears of taxes on pt. W. ½ 14 in 7 con. for 1883, $1.85. A by-law to appoint an arbitrator for formation of a Union School section passed. The council adjourned till June 18.

THE COMMANDMENTS.

EXPLANATORY NOTES BY S. I. CURTISS, PH. D., D. D.

Lesson XI of the International Series (Second Quarter), for Sunday, June 12. Text of the Lesson, Ex. xx, 1-11. Golden Text, Mat. xxii, 37.

Mount Sinai.—Our lesson introduces us to one of the grandest and most solemn scenes of human history. In the third month after Israel had left Egypt they had reached the wilderness of Sinai (Ex. xix, 2), which is now commonly believed on the best authority to have been the plain of Er Rahah. On the third day after their arrival, as we may suppose, the people were gathered on this plain (vs. 16, 17), which was two miles long by half a mile broad, before Ras Sufsafeh, which is included under this term Jebel Musa (mountain of Moses). They stand awe struck before the majestic displays of the divine power. The mountain is enveloped in thick smoke. There are thunderings and lightnings. A trumpet sounds. The mountain itself is shaken, while the people tremble with fear. These displays are designed to impress them with the divine holiness and the majesty of the law which they are soon to hear.

THE LESSON.

The Author of the Commandments (vs. 1, 2).—The thought expressed is that God is the author of the commandments which follow and of the exact words contained in them. He introduces himself by what might be called his proper name: "I am Jehovah thy God." Other Semites might speak of their gods as Elohim, but we have good reason for believing that only the Israelites called him Jehovah (Ex. vi, 3, Revised Version). God proclaims two facts: 1. That he brought Israel out from Egypt; 2. That he brought them out of the house of bondage. Israel could not have escaped from Egypt or have broken the yoke of servitude by their own power. It was only by means of the ten plagues that they were enabled to cut loose from their masters (Ex. vii, 4). In another place (Ex. xix, 5) God tells his people how he had borne them on eagles' wings. Just as the mother bird who is training the eaglet to fly supports it when it is weary, so God had borne Israel. (Compare Duet. xxxii, 11.)

The First Commandment (v. 3).—In the first commandment God tells his people that they were to have no other gods beside him (Revised Version, margin). This command was necessary on account of the example of all nations that were around them, who had numerous deities, and on account of the tendencies of the Israelites themselves to idolatry. The ancestors of Abraham in their country, at Ur of the Chaldees, were idolators according to the clear testimony of scripture (Josh. xxiv, 2). Jacob had to be at pains to root idolatry out of his family (Gen. xxxv, 2); and it appears that the Israelites were idolators in Egypt (Josh. xxiv, 14, 15; Ezek. xx, 5-10). Until after the Babylonian captivity this was the greatest temptation to which God's people were exposed and under which they often fell; hence the importance of this command.

The Second Commandment (vs. 4-6).—The second commandment is directed against the making of images. Here carved images are specified, although the Hebrew word pa-sel also includes images which are run in a mold. All kinds of image making then are excluded. They were not to make the likeness of any form that is in heaven above. One of the Egyptian deities was Ra, the sun. They and the ancient Chaldeans worshiped the moongod. The sacred writers found it necessary to warn Israel against the worship of the sun and moon and all the host of heaven, as the stars (Deut. iv, 19; II Kings xxiii, 5).

Many of the idols were representations of animals. Such was the case among the Egyptians, who had their sacred bulls, and even cats—not to speak of other animals—to which they rendered divine honors. Even the sea furnished objects of worship to some peoples, in the shape of animals either real or imaginary.

God exhibits both sides of his character in the second commandment. We read in the New Testament that God is love (I John iv, 16). The Old Testament really reveals him in the same character (Ex. xxxiv, 6). But that love is turned into jealousy when he sees his covenant people Israel leaving him for the idols of the heathen. He is represented as visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children unto the third and fourth generation of those who hate him. In doing this he simply allows the children to suffer the consequences of the sins of their parents. This is a natural law whose working could not be changed without a miracle. Children now suffer for the sins of their parents. They suffer in reputation. The child of the gambler, the drunkard, the fallen, has an inheritance of shame, and too often sees the finger of scorn pointed at him. They suffer in health. Some are born with an insatiable thirst for drink, others with ruined constitutions, others with the marks of infamy in their faces, because of the transgression of their parents. God in visiting punishment upon the children of idolaters unto the third and fourth generation simply does not change the laws of nature. The souls of multitudes of Sandwich Islanders have been redeemed whose bodies are suffering by reason of the sins of their idolatrous ancestors.

On the other side God shows mercy unto a thousand generations (Revised Version; margin) of those that love him and keep his commandments. There is no better inheritance than to be a child of godly parents.

The Third Commandment (v. 7).—The third commandment is directed against profanity and false swearing. "Thou shalt not lift up [utter] the name of Jehovah thy God for vanity" [to no purpose; or a lie]. It is right to speak the name of God in prayer, or song, or solemn discourse, or in the oaths required by law. But if God's name is used thoughtlessly, or in false statements made by witnesses, punishment will surely follow—if not in this world, in that which is to come.

The Fourth Commandment (vs. 8-11).—Historical research shows that the Sabbath was not original with the Hebrews. The Assyrians had the sevenfold division of time. God, however, first instituted the Sabbath (Gen. ii, 2-3). It is indeed a strange thing that the one command which some men now say is no longer binding should be singled out by God as the very one that we are to remember. Man says, "Forget the Sabbath day." God says, "Remember the Sabbath day." Sabbath means rest. Some think that their duty is performed if they rest their bodies from toil, and perhaps their minds; but the very purpose of remembering the day is that it may be kept holy, that is, that it may be set apart from common to sacred uses. All work is to be done in six days. Not only all the members of the family are to enjoy a season of rest, including the servants, but even the beasts of burden are to have repose from toil.

The reason for the observance of the Sabbath day is that after the creation of the heavens and the earth, which occupied six divine days, God rested on the seventh day and hallowed it. In the Revised Version we read (v. 10), "but the seventh day is a sabbath unto the Lord thy God." This is an accurate rendering of the Hebrew, and indicates that other seasons were to be considered as Sabbaths, as, for instance, the seventh year (Lev. xxv, 4).

Remark.—The question is raised why the great majority of the Christian world observe the first day of the week instead of the seventh. The reason of this is that in the early history of the church among Jewish Christians the seventh day was observed in commemoration of the creation, and the first day of the week in celebration of the resurrection of Jesus Christ. (Compare Acts xx, 7; I Cor. xvi, 2; Rev. i, 10.) As the latter seemed to be the greater event, it crowded out the observance of the seventh day. This is certainly according to the spirit of the New Testament, and we may well speak of the first day of the week as the Christian Sabbath. For the two things that the commandment emphasizes are that one day in seven is to be used for rest (Sabbath—resting day), and that this day is to be employed for holy purposes. In observing the Christian Sabbath we adhere to the spirit of the law which Christ came to fulfill.

POINTS TO BE REMEMBERED.

1. If we love any one more than God, we have other gods beside him.

2. If our chief delight is in a beautiful face, in houses or works of art, we are guilty of making these things our idols.

3. We should shun profanity and everything that sounds like it, and all false swearing.

4. We should not spend the Sabbath in our own pleasure, for God has said: Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy. We forget the one commandment which God has told us to remember and profane the day when we use it in traveling, visiting or reading secular books and newspapers. When God says remember, let not man say forget.—Sunday School World.

THE MARKET REPORTS.

REVIEW OFFICE,
Thursday evening, June 9th.

The local wheat market has been active during the past week, and [illegible] loads have been taken during the week counting last Saturday. So large a delivery at this time of the year is something unusual, but the prevailing high prices has much to do with bringing out all available wheat. The highest prices paid on this market for a good while were paid last week—93 cents. The price sagged to 88 at the beginning of the week, but has again advanced to 90. Markets on this continent and Europe are firm. In Chicago wheat touched the highest point that it has reached in many a day. June wheat went o 94¼ on Tuesday, but since then has receded several points. New York is firm and Liverpool spring wheat has advanced one penny, being now quoted at 7s. 5d. Still, considered from the supply standpoint, the outlook for high prices is not encouraging. The visible supply in Canada and the United States decreased only 757,659 bushels during the week, while its bulk is within a trifle of 9,000,000 more than it was at this time last year. Advices from all points continue very favorable except from France and India. Those who have faith in higher prices argue that the slowness of the decrease in the visible is due to the inclination of holders to rush their holdings to market. They contend that in a week or so offerings will fall off, and that then the visible will come down at the rate of 3,000,000 a week. The harvest has already commenced in the South-western States.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

It is so hot!—Let's go to ROWSE'S for some of those $3.00 parasols they are advertising for $1.50. They say they are lovely goods.

This is Jubilee Month

and no wonder that ladies are jubilant over the magnificent value that is being offered n parasols at J. J. SHEEHY'S, Lech's block.

Large Shipment.

The Cobourg Sentinel-Star says:—"Mr. F. T. Winch, of Peterborough, shipped from here on Thursday morning, for Montreal, two car loads of fine cattle and a quantity of hogs."

Hunt's Brick trowels and the Cincinnati Plastering Trowels are noted for their excellent quality. Plastering and Kalsoming Brushes up to 10|0 for sale by GEORGE STETHEM.

Excursions.

The steamer Beaver came up to Peterborough from Gore's Landing and Baltimore on Wednesday and Thursday, with excursionists from those places. On both days the boat was well crowded. The excursionists were well pleased with the manner in which Capt. Sherrin treated them.

See Kenny's for your goat boots, your kid boots, for your cow boots, your calf boots and for all your boots.

Coming.

A letter was received to-day from Gen. Underwood, of Kentucky, announcing that he had accepted the invitation extended to him by the Peterborough Oddfellows, and that himself and his staff would be here on August 10th to take part in the demonstration.

Bankrupt.

Mr. Gough, the Great Clothier, has just returned from Montreal and informed a REVIEW reporter to-day that he effected the purchase of a bankrupt Stock of Ready Made Clothing amounting to $18,500 at 40 cents on the dollar. Low as his prices have been in the past, he promises to astound the public now by offering Men's Suits at $2.75 and Boys' Suits at $1.25 each. This certainly is a paralizer, and we predict for Mr. Gough a big rush. The goods are expected to arrive to-day or to-morrow and will be open for Saturday. See his advertisement.

Flowing Well in Millbrook.

The Millbrook Messenger says:—For some days back, Messrs. Leary & Graham, of Peterborough well borers, have been boring for water, alongside of the tank, in front of the Town Hall. On Saturday their efforts were crowned with success, when water began to flow, after boaring to the depth of one hundred and three feet. The water poured out at the rate of forty barrels an hour, at first, since which it has fell to about thirty barrels an hour. This will be a grand acquisition to the centre part of the Village. We understand that the cost will be about $100, most of which will be made up by subscription by private individuals mostly benefitted. The well having sort of given out, the parties sinking it, re-opened it, for an extra consideration, and made it quite a success.

One of the heaviest waves of c eap dress goods that ever struck Peterborough is now on sale at Turnbull's. Forty different patterns to select from at only 12½ cents a yard.

The Band Competition.

In a detailed account of the Bowmanville Jubilee celebration and the band competition connected with it, the Port Hope Times says:—"After announcing his decision Mr. Claus called the leaders of the bands on to the platform and addressed them briefly. He had given the Massey band 24 points, the Peterborough 13 and the Waterloo only 10 points. To Dr. Hartmann and his band (the Massey Co.) the judge paid the warmest encomium and explained the points given the other bands. He had given the Peterborough band the higher number of marks because of their better playing in the selections they rendered, but on account of the Waterloo band having a larger number of reed instruments they could attempt a class of music which could not be played by a smaller band owing to the lack of instruments, but he added that for instrumentation, shading, phrasing, precision and expression, the Peterborough band was fully up to the standard, but for the reason given he was compelled to award the second prize to the Waterloo band."

WHO sells the cheapest? A visit to ROWSE'S Trade Palace answers the question. $1.50 silks for $1.00, $1.25 silks for 84 cents, 75 cent silks for 49 cents at ROWSE'S.

THE LITTLE FADED FLOWER.

Don't Know Who Stole It—The Bequet's History.

At the Police Court this morning John Dwyer was arraigned on the charge of aving purloined a bouquet of flowers from the Horticultural Gardens.

Mr. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, appeared for the prosecution, and Mr. Geo. T. Leonard for the defendant.

The defendant pleaded not guilty.

Mr. ROBT. WHITE, jr., was the first witness. He gave testimony to the effect that on Tuesday morning as he was coming along Charlotte street he saw Dwyer sitting down and having a bouquet in his hand. Further on he fell in with Sid Blade and Sid asked him to take a walk up to the Gardens. They went together (this was about six o'clock) and when they got there he found that some flowers had been taken. They went down street and saw Dwyer again. Dwyer said that he had been up to the Gardens. He would not swear what the flowers were, but there were geraniums among them. The flowers on the desk were the flowers which he gave to Blade.

The MAGISTRATE—Did you give them to Mr. Adams?

WITNESS—No, sir; I did not. I gave them to Mr. Blade.

The MAGISTRATE—Did Dwyer give them to you?

WITNESS—No, sir; I won't say where I got them.

The MAGISTRATE—Well, that doesn't prove anything. You are bound to tell where you got them.

WITNESS—Well, if I'm bound to tell where I got them, I won't tell, that's all.

There was a lull here for a few moments.

Mr. WOOD—Dwyer gave them to the girl, and the girl gave them to you. (Laughter.)

The WITNESS denied that a girl gave them to him, and accused Mr. Wood of being "smart." He could take his oath that those were the flowers that Dwyer had, and that was all he would say.

J. MCILMOYLE, the next witness, swore that the little faded flowers on the desk were not the flowers that Dwyer had. They were brought to the Queen's Hotel a week ago by a carpenter. He saw Dwyer with flowers, however, and Dwyer gave him one. He couldn't say whether it was a girl or a married woman that gave Mr. White the flowers.

SIDNEY BLADE testified that the bouquet given him by Mr. White contained the same kind of flowers which he missed—bronze leaf geraniums and white fever few. He had compared the bouquet with the bed where the flowers were taken from, and the flowers were identical.

Mr. LEONARD—Is Mr. Blade an expert?

Someone replied that he didn't know.

Mr. LEONARD—Well, I want to know that.

P. C. ADAMS identified the bouquet.

The MAGISTRATE found that the evidence was not strong enough upon which to make a conviction; but if a charge of this kind was ever brought before him again, and there was sufficient evidence to convict, he would make it dear flowers for the guilty party. The prisoner was discharged.

Late in the season manufacturers are glad to clear ends of stock at tremendous reductions. See the seamless hosiery Turnbull is selling, three pair for 25 cents. Bought right.

Go toH. S. Griffin & Co's for Millinery; prices away down.

The Heat of the Sun

Will have no effect on ladies if they read J. J. Sheehy's advertisement and act accordingly.

Excursion.

The excursion run to Toronto by the Masonic brethren of Peterborough was a success. As announced in yesterday's REVIEW the run to Toronto was made in good time—three hours and three quarters. On arrival there the excursionists scattered and after dinner did the town in great style. A large number of the excursionists dined at the Walker House where by special arrangement dinner was served at 12 o'clock, an hour before the regular time. Quite a number returned to town by the regular train, but most of the people came down on the excursion train. The run down was made in about 4 hours. Besides being a most enjoyable excursion it was a financial success as well. About $100 will be cleared, which will be set apart to assist in furnishing the new temple which is now in course of erection. The thanks of the committee are due to Mr. Brundrette who accompanied the excursionists and did everything in his power to make them comfortable.

Just arrived at Turnbull's, Gobelin and Drab Cashmeres with handsome trimmings to match, correct shades for the season.

Present for the Canadian Club.

NEW YORK, June 9.—The Canadian Club have received notification from Mr. J. R. O'Brien, of Toronto, President of the Royal Art Society, that he has painted for the club a picture of Canadian scenery in the Rocky Mountains, of which he asks their acceptance. The picture is to go first to the exhibition of the Society of Artists in Toronto, after which it will be forwarded to New York, where it will no doubt be greatly appreciated. The members of the club are greatly gratified at this indication of interest in their progress here.

MEMBERS of the conference have given tangible proof of the fact that KIDD'S is the place for bargains in boots, shoes and slippers.

For a neat fitting Mantle, Dolman, or Wrap, made and trimmend with the newest materials, call at Turnbull's.

Go to H. S. Griffin for Parosols; great reduction in prices.

A Fatal Wrestle.

HAMILTON, June 9.—This evening a young man named John Torrance and a coloured boy named Thomas Taylor, aged about 16, engaged in a friendly wrestle. While they were on the ground Torrance squeezed Taylor's body rather severely between his legs and a hemorrhage resulted, from which Taylor died about two hours after. Taylor has suffered very much from inflammatory rheumatism, which no doubt affected his internal organs and made him more susceptible to injuries of this kind. John Torrance was arrested.

WE buy our hosiery at ROWSE'S Trade Palace. You can get all colors and blacks, and the price suits every time.

BERLIN, June 9.—The Deutches Tagblatt says that the Emperor William is suffering from neuralgic pains, to releave which hypodermic injections of morphia have been used.

Explanation.

J.J. Sheehy's card to the public appears in this edition of the REVIEW on the first page.

THE only place in town where you ca get black, colored and opera shades in kid gloves at 25 cents is ROWSE'S Trade Palace. They are selling ladies' 4 button opera kid gloves, Josephine, for 50 cents, really worth $1.25.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d9

THE CRIMES BILL.

The Motion for Urgency Carried by a Large Majority.

LONDON, June 10.—In the House of Commons this evening Mr. Smith moved the resolution previously announced, requesting that at 10 p.m. on the 17th inst. the chairman forthwith put the question of any motion, amendment or proposal touching the clause of the Crimes bill then under discussion, then on the clause itself and finally on each remaining clause. He said the step was forced upon the Government by continuous obstruction. He made a strong appeal to the House to support the Government in advancing business.

Mr. Gladstone strongly opposed the motion and protested against it.

Mr. Parnell said he could not understand the fatuity of the Government in rushing blindfolded along a road which they had already seen would lead to the greatest disorder in Ireland. The Government speakers had harped on the theme of obstruction. As a matter of fact the Irish members had not lifted a voice against any measure except this Coercion bill, which they were bound to resist to the utmost. The cry of obstruction was not genuine when raised by men who did not desire to advance public business. Let the Government proceed with the real business of the nation, instead of wasting time over a Crimes bill applying to a nation where crime was admittedly at a minimum. He concluded by moving an amendment that the House decline to sanction a resolution limiting the freedom of debate and assailing the rights of minorities.

Mr. Smith after further discussion moved the closure, which was carried by a vote of 284 to 167.

Mr. Parnell's amendment was then rejected by a vote of 301 to 181.

After further discussion, Mr. Smith's complete motion was carried under closure by a vote of 245 to 93 amid cheers and counter-cheers. Mr. Smith then proposed to postpone further discussion of the bill in committee till Monday.

AMERICAN POACHERS.

Again Encroaching on Canadian Fishing Grounds.

HALIFAX, N. S., June 10.—Despatches from various fishing centres report that the whole coast from Shelbourne to Canso is lined by American mackerel seiners. Two Yankee vessels are said to have thrown their seines among the nets of local fishermen near Whitehead and destroyed them, and one vessel made a haul of seventy-five barrells and the other eighty barrells of mackerel within a mile and a half of the shore. The fleet made large hauls in Chedabucto Bay yesterday, but they scattered at the approach of the cruiser Triumph. Capt. Lorway, of the cruiser, reports mackerel very plentiful and closely trending the three mile limit. He found a number of Yankee poachers in forbidden waters and ordered them out. They made the old-time excuses of calms, tides, fogs, etc. Lockport codfishing vessels are returning from the banks with fares ranging 900 to 1200 quintals. The probabilities are that the catches on the banks will not be as large as last year. The fishermen are in high spirits owing to the increasing price of both cod fish and mackerel.

THE CORPENTER'S STRIKE.

A Mass Meeting at Temperance Hall Decides to Quit Work.

LONDON, June 11.—The threatened strike of the carpenters has at last been ordered, as at the mass meeting of the men in Temperance Hall last night this line of action was resolved upon. There were a few dissentient voices, probably twenty, out of the 600 present. The men will quit work today at noon, and will meet every day at 9 o'clock, commencing Monday in Temperance Hall.

The demands of the men are that the minimum wages per hour shall be 25 cents, and that those carpenters now receiving that figure shall be paid 25½ cents. A resolution was passed prohibiting the men from working for the bosses who would be willing to grant the demand till a permit was first procured from the Secretary of the Strike Committee. It is said the strike will affect 800 union and 400 non-union carpenters.

Quebec Labor Troubles.

QUEBEC, June 10.—His Eminence Cardinal Taschereau, before leaving town on his pastoral tour, endeavored to bring about an amicable settlement between the trade and the ship laborers. He sent for Mr. Dinan, president of the Ship Laborers' Benevolent Society and had a long interview with him. Mr. Dinan assured His Eminence that the newspapers were all against the Society and represented but one side of the case. He added that the laborers here would undertake to load vessels as cheaply as the work could be done in Montreal and further if they objected to the use of steam winches on board ship it was because they increased the danger to the laborers. Mr. Dinan also said the Society was ready to submit its rules and regulations to the Board of Trade for the purpose of endeavoring to come to an understanding.

Ghastly Discovery.

WOODSTOCK, Ont., June 10.—That portion of West Oxford, in the neighborhood of Sweaborg Corners, is much excited over the discovery, near that place, of a number of human skeletons. The discovery was made on the roadside at a point where the road has been cut through an elevation, the bones being not more than eight inches below the sod. Whether the remains belong to Indians; or whether they are the silent evidence of some mysterious tragedy, are problems that keep the brains of the people in these parts busy.

Prohibition in Maine.

AUGUSTA, Me., June 9.—The prohibitory law of Maine has received a terrific setback. Michael Burns, a well-known liquor dealer of this city, has brought to Agusta from Liverpool a large invoice of foreign distilled spirits, which he is selling to all who wish to purchase. The United States protects all persons importing liquors from foreign countries from prosecution under any State prohibitory law for selling such goods in the original unbroken packages.

Murder at Utica.

UTICA, N. Y., June 9.—Clarence Arthur Day aged 23 years, lock tender on No. 66, lock near Boonville, stabbed a young woman named Josephina Rossa, with whom he was living, threw her into the canal, took her [illegible] and then hid [illegible] Ava Corners, and the crime was not discovered until this afternoon. The cause of killing is unknown.

A Desperado on the Bench.

LEXINGTON, June 10.—Craig Tolliver, the most notorious desperado now living in Kentucky, has had himself elected to a judgeship in Rowan County. Nobody could be found with nerve enough to vote against him, and so Craig will mount the woolsack after having murdered a score of people and having been indicted for nearly all the crimes on the statutes.

The Red Man Satisfied.

OTTAWA, June 10.—Mr. Fredrick White, Comptroller of the North-West Mounted Police, has received a telegram stating that all the horses stolen from the Blood Indians by American Indians have been recovered at Belknap, Montana, through the American Indian agent there. The Blood Indians are now satisfied and will return the horses stolen from the American Indians.

Drowning Accident.

BROCKVILLE, June 9.—A sad drowning accident occurred here this afternoon. A man named C. B. Russell arrived in town from Syracuse, N.Y., a day or two ago on his wedding trip, having been married only eight days ago. This afternoon he went for a walk on the Canadian Pacific Railway dock took a fit and fell into the river. He could not be rescued until too late.

Accident to a Sleeping Car.

YONKERS, N.Y., June 10.—The sleeping car Trinidad, of the Buffalo express, on the New York Central and Hudson River Railway, jumped the switch at Spuyten Duyvel at 7 o'clock this morning. The car was overturned and badly smashed. The occupants, twenty-eight in number, were severely jostled, and several bruised, but no serious injuries are reported.

Convicted of Attempt to Murder.

HALIFAX, June 9.—Stanley Steele, the young desperado who attempted to rob the Merchants' Bank agency at Antigonish and murder one of the clerks, was to-day convicted of shooting with intent to murder. He will be sentenced to-morrow.

Burglary at Kingston.

KINGSTON, June 9.—Burglars knocked a hole into the vault of the Ontario Building and Savings Society last evening and for their trouble secured $31.65 Neither large sums of money or valuables are kept in the vaults. The work was evidently by professionals.

Pursuing the Indians.

TUCKSON, Ariz., June 10.—A special from Pontano says the Indians crossed the railroad track a mile west of here yesterday afternoon, hotly pursued by Johnston's and Lawton's commands. They are heading North for the Santa Catalina mountains.

Cattle on the Castleford.

WATERLOO, Ont., June 10.—The steamer Castleford, which was wrecked off the Scilly Isles, had on board 300 head of cattle which were shipped from this town on the 23rd May. The cattle were owned by a lately organized farmer's company.

THE PRESBYTERIANS.

Opening Proceedings of the General Assembly at Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, June 10.—Knox Church here, that seats comfortably twelve hundred people, contained between thirteen and fourteen hundred people last night. Many were compelled to go away for want of accommodation. The occasion was the opening of the thirteenth General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Rev. Dr. Smith, of Galt, is in good form, and after the opening exercises of praise, reading and prayer, preached an excellent sermon from Zephaniah iii. 16, "Zion, let not thine hands be slack."

The Assembly was thereafter constituted, Dr. Fraser, one of the joint clerks, called the roll. The retiring Moderator asked for the appointment of a successor. On motion of the Rev. R. H. Warden, of Montreal, seconded by the Rev. C. B. Pitblado, of Winnipeg, Rev. Dr. Burns, of Halifax, was unanimously chosen. In a vigorous address, full of heart and good sense, the honor and significance of the election were made mention of.

At once preliminary work began. The retiring moderator laid upon the table of the Assembly, correspondence from He Majesty the Queen and from His Excellency the Governor-General, containing replies to the loyal addresses from the Presbyterian Church in Canada. A communication was also presented bearing upon correspondence between the church and the British authorities, with regard to the movements of France towards the New Hebrides, one of the Presbyterian mission fields.

The Episcopal Church in Canada, through its house of bishops and its lower house, approaches the assembly of the Presbyterian Church thus early by correspondence which was presented, looking in the direction of the union of these two churches. A committee will be appointed to confer with a similar committee from the Anglican body.

It was reported that a power of attorney had been given to Rev. J. R. McLeod, of Quebec, to deal with a bequest from Mr. Andrew Morrison, of Melbourne, Quebec. Due attention was given, and as a result, a handsome sum of money was divided between the home and foreign mission schemes of the church.

On motion of Rev. Dr. Cochrane, a vote of thanks was tendered to Rev. Dr. Smith for his conduct as moderator and for the [illegible] assembly.

THE LAW OF LIBEL.

Amendments Proposed by Journalists —An Interview with the Minister.

OTTAWA, June 10.—A meeting of journalists was held in the House of Commons press-room this morning to consider the proposed ammendments to the law of libel. Among those present were John Cameron, Toronto Globe; Pense, Kingston Whig; Trayes, Port Hope Times, and Ellis, M. P. St. John Globe. A motion was passed requesting members of Parliament who were also journalists to take concerted action to press the matter before the House and government. Messrs, Innes, M. P., Cameron, Pense, and Trayes were appointed to place the views of the meeting before the Minister of Justice. At noon the deputation waited upon the latter by appointment, and views as expressed in the petition were placed before him. It was also asked that the law should be amended to prevent journalists being taken for trial to other provinces from that in which the alleged offence was committed.

The Minister of Justice, in reply, said that he sympathized with the desires of the deputation as he was an old journalist himself, but a publisher was in the same position as the individual who wrote the letter. If an individual in Ontario libelled a person in British Columbia he could be taken to the latter place for trial. He said it was too late to bring in a bill this season, but next year he would do so, dealing with the matters presented to him. He expressed the views that newspaper proprietors should be registered in order that ownership of the pape should be readily proved.

THE IRISH TENANTS

Worried by Conflicting Advice—Davitt Injuring the National Cause.

LONDON, June 10.—The Irish peasantry and tenant farmers around Bodyke are naturally in a somewhat bewildered frame of mind, being urged to resistance of eviction by Michael Davitt on the spot and exhorted to patience and inaction by Mr. Parnell through the influential journal United Ireland. The wishes of Mr. Parnell are likely to be respected in the end, but the earnest appeals of the beloved Davitt in person are sure to have a strong immediate effect. A singular proposition is being mooted among the Parnellites of sending one of their best orators to Bodyke to preach anew the gospel of non-resistance in the hope of neutralizing the effect of Mr. Davitt's process. What lamentable feuds may be caused between the National Leaguers by such a course is easily imaginable and the very spectacle of a house thus divided against itself would be demoralizing. The friends of Mr. Davitt think it very likely that he will soon return to his partially abandoned theories of land nationalization and proclaim the doctrine insisted upon by Mr. Henry George that the proper course for the Irish people is to assert their title to their country and not only revive the police of "no rent," but make it a permanent one. The issue so squarely raised on this point by Mr. O'Brien's attitude towards the George party in New York has stimulated discussion amongst those interested, and Mr. O'Brien's views represent those of the great majority of his party. The usefulness of the opposite theory as an alternative weapon in certain emergencies is hereby recognized to a greater extent than hitherto. A campaign for nationalization would, for one thing, be warmly supported by the English Radical party, which is one of growing strength. The subject is likely to be touched upon to a slight extent in the debate on evictions, which will be begun in the House of Commons before the middle of next week.

LATEST CABLE NEWS

EARTHQUAKES.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 10.—Severe shocks of earthquakes have occurred at Vernone, in Turkestan. The town was almost entirely destroyed. One hundred and twenty persons were killed, and 125 injured. Among the latter is General Friede, the Governor of the Province. Shocks still continue to be felt at intervals. The inhabitants of the town are panic stricken, and have fled for safety to the open country.

TROUBLES OF THE REPUBLIC.

PARIS, June 10.—La Justice contains a fierce attack upon President Grevy. The article purports to be a conversation between President Grevy and Baron Mackay during the recent crisis, in the course of which President Grevy threatened to resign if the Rouvier Ministry was upset and said that on the next day there would probably be an emeute in Paris followed by a dictatorship and civil or foreign war. M. De Cassignac, in an article in the Autorite, says the Right will support the Rouvier Ministry because its overthrow means the trumphant return of Gen. Boulanger with the prospect of a foreign war and the certainty of a military dictatorship.

THE CRIMES BILL.

LONDON, June 10.—The Parnellites intend to claim that the amendments of the Crimes Bill not discussed by the 17th should be reserved for the report stage of the bill.

THE GLADSTONE TESTIMONIAL.

LONDON, June 10.—The Gladstone testimonial from America will be publicly exhibited in London until the day after the jubilee celebration, when it will be presented to Mr. Gladstone.

THE POPE'S JUBILEE GIFT.

ROME, June 10.—The Pope's Jubilee gift to Queen Victoria consists of a mosaic reproduction of Raphael's fresco, representing an allegorical figure of poetry. The work was executed in the Vatican.

BODYKE EVICTIONS RESUMED.

DUBLIN, June 10.—Evictions were resumed at Bodyke to-day. The scenes were highly exciting. The officers were repelled by the tenants until a priest interfered.

NEW MEMBER OF THE ACADEMY.

PARIS, June 10.—Dr. Albert Robin has been elected a member of the Academie. He is only thirty-eight years old, and one of the most distinguished surgeons.

BAD STATE OF AFFAIRS.

VIENNA, June 10.—Mako and Vasorhely are in immediate danger of inundation, the dykes being on the point of giving way. Several persons have committed suicide and many women have become insane through terror and hunger. The peasants at work repairing the dykes are disposed to riot.

MR. SMITH'S ACTION CRITICISED.

LONDON, June 10.—The Pall Mall Gazette publishes a rampant article on the action of Mr. W. H. Smith in the House of Commons regarding the Crimes Bill. It calls on the members opposed to Mr. Smith's policy to get themselves suspended rather than to tamely acquiesce in his monstrous encroachment of the liberties of Parliament

TO REPRESENT GERMANY.

LONDON, June 10.—Though the Crown Prince will come to England shortly, Prince William will formally represent Emperor William at the Queen's Jubilee.

THE FLOODED DISTRICT.

VIENNA, June 10.—The situation in the flooded district of Hungary is but little changed. In some cases the rescuing parties have been obliged to force the people into the boats, as they refused to leave their houses and property, without which, as they expressed it, their lives would be worthless. The women generally through fright move about in a passive and apparently listless way. In one case the rescuers found a man about to hang himself. Marauders wading through the waters at night pluader deserted houses. Several of these have been arrested.

ANTI-EVICTION DEMONSTRATION.

DUBLIN, June 10.—An anti-eviction demonstration was held at Burr to-day, and a temporary structure was built for sheltering evicted tenants.

RECEPTION FOR O'BRIEN.

DUBLIN, June 10.—The Limerick corporation have resolved to present Mr. Wm. O'Brien with the freedom of the city. Deputations of the National League will welcome Mr. O'Brien upon his arrival at Queenstown.

FAMINE IMMINENT.

LONDON, June 10.—A famine is imminent in the city of Meshed and throughout the whole province of Khorassan. The Russians are trying to prevent the people from emigrating to the Transcaspian territories.

EXPELLED FROM ALSACE.

LONDON, June 10.—Herr Lahanze, a member of the Reichstag from Muihausen, has been ordered to leave Alsace within twenty-four hours. He is an active Protector, and is charged with having supported the French Patriotic League.

PRIVATE TRIAL.

BERLIN, June 10.—The Attorney-General of the German Empire proposes to exclude the public from the treason trials involving M. Schnaebles, which will begin Monday.

Manitoba Legislature.

WINNIPEG, June 10.—The local Legislature was prorogued this afternoon with the usual formalities. The Legislature had an all-night session for the purpose of concluding business. After the railway legislation, probably the most important bill passed during the session was the one providing for one man having only one vote in provincial contests.

BOBCAYGEON.

NAVIGATION.—The water in the lakes has kept up well, and the navigation is excellent. It has been an exceptionally good year for the drives of logs coming down. The dams put up by the Provincial Government in the back country work admirably, and the high level of the water will probably be maintained throughout the season.—Independent.

IMPORTANT TO THE PUBLIC.

At the time of selling our stock of Dry Goods to Sheehy & Co., we had fully determined to give up that particular branch of our business, but as previously announced, did not do so, for various reasons. However it is now our intention to dispose of the Dry Goods Trade, and have consequently made up our mind to clear out the whole stock

AT COST PRICE AND UNDER.

This is one of the BEST Dry Goods stocks in the country, having been imported from the best markets direct to ourselves. Remember, this will be a GENUINE CLEARING OUT SALE. While we will still retain our Clothing Trade, yet we will during this sale, offer ALL our Ready-made Clothing, for Men and Boys, (with all kinds of Furnishings) at COST PRICE. Remember the whole Dry Goods Stock must be sold.

RECIPROCITY.

Among other lamentable attempts to create dissatisfaction with the position and prospects of Canada, is the too frequent assertion that the Dominion authorities have been remiss in not asking for a renewal of the reciprocity treaty with the United States.

That this assertion is not correct is well known to all who take the slightest trouble to inform themselves. But the correction of the error by an intelligent foreigner may be more striking, and more clearly indicative of the fact that our readiness to renew the treaty is acknowledged in the United States. Mr. S. J. Ritchie, of Akron, Ohio, in a speech at a public banquet in Wash[illegible]ton, about a year and a half ago, while speaking of the past, present and future commercial relations between the two countries, spoke as follows:—

"From the date that this treaty was terminated up to the present time, Canada has made constant efforts to have it renewed, either in whole or in part and indeed has offered to greatly multiply the advantages which would accrue to the United States. In fact she has gone so far that where she adopted her present tariff system, which is operative to all countries, England not excepted, she carefully placed upon her statute books a law providing that whenever the United States admitted any of the articles formerly embraced in the schedule of the abrogated treaty, and many others not so embraced, being the products of Canada, into the United States duty free, the Dominion of Canada would admit like articles or their equivalents, being the products of the United States, into Canada duty free. That law remains upon the statute books to-day, and is to all intents and purposes a part of her tariff. No further legislation on the part of Canada is necessary to carry this provision into effect, and it only requires that a proclamation should be issued by the Governor-in-Council. Thus for twenty-one years Canada has been asking us to renew our former friendly and reciprocal trade relations with her. To all this we have turned a deaf ear, and in none of the provisions now before Congress providing for extended and free reciprocal trade relations with all other countries on this hemisphere is there a single provision made for those of Canada."

Here we have it established on indisputable and impartial testimony that they are well aware in the United States that Canada is not only willing to renew reciprocal relations, but has actually legislated with that view. It is similarly shown that the neglect to re-establish such relations and indeed the opposition to them are on the part of the United States. We have done our part, but we cannot make acts of Congress. It is thus unjustifiable for any one to assert that the Canadian authorities have shown unwillingness to accept reciprocity or neglect in not bringing it about.

The truth is that the United States do not wish to have fair reciprocal trade relations with Canada. They are willing to make a bargain that would give them an unfair advantage, obtaining the Canadian market for their manufactures by crushing ours out, and taking our raw materials that they may have the profit of manufacturing them instead of us. Some of their influential organs indeed go so far as to say that they will not agree even to such a favourable bargain for themselves, unless Canada will also consent to political annexation.

Canada is not willing to accept either of these interested offers, but is quite ready to renew fair reciprocal relations.

The Montreal Herald claims that the public will consider Gen. Sir Fred Middleton a thief unless he proves that he did not steal furs. If Mr. Mills or anyone else brings a formal charge against the General there is no fear of its not being met. But Sir F. Middleton need not condescend to notice a cowardly friend of the rebels, who hates him for defeating them and vents his malice by repeating slanders from the shelter of his seat in the House without daring to make himself responsible for the calumny he circulates. A sufficient answer so far has been given by the statements of the Ministers that as yet no formal complaint has been lodged by anyone claiming to have been wronged.

COAL AND THE CANALS.

A Hamilton manufacturer finds himself in an unpleasant situation. The coal companies used to make a special rate for Canada. Anthracite coal was sold at the Bridge for consumption in the Dominion at considerably less than like coal sold for consumption in Buffalo. Since the abolition of the duty the practice has been discontinued, coal at Buffalo for local consumption and that at the Bridge for export to Canada bear the same rate. At the same time the Grand Trunk company has advanced its freight rate; so that the firm of which we speak—a very large user of coal—now actually pays a higher price at its works for anthracite than it paid before the abolition of the duty.

Under these circumstances application was made to the bituminous coal producers of Nova Scotia. By a slight change of grates their coal could be made to serve; but its use at present is quite out of the question. It is good in itself; at Sydney or at Picton its price is reasonable; but the freight charge to Hamilton is so high that [illegible] brought to this port. A vessel which can pass the present canals cannot make a profitable trip laden with coal without charging a freight rate that makes the coal more expensive than imported anthracite or bituminous coal.

If the government would complete the St. Lawrence canals Nova Scotia coal could be sent as far west as Hamilton and the vessels bringing it could take back flour and manufactured goods. No doubt a direct trade in fish and other products of the maritime provinces would be stimulated. But, for some reason which is wholly inexplicable, the government refuses to finish the canals. Twenty-five millions of dollars have been expended, and that money lies waste and unproductive, while Ontario farmers lose from two to three cents a bushel on all the grain they export. Trade between the east and west is restricted; the development of the Nova Scotia coal trade is retarded and Ontario loses customers in the east. We cannot understand why the government persists in its refusal to finish the canal at the earliest practicable moment.—Hamilton Spectator.

THE IRON DUTIES.

Opinion of a Leading London Journal—A Sensible View.

The Globe, of London, Eng., an influential journal, says:—"The Canadian Government need not have offered an apology for augmenting their duty on steel and iron manufactures. In the matter of fiscal arrangements every British colony has a perfect right to look after its own interests, just as England does after hers. Free Trade suits, or is supposed to suit, the English people better, on the whole, than Protection, but Canadian prosperity is governed by very different conditions which, in local opinion, consort best with a high import tariff. The really important part of the apology is that which discloses the rapid progress lately made by the United States in iron and steel manufactures. In 1882 Great Britain transacted, we are told, two and a half times as much trade with Canada in these goods as the States. But three years afterwards the proportion had fallen to one and a half times; that is, in the course of three years the overplus of British exports had diminished from 150 per cent. to 50 per cent. In the presence of such an alarming fact as this, it behoves our metallic manufacturers to ascertain if they can why they are being beaten by their American rivals in the Canadian market. It was a perfectly free and fair competition, with an initial advantage in favor of England by reason of her long supremacy. Why, then, have the Canadians found it more to their advantage to buy American goods? Were these cheaper, or stronger, more ingenious, or better adapted to the requirements of the Dominion? Although the distance from England is, of course, much greater than that from the States, we doubt whether the cost of conveyance is higher. Railway freight charges, even on American lines, are always largely in excess of oceanic charges, in proportion to mileage. Inasmuch, then, as both labor and capital are cheaper on this side of the Atlantic while we possess the finest raw material, and are supposed to fear no rivals in manufacturing skill, it is a complete puzzle to understand why the Canadian iron and steel market should be slipping out of our hands. Since that is the case it is just as well that the Dominion should manufacture these goods for herself, and this being the object of the new tariff, John Bull cannot fairly regard it as a blow struck at those trading interests of his which, through some cause or other, he himself has brought into jeopardy."

Fishery Trouble on Georgian Bay.

They had quite a lively time at French River on Saturday. F. G. M. Fraser, Fishery Inspector, was made aware that a number of Americans were sent over by Davis, of Detroit, to engage in fishing in the Georgian Bay and ship to him. The inspector determined to prevent Americans from fishing in Canadian waters and went up and sized six boats and over 300 nets. The fishermen claimed to be Canadians and that they were selling to Davis in the same way as other Canadian fishermen. They also undertook to get back their boats by force, but Mr. Fraser, were in a number of the Ontario Lumber Company's men as special constables. When they saw that the inspector and his men were well supplied with revolvers and determined to enforce the law the Yankees quieted down. —Midland Free Press.

CHAPTER X.

JOHN HAS AN ESCAPE.

On the following Monday John, taking Jantje to drive him, departed in a rough Scotch cart, to which were harnessed two of the best horses at Moffontein, to shoot buck at Hans Coetzee's.

He reached the place at about 8:30 o'clock, and concluded, from the fact of the presence of several carts and horses, that he was not the only guest. Indeed, the first person that he saw as the cart pulled up was his late enemy, Frank Muller.

"Kek (look), baas," said Jantje, "there is Baas Frank talking to a Basutu!"

John looked, and, to confess the truth, not best pleased was he to see the man. Frankly he disliked the man, and since Muller's conduct on the previous Friday, and Jantje's story of the dark deed of blood in which he had been the principal actor, he positively loathed the sight of him. He got out of the cart, and was going to walk round to the back of the house in order to avoid him, when Muller, to all appearance, suddenly became aware of his presence and advanced to meet him with the utmost cordiality.

"How do you do, captain?" he said, holding out his hand, which John just touched. "So you have come to shoot buck with Om Coetzee; going to show us Transvaalers how to do it, eh? There, captain, don't look as stiff as a rifle barrel. I know what you are thinking of; that little business at Wakkerstroom on Friday, is it not? Well, now, I tell you what it is, I was in the wrong, and I am not afraid to say so as between man and man. I had had a glass, that was the fact, and did not quite know what I was about. We have got to live as neighbors here, so let us forget all about it and be brothers again. I never bear malice, not I. It is not the Lord's will that we should bear malice. Hit out from the shoulder, I say, and then forget all about it. If it hadn't been for that little monkey," he added, jerking his thumb in the direction of Jantje, who was hobbling the horses' heads, "it would never have happened, and it is not nice that two Christians should quarrel about such as he."

Muller jerked out his long speech in a succession of sentences, something as a school boy repeats a hardly learned lesson, fidgeting his feet and letting his eyes travel about the ground as he did so; and it was evident to John, who stood quite still and listened to it in icy silence, that it was by no means an extemporary one. It had too clearly been composed for the occasion.

"I do not wish to quarrel with anybody, Meinheer Muller," he answered at length. "I never do quarrel unless it is forced on me, and then," he added, grimly, "I do my best to make it unpleasant for my enemy. The other day you attacked first my servant and then myself. I am glad that you now see that this was an improper thing to do, and, so far as I am concerned, there is an end of the matter," and he turned to enter the house.

Muller accompanied him as far as where Jantje was standing at the horses' heads. Here he stopped, and, putting his hand in his pocket, took out a two shilling piece and threw it to the Hottentot, calling to him to catch it.

Jantje was holding the horses with one hand. In the other he held his stick—a long walking kerrie that he always carried, the same on which he had shown Bessie the notches. In order to catch the piece of money he dropped the stick, and Muller's quick eye catching sight of the notches beneath the knob, he stooped down, picked it up, and examined it.

"What do these mean, boy?" he asked, pointing to the line of big and little notches, some of which had evidently been cut years ago.

Jantje touched his hat, spat upon the "Scotchman," as the natives of that part of Africa call a two shilling piece, and pocketed it before he answered. The fact that the giver had murdered all his near relations did not make the gift less desirable in his eyes. Hottentot moral sense is not very elevated.

"No, baas," he said, with a curious grin, "that is how I reckon. If anybody beats Jantje, Jantje cuts a notch upon the stick, and every night before he goes to sleep he looks at it, and says: 'One day you will strike that man twice who struck you once, and so on, baas. Look what a line of them there are, baas. One day I will pay them all back again, Baas Frank.'"

In another minute old Hans Coetzee came, and announced that it was time to be moving.

Accordingly the whole party got into their carts or on to their shooting horses, as the case might be, and started. Frank Muller was, John noticed, mounted as usual on his fine black horse. After driving for more than half an hour along an indefinite kind of wagon track, the leading cart, in which was old Hans Coetzee himself, a Malay driver and a colored Cape boy, turned to the left across the open veldt, and the others followed in turn. This went on for some time, till at last they reached the crest of a rise that commanded a large sweep of open country, and here Hans halted and held up his hand, whereon the others halted, too. On looking out over the vast plain before him, John discovered the reason. About half a mile beneath them was a great herd of blesbuck, feeding, 300 or more of them, and beyond them again another herd of some sixty or seventy much larger and wilder looking animals, with white tails, which John at once recognized as vilderbeeste. Nearer to them again, dotted about here and there on the plain, were a couple of dozen or so of graceful yellow springbuck.

Then a council of war was held, which resulted in the men on horseback—among whom was Frank Muller—being dispatched to circumvent the herds and drive them toward the carts, that took up their stations at various points toward which the buck were likely to make.

Then came a pause of a quarter of an hour or so, till, suddenly, from the far ridge of the opposite slope, John saw a couple of puffs of white smoke float up into the air, and one of the vilderbeeste below roll over on his back, kicking and plunging furiously. Thereon the whole herd of buck turned and came thundering toward them; stretched in a long line across the wide veldt; the springbuck first, then the blesbuck, looking, owing to their peculiar way of holding their long heads down as they galloped, for all the world like a herd of great bearded goats. Behind and mixed up with them were the vilderbeeste, who twisted and turned, and jumped into the air as though they had gone clean off their heads and were next second going clean on them. It is very difficult, owing to his extraordinary method of progression, to distinguish one part of a galloping vilderbeeste from another; now it is his horns, now his tail, and now his hoofs that present themselves to the watcher's bewildered vision, and now again they all seem to be mixed up together. On came the great herd, making the ground shake beneath their footfall; and after them galloped the mounted Boers, every now and again jumping from their horses to fire a shot into the line of game, which generally resulted in some poor animal being left sprawling on the ground, wherein the sportsmen would remount and continue the chase.

Presently the buck were within range of some of the guns in the carts and a regular fusilade began. About twenty blesbuck turned and came past John, within forty yards of him. Springing to the ground, he fired both barrels of his "express" at them as they tore past—alas and alas! without touching them. The first bullet struck under their bellies, and the other must have grazed their backs. Reloading rapidly, he fired again at about 200 yards' range, and this time one fell to his second barrel. But he knew that it was a chance shot; he had fired at the last buck, and he had killed one ten paces in front of him. The fact of the matter is that this sort of shooting is exceedingly difficult till one knows how to do it.

Kingston's Jubilee Celebration.

KINGSTON, June 9.—The Queen's Jubilee will be honored here on June 30 and July 1. The first day will be given to civic sports and the second to a military display. The 1000 men in camp will join in honoring Her Majesty.

"Heaven is not reached at a single bound," sung Dr. Holland, and the same may be said of health. But many a sick person would make rapid strides in the direction of complete health by using Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It is a sovereign remedy for all forms of scrofulous diseases, king's evil, tumors, white swellings, fever-sores, scrofulous sore eyes, as well as for other blood and skin diseases.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

Ottawa Heard From.

The Ottawa Free Press says:—"Outaouais Encampment, No. 53, meet on Saturday, June 18, when nomination and election of officers for the ensuing term takes place. A number of brothers will be put through preparatory for joining the Canton. The new uniforms are now received and the brethren "militant" feel elated at the prospects of the Peterborough excursion during the meeting of the Grand Lodge next August."

Late in the season manufacturers are glad to clear ends of stock at tremendous reductions. See the seamless hosiery Turnbull is selling, three pair for 25 cents. Bought right.

New Machinery.

Four new looms are now being placed in the Auburn Mills. They are the most improved machinery of the kind now in the market. They were made by George Crompton, Worcester, Mass. More looms from the same establishment are now on the way and will be placed in the Auburn Mills on arrival there. In addition to the addition of new machinery an overhauling of a portion of the machinery at present in use is to be made. When this is completed it will make the Auburn mills more efficient than ever.

Catholic Mutual Benefit Association.

The following item is clipped from to-day's London Catholic Record:—"'A few facts concerning the Catholic Mutual Benefit Association' is the title of a very neat pamphlet written by Bro. John O'Meara, District Deputy, Peterborough. Our worthy second Vice-President of the Grand Council of Canada is to be commended for the very earnest interest he has at all times taken in the working and welfare of our Association. The publication of this book, a matter of considerable labor and expense to himself, is still another proof, if proof were needed, that Brother O'Meara has set his heart upon the spread of the society among the Catholic people of Canada. Particularly useful and instructive will it prove in places where a branch of the organization does not now exist. Those who contemplate forming branches will therein find all that it is necessary to know in order to be able to do so."

WHO sells the cheapest? A visit to ROWSE'S Trade Palace answers the question. $1.50 silks for $1.00, $1.25 silks for 84 cents, 75 cent silks for 49 cents at ROWSE'S.

POLICE COURT.

FALSE PRETENSES.

FRIDAY, June 10.—Arch. Moore was charged by John O'Meara with having obtained money under false pretenses. The evidence taken showed that it was Elijah Moore who obtained the money from the complaintant, not the defendant. The two were in partnership some time ago as butchers. The defendant, however, retired from the partnership a month and a half ago. The Magistrate dismissed the case without calling on the defence.

Messrs. Wood and O'Meara for the prosecution; Mr. Sawers for the defence.

SCOTT ACT.

John Delaney, jr., was fined $50 and costs on being convicted of a breach of the Scott Act.

VAGRANCY.

SATURDAY, June 11.—Wm. Crannells, a one armed man who has been around town begging for some time past, was before the Court this morning charged with vagrancy. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to a month in gaol.

One of the heaviest waves of cheap dress goods that ever struck Peterborough is now on sale at Turnbull's. Forty different patterns to select from at only 12½ cents a yard.

Mr. T. Cavanagh shipped another consignment of horses to Montreal to-day. It consisted of 18 fine animals.

Cattle.

Mr. Aikins, drover, has purchased sixteen head of cattle from Mr. C. D. Moore, Smith, which he will ship to the English market. The average weight of the cattle is 1,413 pounds. From Mr. Moore's brother, also of Smith, he purchased fourteen head, the average weight being 1,330 pounds. These, together with a yoke of oxen, weighing 3,630 pounds, bought from Mr. A. Davidson, Monaghan, he will also ship to the English market.

Lady Graduates.

At the annual commencement for conferring of degrees in the University of Toronto Mr. G. H. Robinson presented Miss Carolina Fair and Miss Nellie Spence for the B. A. degree, and on being invested with the hood the audience broke out into prolonged applause. Several students who were impatiently waiting for the moment then walked to the dias and presented the lady graduates with bouquets and baskets of flowers amid rounds of cheers and rare and vigorous accompaniments from the irrepressible gallery.

Turnbull's tailoring department is a grand success. Suits made to order from $12 to $16 out of choice patterns.

The Churches.

The following is a list of services in the several churches to-morrow:—

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—The regular services will be conducted as follows:—Holy Communion at 8.30 a.m.; Morning Prayer, Litany sermon and Holy Communion at 11 a.m.; Evening Prayer and sermon at 7 p. m. Prof. Jones, of Trinity College, will officiate both morning and evening.

ST. PAUL'S.—The usual services will be held.

BAPTIST CHURCH, Murray Street.—The pulpit will be occupied by a supply from McMaster Hall.

METHODIST CHURCH, Charlotte Street.—The Rev. F. H. Wallace will conduct the services in the evening at 7.00, and the Rev. I. Tovell in the morning at 11:00 o'clock.

METHODIST CHURCH, George street.—The Rev. F. H. Wallace will conduct the services in the morning at 11.00 o'clock, and the Rev. I. Tovell in the evening at 7.00 o'clock.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—The usual services will be conducted.

METHODIST CHURCH, Mark street (Ashburnham)—The Rev. J. C. Wilson, pastor, 11.00 a. m., service conducted by Mr. H. S. Griffin. 7.00 p. m., service conducted by Mr. Ivison Wilson.

MEMBERS of the conference have given tangible proof of the fact that KIDD'S is the place for bargains in boots, shoes and slippers.

For a neat fitting Mantle, Dolman, or Wrap, made and trimmed with the newest materials, call at Turnbull's.

Just arrived at Turnbull's, Gobelin and Drab Cashmeres with handsome trimmings to match, correct shades for the season.

LINDSAY

KICKED BY A HORSE.—On Friday afternoon last Mr. Alfred Winter, son of Thomas Winter, Esq., living in Ops, on the Bobcaygeon road, within three miles of Lindsay, received a serious kick in the stomach from a horse. The blow instantly prostrated him, and he was given up for lost; but under the skillful treatment of Dr. DeGrassi there are now hopes of his recovery.—Warder.

DECORATION DAY.—Lindsay lodge No. 100 I. O. O. F., have decided to hold their annual "Decoration day," on Tuesday, June 28th, and extend a cordial invitation to members of all lodges to be present with them for the purpose of decorating the graves of departed brethren and strengthening the bond of union among the living.

A DISSATISFIED BAND.—On Thursday evening by the 6.10 train the Citizens band went to Bowmanville, where they played in the competition open to second-class bands Bandmaster Johnston took with him eighteen pieces in all, sixteen horns and drums. The band returned on Thursday morning filled with indignation at what they considered unfair treatment. Their music was acknowledged better than any played by bands in the class, and yet the prize was not awarded as they claimed due. A challenge in another column throws down the gauntlet to [illegible] the result of the competition. Second-2nd, Trenton; 3rd, Deseronto; 4th, Lindsay. —Post.

REVIEW.

EDWIN BAINBRIDGE; A MEMOIR.—The memoir of Edwin Bainbridge by his old schoolfellow, Mr. T. Darlington, of St. John's College, Cambridge, England, is a book that we can confidently recommend to all our readers, who cannot fail to peruse it with deep interest. His short life (for he was cut off before he was of age) is told in a simple, easy manner that has a charm that a more pretentious [illegible] fail to exercise. Indeed he has let us to a great measure to tell in familiar correspondence the history of his school days, his brief business career and his suddenly terminated voyage to recruit his health. Without exceptional abilities, a manly, truthful, conscientious lad, more noted among his schoolfellows as an athlete than for other qualifications, there are, we hope, many lads like him. The interest of his earlier years lies in his growth in fervent, sincere religion having such power over him as to enable this lad to face a terrible death with cheerfulness and sustain by his prayers and his example those who shared his peril. His end was most tragic; struck down by the sudden eruption of the long sleeping volcano, Mount Tarewera, while he was visiting the Hot Lake District of New Zealand, he passed away with a true Christian's calm while all nature around him seemed in the throes of a violent dissolution. The description of the wonderful and beautiful scene of this catastrophe as it previously existed, for now some of its most striking features are effaced for ever, is very interesting. A profusion of illustrations show these marvels of nature and the eruption that wrecked them. The Canadian publisher is S. R. Briggs, of the Toronto Willard Tract repository.

Bernhardt's Dangerous Pet.

CHICAGO, June 11.—Sarah Bernhardt, who has just concluded an engagement here, had with her a young tiger which she called Minette. The pet, while kind and docile with Sarah, manifested an awkward desire to bite pieces out of the waiters who attended the tragedienne. While one of them was serving dinner on Thursday the pet caught him by the hand and badly lacerated it. Another waiter narrowly escaped a similar fate. Mr. Zogelman threatens to sue for damages.

MISCELLANEOUS

An immense amount of property has been destroyed in West Virginia and Ohio by heavy rainstorms.

Several petitions were presented to the Domion Parliament on Friday asking that Sunday traffic be prohibited.

The Ontario Government has proclaimed June 21st as a provincial holiday in commemoration of her Majesty's Jubilee.

Bradstreet's reports a total of 145 failures throughout the country during the week ending June 3rd, against 129 for the week previous. Twenty of the number were in Canada, one more than the preceding week.

A little girl of Lewiston, Me., fell into a feed-box 12 by 15 inches running from a hay loft to the trough below. She fell in head first, and slipped out through a broken board in the trough, frightening the horse so he ran away. All she said about her accident was: "Ma, the horse is loose."

The Elgin County Council objects to the appointment of a County Police Magistrate on the ground of expense and because it claims that all Scott Act cases have been satisfactorily tried by the Justices, and will petition the Lieutenant-Governor to cancel the appointment.

THE INDUSTRIOUS BUZZ

OF THE SAW MILL — RE-OPENING OF THE LUMBER MILLS BEGUN.

Nassau Mills in Operation — The New Mill Erected and the Work it does—Shingles, Dimension Timber Made and Planing Done.

The annual renewal of activity at Nassau took place this morning. The big mill was put in motion and now lumber by the thousands is being turned out.

These mills, commonly called the "Red Mills," are among the largest industrial establishment in Peterborough and vicinity. For over thirty years they have annually employed a large number of men during the summer months, the work of whose hands piled upon acres of ground being a sight worth going to see: This year the big mill is in a more efficient state than ever. The machinery has been overhauled, new machinery has been added and labor saving devices introduced. Among these is the turn-table for cars entering the mill. By its use the labor of turning every board piled on the car is done away with The capacity of the mill is 100,000 feet pe day. It requires water wheels, ten in all, to supply the motive power, which is estimated at

FIVE HUNDRED HORSE POWER.

A very important addition has been made to the "Red Mills" during the past winter, no less, indeed, than the erection of a fine new mill on the opposite side of the river from that occupied by the big mill The new mill is a frame structure 40x100 ft. with corrugated iron roof. It is oddly designed, but considerable ingenuity has been exercised with a view to compactness and utility. There are three stories in the mill, each being occupied by separate industries. The first storey is occupied by the planing department; the second, by the dimension timber factory; and the third by the shingle mill. The motive power is supplied by a 13 horse power [illegible] boilers. The fuel for the furnace is supplied by the mill. Through [illegible] system of carries and boards, so that almost every bit of refuse made in the mill finds its way into the the large receptacle which opens a few feet from the furnace. The planing department is situated in the south part of the first storey, the north part being filled with driving machinery. There are two planing machines, a sawing table, resaw, swing saw and ripping table, in the department. On both sides of the building switches come in. Undressed lumber is brought in on one side and the cars on the other side take it away in a finished state. The planing mill has a ft. a day. The dimension timber department is very complete. The logs are jacked up a high gangway and laid on skids before the carriage. The carriage is adjustable, being capable of taking on board almost any length of a log. It is driven independently of the rest of the machinery by a pair of twin engines situated on the floor below. The circular saw is six feet in diameter. The slabs taken off by the saw pass along rollers to a swing saw where they are cut in four foot lengths and are sent off to be piled up. The boards pass along to the edger where they are edged and then are carried through the butting saws. From thence they are carried out of the mill and slide down of its own accord to the cars below. All sorts of bill stuff is made in the mill—square timber, scantling, plank and lumber of all dimensions. The mill has a capacity of 30,000 feet per day. The shingle mill is high up in the top story. The logs are jacked from the water to an addition at the north end of the building where after passing through the drag saw and bolter are split in "bolts" ready for the shingle mills. The bolts are put in elevators and conveyed to the top storey where they are reduced to shingles by two Perkins machines. The process continues until they are packed in neat quarter thousands. The manufactured article is then slid down on a self-acting slide to the cars.

CAPACITY OF 40,000

FIRE PROTECTION.

The fire protection is more complete than is usually to be seen in a saw mill. One of Whyte's force pumps, driven by the engine, has been placed in and tested, giving great satisfaction. An ample supply of hose is attached. Added to this frames containing hand grenades and buckets of water are placed in the mill.

THE BUILDER.

Mr. N. Shaw was the millwright. He constructed the mill under Mr. Irwin's supervision, and has left another proof of his success as a builder of mills.

HEADS OF DEPARTMENTS.

Mr. Alex. Hamilton is the overseer of both of the mills; Mr. Geo. Warren has charge of the planing department; Mr. Wm. Plaine, of the dimension timber department, and Mr. J. P. Long, formerly of Lakefield, of the shingle department.

THIS week H. S. Griffin & Co. offer extraordinary value in a special line of Kid Gloves, in evening and dark shades, 4 button, 35c. per pair. Prints at 7½c. are going quickly. LATEST CABLE NEWS

NEGOTIATIONS RESUMED.

LONDON, June 11.—M. Waddington, the French Ambassador, resumed negotiations with Lord Salisbury on the Suez Canal and New Hebrides neutrality question.

ITALY AND THE VATICAN.

ROME, June 11.—In the Chamber of Deputies, yesterday, Signor Davis, radical, interpellated the Government regarding the rumors of a reconciliation with the Vatican. Minister Zanardelli replied that no act of the Government or of any foreign power justified such a question. He was opposed to any conflict between religion and state, but he would always have the law respected, and would maintain intact the mission of liberty confided to Italy. Minister Chrispi's Government was, at any rate, not seeking reconciliation. He had no wish to know what was occurring in the Vatican. The time had come, however, for answering many questions, that might lead to a reconciliation, which would never be detrimental to the national rights. Signors Chrispi and Zanardelli both said there were explicit laws regulating the state's relations with the Vatican, which could not be violated. The statement met with general approval in the House.

BOYCOTTING THE SCHOOLS.

DUBLIN, June 11.—At Ballindangas, near Mitchelltown, two hundred children have boycotted the National Schools.

WAR UPON JEWS.

VIENNA, June 11.—A strong anti-Semitic movement is up in Hungary. There has been a fight in this connection at Neutret in which eight persons were killed and 30 wounded.

THE IRISH POLICY.

LONDON, June 11.—It is rumored that Mr. Gladstone intends, after the Crimes Bill has passed its third reading, to raise the whole question of the Government's Irish policy.

THE EGYPTIAN CONVENTION.

In the House of Lords on Friday the Marquis of Salisbury presented the Egyptian convention. England is to evacuate Egypt in ten years. The right to appoint English officers to command the native army ceases at the end of five years. England retains the right to send troops to Egypt in the event of external or internal disorder. The convention will not be valid unless ratified by the powers.

RUSSIA MOVING FORWARD.

BOMBAY, June 11.—It is reported that [illegible] ling two from Herat, together with their officers, have deserted in response to a proclamation of the Ameer of Bokhara, inviting the enlistment of Afghans under Afghan commanders. Fresh troops have been ordered from Cabul to replace the Herat Garrison, which is suspected of being in sympathy with the Governor of Pengdeh. The Russians have advanced 10,000 troops to within six Bokharan farstangs of Herat, and have occupied Kark, which is four farstangs distant from Herat.

MODIFICATIONS WANTED.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 11.—The Sultan demands further modification of the Egyptian convention before it is ratified. Sir Henry Drummond Wolff has refused to accede to the demand, but has referred the matter to the Home Government.

THE EMPRESS OF AUSTRIA.

VIENNA, June 11.—The Empress of Austria starts for England on July 2nd. She will stay a month at Cromer, a watering place in Norfolk.

GOING TO THE JUBILEE.

ATHENS, June 11.—King George and the Crown Prince have started for London to attend the jubilee.

TITHE RIOTS.

LONDON, June 12.—A collision occurred yesterday at Denbigh, Wales, between a mob and a body of police who were protecting an auctioneer engaged in selling property for tithes. The mob turned an excited bull loose on the police and assaulted them with rotten eggs. One arrest was made. A large military force has left Chester for the purpose of quelling the tithe riots in North Wales.

THE QUEEN'S JUBILEE.

LONDON, June 12.—The Queen, in order to invest the Jubilee ceremony in Westminster Abbey with greater pomp, consents to assume the State robes and to be surrounded with all the insignia of sovereignty after entering the Abbey. Eight thousand troops will line the route to the Abbey, besides a guard of honour of six hundred persons.

THE POPE'S LETTER.

ROME, June 12.—The autograph letter from the Pope, which Mgr. Scilla will present to the Queen, after congratulating her Majesty upon her Jubilee, offers a grateful acknowledgment of the action of the Indian Government toward the Catholic missions and of the protection efforded the Catholic hierarchy in India.

PACIFIC MAIL ROUTE.

LONDON, June 12.—I learn that the Government here view with apprehension the proposal of Germany to provide a line of steamers between Vancouver and Hong Kong. When the contract comes before the House it is confidently expected that the Government will make a concession enabling the Canadian Pacific to dispense with the foreign proposal and retain the great route for England alone. I know a large number of members who will support the subsidy to the Canadian Pacific. Sir Edward Watkin is working hard in favour of the route.—Mail.

THE WRECKED CATTLE.

LONDON, June 12.—One hundred and eighty more bullocks have been landed on an uninhabited island off the Scilly group from the British steamer Castleford, Captain McLean, which went ashore while bound from Montreal for Newcastle.

GREAT INUNDATION.

VIENNA, June 12.—Twenty-five thousand square miles of land are inundated in Hungary. There was another hurricane at Mako on Saturday. The water washed over the dykes and overflowed and destroyed a number of bridges. The labourers at work on the dykes fled, but were driven back by the soldiers.

A PROVINCE HOPELESS.

LONDON, June 12.—Prince Bismarck's present policy to maintain the entente between Germany and Russia leaves the German populace in the Baltic provinces hopeless.

MINISTERIAL CHANGE.

LONDON, June 12.—Earl Beauchamp, Paymaster-General, has resigned. Earl Brownlow has been appointed to succeed him.

BELGIUM ARMING.

BRUSSELS, June 12.—King Leopold, in a speech on presenting the new colours to the artillery and civic guard to-day, said:—"Citizens now having exciting duties to perform, the exigencies of modern times have required that your arms be altered. When the country sees armaments changing all round, it is compelled under the penalty of dissastrous inequality to adopt perfected arms. The organization too must be modern. When the defence of the country and the development of its industrial and commercial resources are at stake, it is the duty of the nation to make every possible effort in the country's behalf."

A SPLIT.

LONDON, June 12.—The vote of the House carrying Mr. Smith's motion for the report of the committee of the Crimes bill on the 17th inst., has convinced Mr. Parnell that the policy of obstructions has been played too long already for the good of his party, and he announces when he cannot help himself, that he will not oppose the passage of the bill through committee. Mr. Healy, who is hot-headed, is in favour of pursuing obstructive tactics, heedless of the fact that not only the English people at large, but even such men as Messrs. Gladstone and Morley would be estranged thereby. Mr. Parnell has also expressed his disapproval of Mr. Michael Davitt's incendiary speeches at Bodyke, and to reconcile existing discordances in the Irish party a special meeting is to be held to-morrow.

ENDS IN SMOKE.

LONDON, June 12.—A pipemaker in Metz has been fined for selling pipes bearing a carved head of Gen. Boulanger.

ANOTHER FARCE.

PARIS, June 12.—M. Clemenceau and M. Foucher, the latter the editor of the National, have fought a duel with pistols. Two shots were fired, but neither of the combatants was hit. The duel was the outcome of a newspaper quarrel.

THE BODYKE EVICTIONS.

DUBLIN, June 12.—The evictions at Bodyke were further carried out yesterday. The first house visited by the evicting force was that of Timothy Collins, but as it was announced that a daughter of Collins lay dying inside, the work of eviction was abandoned. The evictors then proceeded to the house of Michael O'Callaghan, where they met with terrible resistance. The bailiffs and police were deluged with scalding water and meal. Col. Turner, who was in charge of the evicting party, implored Father Hannon, who was again in attendance, to endeavour to persuade the people to cease resistance and thus prevent bloodshed. Father Hannon then entered the house and [illegible] their attack on the police. The eviction was carried out [illegible] eviction. Five women who had been extremely violent in their attack were arrested. The police threatened to arrest Mr. Michael Davitt if he interfered with their work.

TRENT VALLEY NAVIGATION.

In spite of its encroachment upon our space we republish in full from Hansard the discussion that arose on the Trent Valley estimate in the House of Commons while in Committee of Supply. Any information on the subject will be read with interest even if it is not altogether satisfactory.

It will be seen that the member for West Peterborough has taken an active and energetic part in advocating the vigorous prosecution of this important work. We hope that the representations of the deputations to Ottawa will so strengthen the hands of himself and of other members who are assisting in advocating a fresh grant that the Administration may be induced to concur.

There will be a strong and growing feeling of disappointment if there is any appearance of the matter being merely shelved. People cannot understand how it can take so many years to obtain detailed estimates and surveys after Mr. Starke, C. E., gave so full a report and such a satisfactory preliminary estimate of the cost as the result of a very thoroughly examination.

NOT OF THE CABINET.

It is gratifying to us to find that a system which the REVIEW has advocated almost single handed for some years, has now been practically adopted. Sir John Macdonald and his colleagues have provided for new members of the Government not of Cabinet rank, and the ablest man of the Opposition, Sir Richard Cartwright, has cordially approved of the step, using almost our own words in advocating it.

At present there are to be three of these members of the Government, the Controller of Customs, the Controller of Inland Revenue, and the Solicitor General. Perhaps it is as well that the system should thus be partially tried, so as to test it, but we feel sure that it will prove so successful that the policy will be extended. All the important departments should have Parliamentary Assistant Ministers, and as they will not have such heavy office work as the three now established the expense need only be trifling.

THE London Advertiser says:—

"Our esteemed contemporary the New York World is a great paper, but when it gravely says that 'Manitoba has applied to the Ottawa Government for a charter to build a road to connect with our adjacent railway system,' we feel that it has failed to fully grasp the situation, to put it mildly."

The New York journalist has apparently a better grasp of the situation than his critic. Possibly the N. Y. World may not thoroughly understand the details of our system of legislation, but again it may. It is true that Manitoba has applied to the Dominion Government, not to grant but to allow such a charter, and this allowance is really the important point, for without it no local bill is valid under the constitution of the Dominion of Canada. Such allowance is properly withheld from an avowed attempt to tap our great national highway and divert traffic from Western Canada into the railway systems of the United States.

OMEMEE.

IN MEMORIAM.—Fell asleep in Jesus, in this village, on Tuesday, midnight, May 31st, Wm. Curry in his 78th year. The subject of this brief memoir was born in the city of Armagh, Ireland, and came out to Canada in 1834. After remaining five years he returned home for a short time prior to his final establishment in this country. On his arrival in 1841 he engaged in business in Peterborough and married Susanna, the daughter of Mr. Chas. Hale of that town, and by whom he became the father of nine children, all but one living. In 1853 Mr. Curry removed to Omemee, and commenced business in which he was engaged up to the period of his decease. In politics he was a Liberal-Conservative and in religion a member of the Church of England. During his many years residence here, he not only endeared himself by his gentle and upright life, to the whole community, but received at their hands civilly and ecclesiastically every position of trust and honor that could be accorded him, and he litterally died in the public harness. His end after a brief period of suffering (only three days) was peace and he quietly passed away surrounded by his bereaved children and sorrowing widow.—Herald.

Trent Valley Canal.

The Monetary Times knows a great deal, and is a very valuable journal, but it does not know much about the Trent Valley Canal. It says that it fears that what has been done, had a political motive. This is nonsense. The Government would have had none but the purest motive in building this canal. The Monetary Times recommends that the works should be abandoned, and in making that recommendation shows that it is imperfectly acquainted with the objects in view.—Bobcaygeon Independent.

Expropriation of Lands—Department of Trade and Commerce—Members of Government not of the Cabinet.

FRIDAY, June 10.—A number of private bills were advanced a stage.

EXPROPRIATED LANDS.

Mr. THOMPSON introduced a bill as to the expropriation of lands. Claims are to be transferred to the new court.

DEPARTMENTAL CHANGES.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD moved the House into committee on the bill forming a Department of Trade and Commerce. He gave strong reasons why the Finance Minister should be relieved of this important branch of his work. The Controllers of Customs and Inland Revenue would be under this Department. They would have seats in Parliament and be members of the Government, but not of the Cabinet, which thus would not be enlarged.

Sir RICHARD CARTWRIGHT approved of such political heads not in the Cabinet as a good apprenticeship for younger members. He thought the controllers of the collecting branches should be under the Minister of Finance. To this suggestion Sir John subsequently acceded.

Mr. MITCHELL opposed the measure because it would give the Government more power.

Mr. MILLS wanted it put off for another session.

The committee reported the bill.

EXCHEQUER COURT.

The Supreme and Exchequer Court Bill was discussed at considerable length in committee and was reported.

Queen Victoria.

The sovereign with whom Queen Victoria is naturally contrasted is Elizabeth, who reigned like a king by virtue of her imperious will, inflexible purpose and unfailing self-reliance. One was an essentially masculine character with few signs of the sensibility and innate gentleness characteristic of her sex. The other has never been unsexed in her long and triumphant reign. She has been a womanly Queen. While she has made a serious business of reiguing and has devoted herself with much patience and toil to the arduous political functions of her office, she has exercised a personal influence over the English people that has been as essentially feminine as her rival's was masculine. As wife, mother and widow she has exalted the purest and tenderst relations of English home life; and the innate womanliness of her character has left a permanent impression upon the social life of English-speaking races the world over. As a sovereign her great merits have been the readiness with which she has adapted herself to the political conditions of constitutional monarchy and the influence which she has always powerfully exerted in favour of peace, purity and public morality.—*N. TRENT VALLEY NAVIGATION.

Discussion in Committee of Supply on the Estimates and Prospects.

In view of the great interest taken by our readers in the Trent Valley Navigation, we give at length the discussion on the estimate for the work, as reported in Hansard:

Trent River Navigation $90,000

Mr. BARRON—At this late hour I am not prepared to take up the time of the House in discussing the scheme at any particular length, but I think it is my duty to my constituency, which is deeply interested in the construction of the Trent Canal, to express the opinions they entertain on this subject. I think if the gentlemen living throughout the entire route of this canal, from Georgian Bay down to the Bay of Quinte, are as equally interested in it as the constituents I represent, I may fairly say that I express their feelings when I say they are deeply disappointed at the Government not doing anything more than they promised to do. I take it from their estimates that they do not intend to grant any more money than that which they originally voted. I understand that the $90,000 to be expended is part of a former vote, so that the fact is there is no new vote to be taken this session on behalf of the construction and continuation of that canal. I say, therefore, that the people will be most deeply disappointed at that state of things. I presume to say, although I know it is not wise sometimes for a young member to presume too much, that the Government is a little to blame in this matter. Hon. gentlemen remember the answer given me the other day by the hon. the Minister of Railways and Canals. He then said it was not the intention of the Government to enter upon any new works on this canal, but to complete the works now under progress. It may astonish some honorable gentlemen to learn that practically speaking, in the very same answer which was made by the hon. the Finance Minister in 1882, he then said that the Government intended to see if the works could not be completed. I want to be accurate, and shall read, therefore, from Hansard the answer made by the Finance Minister to the former representative of North Victoria, when he asked a question almost similar to that which I asked two days ago. I beg leave to say that an appropriation having been made for that purpose, an engineer was engaged to make a careful location and survey of the Trent Valley Navigation with the view of arriving at the cost and feasibility of construction of that work. That was in 1882. There also appears in that year the sum of $80,000 placed in the Estimates for that purpose. Here are the words of the Finance Minister on that occasion:

"We shall probably come to an additional item of $90,000 to prosecute that survey to its completion during the present season."

Five years have elapsed since that time, and although the Government then promised that the works should be pushed to completion, so far as surveys were concerned, we have to-day, five years afterwards; almost the self-same answers made by hon. gentlemen opposite. They appear to give as excuse for such an answer, that they are not sufficiently familiar with the work, or at all events, with the cost of the work, to say whether they can go on with it or not. At this hour I do not intend to ask the House to listen to a reading of the report brought down to the House in 1882, but I shall ask the permission of the House to read the first clause, and I cannot understand that that clause of that report being in their possession, the Government can now say they are not sufficiently familiar with the feasibility of the work to say whether or not they can go on and complete it or not:

"The undersigned has the honor to represent that from time to time, during many years past, as shown in successive annual and other reports the establishment of a line of water communication between Lake Ontario, at the mouth of the River Trent, and Lake Huron, through the utilising of existing river and lake waters, has been under consideration."

That report is a very old one indeed; it has been in possession of the Depaptment many years.

Sir CHARLES TUPPER. If the hon gentleman will allow me to interrupt him, I think I may say he has entirely misapprehended the statement of the hon. Minister of Railways and Canals the other day, and that he is beating the air, fighting a shadow, setting up a man of straw and then knocking it down. The Minister of Railways and Canals has said nothing about the survey, or about the report, or about the engineering information that was required. What he did state was, that he proposed to take a vote for the completion of the work now in progress, and for a commission during recess to take up the whole question of the extension of the works on the Trent Valley Canal. That has nothing to do with the surveys or reports, but has simply reference to the completion of the e reports, and the demand and necessity for a large expenditure of public money in order to make a new canal through there. I am sorry to have to interrupt the hon. gentleman, and if this were during the winter season, I would not do so, but here in the dog days and at midnight, to deal with an argument of this kind is rather trying.

Mr. BARRON. Of course I should be sorry to be under any misapprehension, but, although we all recognise the great ability of the Finance Minister, I think I can read plain English as well as he can. It is not my fault if I have misread the answer given the other day. I am not alone in that. The organ of the hon. gentleman gives it in the way in which I understand it.

Sir CHARLES TUPPER. Take the Hansard. We have an accurate report there of what takes place.

Mr. BARRON. If the hon. gentleman will listen to me I will read the observations of the Peterborough REVIEW, which is recognised as being a Conservative paper, in reference to the answer made to me the other day:

"The statement made by the Minister of Railways and Canals that a commission would be appointed to examine during the recess into the nature and cost of further works to open the Trent Valley Navigation will not be favorably regarded in this district. The nature and cost of these works—"

Sir CHARLES TUPPER. If the hon. gentleman will take the Hansard I will stand corrected, if he will show that it was a question of the surveys and costs that was referred to.

Mr. BOWELL. What was the date of that paper?

Mr. BARRON. I shall continue to read what the Peterborough REVIEW said

Some HON. MEMBERS. Oh.

Mr. BARRON. Well, it is a very singular thing that there should be others mistaken as well as myself. The answer was given by the hon. gentleman, and had gone over the country, and the people who are interested along the route of this canal—and there are a great many of them—have considered as I have—

Some hon. MEMBERS. Take the Hansard.

Sir CHARLES TUPPER. Suppose you hand it to the reporter, and let it be treated as read.

Mr. BARRON. The paper says:

"The nature and cost of these works have already been fully investigated and if the Ministers insist upon their officials producing them they will find ample materials on which to form a judgment. Indeed on the information before them they some time ago formed a judgment, recognised the value and feasibility of this great improvement and promised to carry it out as promptly as the finances permitted. So far they have continuously prosecuted the works, but the section now in hand is now near its completion, and for the first time since it was re-commenced there will be a cessation of the work.

"There is no disposition to dread an investigation on account of want of confidence in the merits of this improvement. The more it is investigated the more clearly it will appear that for a comparatively small outlay a route can be opened that will be of great value to the country at large. Its benefits have been plainly demonstrated and have been officially admitted. Mr. Stark's careful estimates showed that it would be far from costly for a route of such great importance, and nothing has since arisen to modify this view. If a commission is to be appointed we hope it will consist of men of sound judgment, and then there can be no fear of their reporting adversely to this necessary work.

"But, as we have before remarked, we see no need of a commission. The stage of investigation is passed. Another section, say from here to Lakefield, might well be placed under contract, for the plans and estimates are ready. Many railways that have been subsidised in other parts of the Dominion are of far less public importance than this navigable route."

Now, in addition to that, it appears that the hon. gentleman wrote a letter a few days ago the hon. member for West Peterborough, which is printed in the Peterborough papers. I will not read it at length, but simply the part which refers to this point.

"I have to say in reply that, inasmuch as I would like to meet your views respecting this matter, I will press on the work, so far as already begun, to completion this season if possible. In so far as the balance of the work of the Trent Valley Canal is concerned, I have to say that, before proceeding further, we will, after the session, send on a commission to report fully upon the whole matter."

This is signed by the Minister of Railways and Canals. Now, I think I am justified in taking up a little time, because I tell hon. gentlemen opposite that the answer made to me the other day has created a little disturbance in the localities which are interested in this canal, so much so, I understand, that in the face of the remonstrances of the Minister of Railways and Canals, a deputation is coming from the Town of Peterborough to ask the Government to make an appropriation for this purpose. I am simply expressing the disappointment which is felt as to their not having been treated fairly as far as this work is concerned. We have the promise of the Minister of Public Works made to the member for West Peterborough that the works will be completed or gone on with between Peterborough and Lakefield during the coming summer. I shall read the remarks which the member for West Peterborough [illegible] made on the night of the election. He is reported by the Peterborough Review, the Conservative organ, to have said:—

"The Minister of Public Works had given him every assurance that the Trent Valley Canal contract between Peterborough and Lakefield would be let during the coming summer. This was no electioneering dodge, because the elections were now all over."

The statement was made on the night of the election, therefore the promise must have been made before the election was over.

"He hoped next summer to see thousands of men employed in and about Peterborough."

That is what I hope to see, and I believe the public who are interested in this canal, and there are very many of them, will otherwise regard this as an electioneering dodge, more or less, by the hon. gentlemen opposite. We all remember that the Minister of Finance paid a visit to that part of the country before the works were begun, and he was reported to have said that the work would be gone on with, but we have it from higher authority. Hon. gentlemen will remember that elections took place in June, 1882, and what at that time did the Premier of the country say? He went there accompanied by the present Speaker of the Senate, and he said:

"Every town of sufficient size wanted a post office and a custom house, and every part of the country wanted some improvement in order to develop its resources, just as those he was addressing demanded the carrying out of the Trent navigation system, and they were going to get it. It was by mere chance the Government had the opportunity of carrying out that great project of inland navigation."

Speaking of the Trent waters, he said:

"The Government kept them till the revenue had expanded sufficiently to justify them in going to Parliament as they did last session, and getting a substantial vote which would be sufficient to add 150 miles of internal communication to their part of the country. The vote taken last session would, however, amply guarantee that the whole work would be finished out as fast as the revenue would allow, so it could be constructed."

Now, that is what the Premier stated in June, 1882. I do think, therefore, that the people interested in this work have a right to expect that the Government will go on and complete it. The Government go into other expenses, they expend an enormous sum on the Franchise Act, which for one election, assuming that we shall have only one election in five years, will amount to between two and a quarter and two and a half million dollars. Now, if they would dispense with that and take the money and build this Trent Valley Canal the people would be thoroughly well satisfied all over the Dominion. Hon. gentlemen opposite know that this matter has been looked upon altogether aside from party feeling: the Reformers have joined hands with the Conservatives in representing to hon. gentlemen opposite its necessity. I say it is not treating the people fairly now to do no more than simply give us a revote of $90,000. I am sure the people will be greatly dissatisfied all along the line of these works unless something more is done.

Mr. STEVENSON—As my name has been mentioned in connection with this matter, I wish to make some remarks before the vote is carried. I regret that the Minister of Railways and Canals is not in his place, not being well enough, unfortunately, to remain. In respect to this canal I have myself taken a great deal of time and trouble, and probably know as much about it as my hon. friend from North Victoria (Mr. Barron). I may say in the beginning that I have the utmost confidence in the intention of the present Government to do what is right and to press forward the work of that canal. From the beginning I have never wavered from that belief, and I have heard nothing from the Government to justify an intimation that the works will not be proceeded with. It is quite true that the Minister has stated that the Government intends to appoint a commission immediately after Parliament rises, to go over the works and report. What that means I do not know exactly. I must say that I am very anxious. I did not expect that answer in the first place, because I thought, and think still, that no commission was required. I have always understood that there is no doubt of the feasibility of the project, and I think that the most expensive part of it has been constructed. I think the locks at Burleigh, where the rocks are very hard and difficult to blast, are the most expensive and difficult portion of the whole work, so far as I know. The section above Peterborough is one of a very different character, as the rock is of shale limestone and easy to cut. I do not think there will be any difficulty in the project. The town of Peterborough is very much interested, and the Government knows this very well. They have appointed deputations to visit the Government. I was in Peterborough the other night, and a meeting was immediately called at which I gave the answer of the Minister, supposing that it would be satisfactory. The Council urged a deputation to go to Ottawa, and it will arrive here the middle of next week to interview the Government on the matter. I know that other deputations are coming. People along the Trent Valley Canal on both sides of the river are alive to this matter. They are determined, no matter what Government is in power, that they shall have that canal eventually. It has been dragging along now year after year. The hardest part of the work has now been done, and I give the present Government credit for it. The Mackenzie Government, instead of doing anything towards that work, handed over the title to the Ontario Government, and all they ever did was to appoint some men to keep the people from fishing. But to the present Government, and also to the present Minister of Railways, and the present Minister of Finance we are indebted for all that has been constructed so far. I am happy to know that there is no intention on the part of the Government to abandon it, so far as I have been able to gather from them. I have pressed the work on them as earnestly as I know how. I have urged the construction of this canal, as well as I know how upon the Minister of Canals and also upon other members of the Government, and I have no doubt that when times get a little better and money more plentiful we shall have a good grant towards this canal. In connection with these canal contracts I know, and everyone must know, that every contractor and every official belonging to the Local Government worked as hard as they possibly could to oppose this Government. They did not make any bones about it, and spent money in our constituencies. I know that every man from the lowest bailiff to the head of the Government of Ontario travelled throughout our constituencies, and fought the Government and fought myself—I know that to a certainty—from the Premier down. I know that every man in their employ from one end to the other, travelled round and did everything possible to oppose the present Government. I would not have referred to this matter if it had not been referred to by the hon. member for East Northumberland (Mr. Mallory). In reference to cutting holes in the ice, the contractors may do as they please, I suppose. I do not know anything to prevent them. I do not know that any Government can prevent them; and if they see fit to help a candidate, and spend their own money, I suppose they have a perfect right to do it. I know that in our part of the country the Government spent no money, at least in my behalf. Whatever money was spent in my behalf I spent it myself, and I asked nobody to help me. I did not want any assistance. My expenses were very little, comparatively speaking. I speak now with regard to the contractors. I do not know the contractors up our way. The contractor for the canal was not there at all during the election. I do not know about cutting holes in the ice, but it does seem singular that it should have been done. That man must be a good contractor if he cuts holes in the ice in the winter and lets them freeze up again. I know where other things were done that were probably as ridiculous as that, although, perhaps, they were not paid for by the Government. I am very sorry the Government have not seen fit at the present time to put a larger amount in the estimates. I hope that before the Session closes they will give us something more, but if they do not, I trust that another Session will not pass without their doing something more. I am satisfied that all the inhabitants in the Trent Valley, from Barrie and from Lake Huron down, will support the Government if they go on with that canal. The people are terribly in earnest about it; they are determined to have it. There is a large lake in the rear and a shortening by the water way of over 150 or nearly 200 miles, so that vessels could reach Montreal much more quickly than by any other route. Yet the work is not done and vast sums of money are spent on the Welland Canal. All the engineers to whom I have spoken are satisfied that there is no difficulty with respect to its construction. The present engineer says that the total amount necessary for the construction of the work is between three millions and four millions. We have spent already at various times during the last thirty years in the neighbourhood of one million dollars, and it is not all to be thrown away. No Government will permit this expenditure to be wasted, and the necessities of the West and North-West will eventually force the Government to construct this work. It is the only outlet by water for the products of the North-West. Look at the water route by way of the Georgian Bay and the Sault down by this canal by which barges could come by Lakes Superior and Huron through to Montreal without transhipment. The advantages are so numerous that I cannot see what the trouble can be, and I hope that before long the Government will see its way, in fact I have no doubt about it, and carry this work to completion. I have full confidence in the present Government that they will give all the assistance we need to press forward the construction of this canal as rapidly as possible. I am aware that the engineers have not agreed in their reports as to the cost of its construction and therefore I suppose the necessity of the course the Government intend to pursue. On that account I am willing to acquiesce in what the Government have agreed to do, and I am satisfied that the people living along the line of the canal feel confident that the Government will carry forward the work and complete the canal so soon as possible.

The following is the official report of the question by Mr. Barron and the reply by the Minister of Railways and Canals on June 1st, to which allusion was made in the above discussion:—

Mr. BARRON asked, is it the intention of the Government to proceed this year with the construction of the works of the Trent Valley Canal? Does the Government intend this year to enter upon any fresh work not now under progress? And if so, at what point or points on the route of the canal?

Mr. POPE. It is the intention of the Government to complete, during this year, all the works that have been begun. It is also the intention of the Government, during the recess, to appoint a commission to examine and report upon the balance of the work that the hon. gentleman speaks of.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

It is so hot!—Let's go to ROWSE'S for some of these $3.00 parasols they are advertising for $1.50. They say they are lovely goods.

Bicycle Meet.

The Bicycle Club will meet on the market square at 7.30 to-morrow evening to have a club run.

The Heat of the Sun

Will have no effect on ladies if they read J. J. Sheehy's advertisement and act accordingly.

Closed.

Owing to repairs being made in Mr. Jas. Long's store it will be closed for a few days. Customers can be supplied at the store of Mr. H. Long. 1d127

Jubilee.

A meeting of the Jubilee celebration committee was held on Saturday evening. The business of the evening was the arranging of details. The final meeting of the committee will be held on Friday evening next.

To Kidd's for boots to boot your kids.

Practice.

The children of the Sunday schools are requested to attend the jubilee celebration practice at the Belmont Roller Rink this evening. A large attendance is requested. Messrs. Millar and Gallelly will be in charge.

Cricket.

The Peterboroughs were badly worsted in Toronto, by the Torontos, on Saturday; the score standing an innings and 141 runs in favor of Toronto. Toronto scored 227 in the first innings to Peterborough's 26. In the second innings Peterborough made 60.

W. C. T. U.

The Young Women's Christian Temperance Union will meet to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the W. C. T. U. Hall. All members are requested to be present, as they will have to make a selection for emblem—Napanee Union having had first choice, have taken the Lily of the Valley.

One of the heaviest waves of cheap dress goods that ever struck Peterborough is now on sale at Turnbull's. Forty different patterns to select from at only 12½ cents a yard.

Races.

On the Little Lake on Friday evening races were held under the auspices of the Lansdowne Rowing Club. Messrs. George Stevenson and J. Mercer entered the single scull contest, Mercer winning by about half a boat length. In the double scull race Mercer and Haliday defeated Stevenson and Delaney, the latter coming in a good second.

For a neat fitting Mantle, Dolman, or Wrap, made and trimmed with the newest materials, call at Turnbull's.

Death of a Stallion.

On Saturday morning the stallion, "Dollar Boy," the property of Mr. Wm. Fair, North Monaghan, took sick at Morgan's hotel stables with inflammation of the bowels. Dr. Stephenson worked with the animal all day, but the disease had got such headway that it was impossible to get it under control. The stallion died at about 7 o'clock in the evening. He was valued at $2,000.

Go to H. S. Griffin & Co's for Millinery; prices away down.

Personal.

The Rev. I.C. Fortin, of Emmerson, Man. preached the sermons in St. John's church on Sunday.

The Rev. J. W. R. Beck, has so far recovered from his recent illness as to be able to take part in the church services again. He was present at both services on Sunday.

Mr. W. J. Mason has completely recovered from his recent illness.

The Wheel.

Stock in the Peterborough Bicycle Club is getting more buoyant every day. Several have got wheels lately. On Saturday last Messrs R. Fife and John Carlisle purchased a machine each. Mr. Carlisle's is a little "Kangaroo" and Mr. Fife's a 56-inch one. About the club the Belleville Intelligencer says:—"The Peterborough Bicycle Club, which has been languishing, is reviving and promises to be vigorous hereafter. At their last meeting held on Friday last officers were elected, when Will Greatrix, well known here as a good fellow, an enthusiastic wheelman, and an uncommon good flier on the track, was elected Captain."

Follow the crowd to Kidd's for boots.

THE CHILDREN'S DAY.

St. Paul's Sunday School Meeting—Sermon and Address.

On Sunday the St. Paul's Sunday School children and teachers attended church in a body at the morning service. The Rev. E. F. Torrance preached the sermon taking for his text, Genesis, XXVIII, 12.—"And he dreamed, and behold a ladder set up on the earth, and the top of it reached to heaven: and behold the angels of God ascending and decending upon it."

After dwelling on this subject of dreams for a time he turned to the second Epistle of Peter I, 5 and 7. The contents of these passages he constructed into a ladder leading to Heaven. He talked about the successive steps, and told the children stories applicable to the discourse and sustaining the interest. The rounds of the ladder were Faith, Virtue (or Valor), Knowledge, Temperance, Patience, Godliness, Brotherly Kindness and Charity.

In the afternoon there was a service of song, at which Sunday school children, teachers and parents were present. The Rev. Mr. Torrance delivered an address. The hymns were appropriate and the singing pleasing, especially that of the infant class. A collection was taken up for the purpose of purchasing books to replenish the library.

The Great English Poet.

It was generally understood that Mr. J Dickson Morgan had paid his last farewell to this "blawsted Kentry" when he was supplied with a ticket by Councillor Stenson last winter. Those who grieved at his departure will of course hail with delight the following announcement; which has been forwarded to an intimate friend of the poet:—

"ENGLAND.

"Mr. J. Dickson Morgan, the great English poet, whose writings are in preparation for the press, is again coming to Canada and the United States. He will probably lecture and recite a number of his best poems at Peterborough. He cannot say at what date the lecture will take place. Mr. Morgan will sail for Canada this week.

"Signed,

"J. DICKSON MORGAN."

The letter, which is a paragon of calligraphy, is ornamented in the corners with pictures of ships spreading their sails to the breeze. His arrival will doubtless be looked forward to with breathless expectancy.

WE buy our hosiery at ROWSE'S Trade Palace. You can get all colors and blacks, and the price suits every time.

Church Parade.

It is probable that on next Sunday morning there will be a church parade in which cavalry, artillery and infantry will take part, to attend service at the George Street Methodist Church, where the Rev. I. Tovell will preach a sermon appropriate to the occasion and the Jubilee year.

T. V. C. Deputation.

The deputation of Councillors and citizens to wait upon the Ministers in regard to the Trent Valley Canal, will leave for Ottawa by the Tuesday night train at 11 o'clock. Arrangements have been made for a cheap return fare.

A Picnic Time.

Now let us to the woodland hie, where trees their verdure wrap, for spring no longer lingers in old burly winter's lap. In picnic garb we'll amble forth, and sit beneath the trees, and have our hides all chopped and hacked, with stings and bumble bees. We'll gaily don our linen coats, and thin seersucker pants, and sit beside the gurgling stream, while o'er us crawl the ants. We'll swallow picnic lemonade, to moisten down our grub, which people make by soaking one, cheap lemon in a tub. The guileless lemon we shall eat, devour the clammy pie, and sit on bowls of custard, while a tear bedims our eye. We'll tip the mustard in the jam, the pepper in the tea, and try with all our might to show, that we are filled with glee. Then let us to the picnic hie, our baskets in our hands, and homeward come filled up with woe, and leaves and dust and sand.—Atcheson, (Kas.) Globe.

Lawns and Evergreens.

In making a new lawn, the first point is the proper preparation of the soil. It should be thoroughly and deeply tilled, with an abundance of well composted manure worked into it. Then sow four or six bushels of seed to the acre. In making a new lawn, it is well to lay an edge of turf along the paths or roads, and along the margins of the beds that are to be made in the lawn. If paths or walks are to be made, whatever the material, secure a good foundation by excavating and filling in broken stone to make a solid bottom. * * Spring time is usually preferred for transplanting evergreens. The essential point is to prevent the roots from drying. From the minute they are taken from the soil to the time when they go into it again, the roots must not dry. Shelter them from the sun and air and, if possible, keep them wet.—American Agriculturist.

IMPORTANT!

At the time of selling our stock of Dry Goods to Sheehy & Co., we had fully determined to give up that particular branch of our business, but, as previously announced, did not do so, for various reasons. However, it is now our intention to dispose of the Dry Goods Trade, and have consequently made up our minds to clear out the whole stock

AT COST AND UNDER.

This is one of the BEST Dry Goods stocks in the country, having been imported from the best markets direct to ourselves. Remember, this will be a GENUINE CLEARING OUT SALE. While we will still retain our Clothing Trade, yet we will, during this sale, offer ALL our Ready-made Clothing, for Men and Boys, (with all kinds of Furnishings) AT COST PRICE.

THE GREAT WHEAT DEAL

Collapsed—A Decline of Eighteen Cent in Two Hours and a Half.

One of the biggest wheat deals ever engineered collapsed to-day. For more than two months a powerful corporation of kept in the dark, have been obtaining control of the Chicago market. Wheat was taken hold of by them at around 81 cents and was forced up degree by degree till it reached 94¾. Around this point short covering was compelled on a large scale. It is estimated that the "clique," to run the corner, had to buy between thirty-five million and forty million bushels of May and June wheat.

The bubble burst to-day. The opening was 92 for June, and 83¾ for July wheat. June broke a cent at a time till 87 was reached. After dipping a half cent further it rallied to 91. From this point it quickly sank point after point till it had dropped 18 cents, one of the greatest raids ever known. July wheat and other future options went down also, the lowest point for July being 74¾ cents.

The smoke will now clear away and by to-morrow it will be seen who have been successful in gaining the spoils.

THE DEADLY REVOLVER.

A Young Girl Killed by the Accidental Discharge of a Pistol.

HAMILTON, June 13.—A very painful accident occurred this morning at the residence of Mr. Edward Gillett, corner of Wellington and Stinson streets, by which Miss Beatrice Gillett received a fatal bullet wound in the right breast. Alfred Handcott, a 16 year-old lad employed by Mr. Ed. Boyd, who boards at Mr. Gillett's, was engaged fixing up his master's room, and in doing so took up a loaded 32-calibre revolver, which lay on the dressing-table, to dust it. While thus engaged Miss Gillett entered the room and addressed him. He turned around to reply, and as he did so the revolver discharged, the bullet entering the right breast of the unfortunate girl. She fell to the floor, bleeding profusely. Drs. Day, Smith, Mullin and Vernon were quickly in attendance. They found the bullet had penetrated about four inches, but succeeded in extracting it and stopping the flow of blood. Drs. Smith and Vernon were of opinion that the bullet pierced the right lung. Miss Gillett was a healthy girl of sixteen years and stood the painful operation very bravely. There were hopes that she would improve after the bleeding had ceased, but the contrary was the case, the girl dying during the afternoon. Young Handcott was nearly wild with grief when he saw what had occurred, and inquired anxiously for the patient after he had been removed from the house by the police who had been sent for. It is probable that an inquest will be held, and the boy will be held pending its result. He is an English emigrant, having been in this country a year, and in Mr. Boyd's employ about two weeks.

THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

The Votes on Prohibition, the Scott Act and Compensation.

OTTAWA, June 13.—There was a long discussion on the Prohibition resolution and the amendments to it. Mr. Cargill's amendment to repeal the Scott Act was defeated by 145 to 38. Mr. Girouard's amendment to allow beer and wine under the Scott Act was rejected by 136 to 47. Mr. Sproule moved in favor of compensation in case prohibition was enacted, and Mr. Fisher moved in amendment to defer consideration of compensation till a prohibitory measure was before the House. Mr. Fisher's amendment was carried by 91 to 88. Mr. Jamieson's resolution in favor of Prohibition, with Mr. Fisher's amendment, was then negatived by 112 to 70.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Department of Trade and Commerce—North-West Lands—Reformers Decrying their Country.

SATURDAY, June 11.—Several minor measures were advanced a stage.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

The bill establishing a Department of Trade and Commerce was read a third time.

NORTH-WEST LANDS.

Mr. WHITE moved the House into committee on the bill to amend the Dominion Land Act.

The chief provisions were intended to facilitate settlement and check the holding of land for speculation.

There was considerable discussion, the Opposition striving to lower the price of pre-emptions, and praising the United States at the expense of Canada. The North-West members showed that our policy is more liberal than that of the United States.

After some amendments the bill was reported.

SUPPLY.

The House went into Committee of Supply and passed several items.

THE CRIMES BILL DEBATE.

Progress With the Fifth Clause—Mr. Gladstone's Suggestion.

LONDON, June 13.—The House of Commons this evening resumed the debate on the Crimes Bill: taking up the fifth clause, which deals with the proclaiming of districts.

Mr. Henry Fowler, Liberal, proposed as an amendment that the proclamations be made by order of the Privy Council instead of by the Lord Lieutenant. He urged that a charge of such importance as the proclaiming of a district should be made by the Imperial instead of the Irish Executive.

Mr. Balfour declined to accept the amendment, which was supported by several of the Parnellite members.

Mr. Gladstone suggested that the members should not spend any more of the short time at their command in a futile discussion. It would be better to employ the remaining time in discussing weightier points.

Mr. Smith said he was anxious to allow sufficient time for the discussion of substantial questions and hoped the Opposition would assist the Government in this direction.

Mr. Fowler offered to withdraw his amendment.

Mr. Dillon protested. He declined to take advice from the Government as to what amendments should be discussed in the miserable period left to the Parnellites to contest the measure.

Mr. Morley said he was sure Mr. Gladstone had not meant to suggest that the Opposition assist in limiting the debate in accordance with the Government's ideas. The opinions of the Parnellites upon the relative importance of the amendments deserved more attention than the opinions of the English members.

The amendment was rejected by 235 to 167.

Other amendments were considered, most of them being rejected.

PORT HOPE.

BURGLARIES. The Port Hope Times of Monday says:—When Mr. W. H. Brownscombe, who keeps a shoe-shop on Ridout street in the west end, came to his work this morning he found the trap-door, leading from his front shop to the cellar, open. A sofa that stood on the trap-door was thrown aside, boots were strewn around and drawers and case doors were open. While he was viewing the disorder, a passer-by called his attention to what had escaped his notice. The short planks in the sidewalk over his cellar window were up. The visitor had through the window entered the cellar, and from there to get into the store above, proved easy. Mr. Brownscombe says that four pairs of boots he knows to have been taken; more there may be missing, but he does not know. The key was in the inside of the front door, but the burglar evidently scorned such unprofessional exits, and went out by the window, in the soft sand near which he left the imprint of a number nine foot. Mr. Sam. Hughes, a baker near Brownscombe's place, says that some one came to one of his windows last night and opened it. A green wire screen then had to be opened and when working at that the dog gave tongue and the man scampered off. Mrs. Davey, who keeps the flour and feed store almost next door to Brownscombe's shop, heard a man trying to open her front door. The lock fastenings were rattled sharply and finding them secure the side door was also tested. Chief Douglas was notified this morning, and is sure the perpetrators are tramps, and in plain clothes with P. C. Gamble went on a hunt up the lake shore road this morning.

ENNISMORE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—On Friday last while Mr. Richard Boyle of the township of Emily was proceeding to Peterborough, his horse a fine young spirited animal, was frightened by a dog near the top of Finlay's hill, Communication road, Smith. It immediately wheeled round upsetting the buggy and throwing Mr. Boyle into the ditch against the bank cutting and bruising him badly and breaking some of his ribs. He was conveyed to Peterborough to the residence of his sister Mrs. Peter Simons, and placed under the care of Dr. King. Although not injured internally it will be some time before he can attend to his duty. The horse started at full speed for home badly breaking the buggy, but it was caught by Mr. Mahood apparently nothing the worse.

SOUTH DOURO.

From Our Own Correspondent.

CONCERT.—The concert given here on Friday evening in connection with the R. C. Church was well attended. Mr. W. Moher occupied the chair and performed his duties in a very pleasing manner. The concert opened with an instrumental trio of 1st and 2nd violins and organ by Gillogly Brothers and Mr. T. Myles, this was followed by a chorus by the members of the church choir in which they shewed well trained voices. Then followed trios, duets and choruses by the gentlemen and ladies who contributed to the evenings entertainment. Father O'Connel occupied a seat on the platform and at the close thanked those who took part in the evening's pastime, expressing the desire of having another musical entertainment held in the near future. The duet rendered by Mr. Jas. Myles and Miss Lilly O'Brien was applauded loudly. This was Miss O'Brien's first appearance. The young lady has a voice of more than ordinary compass and with careful training will, we are sure, equal professionals. Miss M. Myles, organist, played the accompaniments throughout and we might add faultlessly. We understand that another musical entertainment will be given some time in hall.

THE TICHBORNE DRAMA.

Sir Henry Alfred Tichborne of Age—Celebrating the Event.

LONDON, June 13.—This morning in Aylesford, Hants, the curtain rose on a new act in the Tichborne drama. Twenty years ago the now exiled claimant was rehearsing in Aldershire village, three miles from Tichborne his role of Sir Roger, while the infant baronet only a year old, was being repudiated by his vindictive grandmother (herself a natural daughter) in favor of the pretender. Fourteen years ago the Tichborne case was crowding the Queen's Bench. To-day began a week of fetes for the young baronet, Sir Henry Altred Tichborne, just come of age. Meanwhile the claimant is on ticket-of-leave in America, and in their graves are his counsel, the three of his judges who tried him, two of his jurors and Messrs. Onslow and Whalley, members of Parliament, who financially backed his defence. Messrs. Coleridge and Hawkins, who as Queen's counsel finally resisted the same court.

A Big Indian War.

TUCSON, Ariz., June 13.—The hostiles are supposed to be in the east end of the Santa Catalena mountains, as their signal smoke has been distinctly seen. Troops of cavalry are operating in that locality. Over one hundred fighting bucks are out, all well armed. The chief of the Avarapia Apaches says there will be a big Indian war. More than four hundred warriors would soon be in the field, all with good guns and plenty of ammunition. Nearly all of his young bucks have joined the hostiles. All of the mountains have been fired. The Indians say this was done to stop troops from using the heliograph signal flash. The crest of the Santa Catalenas last night was ablaze for fifteen miles.

The First From Japan.

MONTREAL, June 13.—The Canadian Pacific authorities here at a late hour to-night received a telegram from Victoria, B. C., stating that the steamship Abyssinia, the first of the new line of steamers between Hong Kong and British Columbia, was passing up the straits at 3.15 p. m. The Abyssinia left Yokohama on Monday, May 30th, with 2,500,000 pounds of tea and a full cargo of merchandise. She also carried 21 cabin passengers and 80 Chinese.

Reform Electioneering.

MONTREAL, June 13.—The Witness says: Mr. A. Dubuc, hotel keeper of Chambly, and one of the witnesses in the Chambly contested election case, stated in the course of his examination, on Saturday, that he was a Conservative. But fearing to be deprived of his hotel license this year, he had, after many solicitations on the part of a councillor who was Mr. Prefontaine's agent, decided to vote for the latter.

Canada's Military College.

KINGSTON, June 13.—The closing events in connection with the Royal Military College will occur on June 29th. Gen. Sir Fred. Middleton and other distinguished officers will attend. There are but eight graduates many of the class having left several years ago to accept commissions in the Imperial Army. There are a great many applications this year for admission to the institution.

Lord and Lady Aberdeen.

SAN FRANCICO, June 13.—Earl and Lady Aderdeen arrived yesterday from Australia and were cordially received by enthusiastic Irish citizens and leading English subjects and merchants. Among the floral offerings was a harp inscribed in ancient Celtic "a thousand welcomes." It was contributed by the Irish citizens to the Countess.

Imperial Federation League.

OTTAWA, June 13.—The Canadian Branch of the Imperial Federation League will hold a meeting here Friday, when it is expected Sir Alexander Campbell will be present in response to an invitation received, and will make a report of the proceedings of the recent conference at London, to which he was a delegate.

Canals for Mexico.

CLEVELAND, Ohio., June 13.—Capitalists of this city have secured a contract with the Mexican Government for the construction of canals to drain the valley of the city of Mexico. The contract calls for the expenditure of $100,00. Work will be begun August 1.

South Victoria.

TORONTO, June 13.—A petition has been fyled in the Court of Appeal by John Birmingham against the second return of Adam Hudspeth, as member of Parliament for South Victoria.

Men's Fine Black Worsted suits made to order and perfect fit guaranteed, for $16, worth $20, at Turnbull's. Canadian and Scotch tweeds proportionately cheap.

LATEST CABLE NEWS

A SEAT IN THE LORDS.

LONDON, June 13.—It is reported that Prince Albert Victor of Wales will shortly take his seat in the House of Lords.

LANDED FROM THE CASTLEFORD.

LONDON, June 13.—Two hundred and fifty cattle have been landed from the Castleford

BREAKING A RING.

LONDON, June 13.—A majority of the cotton spinners of Lancashire and Yorkshire approve the short time project to counteract the Liverpool "corner." A number of mills are closing apart from the movement from the Spinners' Association. The Operatives Association have passed resolutions expressing sympathy with employers and announcing their willingness to co-operate for the purpose of breaking the ring.

A SERIOUS CHARGE.

LONDON, June 13.—The Times this morning has another article on "Parnellism and Crime," tracing a connection between Frank Byrne and Mr. Parnell. It claims to have information that it was an opportune remittance from Mr. Parnell that enabled Byrne to escape to France, and asks, "Is Mr. Parnell prepared to take steps to put this statement to proof or even to contradict it?"

THE PARNELLITES' COURSE.

LONDON, June 13.—Mr. T. P. Gill, M. P., says he is not yet authorized to state what course the Irish party will take on Friday night when the urgency motion is put into effect. The probability is, however, that when allowed to struggle no more against the bill they will refuse to vote, and thus force the Government to suspend them in a body.

ON THE STUMP.

LONDON, June 13.—Lord Hartington will stump the Spalding district in the Conservative interest.

LAND BILL.

LONDON, June 13.—In the House of Lords to-day consideration of the Irish Land Bill in committee was finished and the report state was set for July.

POLITICAL TRIALS.

BERLIN, June 13.—The trial of the members of the Alsatian Patriotic League, on a charge of high treason for supposed attempts to separate Alsace-Lorraine from [illegible] of the Imperial Court of Justice, presided. Procurator Superior Tessendorf and Procurator Treplin conducted the prosecution. The prisoners are defended by a great array of distinguished counsel.

THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

LONDON, June 13.—A recent publication on the growth of the House of Lords since 1830 shows that the number of peers has increased from 401 in that year to 547. Of this latter number, 16 represented Scotland and 28 Ireland.

A SLAVER SUNK.

LONDON June 13.—Zanzibar despatches says.—A slave dhow attacked the launch of a British man-of-war and wounder an officer and five men. The dhow was, however, sunk by the force on the launch, and the slaves upon her, 43 in number, were rescued.

RUSSIANS ADVANCING.

LONDON, June 13.—Advices from Merv say the Russians at Chardjui are fitting out two steamers and a number of iron lighters to transport material for the Transcaspian railwas and to reconnoitre on the Amu Daria. The British are equipping two light draught steamers with steel guns for use on the Upper Amu Daria.

AN ENGLISH CANAL.

LONDON, June 13.—The Manchester Ship Canal Bill passed its second reading in the House of Commons this afternoon, with a proviso that it should be referred to a select committee.

A WARNING.

LONDON, June 13.—The Times busies itself with sounding a note of alarm, and advises the authorities to look out for dynamiters on the great day of the Jubilee celebrations. Every precaution is being already taken, and before the ceremony on the 21st Westminster Abbey will undergo a search that will leave very few secrets for the searchers. It is certain that a dynamiter disguised as a workman on the preparation in the Abbey might do a piece of work calculated to rejoice forever the hearts of dynamiters. A thoroughly successful piece of villany in the dynamite line would destroy the entire Royal Family and pretty much all the aristocracy of England, besides blowing a big hole in every reigning family in Europe. Never has such an opportunity been offered to dynamiters before. Even the weakest little explosion would be certain to produce a most awful panic in the dangerously crowded Abbey.

NO FIGHTING.

LONDON, June 13.—In the House of Lords to-night Viscout Cross, Secretary of State for India, announced that Lord Dufferin, the Viceroy of India, had telegraphed on June 9th that their was no fighting going on in Afghanistan.

SCIENCE APPRECIATED.

LONDON, June 12.—A dinner to Professor Tyndall will be given at Willis' rooms on June 29th. The President of the Royal Society will be in the chair, and the Prime Minister of England is on the committee. Science and politics alike send their most eminent official representatives. Scores of other distinguished men have signified their wish to be first in this compliment to one of the most laborious and brilliant of modern savants.

THE NEW SERVIAN CABINET.

BELGRADE, June 13.—A new Cabinet has been formed as follows: M. Ristics, Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs; M. Melojkovics, Minister of the Interior; M. Vlailjevics, Minister of Public Works; M. Vacumovics, Minister of Justice; M. Virjics, Minister of Finance; Gen. Bogitchevics, Minister of War.

STAR MOTION.

LONDON, June 13.—The parallactic motion of the stars has been demonstrated by the Rev. Dr. Pritchard, of Oxford, by means of a process for making stars photograph their position and which has been perfected by himself. Star 61 Cighi is found to vary its relative angular distance from the four others around it in a course of six months to the amount of four tenths of a second of an arc, and hence the distance of this star in the Cygnus from the earth is calculated at fifty billions of miles; yet it is apparently the nearest to us of all bodies in space, outside of our own planetary system.

THE IRON TRADE.

THE Reform journals, but especially the Globe, have now completely dropped their ante-election hypocrisy and are in full cry once more against the National Policy. The new iron duties seem to have driven the Globe frantic, and it now fills columns with its old ravings, assuming that protective duties not paid are taxation, that the amount of the duty is added to the price, that the cost is greatly increased, and that the great majority of the people of Canada are merely consumers instead of being producers as they almost all are. In a little time when Canadian made iron is, through internal competition, cheaper than the imported iron is now, the Globe will be taking the opposite tack, as it did before in regard to cottons, woollens, &c., and will endeavor to persuade the iron men that the iniquitous National Policy is cruelly depriving them of fair profits, without having one word of congratulation for the consumers who would profit by the cheapness, or for Canadian workingmen earning wages by a new industry. Why cannot the Globe look the facts straight in the face, and acknowledge the incontrovertible truth that under protection domestic competition has, as was predicted, lowered prices instead of raising them, while at the same time the larger market has left a profit for the capitalist and the working man?

Both in the United Kingdom and in the United States they built up their flourishing iron industries by means of far higher protective duties than we are adopting. They succeeded by this means in creating flourishing industries, and with the result of lowering prices. By adopting the same means we can attain the same ends, so Canada has now wisely resolved to follow their example.

The Mail also indulges in carpings in regard to the iron trade that are most frivolous. It declares for instance that Ontario can only produce charcoal iron. Now charcoal is by no means so worthless as the Mail would persuade its readers, and it is not true that the Province cannot make other iron. Canadian ores, which others from greater distances, have been taken to Pennsylvania to smelt, and if there was a profit in this why should it not be profitable to smelt the iron in Ontario with Pennsylvania anthracite or Nova Scotia coke?

Besides, whatever men with narrow sectional ideas may think, Ontario is not Canada. In Nova Scotia and in British Columbia excellent coal and iron are situated so conveniently close together as to ensure their future as great iron producing localities. And if they and other Provinces flourish through such an important industry, must not the whole Dominion benefit, Ontario with the rest?

But the fact is that Ontario will have thriving iron furnaces of her own, and will have them in spite of all the efforts to impede it by belittling our country and panegyrising our neighbours.

MR. JOWETT, a manufacturer of steel in Sheffield, England, has come to Canada to teach us how to frame our tariff. Among other criticisms of equal value, he finds fault with the suddenness of our imposition of the new iron duties. If our Finance Minister have given our importers warning of what was coming, what would have been the result? Undoubtedly they would have imported largely, bringing in a supply for a considerable period, thus preventing an increased revenue for a time and deferring the intended effect of inducing Canada to manufacture her own iron from her own ores. For these reasons the increase of duties was kept secret as is customary till it could be adopted by Parliament.

IT is satisfactory to learn that the loss of cattle by the wreck of the steamer Castleford on the Scilly Isles is almost covered by the insurance. Still there will be at the least a sacrifice of the expected profits. The venture was at the risk of an association of farmers. Their narrow escape will lead the farmers to recognise the fact that all is not profit for the middleman. Few dealers in farm produce (including live stock) have made much money in recent years, and many of them have been losers. The highest prices that the market would warrant have been steadily paid in Peterborough by the exporters.

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS

A TYPICAL CASE.

The truth is, the manufacturers of the United States were selling pencils to Canadian firms at a much lower price than to American dealers—so much so that in one case of which we have knowledge the Canadian purchaser disposed of his whole purchase of Yankee pencils in the United States at a good profit, never having brought the pencils to Canada at all. This being discovered by the parties from whom he purchased, they now refuse to sell to Canadian houses at slaughter rates except on guarantee that the goods are actually to be brought to Canada.—Canadian Manufacturer.

A SUCCESSFUL POLICY.

The Pemberthy Injector Company manufacturers of the Pemberthy hot water injector; the Ontario Foundary Supply Company, manufacturers of foundary supplies, etc.; the Gale Sulky Harrow Company, manufacturers of agricultural implements, and Messrs. H. D. Edwards & Co., manufacturers of Smith's patent belt fasteners; have all established work in Windsor, Ont., within the past two months: the Barnum Wire and Iron works, Messrs. Evans & Booth, proprietors, have been established here since the beginning of the present year. These are all off-shoots from concerns doing business in Detroit, Michigan, and were induced to locate in Canada by the operations of the Canadian protective tariff policy.—Canadian Manufacturer.

A ZOLLVEREIN PUZZLE.

On what basis would the customs and excise duties be divided. Would it be population, or assumed contribution, or a combination of both?—Monetary Times.

KEEP COOL.

Mr. Peter Mitchell, M. P., has a pretty good head, but he ought to put ice on it.—Toronto World (Indep.)

SPREADING DEVASTATION.

Would there be no danger that the Americans, who have ruined some of their own best fisheries, would by destructive methods, seriously injure ours, if they acquired the same right to them that we have?—Monetary Times.

THE MERCHANT'S REST.

The Bowmanville Statesman makes this remark: "Merchants need rest as much as any class of workers." It is quite true; but see how easy it is for a merchant to secure rest. All he has to do is to quit advertising.—Hamilton Spectator.

TAKE WARNING.

To our friends in Manitoba we say in all earnestness—keep cool. You probably may have two railways before long, and when you have two, you may find them not much better than one. Some of our Ontario towns have burdened themselves with debt to build two railways in order to get "competition." They paid their money but the competition never came.—Canadian Presbyterian.

REFORM PRESS PLEASE COPY.

"A universal regret," from journals of all shades of political opinion have greeted the announcement that impaired health has compelled Mr. Blake to retire for a period of rest. That he may regain strength completely and soon is the universal wish.—Toronto Globe (Reform.)

A GOOD PLAN.

The Town Council of Lindsay has instructed the Clerk to have the assessment roll for 1887 printed for distribution among the ratepayers. If this were done in each municipality about once ever four or five years the assessment would be far more equitable than at present.—Newmarket Era.

NOT SURRENDERED.

The fishing season has begun. Canada is apparently going to harass our fishermen as she did last year. Sir Charles Tupper thinks, and he has apparently good reasons for thinking, that Mr. Cleveland will continue to do nothing about it, save to continue negotiations which are probably destined to come to nothing, at least for the present. Meanwhile our fishermen will have to grin and bear it.—N. Y. Sun.

SIMULARLY SITUATED.

Canada holds a position to the United States as regards its manufacturing industries very similar to what the United States has heretofore and yet holds towards Great Britain. The United States has never believed that free trade with Great Britain would benefit and enrich the people of both countries, and it is evident that that the protective tariff prevailing there has built up its manufacturing industries until they are now in a most flourishing and prosperous condition. But free trade between these countries is a thing not likely to occur. Canada can achieve similar greatness by persisting in her National Policy of Protection and can no more afford to forego it in favor of the United States than the United States can consent to free trade with Great Britain.—Canadian Manufacturer.

NO ROYAL ROAD.

The London Advertiser is kind enough to grant that the World has a right to think what it likes about commercial union, but adds: "The real point is, are you in favor of stoning those who favor commercial union?" No, but we are opposed to macadamizing the road to Washington.—Toronto World (Indep.)

NO THANK YOU.

"If the Canadians want anything more than they have let them renounce allegiance to Great Britain and apply for admission to the Union."—Rochester Democrat.

COMMERCIAL UNFRIENDLINESS.

By the act of asking to be allowed to discriminate against the parent state, we mutely suggest another question: if we show commercial unfriendliness towards the mother country, have we a right, any longer, to count on her political protection? Are we not bound in honor to settle both questions at once, if we raise either of them? There is no analogy between taxing the manufacturers of Great Britain, the same as we tax any other, and discriminating against them. The first ensures equal treatment, and is justifiable; the latter is unequal and therefore unjust; it would be doubly unjust considering our relations with Great Britain.—Monetary Times.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d93

Grain Gambling.

Twenty-eight hundred cars loaded with wheat, some of them containing 1,000 bush., are said to be accumulated at Chicago awaiting opportunity to unload. The elevators are so full that holders of wheat on the track are paying to owners of corn and oats in elevator a bonus to get the grain moved out so that ther emay be more room for wheat. The damage done to the general trade of the city is so great that there rises an earnest protest from business men of all classes against the continuance of the unnatural market, and against continued aid by the banks to the dangerous speculation now in progress. Large sums of money have been withdrawn from the East in order to aid this operation, and the exports of grain have been materially affected.—N. Y. Tribune.

A THANKSGIVING HYMN.

The Rt. Rev. Dr. Boyd Carpenter, Bishop of Ripon, Eng., has written the following jubilee hymn to be sung in Westminster Abbey on the occasion when he preaches there in connection with the Queen's jubilee celebration:—

For the priceless gifts of knowledge which by genius now are ours,
For the ever patient science which extended human powers,
For the girdle which has girdled with quick sympathy the earth,
For the intercourse of nations which checks the steps of dearth,
For the deepening sense of brotherhood which makes all nations one,
For the dawning love by which, O God, thy will may yet be done,
We praise Thee, O God.

O God of knowledge, in Thy Light
May we the world behold,
And see the law of brotherhood
In love and not in gold.

For the art that passes knowledge, and exults o'er the denied,
For the broadening life of culture which has lifted and refined,
For the voices of the singers who have purified our thought,
For the painters who from Nature new revelation caught,
For the tellers of sweet stories who have melted while they taught,
For the great desire which daily grows to live the life we ought,
We praise Thee, O God,

Great God of gifts, be ever near,
That when Fair Art we see,
Through beauty so divinely sweet,
Our souls may rise to Thee.

For the bond of love which strengthens in the fire of constant trouble,
For the quick response to crying need that bringeth blessing double,
For the sorrow that cemented, for the good Prince still lamented,
For the tenderness excited, over hopes so early blighted,
For the queenly heart which, broken, made sympathy her throne,
For the greatness born of justice, not of policy alone,
We praise Thee, O God.

O God of comfort, whose abode
Is not alone in Light,
Unfold to us the riches
Of Charity and Right.

For the word which, heard in many tones, One Love is yet proclaiming,
For the glorious devotion which our indolence is shaming,
For Thy Kingdom, wide extending, for the evil that is ending,
For the good which we have seen, for the greater good unseen,
For the wisdom all-inspiring to uplift our power of knowing,
For the Love which stooped to raise us, who in Thy Love are growing,
We praise Thee, O God.

O God, make all earth's varied notes
To blend in one sweet tone,
And fashion of our broken lights
The Rainbow round the Throne.
Amen.

ADVERTISE IN THE REVIEW

JESS.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," etc

jumping into the cart again, and leaving the dead bieshuck to look after itself for the present—not a very safe thing to do in a country where there are so many vultures—John, or rather Jantje, put the horses into a gallop, and away they went at full tear. Every few minutes or so they would pull up whenever the game was within range, and John would spring from the cart and let drive, and then jump in and follow on again. This went on for nearly an hour, in which time he had fired twenty-seven cartridges and killed three bieshuck and wounded a vilderbeeste, which they proceeded to chase. But the vilderbeeste was struck in the rump, and a buck so wounded will go a long way, and go very fast also, and some miles had been got over before he began to rest, only starting on again as they drew near. At last, on crossing the crest of a little rise, John saw what at first he took to be his vilderbeeste dead. A second look, however, showed him that, although it was a dead vilderbeeste, it most undoubtedly was not the one that he had wounded, for that was standing, its head hanging down, about 120 yards beyond the other animal, which had, no doubt, fallen to somebody else's rifle, or else been wounded farther back and come here to die. Now the vilderbeeste lay within 100 yards of them, and Jantje pointed out to John that his best plan would be to get out of the cart and creep on his hands and knees up to the dead animal, from the cover of which he could get a good shot at his own wounded bull.

Accordingly, Jantje having withdrawn with the cart and horses out of sight under the shelter of the rise, John crouched upon his hands and knees and proceeded to carry out his stalk. He got on all right till he got quite close to the dead cow, and was just congratulating himself on the prospect of an excellent shot at the wounded bull, when suddenly something struck the ground violently just beneath his stomach, throwing up a cloud of earth and dust. He stopped amazed, and as he did so heard the report of a rifle somewhat to his right. Scarcely had he realized this when there was a sudden commotion in his hair, and the soft black felt hat that he was wearing started from his head, apparently of its own accord, and, after twirling round twice or thrice in the air, fell gently to the earth, and as it did so the sound of a second report reached his ears. It was now evident that somebody was firing at him; so, jumping up from his crouching position, he tossed his arms into the air and sprang and shouted in a way that left no mistake as to his whereabouts. In another minute he saw a man on horseback, cantering easily toward him, in whom he had little difficulty in recognizing as Frank Muller. He went and picked up his hat; there was a bullethole right through it. Then, full of wrath, he advanced to meet Frank Muller.

"What the —— did you mean by firing at me?" he asked.

"Allemachter, Carle!" (Almighty, my dear fellow) was the cool answer, "I thought that you were a vilderbeeste calf. I galloped the cow and killed her, and she had a calf with her, and when I got the catridges out of my rifle—for one stuck and took me some time—and the new ones in, I looked up, and there, as I thought, was the calf. So I got my rifle on and let drive, first with one barrel and then with the other, and when I saw you jump up like that and shout, and that I had been firing at a man, I nearly fainted. Thank the Almighty I did not hit you."

John listened coldly. "I suppose that I am bound to believe you, Meinheer Muller," he said. "But I have been told that you have the most wonderful sight of any man in these parts, which makes it odd that at 300 yards you should mistake a man upon his hands and knees for a vilderbeeste calf."

"Does the captain think, then, that I wished to murder him; especially," he added, "after I took his hand this morning?"

"I don't know what I think," answered John, looking straight into Muller's eyes, which fell before his own. "All I know is that your curious mistake very nearly cost me my life. Look here!" and he took a lock of his brown hair out of the crown of his perforated hat and showed it to the other.

"Ay, it was very close. Let us thank God that you escaped."

"It could not well have been closer, meinheer. I hope that, both for your own sake and for the sake of the people who go out shooting with you, you will not make such a mistake again. Good morning."

The handsome Boer, or Anglo-Boer, sat on his horse stroking his beautiful beard and gazing curiously after John Niel's sturdy English looking figure as he marched toward the cart (for, of course, the wounded vilderbeeste had long ago vanished).

"I wonder," he said to himself aloud, as he turned his horse's head and rode leisurely away, "if the old volk are right after all, and if there is a God." (Frank Muller was sufficiently impregnated with modern ideas to be a free thinker.) "It almost seems like it," he went on, "else how did it come that the one bullet passed under his belly and the other just touched his head without harming him? I aimed carefully enough, too, and I could make the shot nineteen times out of twenty and not miss. Bah, a God! I snap my fingers at him. Chance is the only god. Chance blows men about like the dead grass, till death comes down like the veldt fire and burns them up. But there are men who ride chance as one rides a young colt—ay, who turn its headlong rushing and rearing to their own ends—who let it fly hither and thither till it is weary, and then canter it along the road that leads to triumph. I, Frank Muller, am one of those men. I never fail in the end. I will kill that Englishman. Perhaps I will kill old Silas Croft and the Hottentot, too. Bah! they do not know what is coming. I know; I have helped to lay the mine; and unless they bend to my will I shall be the one to fire it. I will kill them all and I will take Mooifontein, and then I will marry Bessie. She will fight against it, but that will make it all the sweeter. She loves that rooibaatje; I know it, and I will kiss her over his dead body. Ah! there are the carts. I don't see the captain. Driven home, I suppose, on account of the shock to his nerves. Well, I must talk to those fools. Lord, what fools they are with their talk about the 'land' and the 'verdomde Britische government.' They don't know what is good for them. Silly sheep, with Frank Muller for a shepherd! Ay, and they shall have Frank Muller for a president one day, and I will rule them, too. Bah! I hate the English; but I am glad that I am half English for all that, for that is where I get the brains! But these people—fools, fools. Well, I shall pipe and they shall dance!"

"Baas," said Jantje to John, as they were driving homeward, "Baas Frank shot at you."

"How do you know that?" asked John.

"I saw him. He was stalking the wounded bull, and not looking for a calf at all. There was no calf. He was just going to fire at the wounded bull when he turned and saw you, and he knelt down and covered you, and before I could do anything he fired, and then when he saw that he had missed you he fired again, and I don't know how it was he didn't kill you, for he is a wonderful shot with a rifle—he never misses."

"I will have the man tried for attempted murder," said John, bringing the butt end of his rifle down with a bang on to the bottom of the cart. "A villain like that shall not go scot free."

Jantje grinned.

"It is no use, baas. He would get off, for I am the only witness. A jury won't believe a black man in this country, and they would never punish a Boer for shooting at an Englishman. No, baas, you should lie up one day in the veldt where he is going to pass and shoot him. That is what I would do if I dared."

CHAPTER XI.

ON THE BRINK.

John found that the life of a South African farmer came well up to his expectations. He had ample occupation; indeed, what between ostriches, horses, cattle, sheep and crops, he was rather over than under occupied. Nor was he greatly troubled by the lack of civilized society, for he was a man who read a great deal, and books could be ordered from Durban and Cape Town, while the weekly mail brought up an ample supply of papers. On Sundays he always read the political articles in The Saturday Review aloud to old Silas Croft, who, as he got older, found that the print tried his eyes, and this was an attention that the old gentleman greatly appreciated. He was a well informed man, and had, notwithstanding his long life spent in a half civilized country, never lost his hold of affairs or his interest in the wide and rushing life of the world in one of whose side eddies he lived apart. This task of reading The Saturday Review aloud had formerly been a part of Bessie's Sunday service, but her uncle was very glad to effect an exchange. Bessie's mind was not quite in tune with the profundities of that journal, and her attention was apt to wander at the most pointed passages. And thus it came about, what between The Saturday Review and other things, that a very warm and deep attachment sprang up betwixt the old man and his younger partner. John was a very taking man, especially to the old, for whom he was never tired of performing little services. One of his favorite sayings was that old people should be "let down easy," and he acted up to it above [illegible] and a bluff honest [illegible] doubtedly attractive both to men and women. But his great recommendation was that he was a well informed, experienced man and a gentleman in a country in which both were rare. Every week the old man got to rely more and more on him, and let things pass more and more into his hands.

"I'm getting old, Niel," he said to him one night; "I'm getting very old; the grasshopper is becoming a burden to me, and I'll tell you what it is, my boy," laying his hand affectionately upon John's shoulder, "I have no son of my own, and you will have to be a son to me, as my dear Bessie has been a daughter."

John looked up into the kindly, handsome old face, crowned with the fringe of snowy hair, and at the two keen eyes set deep in it beneath the overhanging eyebrows, and thought of his old father who was long since dead; and somehow he was moved and his own eyes filled with tears.

"Ay, Mr. Croft," he said, taking the old man's hand, "that I will to the best of my ability."

"Thank you, my boy, thank you. I don't like talking much about these things, but as I said, I am getting old, and the Almighty may require my account any day, and if he does I rely on you to look after these two girls. It is a wild country this, and one never knows what may happen in it from day to day, and they will want it. Sometimes I wish I were clear of the place. And now I'm going to bed. I am beginning to feel as though I had done my day's work in the world. I'm getting feeble, John, that is the fact of it."

After that he always called him John.

Of Jess they heard but little. She wrote every week, it is true, and gave an accurate account of all that was going on at Pretoria and of her daily doings, but she was one of those people whose letters tell one absolutely nothing of themselves and of what is passing in their minds. They might as well have been headed "Our Pretoria Letter," as Bessie said, disgustedly, after reading three sheets in Jess' curious, upright handwriting. "Once you lose sight of Jess," she went on, "she might as well be dead for all you learn about her. Not that one learns very much when she is with one," she added, reflectively.

"She is a peculiar woman," said John, thoughtfully. At first he had missed her very much, for, peculiar as she undoubtedly was, she had touched a new string in him somewhere, of the existence of which he had not till then been himself aware. And what is more, it had answered pretty strongly for some time; but now it was slowly vibrating itself into silence again, much as a harp does when the striker takes his fingers from the strings. Had she stayed on another week or so the effect might have been more enduring.

Just the Mascot they Need.

"You ought to send some of the dough you make these biscuits of to the New York Baseball Club for a mascot," said Sarcasticus as a starter for his usual morning grumble.

"A mascot!" exclaimed his spouse. "Why, what good would a lot of raw dough do them?"

"Oh, it's such a heavy batter, I didn't know but it would help 'em make a few runs, that's all."

Then a silence more golden than a pitcher's salary settled over the table.

Boys' boots cheaper at Kidd's than any place else in town.

How to Gain Flesh and Strength.

Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is as palatable as milk. Delicate people improve rapidly upon its use. For consumption, throat affections and bronchitis it is unequalled. Dr. Thos. Prim, Ala., says: "I used Scott's Emulsion on a child eight months old; he gained four pounds in a month." Put up in 50c. and $1 size.

The Brigade Band will give an open air concert in the Gardens this evening.

The Heat of the Sun

Will have no effect on ladies if they read J. J. Sheehy's advertisement and act accordingly.

To Ottawa.

The Peterborough deputation to wait on the Government in referring to the Trent Valley Canal will leave town to-night for Ottawa by the Canadian Pacific railway.

A Garden Party

Will be held at the Barnardo Home, on Monday evening, June 27th. Contributions of cake and fruit are solicited. Anything left at the Metropolitan Grocery will be delivered.

Canoe.

The Otonabee Canoe Club held a meeting on Monday night for the purpose of completing arrangements for the regatta and canoe parade. The events under the management of this club promise to be worth seeing.

Jubilee Decorations.

From whispers we hear of the preparations being made by business firms, societies and individuals for the decoration of our town on Jubilee Day we are led to believe that our streets will present a festive appearance worthy of the occasion. Those who have not yet given any attention to the matter should give a thought to it, and see that their neighbors do not outvie them in this loyal emulation.

Fresh patterns in Carpets just arrived a Turnbull's. Intending purchasers should see them, they are special value.

Fire Department.

All the proposed additions have been made to the Fire Department, the last made being the introduction of a fine new hook and ladder waggon. It is fitted with swinging harness, good, strong ladders, hooks, axes and leather buckets. The electric alarm bells turn out to be just what was wanted. The Department as now equipped is second to none in efficiency outside the large cities. The engine house is shortly to be repaired and artistically decorated.

Farewell Supper.

A farewell supper is to be given at the Oriental Hotel at 9 o'clock this evening to Mr. C. A. Lawford, teller of the Bank of Montreal here. Mr. Lawford is about to leave for Calgary, and the business men of our town and his personal friends are taking this means of bidding him farewell and showing their regret for his departure Those who have not been seen by the committee, in the brief time at their disposal, are cordially invited to participate.

Married.

On Monday evening at St. Luke's Church, Ashburnham, Mr. P. E. S. Cooper, late of the Bank of Toronto here, was united in marriage to Miss Emily L. McNabb, daughter of the late Robt. A. McNabb, merchant, Peterborough. Miss McNabb and Miss Burnham were the bridesmaids, and the groom's two brothers the groomsmen. The Rev. Mr. Cooper, of Lloydtown, Ont., father of the groom, performed the ceremony, assisted by the Rector of St. Luke's, the Rev. W. C. Bradshaw. Mr. and Mrs. Cooper left on the evening train for Toronto, where they will remain a few days. They will then go to New York, cross the ocean to England, and proceed from there to Australia via Suez Canal route. Mr. Cooper goes to Australia to fill a responsible position. The friends of both of the contracting parties join in wishing them a safe voyage and many years of happiness.

Personal.

Dr. W. D. Scott of Peterborough has been appointed assistant Physician and Surgeon at the Toronto General Hospital.

The Cobourg World says:—"Major Boulton, who commanded "Boulton's Scouts" during the North-West rebellion, and unsuccessfully contested Marquette, Man., in the Conservative interest, at the general elections in February last, arrived in town Saturday and is staying at his father's."

The Dominion Oddfellow says:—There are few losses but have their corresponding gain. Peterborough loses Bro. J. C. T. Lacey, an enthusiastic Oddfellow. Toronto gains him, and the lodge which secures him will never regret it, should he decide to unite with some one of our city lodges. Bro. Lacey takes charge of the business of Messrs. G. A. & E. A. Cox, for whom he has been employed for years. We hope that he and his family, while residents of Toronto, may find friends as true as those they leave behind at Peterborough.

An Early Settler.

In the full account with numerous illustrations of Carleton Place in the Mail of Saturday there is the following sketch of the life of Mr. Robert Bell, one of the earliest settlers. This gentleman is father of Dr. Bell of our town, and uncle of Dr. Bell, of Lakefield, and Mrs. Kincaid, wife of Dr. R. Kincaid. The Mail says:—"One of the oldest families in the County of Lanark is that of the Bells, the first settler here at that name being Rev. William Bell, who came from Leith, Scotland, to this country in 1817, and who was afterwards pastor of the first Presbyterian Church, Perth, for more than forty years. Robert Bell, the subject of this sketch, fourth son of the Rev. Wm. Bell, was born in London, England, in 1808, educated in Perth; he entered mercantile life in that town, and in 1830 settled in Carleton Place, where, for thirty years, he conducted a successful business. Mr. Bell represented Lanark in the Parliament of Canada from 1847 until 1866, when he resigned. He has always been a Liberal and a free-trader. He was postmaster of Carleton Place for twenty years; for many years in the municipal and county council, and was warden for two years. He was appointed inspector of canals in 1866, having the whole Dominion for his field. He held that office until about five years ago, when he was placed on the retired list. Mr. Bell was for a long time connected with the militia; was major of a batallion at one time, and for many years has been lieut.-colonel in the reserve militia. A magistrate for fifty years; a school trustee for thirty five years—being chairman for thirty-two years, a position which he still holds—an elder in the Presbyterian Church for nearly forty years; Col Bell has led an active, laborious, useful and energetic life. This unwearying and excellent old gentleman has always been a lover of learning, and in the midst of all his duties has found time to keep himself posted in the progress of knowledge during his career. He has been pronounced a 'walking encyclopædia,' his general information being enormous. He has a wide acquaintance with science, his knowledge of botany being accurate and extensive. He has the largest and best chosen private library in the Ottawa valley, a magnificent collection of plants, and a garden of rare and interesting specimens of the flora of our country. Without an enemy in the whole community, with a kind word and a smile for all he meets, this worthy old Christian soldier and philanthropist pursues his useful course, a blessing and a credit to his fellow-citizens."

THIS week H. S. Griffin & Co. offer extraordinary value in a special line of Kid Gloves, in evening and dark shades, 4 button, 35c. per pair. Prints at 7½c. are going quickly. Parasols in children's, 20c., and lines of Millinery at half price. Ladies may look out for great bargains at H. S. Griffin & Co.'s. 3d137w24

Practice.

The practice of the school children for the jubilee celebration was held on Monday evening. The Parlor roller rink, where the practice was announced to be held, was so crowded with little people that an adjournment was made to the Horticultural Gardens. There were about a thousand children present. Messrs. Millar and Galletly were in charge. The conductors wish to say that they earnestly request the attendance of the teachers at the practices, and the Superintendents of the schools as well. The choral singing will not be the success it should be if the teachers are not among the children to lead them in the singing and to keep order.

The Khedive's Star.

The Canadian Gazette of June 9th says: "Word has been received from Cairo that, in common with the Imperial troops, the Canadian contingent of Nile Voyageurs are to receive the Khedive's bronze star in addition to the Egyptian medal with which they have already decorated. It is expected that the stars will be sent out in the course of three or four months time." Messrs. Sydney Blade and John White, Peterborough, are entitled to the star, also several who reside in the county.

Fresh Dress Goods at Turnbull's selling at 12½ and 15 cents a yard, which means means less than manufacturer's prices, if bought earlier in the season. Turnbull's is the right house for cheap and stylish Dress Goods.

Pulled His Whiskers.

At the Police Court this morning an assault case was called, when the defendant a woman, was charged by Mr. Wills with having pulled his whiskers. The woman did not appear. P. C. Adams was instructed to see that she would be present to answer to the charge to-morrow morning.

Zion Picnic.

The members of the Zion Farmer's Club will hold their annual picnic at Idyl Wild, on Friday, the the 17th, per steamer Golden Eye. A quadrille band will accompany the picnic. d138

The Horse Market.

Mr. T. Cavanagh shipped 17 horses to Mr. Joseph Lefevre, of Montreal, on Saturday. To-morrow he will ship another carload to Sault Ste. Marie.

IMPORTANT!

At the time of selling our Stock of Dry Goods to Sheehy & Co., we had fully determined to give up that particular branch of our business, but, as previously announced, did not do so, for various reasons. However, it is now our intention to dispose of the Dry Goods Trade, and have consequently made up our minds to clear out the whole stock

AT COST AND UNDER.

This is one of the BEST Dry Goods stocks in the country, having been imported from the best markets direct to ourselves. Remember, this will be a GENUINE CLEARING OUT SALE. While we will still retain our Clothing Trade, yet we will, during this sale, offer ALL our Ready-made Clothing, for Men and Boys, (with all kinds of Furnishings) AT COST PRICE.

THE NEW ROUTE.

Arrival of the Abyssinia from Yokohama at Vancouver—The cargo.

VANCOUVER, B.C., June 14.—The steamship Abyssinia, Capt. Marshall, arrived at 9.30 last evening, thirteen days, fourteen hours from Yokohama. [illegible] favorable time, having logged weather nearly every day. She has twenty-two cabin passengers for Liverpool, New York and other points, including Mr. and Mrs. H. St. Clair Gresley and Mr. L. Paris for San Francisco, and eighty Chinese, thirty-nine for San Francisco. She has a cargo of twenty-eight hundred and thirty tons, mostly tea, for New York, Chicago, Toronto, Montreal, Boston and other ports; ninety-five hundred and fifty-four packages of merchandise for San Francisco, 14 bags of mail and Yokohama papers to May 30th. She reports a big fire at Nakacho in the Province of Mino, on April 30th, in which seventy houses were burnt. There were twenty-nine thousand visitors at the Industrial exhibition at Ueno in one week. A conflagration occurred at Hakodate on May 2nd, in which five hundred buildings were destroyed. The residents of Tientsin presented an address to U. S. Consul Bromley on his seventieth birthday and his departure for America. There was a fire on May 19th, at the U. S. Consulate General and gaol at Yokohama of incendiary origin. The buildings were all destroyed. There will be a jubilee celebration of the British residents of Nakasaki. The U. S. S. steamship "Essex" rescued five fishermen near Nagasaki on May 13th. The passenger list is:—

For Liverpool: Mr. and Mrs. MacLean and two children; Messrs. C. J. Wharty, W. F. Burr, C. Slater, J. J. Peason, F. H. May, [illegible] B. Ellerton, E. E. Fraser, J. Moffatt. For San Francisco: Mr. and Mrs. H. St. Clair Gresly and L. Paris. For New York: Mr. and Mrs. Collier and Miss Collier, Miss E. Collier, Miss A. Collier and Mr. H. Collier. For Vancouver: Mr. Chas. W. Church. There were eighty Chinese in the steerage, thirty for Victoria, eleven for Port Townsend, W. T., and thirty-nine for San Francisco.

Manifest cargo, 2830 tons; for New York, 13,891 pkgs. tea, 78 pkgs. merchandise, 63 pkgs. silk; for Chicago, 16 555 pkgs. tea; for Toronto, 903 pkgs. tea; for Montreal, 2113 pkgs. tea, 2 pkgs silk, 13 pkgs. curios; for Hamilton, 613 pkgs. tea; for London, Ont., 159 pkgs. tea; for Winnipeg, 18 pkgs. curios; for Victoria, 653 pkgs. merchandise; for Vancouver, 612 pkgs. merchandise; for Buffalo, 236 pkgs. tea; for St. Paul, 835 ditto; for Boston, 14 sack mail and Yokohama papers May 30th.

In speaking of the trip across, Captain Marshall said that he thought it would soon be the favorite one for all travellers from China and Japan to Europe, as by taking this route the traveller would avoid the terrible heat that is experienced in taking the trip via the Suez Canal. He said that in a very short time vessels making the voyage in ten days would be crossing from Vancouver to Yokohama. This route was an important one, and would soon take the first place. Vancouver had the advantage over San Francisco in the length of the voyage and in a finer trip across the continent after it was over. The harbour he considers as excellent, and one of the best he has ever brought a vessel into.

The Japan Daily Mail announces the death of Capt. Davies, of H. M. S. Constance, on May 28th, from a stroke of paralysis at Yokohama. The funeral took place on the 29th, and was attended by parties from the Leander and Constance and the band from the U.S.S. Brooklyn.

The Sheppard Case.

MONTREAL, June 14.—The grand jury this afternoon presented a report in which they drew the attention of the authorities in a special manner upon the refusal of the police magistrate of Toronto to endorse a warrant duly issued by Judge Desnoyers, for the arrest of a person (Mr. Sheppard of the News) residing in that city. A singular failure of justice on the part of a public functionary in a sister province of the Confederation with the evident object of protecting a criminal residing in that province, the local authorities having paid not the least attention to it, is extremely regrettable and renders the proper administration of justice between the two provinces quite impossible. They hope that competent authorities will take the necessary steps to prevent repetition of a similar failure of justice.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Northwest Franchise—Speedy Trials—The Scott Act, Compensation and Prohibition.

MONDAY, June 13.—A number of private bills passed their third reading.

SPEEDY TRIALS.

Mr. THOMPSON introduced a bill to amend the Speedy Trials Act as regards Manitoba.

NORTH-WEST FRANCHISE.

Mr. MCDOWALL introduced a bill to make the franchise for the North-West Council as wide as that for the House of Commons, to reduce the number of nominated members, and to extend the interval between elections to three years instead of two.

THE LIQUOR TRADE.

Mr. CASEY resumed the debate on Mr. Jamieson's Prohibition resolution. He could not say that the Scott Act was properly enforced, but he blamed the Dominion Government for the shortcomings of the Provincial authorities. He could not vote for the repeal of the Scott Act of the allowance of beer and wine, and as he concurred with Mr. Blake that the country was not ripe for prohibition, he could not vote for that either.

Mr. LISTER would oppose the repeal of the Scott act and would vote for prohibition. He wanted the Government to invade the Provincial field of enforcing the laws.

Mr. WOOD (Brockville) said it was admitted even by the friends of the Scott Act that it was a failure, and being so it should be removed from the Statute book. What was wanted was further education in temperance, which had made great progress.

Mr. MASSON said that the Scott Act seemed to mean free trade in liquor. It was useless to legislate for prohibition when public opinion did not support the enforcement even of the present law.

Mr. BECHARD was opposed to interference with individual liberty and advocated moral suasion.

Mr. MCMULLEN regretted to have to admit the failure of the Scott Act, and [illegible] remedy was prohibition.

Mr. MONET said in his county the Scott Act had been an utter and lamentable failure, but he would not vote for its repeal till the people did.

Mr. MCMILLAN (Huron) said if the Scott Act was not successful in his county it was because the officials were unfriendly to it.

Mr. ARMSTRONG supported the Scott Act only as a stepping stone to prohibition, which he desired. But with prohibition should be coupled compensation; for it was unjust to beggar individuals for a public benefit.

Mr. PORTER blamed the Provincial authorities for neglect of duty in not enforcing the Scott Act. He preferred moral suasion, but would not vote against the Scott Act, which was an educational means.

Mr. MILLS (Annapolis) supported the Scott Act, and preferably Prohibition.

Mr. LAVERGNE supported prohibition and denied that all French-Canadians were opposed to it.

Mr. BERGIN said though prohibition was an interference with individual liberty, he would accept it on account of the good it would effect. But he could not do so till public opinion would cause it to be enforced. They had a lesson in the Scott Act of the evil result of having a law that could not be enforced. There was more drunkenness and perverted morality. He had voted for the Scott Act, but regretted its results.

Mr. FREEMAN made a strong temperance speech.

Mr. JAMIESON was glad to find that so many of the members were in favour of prohibition when they thought the country ready for it. It was true that they could not make people sober by Act of Parliament, but it was their duty to remove temptations to insobriety. He denounced the proposal to repeal the Scott Act when the people of 68 municipalities had adopted it.

Mr. CARGILL'S amendment to repeal the Scott Act was put and negatived by 145 to 37.

Mr. GIROUARD'S amendment to permit wine and beer was negatived by 136 to 43.

Mr. SPROULE moved in amendment to Mr. Jamieson's resolution, that if prohibition were adopted it should be accompanied by compensation to those who invested their money under the sanction and regulation of the law.

Mr. FISHER moved in amendment to the amendment, that the right time to discuss the question of compensation was when a prohibitory measure was before the House.

Mr. FISHER'S amendment was carried by 91 to 88.

Mr. JAMIESON'S resolution for prohibition as amended was negatived by 112 to 70.

Mr. MILLS asked if the Government would take steps to enforce the Scott Act.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD thought Mr. Mills should give notice.

Sir R. CARTWRIGHT wanted to know the policy of the Government as to compensation.

Sir J. MACDONALD declined to state the policy of the Ministry.

In all these divisions the Ministers and the leaders of the Opposition were divided without respect to party.

Canadians Discharged

DETROIT, Mich., June 14.—Park, Davis & Co., have discharged all their workmen who live in Windsor. The discharged men say they will become citizens and move on this side, in which case they will be re-employed.

Another M. P. Dead.

EGANVILLE, June 14.—Robt. Campbell, M. P. for South Renfrew, died at three o'clock this morning of disease of the liver, complicated with kidney affection. The funeral will take place on Thursday, at 2 o'clock p. m. Mr. Campbell was a Reformer.

The Building Strikes.

TORONTO, June 14.—An amicable agreement between the bricklayers and the "bosses" has been arrived at. Work will be resumed and arbitrators will decide the matters in dispute.

Ladies' and children's parasols cheap, an extensive range to select from at Turnbull's.

COUNTY COURT.

The June Session at the Court House.

The June session of the County Court opened at the Court House on Tuesday afternoon, His Honor Judge Weller presiding.

The bar was represented by Messrs. R. E. Wood, County Crown Attorney, Geo. Edmison, E. B. Stone, Peterborough; A. N. Green, Toronto; W. J. Curry, Millbrook, and W. L. Payne, Colbourne.

The Grand Jury were empanneled as follows:—

A. Mercer, foreman.
Cornelius Berger	Jas. Charleton
Chas. Buck	John Coughlin
Frank Burnet	Geo. Forsyth
Thos. Cuthbertson	John Elliott
Thos. Flood	John Gillespie
T. Hetherington	John Fairbairn
Jas. Long	H. Humphries
Edward Mahood	T. Hurley
A. McIntyre,	T. Ludgate
Alex. Matheson	W. Metheral
John Stock	J. McNeil
	Alex. McFarlane.

His Honor addressed the Grand Jury briefly setting forth their duties. He made a few remarks as to the lightness of the Grand Jury's duties, owing to the Magisterial efficiency of the present time. Concluding he made a reference to the Queen's Jubilee and then dismissed them to inspect the County property.

The first case called was:—

LEARY VS. BALL—An action brought by Thos. Leary, plaintiff, against Reid-Ball, of Cavan, for the recovery of the price of drilling a well. It was agreed between both plaintiff and defendant that there was a contract made whereby the plaintiff was to have 75 cents per foot for drilling the first 80 feet, and $1.50 per foot for further drilling. The plaintiff claims that after having gone down about 90 feet he told the defendant he had struck a vein of coarse sand and couldn't make a good well at that depth. The defendant replied that he wanted him to go 18 to 20 feet of a [illegible] work and he would pay all expenses. This the defendant denied. The plaintiff drilled down 103 feet, when fine sand was encountered, and the defendant requested the plaintiff to draw up the valves to a higher point, and in their efforts to do so the tubing broke and the well was rendered worthless. The defendant refused to pay anything, whereupon the plaintiff brought an action for $170 35.

Edmison for plaintiff; Currie, of Millbrook, for defendant.

THE AMEER'S FATE.

Dependent upon Success in the Coming Battle—Russia Threatening.

LONDON, June 14.—The fate of the Ameer of Afghanistan is now wholly dependent upon the success of his forces in their coming battle with the Ghilzais confronting them, which will be precipitated immediately after the expiration of the Mohammedan feast of the Ramadan, devoutly observed by the Indians and Afghans, which will expire on June 23rd. The Tarakhi Clan, one of the most powerful aggregations of small Afghan tribes loyal to the Ameer, had collected in the Navy Valley, awaiting he termination of the Ramadan when they would join the Amer's army and assist in their defeat, but the Ghilzais have cut off all communication between the valley and the main army of the Ameer by seizing the only two passes affording means of connection, and Shere Janthe, commander of the Tarakhis, is likely to have as much as he can do to get out of his self-made trap in any direction and leave the Ameer to take care of himself. The Ameer's popularity has disappeared, and if he does not succeed in quelling the rebellion at his next battle with the insurgents he must fall. His defeat or death at this time would be of enormous advantage to the British, since it would furnish a pretext for a British occupation of the country, and the preparations of the Indian Government for availing itself of the benefit arising from either contingency are already complete. The work of fortifying certain important positions along the route to Candahar is complete, and the railways through Khajok and Gwajja passes are in such a condition as to road bed and equipment as to be able to transport 100,000 troops upon the shortest notice. Russia's intrigues with the Governor of Badakshan have resulted in the purchase by Russian agents of the entire grain crops of that province, and the announcement of the transaction has aroused the London Press to a tirade against Russian movements and Russian methods on the frontier, and an urgent appeal to the Government to demand of the Government at St. Petersburg the immediate withdrawal of its soldiers within the boundaries of its own territory. The occupation of Kerki is denounced as a warlike menace, and the appointment of the pretender, Iskander Khan, as governor of Penjdeh, the making of that place a Russian advance post, and the establishment of a hostile garrison opposite the Ameer's position on the Oxus River at Khoja Saleh are characterized as acts tantamount to a declaration of war against England, and the Foreign Office is asked what action it intends to take to uphold British honor and maintain British integrity.

Attacking the Salvation Army.

KINGSTON, June 14.—The Whig says: The Portsmouth corps of the Salvation Army held a jubilee in the Orange Hall last night for the purpose of increasing their funds. The band from the city stirred the village to its centre with its lively music. The hall was filled, and after refreshments command was taken by Capt. Brooks, assisted by his staff. A surprise was then given them by the pelting of stones through the windows. The police were sent for, but the guilty ones could not be found. The suspected parties will likely be brought before the Magistrate.

LATEST CABLE NEWS

THE CROWN PRINCE.

LONDON, June 14.—The Chronicle's Berlin correspondent emphasizes the recent adverse reports regarding the condition of the Crown Prince of Germany. He asserts that Prince Bismarck considers the Crown Prince's life doomed, and that the latter's family are prepared for the worst. The correspondent says he has heard that the real statement of Professor Virchow was concealed; that the professor went to the palace, and, with tears in his eyes, declared that his examination had led him to believe that the malady was incurable, and that his life was in danger. A specialist has written to the Berlin Tagblatt, saying he believes that the case of the Crown Prince is a serious one, and that a fitting time for an operation is being allowed to pass, owing to fears for the result. It is necessary, he says, to remove the larynx, which is the only operation that can save the Prince's life, although it will deprive him of his voice. The specialist declares that if the affection were only a simple polypus matter, it would never have reached its present serious aspect.

PREPARING FOR THE JUBILEE.

LONDON, June 14.—London is just now under the influence of a craze unprecedented in the latter-day history of the metropolis. Everybody is preparing to celebrate the Queen's jubilee, and vieing with his neighbor in the elaborateness of his preparations. The hotels are already filled to overflowing in spite of the fact that they have advanced their charges from 20 to 30 per cent. The matter of sheltering and feeding the multitude of visitors during the festivities has become a problem difficult of solution. A great howl has been raised by the straight laced portion of Londoners against the sacrilege of erecting stagings, and otherwise defacing temporarily the interior of Westminster Abbey, but as the wishes of nobody but the Queen are considered, the work is not likely to be retarded through considerations of veneration for the edifice.

IRISH LAND PURCHASE.

LONDON, June 14.—It is reported that Messrs. Chamberlain and Goschen are preparing a wholesale land purchase bill which will be introduced at the end of the session.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT.

LONDON, June 14.—The Standard this morning says the Government will not introduce a Local Government bill during the present session of Parliament.

IRELAND AND THE VATICAN.

LONDON, June 14.—The Times' correspondent at Rome says, the Pope has no sympathy with Mr. Parnell's Irish campaign, but that no official opinion to show how the Church regards the movement has yet been given, because the energetic pressure brought to bear by a majority of the Irish bishops, holds the normally Conservative tendencies of the Vatican in check. The correspondent adds that nothing more is definitely known regarding the question of reconciliation between Italy and the Vatican.

GLADSTONE'S TESTIMONIAL.

LONDON, June 14.—The Government newspapers pay their respects to the American testimonial to Mr. Gladstone in language running the gamut from satire to denunciation. They are unanimous, however, in asserting that the ex-Premier is being used by crafty Americans to further the ends of a colossal advertising scheme, and indirectly mention Mr. Joseph Pulitzer, Mr. John H. Storin, Mr. Erastus Wiman and others as selfish promoters of a plan to advertise themselves and their business at the expense of a vain old man.

VIOLENT HAILSTORM.

LONDON, June 14.—Hailstones, shaped, pointed and weighing over a pound each, recently fell in the districts of Altos and Carnabat, between Adrianople and Shumla, on the south slope of the Balkan mountains, Eastern Roumelia. The hailstones destroyed the harvest, killed many laborers and cattle in the fields, and pierced the roofs of houses like bullets.

KNIGHT OF ST. PATRICK.

LONDON, June 14.—Prince Albert Victor, eldest son of the Prince of Wales, will attend the grand Jubilee thanksgiving service to be held in St. Patrick's cathedral, Dublin, on June 28th, and will on that occasion be decorated by the order of St Patrick.

THREATENED PROSECUTIONS.

DUBLIN, June 14.—It is reported that the Government intends to prosecute Messrs. Michael Davitt and Joseph Richard Cox, Nationalist member of Parliament for East Clare, for inciting the Bodyke tenants to resist eviction.

RUSSIAN OPPOSITION.

BERLIN, June 14.—The Russian Government have made overtures to Germany for a joint opposition to the Anglo-Turkish Convention, on the ground that it interferes with the common rights of the powers to controle Egypt and the Suez Canal. Prince Bismark remains neutral.

NORSE DISCOVERIES.

LONDON, June 14.—Documents are displayed in the Norse department of the American exhibition with the object of showing that America was discovered in 985 by an Icelander named Leif Erickson. A collection of maps lent by the Royal Geographical Society shows the route said to have been taken and the parts of America explored and named by the Icelanders.

FOREST BURNED.

PARIS, May 14.—The fine pine forest of Canau, near Arcachon, in the department of Gironde, France, covering 15,000 acres, has been burned.

THE EMPEROR WILLIAM.

BERLIN, June 14.—It is officially announced that the Emperor William is making remarkable progress towards recovery.

MURDER BY MOONLIGHTERS.

DUBLIN, June 4.—A farm servant named Harley was shot and killed by Moonlighters near Tralee, County Kerry. Eleven bullets pierced his body. Harley had been in the employ of a widow named Burke, whose husband was recently found dead under a haymow on the farm under circumstances which aroused suspicion.

THE CRIMES BILL.

LONDON, June 14.—In the House of Commons to night a number of scrappy amendments were offered to the Crimes bill and rejected, the Ministers treating each in the curtest manner and the Liberal leaders referring from speaking. A result of this absence of plan of attack will be that some of the worst poroposals of the bill will escape amendments.

THE CANADIAN FISHERIES.

In his active advocacy of the commercial annexation of Canada by the United States Mr. Wiman is kind enough to supply us with a document from which strong arguments can be drawn why we should not thus efface ourselves.

As President of the Canadian Club at New he addressed to the New York Board of Trade and Transportation a speech to show that body what benefits they would derive from absorbing us, and this speech he has published with other documents in a pamphlet now before us. We extract from his description of our fisheries, showing their great value:—

"Take for instance the fisheries of Canada, which are the largest, the richest and the most accessible in the world. Twenty-five hundred miles of sea coast in the Atlantic alone, a distance almost equal to that from Cape Cod on the Atlantic to the remotest point on the Pacific—three thousand miles in the Pacific and inland seas—in all over five thousand five hundred miles of coast in a northern latitude, where the fish is at its finest, is as much a national possession of Canada as are the prairies of Illinois or the forests of Maine. Fish food from the polar regions, brought to these coasts by Arctic currents, affords a sustenance for countless millions of fish, destined in turn for the sustenance of human life. It is no wonder that Canada holds firmly to her vast fishing interests. The advantage which she derives from the bait which lines her shores, indented by numerous bays, is a geographical one. When you recall the fact that twenty-five per cent. of the cost of the ordinary fishing voyage is found in the bait, you will see how important an element it is. If this bait can be secured by dipping it, as it were, from the Canadian shores of the sea into carts and small boats, its possession is like the possession of seed corn or wheat in an agricultural community. To sell one's seed corn would be folly. To permit its sale to a competitor, without compensation or consideration, is to give up the advantages of geographical location and proprietary rights as distinctive as any other national right. This is not, however, the proper place to discuss this question. It is simply alluded to because it shows the advantages which would come to the United States if the entire fishing facilities of the vast coast line could be thrown open to her enterprise and industry. The harvests of the sea have been but skimmed. Properly cultivated as they would be with open markets in this vast country, and as a reward for American enterprise and the investment of capital and skill, the products of the ocean would be quadrupled. The cost of sustenance of human life in all our large centres could thus be immensely decreased, and coupled with the vast productive agricultural forces on the ranches and prairies, this element could be drawn upon for a large contribution towards the sustentation of human life at the cheapest possible rates."

With such a valuable property would it not be suicidal folly if we abandoned our territorial rights without an adequate compensation, or allowed them to be filched from us without resistance? Obviously such an important asset of the Dominion is worth something more than to be used as a mere bribe to our neighbours to be so kind as to come and close our factories.

As to Mr. Wiman's assertion that "The harvests of the sea have been but skimmed," it may be true enough of the Canadian fisheries; but it is the very reverse of truth as to the New England fisheries, where the harvest has been not only skimmed but gathered and consumed, and indeed gleaned so closely as to leave no seed for a fresh crop. This is the reason why the New England fishermen have such a desperate craving to invade our property. They have recklessly destroyed their own fisheries, and now they wish to treat ours in the same manner.

THE Globe says that the Ten Commandments are taught in all the public schools in Ontario. We do not know where our contemporary got its information, but we believe that it is far from accurate. If the Globe investigates it will find that the Ten Commandments are not taught in a considerable number of the public schools of Ontario.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

OBIT.—It is with feelings of sadness that we have to state that the wife of Mr. Thos. Handley of this place, after suffering from that lingering disease, consumption, for over six months, departed this life on Tuesday, the 7th June. The funeral took place on the following Thursday and was attended by a number of friends and acquaintances, who followed the remains to the Methodist burying ground, one mile north of this place, where they were interred. Mr. Handley has the sympathy of the people of this neighborhood in his sad bereavement.

PERSONAL.—The Rev. John Ewing, Presbyterian Minister of this place, left here for Winnipeg, last Manday morning to attend the general assembly which is being held in that city this season. After the session is over he intends visiting a number of relatives he has in Dakota. We hope he will have a pleasant trip.

Mrs. S. Thexton, her daughter Ella and Mrs. John Sutcliffe left on the same train on Monday, the 6th inst., intending to visit a number of friends they have in Manitoba, and Dakota. We wish them a pleasant trip and hope all will return much benefited by their holiday in the North West.

NOTES.—A grand time is expected at the school picnic on Tuesday, the 21st inst., to be held in Mr. A. Webster's woods. The crops in this vicinity are looking exceedingly well now.

THIS week H. S. Griffin & Co. offer extraordinary value in a special line of Kid Gloves, in evening and dark shades, 4 button, 35c. per pair. Prints at 7½c. are going quickly. Parasols in children's, 20c., and lines of Millinery at half price. Ladies may look out for great bargains at H. S. Griffin & Co.'s. 3d137w24

IRELAND.

The Queen's representative at the Jubilee celebration in Dublin will be Prince Albert Victor, the eldest son of the Prince of Wales.

On May 7th the Alexandra Park, Belfast, which is situated on the Antrim Road, was opened to the public.

A memoir on the Irish Question, said to be drawn up by the Irish College at Rome for presentation to the Vatican, and which strongly condemned the Home Rule party, is a forgery.

It is stated the Dublin police have, without a single expression of dissatisfaction, subscribed to the Jubilee Fund spontaneously instituted without the knowledge of the Commissioner.

Mr. Johnston, one of the Orange members for Belfast, is anxious that the town should enjoy the style and distinction of being called a city. Dublin, Cork, Waterford and Limerick are all "cities," but Belfast is only a borough.

The strike of shipbuilders in Belfast for weekly instead of fortnightly payments continues, but it is stated many of the workmen are beginning to feel the pinch of poverty, and there are signs that not a few are willing to go in on the employers' terms.

Meetings were announced for May 14th at Caledon, near Armagh, by rival parties in reference to the Crimes Bill. The authorities, however, proclaimed both meetings. The taverns were closed at noon, and 100 police were drafted into the town. No disturbance occurred.

Patrick Madden, a bailiff on Lord Clanricarde's estate, against whom a boycotting resolution was passed by the Loughrea Branch of the National League on May 17th, signed a document declaring that he has relinquished his position under Lord Clanricarde and prohibited his son from serving.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d99

"For contemplation he, and valor formed,
For softness she, and swe t attractive grace,"

John Milton in his "Paradise Lost" thus distinguishes woman from man Diseases fall to her lot that do not to man's, peculiar to her soft and more refined nature. A remedy adapted to the cure of her peculiar diseases is found in Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," for women. Thousands who have used it attest its great worth.

Cleaning Carpets.

Carpet cleaning, as ordinarily performed, is literally carpet-beating and does much toward destroying the carpet. The proper way, if one is in the country, is to get a branch of a tree or a young sapling as thick as the butt of an axe handle, and which terminates in a good number of light, whip-like shoots. A beech branch will sometimes be found, which will answer the purpose. It must be trimmed up, and every twig, knot or roughness be removed which could catch in the threads and tear the carpet. Of course the flatter the upper part is the better, as more of the whips will strike at the same time. To clean the carpet, hang it over a line placed so high that the lower edge will clear the ground. Take the big whip in both hands and strike a strong, quick blow. A cloud of dust will fly from the whole space struck, yet the blow will not appear to make very much impression on the carpet itself. The ends of the branch have divided the force of the blow among themselves and each one has made a sharp, quick stroke like that of a riding whip.—American Agriculturist.

IDAHO'S HEROINE.

Her Name is Theresa and she is Death to Mountain Lions.

A year ago a wonderful story of the gallant fight of Theresa Tallert with mountain lions while defending her flock of Angora goats on the Little Lost river was circulated far and wide in American and even French papers. The story set forth how, late one evening in her cabin in the foothills of Eastern Idaho, she was awakened by animals racing around in the stockade adjoining; how she arose, and, with a hand axe and her dog Badger, she stole out in the moonlight to find the lions in pursuit of her goats; how, nothing daunted, she attacked them and cut one to the bone with her axe, injured others, and caused the whole, some six in all, to flee over the stockade wall. But the next morning the brave girl discovered that the throats of many of the herd had been cut, for fifty of them lay dead on the ground.

"Well, our girl's been making another record," said A. J. Bruner of Houstyn, Idaho, to an Examiner man, "and she got in her work in fine style, the usual way with her. She never lets up on a job until its completed artistically."

"What's she been doing now?"

"Had another fight with mountain lions. You see, a year ago after Theresa's fight with them, O. B. Hawley and other raisers of Angora goats, those who had suffered losses, put their heads together and organized a posse to kill them off. They killed a great many and pretty well cleaned them out, it was thought. For some months thereafter there was very few of them seen around, and these were very wary. Lately, however, the lions have come to the front. The foot hills have seemed to be swarming with them. They again invaded the stockades and sucked the blood of the goats, whose throats they cut. Miss Tallert, who had lost some more of her flock, and knew that the lions came around there quite often at night, got a couple of Winchesters and loaded them with buckshot a few nights ago. The she dug out the chinking between the logs on the side her cabin next to the stockade, and at this porthole she took up her station. Well, in five nights in this way she killed thirteen mountain lions, and she says that she is not through with them yet. Her herd of goats comprises some 500 in all, and perhaps thirty or fifty of these have been killed in the last month or two."

Miss Tallert is a German girl who has been ranching on the Little Lost river for three or four years. The country round is good for Angora goats, and she got her start by working first for wages for A. J. Bruner, who is the biggest grower in the region.—San Francisco Examiner.

FARM AND GARDEN.

The profits of the Chicago stock-yards are said to have reached the enormous sum of $55,000,000 during the past ten years.

The number of farms in the United States is said to have increased during the past six years from about four millions to about five millions.

It has been found that trees are longest lived when kept in sod. When the soil is cultivated, the trees, especially in a rich soil, will often make a rank growth of three or four feet. The wood will be soft, and as it generally fails to ripen the growth will be killed during the winter.

There is nothing better than cut straw to clean the legs of chickens. Cover the floor to the depth of six inches with clean, dry straw that has been run through a cutting box, throw a few oats and some wheat among it and let in the poultry. The amount of scratching they do cleanses the legs perfectly, gives them fine exercise, and does them good in all particulars.

It is a great help in ploughing corn stubble to have the hard stubs broken down and the surface loosened by thorough dragging. This work may be done as soon as the frost is out of the ground, and several days before the soil is fit to put in the plough. The breaking up of the crust on the surface lets in light and warmth, thus enabling the farmer to plough earlier than he otherwise could.

Our farmers (says a New England paper) make little cheese for home use, and the factory plan of making a skim milk cheese—leathery, insipid and indigestible—has brought all cheese, good and bad, into disfavour. But certainly every dairyman and farmer should make full cream cheese for home use. It is a great deal better food than fat, rusty pork, or lean old cow beef, in hot weather. One pound of cheese contains as much nutriment as two pounds of lean beef, and is a great deal healthier and easier to get and keep fresh.

Mr. Frederick A. Milbank describes a verycurious breed of sheep of which he has a small flock running in his park near Bedale, in Yorkshire. These sheep are about the size and weight of an ordinary blackfaced Scotch sheep, but have four horns, one pair growing upwards and curving slightly outwards, the other pair curving downwards and almost surrounding the face. Such, a least are the characteristics of a five-year-old ram whose head was photographed. Mr. Milbank originally purchased a few of the breed in the island of North Uist, one of the Hebrides. They are not found in the adjacent islands, nor (as far as we are aware) in any other part of the United Kingdom. The skulls of sheep having four (and sometimes more) horns have been found in different parts of Ireland by antiquaries.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A revised estimate places the loss by the burning of the Canada Chemical Works at London, on Sunday night, at $100,000, with $45,000 insurance.

The petition against Senator Trudel, on account of his want of property qualification, was thrown out of the Senate on a technicality.

It is expected that the Presbyterian General Assembly will adjourn on Thursday, and that a large party will leave Winnipeg for the Pacific Coast on Friday.

A cablegram from London states that Canadian 3½'s had sold at 103¼ and Canadian 4's at 109. The 3½'s reached par only recently, and 11 years ago the 4's stood at ninety.

A deputation from the Montreal Board of Trade, Corn Exchange and Board of Examiners went to Ottawa on Monday to urge upon the Government the necessity of passing the Flour Inspection Amendment Bill this session.

The annual meeting of the Society of Friends for the territory including Ontario and the State of New York was held at Sparta, Elgin County, on Saturday and Sunday, over two thousand Quakers being present.

The body of a man was found hidden in some shrubbery near Lachine. The remains are so far decomposed that identification is impossible, but from marks of violence still perceptible and signs of a desperate struggle about the spot, it is believed a brutal murder has been perpetrated.

DOMESTIC AND USEFUL.

Lard may be made perfectly sweet by boiling a pared potato in it.

Mustard mixed smooth with new milk, and a little cream added, will keep; it is very soft, and by no means bitter.

A material called "featherbone," prepared from the quills of geese and turkeys, is said to be largely taking the place of whalebone.

The holes around a lamp burner should be kept open to admit air, and entirely free from dust and grease. The wick should be trimmed very evenly.

A convenient eating bib for children is made of a towel. It is better to have the towel white. Hollow out the neck before binding, and bind with white tape.

Flowers of sulphur, sprinkled on a hot shovel, and the fumes inhaled while they are fresh, will cure cold in the head. A teaspoonful of sulphur is sufficient, and does not cause disagreeable sensations.

Allow no one to kiss a baby's ear or tickle his tiny feet. The ears and nerves are too sensitive to be made into playthings. The quieter and more peaceful a baby's first year is, the better he will be in health and behaviour.

In London Scotch tartan plaids have again made their appearance among the variety of new materials for the season; and seem to have considerable influence on summer fashions in stuffs as well as ribbons, the size of the pattern varying from large clan tartans to innumerable small and pretty checks.

How to Wash Flannel.—Immerse the flannel in cold water for a few hours (say overnight), then wring out and wash through a good lather of boiled soap and luke-warm water, afterwards rinse in cold water, using as little friction as possible. Dry in the open air or in a draught. On no account put it before a hot fire.

Preserved Rhubarb.—Get a good quantity of rhubarb, firm and red in colour. Wash each stick clean, dry it thoroughly with a cloth, cut it up in inch lengths, and spread it out on a tray to dry for at least two days. Take, say, 4 lbs. of rhubarb and prepare it in this way:—Put into a jellypan 4 lbs. of sugar, 1 large teaspoonful of ground ginger, 1 teacupful of water, and stir it over the fire till it boils for at least five minutes, then put in all the dry rhubarb and let it boil up, stirring as little as possible. Allow it to boil gently for half an hour at least, then dish it in pots.

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes 'as bright as a button.' It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

PALMO-TAR SOAP.

WE CONFIDENTLY ASSERT, THAT FOR IMPROVING THE COMPLEXION AND SKIN THIS SOAP HAS NO EQUAL. MOST SCALY ERUPTIONS, PIMPLES AND CHRONIC DISEASES OF THE SKIN WILL BE CURED BY USING IT.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

The Heat of the Sun

Will have no effect on ladies if they read J. J. Sheehy's advertisement and act accordingly.

Piano Tuning.

S. R. Huffman is in town. Orders left at Mr. McClelland's jewellery store will be attended to. 3d137

Remember

the St. Andrew's S. School picnic to-morrow per steamer Golden Eye to Campbellstown. A most enjoyable time may be counted on. "Dinna forget."

Art.

A portrait of a young lady of Guelph is on exhibition in one of the windows in Clegg's furniture store. It is from the brush of Mr. N. H. Ramer, and attracts considerable notice.

Purchased a Stallion.

Mr. W. M. Fair, of North Monaghan, has purchased from Messrs. John Millar & Son, Pickering, the celebrated Clydesdale stallion, General Lee. General Lee is one of the finest horses in the country.

A Reward Offered.

The Cobourg Sentinel-Star says—"We understand that the Rice Lake Shooting and Fishing Club [illegible] $50 for the apprehension of the parties who broke into their club house on Tic Island and stole several things therefrom."

Central Loan and Saving, Coy.

In another column may be noticed the advertisement of this company, whose office is established in Peterborough. There can be no doubt that all transactions with the Central Loan will be of a most satisfactory nature.

Fresh patterns in Carpets just arrived at Turnbull's, intending purchasers should see them, they are special value.

Bad Boy.

James Barry, alias Sam Baxter, who has been bell boy in the Oriental for some time past, was given a two dollar bill on Monday night to go and get some postage stamps. Instead of getting the stamps he filched a gold watch from one of the hotel employees and made tracks. He was spotted in Toronto on Tuesday night. P. C. Adams went up to bring him back to make explanations. In the meantime the affable hotel clerk is waiting for the stamps.

The Liquor Trade.

In the division on the liquor question the member for West Peterborough voted in strict accordance with his statements before his election. He voted to repeal the Scott Act as a failure, and he voted in favor of a general measure of prohibition. On the two minor questions he voted against wine and beer in Scott Act counties as still further facilitating breaches of the Scott Act, and he voted for compensation to those who might lose money invested on the faith of the laws of the country.

A Fall in Wheat.

On Tuesday evening at about half past eight o'clock the side of Messrs. Meldrum, Davidson & Co.'s mill was seen to be bulging out where the wheat is stored in the upper storey. In a short time after, before more that a couple of hundred bushels had been drawn from the over loaded bin, the casing gave way and with a bang about a thousand bushels of wheat shot out of the side of the mill. It was gathered up and placed in store again. The loss to the mill will be about $100. An elevator next to the mill, capable of holding 50,000 bushels, has been placed under construction to-day.

A select stock of Millinery, Mantles, Hoop-Skirts, Panniers, Bustles, &c., &c., at Turnbull's Ladies' Furnishing Store on Simcoe Street, Peterborough.

Personal.

The Port Hope Times says:—"Mr. C. Smart, representing Messrs. Smart & Springer, of Peterborough, was in town today, taking orders for the new door-plate establishment they have recently established in that town. The samples shown are of the best quality, while the charge is a very reasonable one. We cordially recommend Mr. Smart and his goods to the public. The door plate is very useful, and saves a good many unnecessary trips to the door in the course of a year."

Mr. Mort. Kincaid, son of Dr. Kincaid, has returned home after a two years absense. Since then he has travelled a great deal and seen much. He started from here with a survey party for the North West, from there he went to Alaska and returning to Oregon. While at the port of Portland occupied a position as a merchantman. He sailed across the Pacific to Japan, China, Farther India, India and Australia. He returned home by way of New York. He looks quite well after his long voyage.

COMPLIMENTARY DINNER.

Given to Mr. C. A. Lawford at the Oriental Hotel.

A complimentary dinner was given to Mr. C. A. Lawford, teller of the Bank of Montreal here for the past number of years, by his friends, at the Oriental Hotel on Tuesday evening. There were a representative number of the business men of the town present.

After doing justice to the ample spread the chairman, Mr. J. R. Stratton, M. P. P., proposed the first toast on the list, "The Queen, the Prince of Wales and the rest of the Royal Family." In doing so he referred to this year of the Queen's Jubilee and the loyalty being now manifested throughout the Empire. He also referred to the visit of the Prince of Wales to this country and this town.

The toast was drunk and the company sang "God Save the Queen."

The CHAIRMAN proposed "The Governor-General and Lieutenant-Governor." He spoke in high terms of Lord Lansdowne eulogised him as being a man of great ability and urbane manners. He also paid a tribute of praise to the late Lieutenant-Governor Robinson.

The toast was drunk and the company sang "For They are Jolly Good Fellows."

"The Army, Navy and Volunteers," brought a song from Mr. Ardagh and a recitation from Mr. Kirby.

The CHAIRMAN proposed "Our Guest." It afforded him a great deal of pleasure to be present to-night to mingle in the regrets of the company. He regretted very much that the guest of the evening was about to take Horace Greely's advice and "go west." During the time he had been in Peterborough he had won many friends towards which he had borne himself in a very pleasant manner. The Athletic Association would miss Mr. Lawford, to whose efforts it owed in a great measure the good standing it held to-day. Mr. Lawford was a member of nearly all of the athletic organizations, in each of which he had proven himself a "teller." (Laughter.) Of Mr. Lawford's social life he could not say much, as he was not intimately acquainted with him, but knowing him in a business capacity for three or four years he could say that Mr. Lawford was ever obliging, even to holding over an [illegible] (Laughter.) He wished the guest of the evening [illegible] and hoped soon to see him back to visit Peterborough.

The toast was drunk and "He's a Jolly Good Fellow" was sung.

Mr. LAWFORD replied briefly, thanking the company for their token of regard presented to him this evening.

Mr. A. ST. A. SMITH, Vice-Chairman, proposed "The Mercantile and Manufacturing Interests of Peterborough." It was replied to by Mr. Bain, of Breeze & Bain, Mr. McFarlane Wilson, of China Hall, and Mr. Rut. Stevenson, the latter administering some good advice to the guest of the evening amid uproar. Mr. Kingan, who entered the dining hall at this stage, was called on, and, although taken unawares, made a magnificent extemporaneous address.

The dignity of "The Learned Professions" was upheld by Mr. E. H. D. Hall.

Mr. C. H. Clementi proposed "The Banking interests" which toast was responded to by Messrs. A. St. A. Smith, Morris, Haultain, Ardagh and Burritt.

"The Insurance interests" was drunk and responded to by E. E. Henderson.

"The Ladies" was responded to all round the table and "For they are Jolly Good Fellows" was sung into the the bargain.

"The Press" was acknowledged by Mr. A. P. Choate for the REVIEW and Messrs. C. H. Allison and J. R. Stratton for the Examiner.

"The Civil Service" found an able and witty champion in Mr. C. H. Clementi. His speech was received with loud applause.

The toast list came to an end with "The Host and Hostess."

"God Save the Queen," was sung.

Boys' boots cheaper at Kidd's than any place else in town.

Peterborough Business College.

The term closing at the Peterborough Business College took place on Tuesday evening, when the diplomas awarded were bestowed on the winners.

At 8 o'clock the proceedings were opened by Principal Sawyer welcoming both students and visitors to the hall.

One young lady and five gentlemen were in waiting for graduation as follows:—Miss Henriette Reid, and Messrs. Chas. Russell, Leolin Law, Moses Ruth, Thos. J. Crowe and Arthur Stewart.

Mr. Charles Russell had completed the theoretical work previously, but did not graduate till this term. He has succeeded in carrying off the highest honors yet taken and is deserving of congratulations. He won the General Proficiency prize and was valedictorian for the class.

Miss Reid won the prize for the best essay on "Success." Subject for next year will be "The Privileges of Canadian Citizenship."

The following marks show, without comment, what each student has done:—

Name	Term	Final Standing	Grade
Charles Russel.....	1680	1440	A
Harriette Reid	1472	1220	B
Leolin Law	1467	1220	B
Moses Ruth	1258	1185	B
Thos. J. Crowe	1130	1020	C
Arthur Stewart.....	1120	1020	C

POLICE COURT.

ASSAULT.

WEDNESDAY, June 15.—The assault case, Wells vs. Waghorn, was heard this morning. Mrs. Waghorn was present. The charge was that Mrs. Waghorn assaulted the complainant, Henry Wells, by pulling his whiskers.

The COMPLAINANT owns the house in which Mrs. Waghorn lives. A few days ago, according to his story, he took his lawn mower and after mowing the grass in front of his own house, proceeded to do likewise in front of his tenant's house. She came out and ordered him off, but he was on his own ground before she gave the order. However, she came out and gripped him by the whiskers and pulled out a handful, as well as scratching his face.

The DEFENDANT tells another story. She says that Wells was on her lawn. She did not care to have anybody do anything for her but her own husband, and she ordered him off. He wouldn't go. She went out and stood before the mower. He shoved it against her feet and then turned it another way. She stood in front again. He held up his arm and struck her, and she fell down. Then she got up and insisted that he should leave the lawn. And she insisted so emphatically that he left.

The MAGISTRATE held that the grass should have been cut, and that the defendant was guilty of the assault. He fined her $1 and costs.

BISMARCK ILL.

BERLIN, June 14.—Prince Bismarck's condition has become worse. He is afflicted with rheumatic pains, which prevent sleep. His doctors advise rest and a change of climate. His illness, however, prevents his travelling at present.

JUBILEE VISITORS.

IMPORTANT!

At the time of selling our stock of Dry Goods to Sheehy & Co., we had fully determined to give up that particular branch of our business, but, as previously announced, did not do so, for various reasons. However, it is now our intention to dispose of the Dry Goods Trade, and have consequently made up our minds to clear out the whole stock

AT COST AND UNDER.

This is one of the BEST Dry Goods stocks in the country, having been imported from the best markets direct in our names. Remember, this will be a GENUINE CLEARING-OUT SALE. While we will still retain our Clothing Trade, yet we will, during this sale, offer ALL our Ready-made Clothing, for Men and Boys, (with all kinds of Furnishings) AT COST PRICE.

DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

[illegible] Friday, June 3.

Changes—Export Duty on Elm Logs—A Winter Port.

TUESDAY, June 14.—The report of the Printing Committee was adopted.

CONDUCT OF BUSINESS.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD moved the Government business have precedence on Wednesdays.

Mr. MILLS wanted the Government to take charge of Mr. Jamieson's Scott Act bill [illegible] through.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD declined to impede the Government business till he saw what progress they made. If he could he would forward the discussion of the bill.

Mr. MILLS wanted it made a Government measure.

Sir J. MACDONALD referred him to yesterday's votes.

Mr. FISHER regretted Mr. Jamieson's absence. Taking Wednesdays from private members, meant throwing the bill over. Those members who gave such terrible accounts of the failure of the Scott Act should assist to make it workable.

Mr IVES said the promoters of the bill had twice prospoued it for their own convenience. There seemed to be an attempt to manufacture political capital.

The motion was carried.

CUSTOMS LAWS.

Sir. J. MACDONALD in reply to Mr. Curran said that having regard to the importance of the subject they would have to defer any changes in the Customs laws till next session.

CUSTOMS FRAUDS.

Mr. PATTERSON (Brant) on a motion to go into ways and means asked for information as to the Montreal Cotton Co. having entered dye stuffs under wrong names to evade payment of duties, and if their subsequent payment on account of the duty had been accepted as a settlement.

Mr. BOWELL said it had not, and the case was still being investigated, the Directors willingly giving them the fullest information.

Mr. MITCHELL said these gentlemen were not likely to be guilty of fraud. He thought other cases had been treated more severely.

Mr. JONES complained that Halifax was especially severely treated, while Montreal was favored. The officers of the Department were allowed too much power.

Mr. BOWELL said the greatest pains was taken to secure uniformity in classification. He could not be held guilty of political favoritism, for there had been more complaints from his friends than his opponents.

TARIFF CHANGES.

The House went into Committee of Ways and Means, and agreed to a number of tariff changes, among others the imposition of an export duty on spruce and elm logs.

A clause was inserted to allow goods purchased before May 13th, if entered before July 1st, to come in under the old duties.

ST. JOHN, N.B.

Mr. WELDON (St. John, N.B.) advocated the claims of St. John as a winter port.

Other New Brunswick members joined in the discussion.

SUPPLY.

The House went into Committee of Supply and passed a number of items.

Famine in Asia Minor.

BOSTON, June 15.—The American Board of Foreign Missions have received tidings of a terrible famine in Asia Minor bordering on the Mediterranean and embracing the ancient cities of Tarsus and Adana. The state of affairs is so deplorable as to render an appeal to the benevolent public an immediate necessity. The harvest time has just passed, but not a single sheaf of grain will be cut in all the plain, ordinarily artificially watered. Eighty thousand inhabitants are destitute and must starve unless help is brought from without.

The undermentioned articles shall be free of duty:—Wire, of iron and steel, galvanized or turned, number 16 gauge or smaller; fire bricks for all processes of manufacture, rolled rods of steel under ¾ inch in diameter or under ½ inch square, when imported by knob or lock manufacturers or cutlers for use exclusively in such manufactures in their own factories; books educational imported by and for the use of schools for the deaf and dumb and blind exclusively.

EXPORT DUTIES.

The following export duty is added:—Spruce and elm logs, $1 per 1,000 feet board measure.

PREVIOUS PURCHASES.

The following clause is inserted in the law to meet cases where contracts were made prior to the changes in the tariff. All goods actually purchased on or before the 13th day of May at any place out of Canada, for importation into Canada, on evidence to the satisfaction of the Minister of Customs of the purchase having been so made, and all goods in warehouse in Canada on such day may be entered for duty at the rate of duty in force immediately before said day. But the provisions of this section shall cease to have force and effect on the 1st day of July in the present year, excepting that goods from the United Kingdom, or any British possession carried by way of Cape Horn may be entered in British Columbia under the provisions aforesaid until the first day of November in the present year.

A Petty Attempt.

BOSTON, June 15.—The petition of the Central Labor Union and others, asking for a revocation of the permission given to British societies to use Faneuil Hall for a banquet on the occasion of the Queen's Jubilee, was given a hearing by an aldermanic committee yesterday. Representatives of the British societies maintained that the use of the hall was only proper. Considerable hard feeling was exhibited during the hearing. The committee reserved its decision.

The Prohibition Amendment.

BOSTON, June 15.—The House yesterday refused to agree to the constitutional prohibitory amendment by a vote of 135 to 73

RUSSIAN AGGRESSIVENESS

To be Opposed by Three Great Powers, England, Germany and Austria.

LONDON, June 15.—The Austrian and German ambassadors called upon Lord Salisbury at the Foreign Office yesterday afternoon and the three were closeted together for some time. The purpose or result of the interview has not been definitely made public, but the meeting is believed to portend the cohesion of Germany and Austria with England in opposing the aggressions of Russia on the frontier of Afghanistan and England's joint action with Austria in restraining or thwarting Russia's ill concealed intention of occupying Bulgaria. The repeated warnings of the English press during the last few days have not been necessary to appraise Lord Salisbury of the fact that both the Bulgarian and Afghan questions have assumed phases rendering their immediate settlement by arbitration, force of arms, or an alliance sufficiently strong to induce Russia to substitute discretion for territorial ambition absolutely imperative. The position of Russia on the Afghan frontier after two years of careful, quiet, unrestricted preparation is much stronger than that of England in many parts of the Ameer's dominions, and the first stages of actual war in that region could not fail to result disastrously to English arms, and firmly establish Russia in possession of the most strongly fortified position in Afghanistan. It will therefore be seen that an alliance of sufficient power to awe the Czar into relinquishing his purpose of administering the estate of the Ameer in advance of the latter's demise, is of great importance to England, at least until she can get ready to contest Russia's claims individually with equal chances of success. On the other hand, the appointment of a pro-Russian minister in Servia has deprived Austria of any hope of King Milan's assistance in checking Russia's pretensions in the Balkans, and made England's assistance on the eve of the election of a prince of Bulgaria, to whose accession to the throne Russia will undoubtedly object, doubly welcome. As for Germany's share in the benefit of the alliance she has everything to gain and nothing to lose by passively interfering to prevent Russia from precipitating war in Afghanistan and [illegible] to a bloodless settlement of the Bulgarian question [illegible] the warlike ebullitions of France until the arrival of the time when it shall seem advantageous to provoke or declare war against her implacable enemy.

DIOCESAN SYNOD.

The Anglican Synod of Toronto in Session—The Bishop's Charge.

The Anglican Synod of this Diocese met in Toronto on Tuesday. The meeting was preceeded by the celebration of Holy Communion. Archdeacon Boddy offered the opening prayers.

THE BISHOP'S CHARGE.

The Bishop read his charge, giving a very full account of the work in the diocese for the past year. He was able to give a satisfactory account of the progress that had been made, especially in church building and enlargement and in the more liberal contributions. Especial mention among other matters was made of the Queen's Jubilee, the Centennial of the Colonial Episcopate, and his Lordship's visit to the General Convention of the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States.

COMMITTEE REPORTS.

At the afternoon session a number of committee reports were considered, that as to Rectory lands giving rise to considerable discussion as to leases made by the late Dean Grassett, a decision being deferred till certain propositions were presented.

STANDING COMMITTEE.

WED. June 15.—The Standing Committees were chosen and upon them appear the following names:—Rev. Rural Dean Beck, and Mr. A. H. Campbell; Mission Board, Rev. Rural Dean Beck and Mr. Herbert A. Hammond; Sunday School and Book and Tract Committee, Rev. W. C. Bradshaw; Widow and Orphans and Theological Students Funds, Dr. H. C. Burritt; Clergy Commutation Trust, Rev. W. C. Allan and Mr. A. H. Campbell.

ADDRESS TO THE QUEEN.

An address to the Queen was adopted by a standing vote the National Anthem being sung.

JUBILEE SERVICES.

The LORD BISHOP asked the clergy to hold services on Jubilee day June 21st.

A committee was appointed to arrange for a jubilee service in one of the large churches in Toronto with the Bishop presiding.

MISSIONARY WORK.

The report of the Mission Board was presented showing some improvement in the contribution and diminishing the debt, but leaving greater liberality to be desired.

The Board recommended a trial of the proposed Clergy House and suggested Haliburton County and the borders of North Peterborough and North Victoria as the location.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT.

Seven Men Badly Hurt—One Probably Fatally.

PORT HOPE, June 15.—A gang of seventeen railway men, under Mr. Charles Rouse, section-boss, were engaged yesterday about a mile and a half west of Cobourg laying new steel rails. (The track between Port Hope and Cobourg is being newly steeled all the way through). At six o'clock p. m. they boarded three hand-cars to return to Hort Hope, the men being anxious to get home were running their pumpers at the rate of about three miles in five minutes. In passing the switch that runs into the gravel bed about five miles east of town, the middle car jumped the track. There were seven men on it, and all were more or less injured. William Smith a man between fifty and sixty years of age, had three ribs broken; the car passed over both his thighs and hurt the flesh on both legs. He lies in a precarious state. Mr. Rouse had both arms badly sprained, and had his nose broken, and will be disfigured for life. All the others escaped with more or less bruises and cuts, but were terribly shaken with the upset. Mr. Smith received the greatest injuries.—Guide.

LATEST CABLE NEWS!

POPULAR JOY.

BELGRADE, June 15.—The new ministry has been received with popular rejoicing. Last night the city was illuminated and bands paraded the streets playing the Servian National Anthem.

THE CUBAN FRANCHISE.

MADRID, June 15.—Senor Balagner, Minister of the Colonies, will introduce in the Cortes a bill giving to every Cuban who pays $40 in taxes, the right to vote in elections for members of the Cortes.

EXTENDING THE FRANCHISE.

THE HAGUE, June 15.—Parliament has passed a bill providing for a temporary extension of the electoral franchise pending a complete revision of the constitution. The bill raises the number of electors from 130,000 to 300,000, and gives the right to vote to lodgers and others who pay a personal or land tax of ten florins.

NAVAL REVIEW.

LONDON, June 15.—The Admiralty is arranging with the German Embassy here for the attendance of German vessels at the Jubilee review. The German Government will send a number of torpedo boats. The King of Saxony starts for London on the 16th to attend the Jubilee.

ITALY AND THE VATICAN.

ROME, June 15.—The Government is preparing a bill on the Roman question. Should the bill be rejected, Parliament will be dissolved and the question of conciliation with the Vatican submitted to the country.

YACHT RACING.

LONDON, June 15.—The steamer Norham Castle, from which the Prince of Wales started the Jubilee yacht race, yesterday, but which he left at Mouse Light and returned to London, reached Harwick at five o'clock this morning. The fog had been so thick during the night that the vessel was obliged to anchor. Five hundred and eighty of her passengers remained aboard all night. The Genesta passed the Norham Castle during the night. The Dawn passed 35 minutes later and was followed five minutes afterward by the Aline. The weather continues hazy. The wind is from southeast.

THE BODYKE EVICTIONS.

DUBLIN, June 15.—There were only two [illegible] tenants to be evicted. Michael Davitt in a speech thanked the people for their admirable discipline, good temper and pluck. The campaign was over, he said, and victory rested with them.

ANGLO-TURKISH CONVENTION.

CONSTANTINOPLE, June 15.—Sir Henry Drummond Wolffe, the special English representative to Turkey, has been instructed to adhere to the terms of convention with regard to Egypt, recently concluded between Turkey and England.

THE CRIMES BILL.

[illegible] moved to omit the words enabling the Lord Lieutenant to proclaim any association interfering with the administration of the law, or disturbing order. This portion of the clause, he said, was a coercion act in itself. A heated debate took place, in which Sir Vernon Harcourt, Mr. Balfour, Mr. Harley and Mr. Hugh Holmes, the Attorney-General for Ireland, and Messrs. Dillon and Healy participated, after which the amendment was finally rejected by a vote of 228 to 140.

DISASTROUS FIRE.

LONDON, June 15.—A disastrous fire is raging at Lulea, Sweden, on the Gulf of Bothnia. A church, the town hall, and many dwellings along several streets have been burned.

A MATRICIDE.

PARIS, June 15.—The execution of the young matricide, Gausson took place today at Amiens. He was conducted to the scaffold in his bare feet, robed in white and wearing a black veil over his face.

ON THE RED SEA.

PARIS, June 15.—It is reported that a treaty has been drawn up between France and Abyssinia by which King John refuses to allow any Italian factories on the Red Sea littoral, and disputes the right of Italy to places already occupied by Italians, while France subscribes £40,000 to the Ethiopian convent at Jerusalem, which supplies Abyssinia with Copite clergy.

THE BODYKE EVICTIONS.

LONDON, June 15.—The Liberal papers are filled with blood curdling accounts of the brutality of the police in enforcing the evictions, and assert that the resistance of the tenants and the violence of the spectators at Bodyke have been provoked by the unjustifiably inhuman conduct of the constables, rather than by the speeches of Mr. Davitt and his friends.

THE CROWN PRINCE.

LONDON, June 15.—The feature of the elaborate preparations for the Queen's Jubilee is the arrival of the Crown Prince Frederick William of Prussia, who overshadows all of the royal visitors in interest and importance. The conflicting reports as to the gravity of his malady have added greatly to the public concern in his movements, and has vastly improved his popularity, and next to the Queen herself he will unquestionably be the most conspicuous figure of the celebration. The Pall Mall Gazette publishes an interview with Dr Mackenzie, in which the latter adheres to his opinion that the throat trouble afflicting the Crown Prince is merely a warty growth, and authorizes the paper to state as coming from him that unless some change should occur in the general condition of the Prince his complete restoration to health is positively assured.

AN EARTHQUAKE.

PARIS, June 15.—Earthquakes visited La Roches-sur-Yon in La Vendee to-day. The people were frightened into a temporary panic, but no serious damage was done.

DUNNING TURKEY.

LONDON, June 15.—M. Nelidoff, the Russian ambassador, has reminded Turkey of her liability to Russia, because of the indemnity due on account of the Russo-Turkish war, and has intimated that if the liability in not met Russia will take pledges to guarantee its payment.

THE CRIMEAN WAR.

LONDON, June 15.—The last volume of Kinglake's "History of the Crimean War" is to be published in October. Kinglake has completed his text, and the manuscript is now in the hands of Messrs. Blackwood.

The Daily Review

THURSDAY, JUNE 16, 1887.

THE NORTHWEST PASSAGE.

THE arrival of the first steamer from Yokohama at Vancouver, after a most successful trip, is another evidence of the great benefit that is being derived from the early construction and energetic management of the C. P. R. It is evident that through our Dominion is to be one of the great highways for the commerce and travel of the world. Such connections and such facilities for business cannot fail to be advantageous o the whole community.

There is another aspect of the case that is most satisfactory. As soon as the people in the old country have got over their little transient tiff with us for determining to do our own iron manufacturing instead of dealing with our neighbours of the United States, who were fast running out of our markets the iron men of Great Britain, they will be once more in a state of mind to perceive that if Canada is acting primarily for her own interests she is at the same time rendering good service to the Empire as a whole. We have in fact solved that old question of the "North-West passage" to the East, upon the search for which the British people have lavished so much treasure with the lives of many of their bravest heroes. By the C.P.R. they have a route to the Oriental and Austral possessions of the Empire on British soil, and this advantage, for which they have to thank Canada, will be more and more appreciated as it is utilized.

WHEN Mr. Travis the Stipendiary Magistrate at Calgary was not summarily dismissed because complaints were made against him, opposition journals attacked the Government. Now that Mr. Travis has not been made one of the judges in the North-West but has been granted a retiring allowance, the opposition journals are attacking the Government on two incongrous grounds, that they have treated Mr. Travis too well in giving him a pension and that they are treating him too badly in not making him a judge. So that the Government is blamed these critics see no need for consistency. The truth seems to be that Mr. Travis is a good lawyer and [illegible] but with infirmities of temper that cause much friction with those in contact with him. Probably the Minister of Justice has exercised a wise discretion in not selecting him as a judge

MR. VALANCY Fuller, who is endeavoring to raise an agitation among the farmers of Canada in favor of commercial annexation to the United States, seems quite indifferent to the honesty of his arguments. He has been telling the farmers that with reciprocity they would get several cents [illegible] around Milton may make, or what price they may get for it, but the farmers of Peterborough and the surrounding districts can sell their cheese for the same price as the farmers of New York State. We cannot see why annexation should raise the price several cents per pound.

THE Sault Ste. Marie Express, a thorough Reform journal, supplies another testimony in favor of the new iron duties, though objecting to the National Policy as a whole. As our readers may see, it ridicules the idea that pig iron cannot be made in Ontario, instancing the fact of the enormous quantity of iron ore that is being carried past the Sault to be smelted where there is coal, and holding rightly that it is equally feasible to bring the coal to the iron.

IT is rumored that Mr. Norquay has advised the Lieut.-Governor of Manitoba not to comply with the request from Ottawa to forward the Red River Valley Railway Bill at once. Neither the Premier nor the Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba is likely to forget the fact that under our constitution the Lieutenant-Governors are Dominion officials.

ALGOMA AND THE IRON DUTIES.

Without discussing the merits of the National Policy, but taking it, as we must do, as an established fact in this country, we consider that the new iron duties will be a great benefit to this district. We may say that they are the only feature of our protective policy which does not hurt Algoma; certainly they are the only thing in it from which we may expect to derive a benefit.

The immense stores of iron abounding in different parts of the district and in close proximity to Sault Ste Marie, will not remain undeveloped much longer. As we stated in our local column last week, there are now about a dozen prospectors in this neighborhood, who speak in the most encouraging terms of their prospects and have declared their intention to stay. Some of them are men of large capital and experience.

We have heard the objection raised to Algoma that although it may have iron it has no coal, and it requires both together to make iron pay. The practical answer to this, however, is plain to everyone who sees the immense loads of iron passing down our river from the immense iron region of the upper peninsula of Michigan. The iron industry alone has built up Marquette and other places, and vessels find it profitable to bring coal to the west and iron to the east. Our circumstances are precisely similar. Michigan supplies twice more iron than Pennsylvania where both coal and iron exist together. In Canada at the present time, the total output of the iron mines is 60,000 tons, while the demand is 250,000 tons and this demand is increasing. We have no coal nearer than Nova Scotia where they have also iron, but with the coal duties removed, as it has lately been, we can get coal from the United State, and this part Algoma will, with the railway facilities now being created, become like the Marquette region, a thriving mart of iron industry.—Sault Ste Marie Express. (Reform)

HASTINGS.

HEAVY FLEECE.—Mr. Frank Birdsall obtained a fleece from an aged Cotswold, which weighed 21 pounds. Rather an uncomfortable load of wool to carry around this hot weather.

FINE CATTLE.—Mr. D. Black, of this village bought some fine cattle in the neighborhood of Campbellford recently. Five of the animals averaged 1699 lbs, the heaviest being 2190, and the lightest 1340.

CHEESE.—The first sale of cheese was made from the Hasting factory by Mr. John Collins last week. The price realized was 9¼ cents per pound f. o. b. This speaks well for the quality of our article, as a consignment of cheese from Norwood only brought 9 cents.

FARMER'S INSTITUTE.—An effort is being made to organize a Farmer's Institute for the East Riding of Peterborough. One meeting has been held, but the attendance was too small to justify any decided action being taken, so another meeting is called for Friday at 2 o'clock, in Norwood.

PICNIC.—The posters for the Burnley picnic are out, and judging from the bill of fare presented, the occasion promises to be unexcelled. No further contestants for the silver butter dish have been selected, the field being left to Miss Lillie Nathan, Burnley, and Miss Sarah Boyle of Harwood.

THE GRANGERS.—The Grangers' picnic on Tuesday of last week was a most decided success both financially and in numbers, over 350 persons taking in the trip. The weather in the early morning looked very threatening, yet the lowering clouds did not deter our rural friends from taking the day's outing. Warkworth and Percy sent in a large contingent which was accompanied by the brass band from the above village, and who on every available interval treated the excursionists to excellently well rendered music. The lovers of dancing enjoyed themselves to their full bent.—Star.

ASHBURNHAM.

The council of the villiage of Ashburnham met as a Court of Revision on the Assessment Roll of 1887 on Monday the 6th day of June, 1887.

The Clerk reported the following appeals, viz.: D. W. Dumble asking to be assessed for lot No. 18, north of Dickson street, and asked to be relieved of the assessment of S. W. part of block N, 3 acres assessed for $350, as that property is owned by T. G Hazlitt.—Granted.

J. W. Mathers, Robert J Mitchell, Dr Burritt, T. M. D. Croley and James Stewart asking for reduction in assessments.

J. W. Mather's reduced $150, Robert J. Mitchell's reduced $250, Dr. Burritt's reduced $500, James Stewart's reduced $65, and T. M. D. Croley's assessment [illegible]

Stephen Coveney asked to be relieved of dog tax, as his dog had been poisoned.—Granted.

E. A. Peck asking to have N. H. Fairbairn assessed for lots one and two east of Stewart and south of Clifton streets.—Granted.

Jas. A. Magill asking to be relieved of income tax. Assessment confirmed.

The Roll was then passed by the Court which resolved itself into a meeting of the council for the transaction of general business.

GENERAL BUSINESS.

After the minutes of the last meeting were read, Mr. Wand stated that said minutes [illegible] was carried unanimously, whereas he was opposed to it.

On motion of Mr. Calcutt, seconded by Mr. Craig, the following accounts were ordered to be paid:—

Jacob Wigister, work on bridge	$ 2 10
Harry Faucett, for sand	6 00
Richard Moore, repairing tools for overseer	9 60

OPINIONS OF THE PRESS.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT.

Every participants in the House of Commons Scott Act debate, pro or con, admitted that the Act was a failure. Some blamed the Act and some blamed the Government, but all admitted the failure. There is in that admission food for thought for people who take the trouble to think.—Toronto World (Ind.)

THE COURT IS THE PLACE.

In the Queen's county case Mr. King should undoubtedly have been given the seat by some means, but it would never do for parliament to constitute itself an election-court. The side in the majority would win all the contested seats and parliament would not be able to do anything else but attend to appeals. The court is the place for trying such matters.—Whitby Chronicle (Indep. Reform).

KNOW THYSELF.

NOT SO SLOW.

Canada may be a slow-going country but she owns more miles of railway in proportion to her population than any other country in the world. And, in proportion to her population, her people have spent more money in improving internal communications than any other people in the world. It really begins to look as if Canada is not such a very poor country after all.—Hamilton Spectator.

For softness she, and sweet attractive grace."

John Milton in his "Paradise Lost" thus distinguishes woman from man Diseases fall to her lot that do not to man's, peculiar to her soft and more refined nature. A remedy adapted to the cure of her peculiar diseases is found in Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," for women. Thousands who have used it attest its great worth.

COMMERCIAL UNION.

The Toronto Board of Trade Again Discuss it and Adjourn.

The Toronto Board of Trade on Tuesday evening at a crowded meeting again discussed Commercial Union.

Mr. John Macdonald moved as follows:—

Resolved, that this board desires to place on record its conviction that the largest possible freedom of commercial intercourse between our own country and the United States compatible with our relation to Great Britain is desirable.

That the board will gladly do everything in its power to bring about the consummation of such a result.

That in its estimation no treaty which ignored any of the interests of our country, or which gave undue prominence to anyone to the neglect or to the injury of any other, is one that could be entertained,

That in our agricultural, our mineral, our manufacturing and our diversified mercantile interests, in our fisheries and forests, and other products, we possess in a rare and extraordinary degree all the elements which go to make a people great, prosperous and self-reliant.

That these are fitting inducements to any nation to render reciprocity with Canada a thing to be desired, and such as should secure for us a reciprocal treaty with the United States of the broadest and most generous character, which, while fully recognizing these conditions, would contain guarantees which would prove of mutual and abiding advantage to both nations. But that this board cannot entertain any proposal which would place Great Britain at any disadvantage as compared with the United States, and which would tend in any measure, however small, to weaken the bonds which bind us to the Empire.

He supported his motion in an able speech. The official reports from New York State showed that their farmers were growing poorer, while the Ontario official reports showed that our farmers were growing richer, so the proposed partnership would be a one-sided bargain. It was the same with the manufacturers and merchants.

Mr. D. R. WILKIE seconded the motion. He declared commercial union meant a heavy loss of revenue to Canada, only to be replaced by grinding direct taxation. The idea that reciprocity would restore old prices was a delusion, for they were due to the Russian war and the Civil war in the States. If Mr. Valancy Fuller was right in saying that $1,000,000,000 was invested in agriculture it showed how the farmers had prospered, for they had come to Canada with little if any money and had made all that amount.

A number of other members continued the dicussion, most of the spakers seeming opposed to commercial annexation.

At 10.30 o'clock Mr. Darling moved another adjournment and after much wrangling the discussion was adjourned till Thursday evening.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The students of Ottawa College, a Roman Catholic institution, formed a guard of honor in the Corpus Christi procession on Sunday and carried fixed bayonets. Mr. Wallace, of York, intends asking the Government if these students are furnished with arms by the Government.

The first crop bulletin of the Manitoba Department of Agriculture, just issued, shows an increase in the wheat area over last year of 47,693 acres, while oats and barley show decrease of 5,854 and 13,455 acres respectively. The reports of the condition of the crops are most favorable.

North-West officials and most of the settlers are reported as believing their is no foundation in the rumours of uneasiness among the half-breeds and Indians. Lieutenant-Governor Dewdney has also sent a long despatch to a Winnipeg newspaper concerning the recent murders, and denying that their is any cause for the sensational reports to which they have given rise.

The license commissioners billed the Frontenac County Council for $800, their share of the cost of enforcing the Scott Act, of which $450 is License Inspector Dawson's salary. The Council concluded that as the county was not now a license district neither the commissioners nor the inspector were required, hence they refused to acknowledge the liability.

OVER WORKED Women

For "worn-out," "run-down," debilitated school teachers, milliners, seamstresses, housekeepers, and over-worked women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best of all restorative tonics. It is not a "Cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent Specific for all those Chronic Weaknesses and Diseases peculiar to women. It is a powerful, general as well as uterine, tonic and nervine, and imparts vigor and strength to the whole system. It promptly cures weakness of stomach, indigestion, bloating, weak back, nervous prostration, debility and sleeplessness, in either sex. Favorite Prescription is sold by druggists under our positive guarantee. See wrapper around bottle. Price $1.00, or six bottles for $5.00.

C. P. R. Extension.

The Sault Ste. Marie Express says of the extension of the C. P. R. towards that town:—The work is progressing all along the line. Messrs. Mackenzie and Purcell are working day and night to get the road ready for the iron; it is expected the Company will commence laying the iron next week. Carry & Dunn have the contracts for all the bridges along the line, with the exception of the International. The iron bolts, etc., for the trusle work of the bridges has arrived and they intend starting the building of the bridge next week if they can get the timber up from French River. The Company intend commencing to lay their track from Algoma Mills west, at the rate of 1 mile per day. They will commence the work of laying the iron about the 15th of the present month. This will be fast work, as the fastest railway work ever done in this country was on a Massachusetts road, 13 miles in 11 days.

JESS.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," etc

But although Jess had gone away Bessie had not. On the contrary, she was always about him, surrounding him with that tender care a woman, however involuntarily, cannot prevent her from lavishing on the man she loves. Her beauty moved about the place like a beam of light about a garden, for she was indeed a lovely woman and as pure and good as she was lovely. Nor could John long remain in ignorance of her partiality for him. He was not a vain man—very much the reverse, indeed—but neither was he a fool. And it must be said that, though Bessie never overstepped the bounds of maidenly reserve, neither did she take particular pains to hide her preference. Indeed it was too strong to permit of her doing so. Not that she was animated by the half divine, soul searing breath of passion, such as animated her sister—which is a very rare thing, and, take it altogether, as undesirable and unsuitable to the ordinary conditions of this prosaic and work a day life as it is rare—but she was tenderly and truly in love after the ordinary young womanly fashion; indeed, her passion, measured by the every day standard, would have proved to be a deep one. However this was, she was undoubtedly prepared to make John Niel a faithful and a loving wife if he chose to ask her to become so.

And as the weeks went on—though, of course, he knew nothing of all this—it became a very serious question to John whether he should not ask her. It is not good for man to live alone, especially in the Transvaal, and it was not possible for him to pass day by day at the side of so much beauty and so much grace without thinking that it would be well to draw the bond of union closer. Indeed, had John been a younger man or had less experience he would have succumbed to the temptation much sooner than he did. But he was neither very young nor very inexperienced. Ten years or more ago, in his green and gushing youth, he had, as has been said, burned his fingers pretty sharply, and a lively recollection of this incident in his career had heretofore proved a very efficient warning to him. Also, he had got to that period of life when men think a great many times before they wildly commit themselves to the deep matrimonial waters. But, however commendably cautious a man may be, he is always liable to be thrown into temptation sufficiently strong to sweep away his caution and make a mockery of his plans. However strong the rope, it has its breaking strain, and in the same way our power of resistance to any given course depends entirely upon the power of the temptation to draw us into it. And so it was destined to be with our friend John Niel.

It was about a week after his conversation with old Silas Croft that it occurred to John that Bessie's manner had grown rather strange of late. It seemed to him that she had avoided his society instead of, if not courting it, at least showing a certain partiality for it. Also, she had been looking pale and worried and evinced a tendency to irritation that was quite foreign to her natural sweetness of disposition. Now, when a person on whom one is accustomed to depend for most of that social intercourse and those pleasant little amenities that members of one sex value from another, suddenly cuts off the supply without any apparent rhyme or reason, it is enough to induce a feeling of wonder, not to say of vexation, in the breast. It never occurred to John that the reason might be that Bessie was truly fond of him, and perhaps unconsciously disappointed that he did not show a warmer interest in her. If, however, we were to examine into the facts of the case we should probably discover that this was the real explanation of the change. Bessie was a straightforward young woman, whose mind and purposes were as clear as running water. She was vexed with John, though she would probably not have owned it even to herself in so many words, and her manner reflected the condition of her mind.

"Bessie," said John one lovely day, just as the afternoon was merging into evening—"Bessie"—he always called her Bessie now—"I am going down to the black wattle plantation by the big mealie patch. I want to see how those young trees are doing. If you have done your cooking"—for Bessie had been engaged in making a cake, as young ladies, to their soul's health, often have to do in the colonies—"I wish you would put on your hat and come with me. I don't believe that you have been out to-day."

"Thank you, Capt. Niel," answered Bessie, looking at him in a bewitching little way she well knew how to assume, "thank you, but I think I had rather not go out walking." This was what she said, but her eyes added, "I am offended with you. I want to have nothing to do with you."

"Very well," said John; "then I suppose I must go alone," and he took up his hat with the air of a martyr.

Bessie looked through the open kitchen door at the lights and shadows that chased each other across the swelling bosom of the hill behind the house.

"It certainly is very fine," she said; "are you going far?"

"No, only 'round the plantation."

"There are so many puff adders down there, and I hate snakes," suggested Bessie, by way of finding another excuse for not coming.

"Oh, I'll look after the puff adders—come along."

"Well," she said at last, "I will come, not because I want to come, but because you have overpersuaded me. I don't know what has come to me," she added, with a little stamp and a sudden filling of her blue eyes with tears, "I do not seem to have any will of my own left. When I want to do one thing and you want me to do another, it is I who have to do what you want; and I tell you I don't like it, Capt. Niel, and I shall be very cross out walking;" and she swept past him, on her way to fetch her hat, in that peculiarly graceful way that angry women can sometimes assume, and left him reflecting that he never saw a more charming or taking lady in Europe or out of it.

He had half a mind to risk it and ask her to marry him. But then, perhaps, she might refuse him, and that was an idea that he did not quite take to. After our first youth few men altogether relish the idea of putting themselves in a position that gives capricious woman an opportunity of first figuratively jumping on them, and then perhaps holding them up to the scorn and obloquy of her friends, relations and other admirers. For, unfortunately, until the opposite is clearly demonstrated, many men are apt to believe that not a few women are by nature capricious, shallow and unreliable; and John Niel, owing, possibly, to that unhappy little experience of his youth, must be reckoned among their misguided ranks.

CHAPTER XII.

OVER IT.

On leaving the house Bessie and John took their way down the long avenue of blue gums. This avenue was old Silas Croft's particular pride, for although it had only been planted for about twenty years, the trees, which in the divine climate and virgin soil of the Transvaal grow at the most extraordinary rate, were for the most part very lofty, and as thick in the stem as English oaks of 150 years' standing.

Down this charming avenue John and Bessie walked, and on reaching its limit turned to the right and followed a little footpath winding in and out of the rocks that built up the plateau on the hillside on which the house stood. Presently this led them through the orchard, and then came a bare strip of veldt, a very dangerous spot in a thunderstorm, but a great safeguard to the house and trees round it, for the iron stone cropped up here, and from the house one might generally see flash after flash striking down on to it and even running and zigzagging about its surface. To the left of this were some cultivated lands, and in front of them the plantation in which John was anxious to inspect some recently planted wattles.

When he had finished looking at the young trees he returned. On getting to the border of the plantation he paused to look at Bessie, who was some twenty paces from him, perched sideways on the low sod wall, and framed, as in the full, rich light of the setting sun. Her hat was off, for the sun had lost its burning force, and the hand that held it hung idly by her, while her eyes were fixed on the horizon flaming with all the varied glories of the African sunset. He gazed at her sweet face and lissome form, and some lines that he had read years before floated idly into his mind:

The little curls about her head
Were all her crown of gold,
Her delicate arms drooped downward
In slender mold,
As white veined leaves of lilies
Curve and fold.
She moved to measure of music
As a swan sails the stream.

He had got as far as this when she turned and saw him, and he gave up the poetry in the presence of one who might well have inspired it.

"What are you looking at?" she said with a smile; "the sunset?"

"No; I was looking at you."

"Then you might have been better employed with the sunset," she answered, turning her head quickly. "Look at it! Did you ever see such a sunset?

To be Continued.

PROCLAMATION.

The 21st of June Set Apart as a Public Holiday.

The following proclamation is contained by the last Canada Gazette:—

Whereas in order to give effect to the loyal desire of the people of Canada to celebrate the Fiftieth Anniversary of Our Accession to the Throne in such a manner as to manifest their deep attachment to Us, and their thankfulness for the prosperity which, under the blessing of Almighty God, they have enjoyed during Our happy reign; We did by Our Proclamation dated the second day of April last past appoint Tuesday, the Twenty First day of June instant, as a day of general thanksgiving and rejoicing, and did invite all Our loving subjects throughout Canada to observe the said day as a day of general thanksgiving and rejoicing;

And Whereas it is our special desire to render thanks to Almighty God for the many mercies vouchsafed to Us during Our Reign, and in particular for the loyalty of Our faithful subjects through Our Dominion of Canada:

Now know Ye that, by and with the advice of Our Privy Council of Canada, We do hereby invite all Ministers of Religion to make known Our special desires in this respect at the Thanksgiving Services to be holden on the twenty-first day of June, in the several churches and places of worship of Our Dominion.

Of all which Our loving subjects and all others whom these presents may concern, are hereby required to take notice and to govern themselves accordingly.

As this will be a bank holiday those having business at the bank dated 21st June should see to it on the 20th

The proceedings were formally opened by prayer, after which the reports of the various officers were received and referred to the different committees. The meeting then adjourned.

The Iron Duties.

The Hamilton Speciator says:—A Reform exchange tells it readers that the new duty on pig iron is "fully 65 per cent." A cable despatch to the Iron Age, under date June 8th, gives the following prices at Glasgow: Warrants, 42s.; makers' brands as follows: Coltness, 53s. 6d.; Langloan, 50s.; Garsherrie, 48s.; Eglinton, 42s. 6d.; hematites, 44s. to 45s. The average price in Great Britain is about 46s. 9d. The duty of $4 is just about 35 per cent., not 65.

Fresh patterns in Carpets just arrived a Turnbull's, intending purchasers should see them, they are special value.

Astonishing Success

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d9)

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes 'as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure an ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," an ake no other kind.

COUNTY COURT.

The June Session at the Court House.

GRAND JURY PRESENTMENT.

The Grand Jury made their presentment on Wednesday afternoon as follows:—

To His Honor Judge Weller:

The Grand Jurors of Our Sovereign Lady the Queen, for the County of Peterborough, humbly present to your Honor that they agree with your Honor in your remarks respecting the many admirable qualities of our Sovereign Lady, and the many advantages accruing to her subjects by her judicious administration of the affairs of the nation during a reign of fifty years. Long may she reign.

We also beg to add to the observations made by you, with reference to the appointment of Mr. Edmison to the office of County Police Magistrate, our own appreciation of his fitness for the office, and hope he may long live to occupy the honorable position.

We are of opinion that owing to the efficiency of our County Magistracy the time has now arrived when Grand Juries in this County might safely be dispensed with.

We have examined the gaol and gaol premises, and find the same clean and well kept. The prisoners express themselves as well satisfied with their treatment.

With you we regret the number of lunatics in the gaol, but feel satisfied that the County officials are doing all in their power to alleviate the condition of those unfortunates.

ANDREW MERCER, Foreman.

Dated at Peterboro', this 16th, June, 1887.

QUEEN vs KNAPP.—Burglary—The prisoner Manly Knapp, of Norwood, a lad of 16, was charged with having, on the night of June 13th inst., feloniously broken into and entered the dwelling house of Jeremiah Murphy, of the township of Asphodel, with the intention of committing a felony therein, contrary to the statute in that behalf. The jury found a verdict in favor of the prisoner. R. E. Wood, Counsel for the Crown; C. W. Sawers, Counsel for the defence.

WALSH vs HOWARD.—An action for trespass brought by the plaintiff, John Walsh, Reeve of Asphodel, against Thos. Howard of Hastings. The plaintiff had joined a note with Joseph Fox, of Hastings, to purcase a horse for Fox's benefit, the agreement being that that the horse was to be Walsh's and at the end of three months if Fox could pay for the horse he could take him. After the horse was purchased the defendant seized and sold him under an execution he had against Fox. The plaintiff thereupon brought an action for damages. Verdict for plaintiff, $90 and costs. Stone, Peterborough, for plaintiff; Greer, Toronto, and Payne, Coleborne, for defendant.

STONE vs TRAYNOR.—An action for recovering of account amounting to $125.44. Verdict for full amount and costs. Green, Peterborough, for plaintiff; no one for defendant.

W. C. T. U.

The regular meeting of the "Y" was held Tuesday afternoon at four o'clock in the W. C. T. U. Hall. Miss Edwards, President, occupied the chair. Before reading the opening lesson it was suggested that a course of Bible readings should be taken up at each meeting, and with that object in view the first chapter of John was read and that gospel taken for the first course of reading. The apple blossom was adopted as the emblem and having made a change in the emblem it was deemed advisable to change the motto also, and John XV., 8 was decided upon as being more appropriate with the apple blossom. The "Y" are making arrangements for an "At Home" to be given in their new hall in about two weeks. The members of the flower committee remain in office for the next two weeks, and will be at the hall every Thursday afternoon at half past three o'clock to receive flowers. Will all who can lend a helping hand in this work? Try and remember their flowers on Thursday.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL

DEPUTATIONS WAIT ON THE GOVERNMENT RESPECTING IT.

The Request Made in the Memorial—No Disposition of the Ministers to Withdraw From Their Previous Position in Regard to the Work—Sir Charles Tupper's Reply to the Memorial.

The deputation to wait on the Dominion Government for the purpose of urging an appropriation to be made in the supplementary estimates for the prosecution of the Trent Valley Canal left Peterborough Tuesday evening. Peterborough was represented by the Mayor and Councillors and Mr. Geo. Hilliard. The deputations from Bobcaygeon, Lakefield, Fenelon Falls, Barrie and Orillia, met here and all proceeded together over the Canadian Pacific Railway for the capital. The deputation reached Ottawa at 5.30 in the morning and repaired to the Russell House. After breakfast a meeting of the delegates was called. Mr. Hilliard was elected chairman, and Councillor Moore, secretary. The secretary was instructed to draw up a memorial to present at the conference with the Ministers. At three o'clock in the afternoon the memorial was submitted to the delegates and approved of. They then proceeded to confer with the Ministers. The deputation was received by Sir John A. Macdonald, Premier; Sir Charles Tupper, Finance Minister; and the Hon. Mr. Pope, Minister of Railways and Canals. Mr. Stevenson, M. P., introduced the delegates.

The following memorial was then read by Mr. Moore:—

To the Right Honorable, Sir John Alexander Macdonald G. C. B., Premier of Canada:

SIR,—This deputation in coming before you to-day do not propose to enter into the question of the feasibility of the construction of the water way known as the Trent Valley Canal, nor of the propriety of the necessary expenditure in respect of it, both of which will, we believe, be conceded. Neither do the deputation consider it needful to discuss the matter of cost, as that has, they submit, been sufficiently approximated by Mr. Stark the present engineer, whoh as made a personal inspection of the whole route, and by the late Mr. Baird who about the year 1836 also examined it, made an accurate survey and estimate of cost and reported to the government. The similarity of the report of these very competent and unprejudiced engineers must on examination impress the Government with their correctness and reliability.

This deputation comes before you Sir, rather with the purpose of reminding you of the position the Government occupies regarding this great public work, the promises which have been made by Ministers and remain unfulfilled and the just demands of the Midland District of Ontario, which have been overlooked in the grants of subsidies to public works, both to the East and West, although it is one of the largest producing revenue portions of the Dominion.

In the year 1879 Sir Charles Tupper passed over almost the whole route and then expressed the opinion that it was a work that must receive the support of the Government. In 1882 you, Sir John, on a visit to Peterborough, stated that it was a project to which the Goverment of Canada was committed. Again a year ago a similar deputation to this came to Ottawa, when express assurances were made by Ministers, that as soon as the Government was relieved from the matter of of construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the Trent Valley Canal would be pushed forward to completion. Under this promise the deputation forbore for the time a request for expenditure for new work. At that time nor at any time previous to the present the Government has never suggested the necessity of the appointment of Commissioners as has been lately stated was their intention to do, and this deputation views with alarm the proposed action, believing that it is uncalled for in view of the facts in the possession of Government, and fears that the effect will be to create a hiatus in the undertaking that is undesirable in the interests of the locality and the country at large, and to postpone indefinitely the completion of the canal, and such is the construction put upon it by the people more directly interested. This deputation desires to place on record its respectful protest against inaction and want of continued and substantial progress in this great national undertaking, advantageous alike to all parts of Canada.

The Government are assured that irrespective of political feeling there is but one opinion regarding the matter, viz., that the commercial importance of the canal demands its immediate construction and vigorous prosecution of the work, and that the matter of even a possibly considerable cost beyond estimates should not for a moment stand in the way.

All who appear before you to-day feel that this great scheme will be jeopardized, or at least thrown back, by the appointment of the proposed Commission, leaving new work in abeyance until a report is made, and reminding you of the past assurances of yourself and other Ministers, do most earnestly urge upon the Government to place a substantial sum in the supplementary estimates this Session for placing another section of the canal under contract.

Signed on behalf of the deputation,
GEO. HILLIARD, Chairman. W. H. MOORE, Secretary.

Messrs Geo. Hilliard, Peterborough; Mr. Fell, M. P., East Victoria; Mr. Robinson, M. P. P., West Hastings; Mr. Mallory, M. P., East Northumberland; Mr. Barron, M. P., North Victoria; Mr. Fairbairn, Bobcaygeon; Mr. Bird, Fenelon Falls, and a number of others addressed the Ministers.

During the meeting some members of the Opposition were demanding answers from the First Minister in the the House and Sir John had to leave.

Sir CHAS. TUPPER made a speech in reply lasting three quarters of an hour. He was glad to see the deptuation. He well remembered the trip he had made over the Trent Valley Canal route and his visit to Peterborough in 1879. At that time he formed a high appreciation of the usefulness of the great public work in question. The Government had not receded in any way from the position it had taken all along. The Trent Valley Canal work was one that deserved, and must receive, the support of the Government. He had the same faith in its usefulness that he ever had, and it was the intention of the Government to proceed with its construction as soon as it could see its way to place under contract a further portion of the canal. The Ministers were all of one mind regarding this. Up to the present about 140 miles of the waterway had been opened up. The next section to be put under contract was one which would demand a large sum of money. This was the conclusion the Government had arrived at in the matter. It would be of so expensive a character that piece meal work would be no value upon it. The Government was not justified, nor could be justified, without having got, not a further estimate of the cost of the work, nor a report on the propriety of proceeding with the work (for of the latter they were satisfied)—but the Government would not be justified with proceeding without first having got the report of a commission as to which would be the best section to place under construction. Owing to the late insurrection in the North-West they had to be careful so as not to endanger the credit of the country, that insurrection having created a deficit of several millions. This deficit the country was rapidly covering up, and he was satisfied that before Parliament met again the finances of the country would be in such a condition that he would be able to meet our member or friends of the undertaking with a reply which he trusted would be much more satisfactory than that he had to make to-day.

Mr. HILLIARD urged that the members of the commission be men not hostile to the work.

Hon. Mr. POPE replied that he would certainly meet the request of Mr. Hilliard, and on being invited to make a personal inspection of the route, signified his wish to do so.

POLICE COURT.

THE BAD BOY.

THURSDAY, Jun 16.—Jas. Barry, aged 12 years, returned to town from Toronto under the sheltering wing of Acting-Chief Adams. When charged with larceny at the Court this morning he acknowledged that he had taken the two dollars and didn't buy any stamps with it as directed, also that he had taken Alford's watch. It appears that he sold the watch for forty-five cents.

The MAGISTRATE remarked that he would have to send the prisoner to the Reformatory. Judgment was reserved.

CONSULAR WARNING.

LONDON, June 15.—The French consul at Cardiff, Wales, makes an endorsement upon the bills of lading of all vessels leaving for France, that small-pox is prevailing in the town.

FORTIFYING BELGIUM.

LONDON, June 15.—The Belgian Chamber of Deputies has passed the bill to fortify the Meuse.

CHAMBERLAIN'S LATEST SPEECH.

LONDON, June 15.—Mr. Chamberlain, speaking at a Unionist banquet last night, said that he rejoiced that the signs of the times were favorable to the Unionists. The game of lawlessness and disorder was up at last. The people had examined Mr. Gladstone's statements for themselves, and the result was that their faith in his judgment and patriotism had been rudely shaken. He was glad that the further responsibility for the negotiations at the Round table conference had been shifted from him to Lord Hartington in whom he had entire confidence. Since the speaker at the Round table conference submitted an alternative plan for abolishing the duel ownership of land, without pledging British credit, Mr. Gladstone had intimated that the scheme was feasible, which admission was somewhat of a feather in the Unionists' cap. They had been forced to support the present Government rather than accept the Parnellite yoke. There could be no hope of reconciliation until the Gladstonians dropped their new allies. The Unionists must know what Mr. Gladstone was prepared to surrender before they would accept his offer for conference. The old reactionary Toryism was dead, and the hope of the future lay in the union of parties to carry out the Dartford programme and other necessary reforms.

ALLEGED PLOT.

LONDON, June 15.—The Central News issues the following: A dynamite plot, to be carried out during the celebration of the Queen's Jubilee, has been discovered. The police are reticent about it. The details will probably be made known to-night.

A BLOW TO ITALY.

LONDON, June 15.—A Paris correspondent says a treaty has been drawn up between France and Abyssinia, by which King John refuses to allow any Italian factories on the Red Sea littoral, and disputes the right of Italy to places already occupied by Italians, while France subscribes £40,000 to the Ethiopian Convent at Jerusalem which supplies Abyssinia with Coptic clergy.

THE LIBERAL SPLIT.

LONDON, June 15.—Lord Rosebery, addressing a Liberal banquet last evening, said he believed the split in the Liberal party was not so serious as to prevent a reunion before long.

MR. GLADSTONE TO CLOSE.

LONDON, June 18.—Mr. Gladstone will close the debate on the Crimes Bill on Friday, with a criticism on coercion and the general policy of the Government in Ireland. Mr. Smith proposes to stop the debate and declare the bill through the committee stage at 10 p.m. on Friday. It is expected that the members of the Opposition will thereupon, without voting, leave the House in a body.

THE CUBAN BUDGET.

MADRID, June 15.—The Minister of the Colonies read the Cuban Budget in the Cortes yesterday. The receipts amounted to $23,000,000 and the expenses to $22,862,000. He announced that provision would be made to empower the Government to increase from ten to twenty per cent. the duties on goods from all countries whose tariffs injure Cuban interests.

Iron in Demand.

NEW YORK, June 14.—A Pittsburg despatch says the demand for pig iron is very great considering the immense quantity that has been turned out in this country in the past year. Contracts are coming, not only from all parts of the United States, but from Canada, South America and many other foreign countries. There is not a ton of unsold pig iron within several hundred miles of Pittsburg. All the iron and steel mills in Pittsburg are in operation except two.

TRENT VALLEY NAVIGATION.

THOUGH nothing can remove the feeling of disappointment of the people of this district at the refusal of the Government to put a new section of the Trent Valley Navigation under contract this year, till they actually see the work recommenced still [illegible] not been without some [illegible] results. The assurance by Sir Charles Tupper that the Administration was fully committed to the work, and seeing its advantages had no intention of discontinuing it, and above all his explanation that the Commission of which Mr. Pope spoke was not to investigate either the project or its cost, but to determine which new section should be placed under contract next year, showed how fully the faith of the Government is pledged. As to the particular locality for the next operations, we are so convinced that the whole work will be carried out that we care little for the order in which it is done, and are quite content to leave that to the engineers to determine as they may find expedient, Mr. Pope promised the deputation that he would appoint satisfactory commissioners, and if they set to work and report in good time every detail should be ready to call for tenders as soon as Parliament votes the money. The delay is unpleasant, but it is part of the cost we have to pay for the rebellion that was stirred up in the North-west, and we have firm pledges that the financial difficulty being over, the construction will be pressed forward.

The influential and outspoken deputation that waited on the Minsters must have impressed them with the importance attached to the Trent Valley Navigation, and the interest felt in it in this district.

JUBILEE DAY.

To the Editor of the Review.

SIR,—To correct a wrong impression which seems to be abroad as regards keeping open the stores on the Jubilee Day, what I think is desired by the Committee is that the stores be closed as far as business is concerned, but in order to give the town the best appearance possible, that the blinds remain raised, and at night that they be lighted up.

Yours, &c.,
COMMITTEEMAN.

Peterborough, June 16.

Fire.

About three o'clock this morning a fire broke out on Rubidge street, in a house occupied by Mrs. S. Lackie. The occupants of the house were aroused by the crackle of the flames and escaped in bare time to save their lives. The two brothers' escaped through their bedroom window and by means of a ladder rescued Mrs. Lackie and Miss Lackie from their sleeping apartments. The fire brigade were on hand soon after the alarm was given and did good service in saving adjoining property. The house occupied by Mrs. Lackie, and owned by Mr. John Pope, was destroyed however, and the one next to it, owned by Mrs. Margaret Ryan, was partially destroyed. The cause of the fire is unknown, as it had already gained good headway before those in the house awoke. The insurance is as follows:—$700 on Mr. Pope's house and $100 on the frame shed in the Royal; $300 in the Northern on Mrs. Lackie's furniture; and $740 on Mrs. Ryan's house.

THIS week H. S. Griffin & Co. offer extraordinary value in a special line of Kid Gloves, in evening and dark shades, 4 button, 35c. per pair. Prints at 7½c. are going quickly. DOMINION PARLIAMENT

FIRST SESSION OF THE SIXTH CANADIAN PARLIAMENT.

Flour Inspection—Fishery Cruisers' Instructions—Dominion Land Laws—After the Intercolonial.

WEDNESDAY, June 15.—A number of private bills were advanced a stage.

FLOUR INSPECTION.

Mr. COSTIGAN introduced a bill as to the inspection and grading of flour, to carry out the wishes of the Boards of Trade.

COLONIZATION COMPANIES.

Mr. WHITE, in reply to Mr. Landerkin, said there were eighteen colonization companies still in existance in the North-West.

THE FISHERY CRUISERS.

Mr. FOSTER, in reply to Mr. Landerkin, said confidential instructions had been given to commanders of fishery cruisers. If they were published they would not be confidential.

THE C. P. R.

SIR J. MACDONALD, in reply to Mr. Chisholm, said the portion of the C. P. R. constructed by the Government in British Columbia had been handed over to the C. P. R. Company according to the contract.

THE INTERCOLONIAL.

Sir J. MACDONALD, in reply to Mr. Choquette, said that parties had made offers to purchase the Intercolonial, but without result.

A LATE MEMBER.

Sir R. Cartwright, Sir John Macdonald and Mr. White (Renfrew) expressed the regret of the House at the death of Mr. Campbell (Renfrew.)

DOMINION LANDS.

Mr. WHITE (Cardwell) moved the House again into committee on the Dominion Lands Bill.

There was considerable discussion, Mr. Charlton and Mr. Landerkin abusing in such a rowdy manner the North-West members for not assisting to turn out the Government, that they both had to be declared out of order by the Speaker.

The Bill was reported and read a third time.

ADVANCING.

Some bills from the Senate and other [illegible] were advanced a stage.

CANADIAN FORESTERS.

Gratifying Increases in Membership—Good Financial Standing of the Order.

BERLIN, June 15.—At yesterday's evening session of the High Court of the Canadian order of Foresters the reports of the various High Court officers were taken up.

HIGH CHIEF RANGER'S REPORT.

The High Chief Ranger reported that fifty-eight new courts have been organized, and nearly all the old courts are prospering, many of them growing very rapidly. During the year our standard was firmly planted in Manitoba, and our interests materially strengthened in the Province of Quebec, and the probabilities are that the time is not far distant when the order will be established in every Province of the Dominion The death rate still keeps low.

SECRETARY'S REPORT.

The Secretary reported that one year ago the order had 41 courts, with a membership of 5,131. Since that time 58 new courts had been organized and six had surrendered their charters; one of which amalgamated with another court, leaving a gain of 53 courts and 1,157 members, making a total of 192 courts with a membership of 6,288. The subordinate courts report cash in hand and court property valued at $29,766.01. They have expended for sick benefits $5,510 39, for medical aid $4,089.60, and for burying the dead $979.23, making a grand total of $10,379.22 expended for benevolent purposes.

FINANCIAL STATEMENT.

The Treasurer reported the following statement of the endowment account:—To balance on hand at last audit, $16,524.35; received during the year, $43,136.34; total, $59,660.69. The sum of $28.350 was paid on death claims, the balance of $31,310.69 being deposited in the Bank of Hamilton. The report of the general fund showed total receipts, including a balance of $1,083.47 on hand at last audit, of $8,061.10, against a total expenditure of $7,147.13, leaving a balance to credit of general fund of $913.97.

REPORT OF MEDICAL BOARD.

Dr. STANLEY, Chairman of the Medical Board, reported that 2,532 applications for admission had been received during the past year, of which 2,372 were accepted, the remaining 160 being rejected. Twenty-nine death claims had been paid, a death rate of only five per thousand on an average membership of 5,800. Some favourable reports were also presented by the provincial organizers and district deputies.

The High Court adjourned at 10.30 p. m.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

At to-day's session, after routine, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—H. C. R., Robt. Elliott, Listowel, re-elected; H. V. C. R., E. Towe, London; H. Secretary, Thos. White, Watford; H. Treasurer, John Neelands, Wingham, re-elected; H. Registrar, Geo. Sinclair, Parkdale; Chaplain, J. Williamson, Arkona; H. S. Woodward, W. F. Clarke, Grimsby; H. J. Woodward, J. H. Hainsworth, Sherbrooke, Que.; H. S. Beadle, A. Keffer, Berlin; H. J. Beadle, Adam Reid, Wingham; H. Auditor, R. Gummer, Guelph; Medical Board, Dr. U. M. Stanley, Watford.

The High Court then adjourned.

TORONTO BOARD OF TRADE.

Motion Against Discriminating Against Great Britain Carried Unanimously.

There was crowded meeting of the Toronto Board of Trade on Thursday evening to discuss commercial union.

Mr. DARLING made a speech strongly in favor of commercial union with the United States, and concluded by stating that he would vote for Mr. Macdonald's motion repudiating it.

Mr. DAVID BLAIN hoped the Board would settle this matter once for all, and strongly opposed the idea of a zollverein, which would injure Canada.

Mr. CHAPMAN opposed the union.

Mr. JURY favored it.

Mr. BARLOW CUMBERLAND said that the opinion of that Board would have great weight. He congratulated Mr. Darling on being converted to Mr. Macdonald's views as to not discriminating against Great Britain by adopting commercial union with the United States.

Mr. GOLDWIN SMITH would also assent to Mr. Macdonald's motion, believing that Britain would not object to our joining the United States in discriminating against Great Britain.

Mr. MACDONALD's motion was then put and carried unanimously. We have already published it, but will repeat the concluding and important clause as follows:—

"But that this board cannot entertain any proposal which would place Great Britain at any disadvantage as compared with the United States, and which would tend in any measure, however small, to weaken the bonds which bind us to the Empire."

Mr. G. A. CHAPMAN then moved, seconded by Mr. JOHN HALLAM.—That this board, whilst desirous of reciprocal trade relations with the United States, is opposed to commercial union with the United States, believing that it cannot be obtained without giving up the preservation of our autonomy as a separate nationality on this continent.

Mr. Darling and his friends again made a vigorous attempt at their old device of an adjournment, but the meeting was determined to come to a decision.

Mr. Chapman's motion was put and carried by a majority of about two to one.

The meeting was appropriately closed by singing "God Save the Queen."

A COUNTESS KIDNAPPED

By Masked Men While Walking in the Bois de Boulogne.

PARIS, June 16.—The Figaro says a sensation has been caused in high life by the successful kidnapping of a countess recently divorced. The kidnappers wore masks and seized the countess as she was walking in the Bois de Boulogne. They eluded pursuit and the present whereabouts of the lady, the paper says, is unknown except to her captors, who have managed to completely baffle their prisoner's friends as well as the police. The kidnapped lady was Countess Campost, the divorced wife of the Duc de la Torre, a son of the late Marshal Serrano, of Spain.

THE CHICAGO WHEAT PANIC.

THE result of the recent wheat gambling in Chicago, the terrible panic following upon an abortive attempt, long persisted in, to maintain a "corner," the sudden drop within a few days of more than 25 cents a bushel, the failure of a score of the gambling firms, and the more wide spread ruin of others perhaps innocently involved, should help to open the eyes of Canadian farmers whom interested men are attempting to delude into associating themselves with such methods of conducting business. It is a timely lesson which they should ponder.

If this were an isolated occurrence the warning might not have the same significance. But though this attempt to corner the market was a gigantic operation, other deals of little, if any, less magnitude, some successful and others disastrous, have been carried on within the last few years. Indeed it seems to be an ordinary style of doing business in the Chicago wheat market, and those within its reach may be at any time exposed to its evil effects. Do we wish to see Canada allying herself with such methods?

A farmer may think that he need not concern himself with the losses of the speculators who suffer through artificially advancing the price of wheat, so long as he benefits by the increased price. But he would be arguing on a false assumption. These gambling "deals" are never attempted while the grain is still in the hands of the producers, but are engineered at the season when the crop is come into the hands of the dealers, so that the farmer does not gain. On the other hand, he is indirectly subject to loss. An unsettled market, the ruin of a number of grain dealers, the loss of confidence produced in many other dealers, all tend to demoralize the market for long afterwards, and so to prejudice the farmer. And such corners have another bad effect, which is even more obvious, as was plainly shown a few years ago. Such gigantic corners mean the locking up of a large proportion of the surplus wheat of the country. On the present occasion we learn that in Chicago the elevators are filled with wheat, and between 4,000 and 5,000 cars are "side-tracked," while other important markets are more or less congested. Much of this wheat under ordinary circumstances would have been forwarded to its great market, Liverpool, but it could not be moved at the price to which it had been forced. What is the consequences under such circumstances? The people of Great Britain will not wait for their bread till the Chicago gamblers have played out their game, so they supply themselves from other quarters. The surplus stocks from last harvest are drawn down as low as possible. India and Australia with their early crops send every bushel they can spare. In other countries, even in the South of Europe, the year's harvest is earlier than in North America, and wheat pours in from them. The surplus wheat of America has lost its sale, and a larger surplus than usual is left over. Added to the next year's surplus it may glut the market and lower prices even then. And further there is the lasting result that Great Britain has learned to look to other countries for its wheat, and other countries have learned to supply it. Thus in a great measure has the enormous increase of wheat production in India been stimulated.

Mr. Wiman and speculators like him may think that it would suit Canada to identify itself with such ruinous and immoral gambling, in the guise of business, but we believe that the honest and shrewd Canadian farmers prefer the Canadian system of selling to honest Canadian dealers at prices which leave but meagre profit for exporters.

As apple and pear orchards will last a lifetime; we cannot be too careful as to the kinds we select. To find when they come into bearing, that we have worthless varieties, is a heavy and irreparable loss.

A collection of orchids has just been disposed of near London, and realized about £6,000, one specimen alone bringing 310 guineas, the largest price it is said, ever paid at a public sale for a single orchid.

The Maine Farmer says:—Practice is proving that well preserved corn ensilage is an excellent fodder to cultivate, in making up a desirable and profitable ration for carrying sheep through the winter foddering season.

A Western farmer says orchard grass will grow a thicker coating of muck than any grass he knows, hence he recommends it as best for meadows that are liable to over-flow. Red-top will overlive all the rest of the grasses under water.

Professor L. P. Roberts, of Columbia College, N.Y., said that he had been able to get rid of Canada thistles on the college farm by striking a hoe down beneath the plant and lifting the sod enough to put under a handful of coarse salt. This soon kills the plant, and it never starts from the root again.

Here is the way they make sparrows useful in Germany:—Long troughs, placed at the eaves of houses, are occupied by the sparrows in building their nests. When the young are hatched and the mother goes out to procure food, wire screens are placed over them, with interstices large enough to permit the passage of food in to the younglings but too small to allow them to escape. As soon as they become plump they are killed, and make a desirable article of food.

Astonishing Success.

It is the duty of every person who has used Boschee's German Syrup to let its wonderful qualities be known to their friends in curing Consumption, severe Coughs, Croup, Asthma, Pneumonia, and in fact all throat and lung diseases. No person can use it without immediate relief. Three doses will relieve any case, and we consider it the duty of all Druggists to recommend it to the poor, dying consumptive at least to try one bottle, as 70,000 dozen bottes were sold last year, and no one case where it failed was reported. Such a medicine as the German Syrup cannot be too widely known. Ask your druggist about it Sample bottles to try, sold at 10 cents. Regular size, 75 cents. Sold by all Druggists and Dealers, in the United States and Canada. d99

Golden Medical Discovery.

Thoroughly cleanse the blood, which is the fountain of health, by using Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and good digestion, a fair skin, buoyant spirits, vital strength, and soundness of constitution will be established. Golden Medical Discovery cures all humors, from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption, to the worst Scrofula, or blood-poison. Especially has it proven its efficacy in curing Salt-rheum or Tetter, Fever-sores, Hip-Joint Disease, Scrofulous Sores and Swellings, Enlarged Glands, and Eating Ulcers.

Golden Medical Discovery cures Consumption (which is Scrofula of the Lungs), by its wonderful blood-purifying, invigorating, and nutritive properties. For Weak Lungs, Spitting of Blood, Shortness of Breath, Bronchitis, Severe Coughs, Asthma, and kindred affections, it is a sovereign remedy. It promptly cures the severest Coughs.

For Torpid Liver, Biliousness, or "Liver Complaint," Dyspepsia, and Indigestion, it is unequalled remedy. Sold by druggists.

THE COMMANDMENTS.

EXPLANATORY NOTES BY S. I. CURTISS, PH. D., D. D.

Lesson XII of the International Series (Second Quarter), for Sunday, June 19. Text of the Lesson, Ex. xx, 12-21—Golden Text, Matt. xxii, 39.

An Egyptian scholar (Brugsch) says: "We are tempted to believe that the Jewish lawgiver Moses modeled his teachings on the patterns given by the old Egyptian sages." While it may well be that Moses learned much from the Egyptians, yet his immediate teacher was the Divine Spirit.

There is a similarity between some of the precepts of the Ten Commandments and the moral law of the Egyptians, but it is easy to see that the Ten Commandments were not of man's devising. The same hand that wrote them on tables of stone also wrote them on the tables of human hearts. But men have perverted them. Although the Egyptians were below the common level of morality, their dead are represented as appearing before the judgment seat of Osiris, as wrapping the robes of their self righteousness around them, and as saying, "I have not blasphemed, I have not deceived, I have not stolen. . . Let me go; ye know that I am without fault, without evil, without sin, without crime."

How different this boastful spirit from that produced by the commandments, where every mouth is stopped and the whole world becomes guilty before God (Rom. iii, 19).

While the preceding commandments have to do with man's duties concerning God, those which follow have to do with man's duties in regard to his fellow man.

THE LESSON.

The Fifth Commandment (v. 12).—The duty to parents is reckoned next to the duty to God. While among some peoples, as the Chinese, the honor of parents and ancestors has become a religious rite, yet among some of the heathen aged and helpless parents are neglected by their children in the most cruel way.

The fifth commandment really enjoins obedience to parents, because children cannot honor them unless they obey them, and adds the promise of long life.

One of the greatest dangers of our age and country is in a lack of reverence. In the tendency to break down all social distinctions, and to speak evil of persons occupying high positions, there is danger of an undue familiarity arising between parents and children, in which the child forgets that he is a child, and the parent fails of dignity and experience.

It would be well if something of the respect with which the young Bedawin, and even the Indian boy, treats his father, were found in our Christian communities.

The Sixth Commandment (v. 13).—The first step to murder is in the indulgence of anger. The man who hates another so that he would strike him down if he dared is already a murderer in his heart (Matt. v, 22; I John iii, 15). It is only a question of time, place and opportunity as to whether he will take the life of the one he hates.

The sixth commandment, however, is as truly directed against self murder as the murder of others. None but God, or the guardians of justice who serve in the conception of the New Testament by divine appointment (Rom. xiii, 1-4), or those who are compelled to, defend themselves against lawless men, have a right to take human life.

The Seventh Commandment (v. 14).—The boy who reads the records of sensual indulgence and looks at lewd pictures is preparing to break this commandment. The young man who tells indecent stories or listens to them is not only guilty of a grave offense against propriety, but is preparing himself to be an adulterer. All conversation and behavior between young men and women that suggests impurity, unless checked, may prepare the way for adultery.

When the heart has once given consent man is guilty. All lustful thoughts, as well as words and deeds, are to be avoided (Matt. v, 28). There is no age in the world's history when the seventh commandment is not of the utmost importance, and the higher the civilization, wealth and luxury of a country, unless society is permeated by vital godliness, the greater the temptation to break it.

The Eighth Commandment (v. 15).—There are many kinds of stealing, and this commandment is directed against them all. A man steals when he takes that which does not belong to him. Slavery has been abolished in America. The negro is no longer stolen, but there is great danger in the desire to get something for nothing lest multitudes should be enslaved in great cities. It seems like theft when women work from early in the morning until late at night for starvation wages.

On the other hand, many a young man has taken his employer's money because he wanted better clothes or fell in with bad companions. In modern society this commandment is being constantly broken.

The Ninth Commandment (v. 16).—"Thou shalt not answer against thy neighbor unto a lie" (Hebrew). The Hebrew word for lie is rouge (sha-que), the color sometimes used to impart the bloom of youth to the faded cheek.

This commandment is directed not only against false witness, but also against all forms of gossip. It is a safe rule not to talk about the faults and peculiarities of people. It is ordinarily the worst kind of Pharisaism. The man or woman who takes delight in telling of the faults of a neighbor or friend unconsciously says, "God, I thank thee that I am not as other men are," or as my friend and neighbor. Gossip separates friends. It is the scavenger that gathers the filth and decay of the streets.

It were better to be dumb than to be in the habit of speaking against others, or deaf than to be accustomed to hear such conversation with pleasure. The boy and girl, the man and woman, who frown down gossip are in so far keeping the ninth commandment.

The Tenth Commandment (v. 17).—"Godliness with contentment is great gain" (I Tim. vi, 6). The root of communism and anarchism is in the desire to violate this commandment. It is because men covet their neighbors' houses, wives and possessions that they wish to break down all social and commercial distinctions, and introduce the lawlessness of the commune.

The man who offers from the heart each day the petition, "Give us this day our daily bread," and who is industrious, will be delivered from breaking this commandment. Even those who have only food and raiment should be content (1 Tim. vi, 8).

The Fear of the People (vs. 18-20).—The people were terrified by the displays of the divine majesty. As they listened to the law which they knew they had broken, and heard the thunder peal on peal, as it reverberated through the mountains, and were almost blinded with the lightning, while the trumpet sounded and the mountain smoked, no wonder they trembled and stood afar off.

It was then that they longed to hear a human voice, and that they felt they could not bear to hear God any more.

But God did not spare them. His only design was that they might be restrained from sin. Many decry fear as a motive in religion. It is indeed one of the lowest motives, but we must not forget that even in the religion of Jesus fear has a place.

V. 21. Moses, who knew God best, did not seem to be afraid of him, but drew near unto the thick darkness where God was.

POINTS TO BE REMEMBERED.

1. Next to our duty to God we are to honor father and mother.

2. Anger unchecked is murder in embryo and may become murder in deed.

3. Shun impure books and pictures, impure conversation, impure company and impure thoughts.

4. Never take what belongs to another, and never keep what belongs to another. The borrower who never returns what is borrowed becomes to all intents and purposes a thief.

5. "Beware of covetousness: for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." (Luke xii., 15.)

6. Every soul that has broken God's law, unless it is reconciled to God through Christ, is under the bondage of fear.—Sunday School World.

THE MARKET REPORTS

REVIEW OFFICE,
Thursday evening, June 16.

This has been a week in wheat dealing to be remembered, as one journal says, "as long as wheat grows." In the REVIEW'S comments on the market for the past two weeks it was pointed out that wheat was twenty cents a bushel higher than at a corresponding date last year, and arguments were advanced in favor of lower figures. It was not, however, legitimate conditions upon which the market advanced. The bull "syndicate" gradually forced prices up and finally gave them a tremendous boost, the top figure being 94¾. The reaction came on Tuesday, when the greatest decrease ever known took place. Last week wheat in Chicago was selling at 94¾; this week it touched 69¾, a decline of 25¼ cents. The crash was something terrible when the syndicate sank beneath its burden. Eighteen commission firms in Chicago alone fell with it, while the effects of the disaster spread to nearly all of the leading commercial centres of the United States. Millions upon millions of dollars were lost by those holding quantities of wheat. Speaking of the excitement in the wheat pit the Chicago Daily Business says:—"From 9 a.m. to 11.30 a.m. the excitement was intense, but it was nothing as compared to what occurred immediately thereafter. It was as though a cyclone had struck the pit, and the market fairly boiled. The wheat pit was filled with a crush of steaming, screaming men. There was no haggling over fractions or cents. Everybody who had anything to sell sold it for what they could get, and buying orders were executed like lightning. Margins were devoured and swept out of sight in the twinkling of an eye. It was every fellow for himself and the devil take the hindmost. * * * The bull houses were literally overwhelmed and no attempt was made to keep up with the procession." The immediate effect the great break had on the local market was that prices were marked down eight cents on Wednesday morning. The price paid this afternoon is 80 to 85. Prices seem to be well grounded at these figures, and it is probable that strength will be gathered from this point.

THE CITY AND SUBURBS

London Papers.

The REVIEW acknowledges the receipt of London, Eng., papers from Mr. Geo. Early. He is well and having a good time.

Booths for the Jubilee.

Any persons wishing to erect refreshment booths, &c., at the Riverside Park for the Jubilee Celebration should apply to Mr. Allison, Secretary, as no booths will be allowed without special permission.

Boys' boots cheaper at Kidd's than any place else in town.

Our Dry Lawn.

Go to Breeze & Bain's where a large stock of hose, sprinklers, watering cans and mowers are kept at prices within the reach of all. d141

Illumination.

The City Clothing Store is going to shine out brilliantly on the evening of Jubilee day. Mr. LeBrun is having a gas arch put over the golden horse shoe, and the device "Vive la Reine," will be set across the building. The merchants are nearly all making arrangements to decorate and illuminate.

Ladies' and children's parasols cheap, an extensive range to select from at Turnbull's.

This Evening's Meeting.

The Superintendents of Sunday Schools, representatives of Societies and citizens generally, are requested to attend the meeting of the Jubilee celebration committee to be held in the Firemen's Hall this evening. Final arangements will be made in regard to the procession and places will be assigned to those who intend taking part in it.

Lacrosse.

The lacrosse match played between the Riverside and Markham Clubs in Markham on Wednesday resulted in a win for Markham by four games to one. The games were won as follows:—1st, by Markham, time, 7 minutes; 2nd, by Markham, time, 1½ minutes; 3rd, by Markham, time, 56 minutes; 4th, by the Riversides, time, 21 minutes; 5th, by Markham, time 7½ minutes. The match was played under protest, there having been players from Uxbridge and Richmond Hill on the Markham team It is quite probable that decision will be given in favor of the Riversides, and that the match will be played over again. Mr. A. A. Mason, of Markham, acted as referee.

Organ Recital.

On Thursday evening an organ recital was given in St. Paul's Church by Mr. J. S. Parker, organist of the Church. The following excellent programme was presented:—

PART FIRST.

Overture.....Masaniello.....Auber
Jubilee Song.....Victoria.....Smart
Mr. J. E. Jacques.
a Gavotte.....Mignon.....Thomas
b.....Chorus of Angles.....Clarke
Recitative..And God Created Man....Haydn
Aria.....In Native Worth.....Haydn
(From the Creation).
Mr. Manning.
a Pleyel's Hymn....Varied.....Pleyel
b Transcription.Home, Sweet Home.....Buck
Andante.....Surprise Symphony....Haydn
Minuet.....Haydn
Recitative:...And God Said, Let the Waters—[Haydn
Aria.....In Mighty Pens.....Haydn
(From the Creation).
Miss Vair.

PART SECOND.

Concert Fantasia.....De Prins
Grand Jubilee.....March.....Watson
Sacred Song....One Sweetly Solemn Thought
Mrs. Daly. [Ambrose
Toccato.....D Minor.....Bach
Fugue.....B Major.....Bach
Grand Offertoire..A Minor.....Batiste
Aria, Angels Ever Bright and Fair....Hanael
(From Oratoria Theodora).
Miss Cameron.
God Save the Queen, Varied.....Rink

Mr. Parker appeared to better advantage n this recital than at any yet given by him. His playing was very finished in each selection, and so brilliant in one as to draw applause, though that was forbidden. Miss Vair shows steady improvement in vocal culture—both in style and purity and strength of tone. Her singing was highly appreciated. Mrs. Daly sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought" with charming expression. Mr. Manning sang "In Native Worth" in his usual good style, and Miss Cameron took the last solo on the programme, "Angels Ever Bright and Fair." The attendance was large considering the hot weather.

Fresh arrivals at Turnbull's: Cream and Navy Sateen Prints, with Colored Polka Dots, the nicest goods in the market.

Ladies go into ecstacies over the new perfume, "Lotus of the Nile."

THE JUBILEE

Grand Celebration in Peterborough on June 21st.

The General Committee on the jubilee celebration have finished their labors, and now prescent a long and varied programme for the celebration of the event.

The celebration will be one to be remembered. In the forenoon a great gathering will take place in the Central park and drill shed. From this point the procession, formed of the different divisions of the military, school children, firemen and citizens. After marching down George street a turn will be made at the market square and the procession will proceed up Water street to the Horticultural Gardens.

Arrived here the children to the number of fifteen hundred or two thousand will sing the National Anthem and patriotic songs. Each child will hold a flag in its hand and at the singing of the choruses all will wave it.

In the afternoon a programme of sports consisting of a baseball match, jumping, running, etc., will be presented to the citizens at the Riverside Park. No charge will be made to anybody for entrance to the Park.

In the evening the regetta is to be conducted on the Little Lake under the auspices of the Otonabee Canoe Club. Then will succeed the grand illuminated canoe parade, which is expected to be something very striking.

The town will be brilliantly illuminated. On George street already a "Gas" arch has been put by the Gas Company, stretching from one side of the street to the other. The arch is surmounted by a crown, the letters "V. R." and the figures 50. It will be a blaze of glory on the evening of the 21st. In the Horticultural Gardens the Electric Light Company are putting up a lofty tower from which a blaze of electricity will shine out over the town.

The citizens are making preparations for illuminating and decorating their residences and places of business.

Prizes.

The presentation of prizes to those successful in taking honors in music at the Notre Dame Convent during the term just closed took place in the audience hall of the Convent on Thursday evening. His Lordship Bishop Dowling was present and presided. Father Conway, Father Fayolle and Father O'Brien were also present. A programme of music was presented, the rendition of which occupied about an hour and a half. The prizes, which consisted of two gold medals and a silver medal, were presented. The donors of the gold medals are Messrs. J. W. Fitzgerald and A. L. Davis, Mr. H. Rush gave the silver medal. The gold medals were inscribed as follows:—"Congregation of Notre Dame, Miss B. Fairweather, for proficiency in music. Peterborough, June 7, 1887." "Congregation of Notre Dame, Miss A. Lynch, for proficiency in music, Peterborough June 1887." The silver medal bore the following inscription: "Miss J. McCabe, Peterborough June 1887." The medals were presented to those whose names were inscribed upon them. Among the vocal selections rendered during the evening, the trio by Miss Dunn, Miss Hurley and Miss McCabe, and the solo by Miss Simons are worthy of special mention. At the conclusion an address was presented to the Bishop, who replied to it in a graceful manner. He announced that he would give a gold medal to the one taking the highest stand in music at the end of each scholastic year. Another entertainment will be given at the convent this evening at which those who have given medals during the past years will be present.

How to Gain Flesh and Strength.

Use after each meal Scott's Emulsion; it is as palatable as milk. Delicate people improve rapidly upon its use. For consumption, throat affections and bronchitis it is unequalled. Dr. Thos. Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

The Superiority of the "Royal Flavoring Extracts" is purity and strength.

IRISH LAND QUESTION.

The Bodyke Evictions—An Exciting Debate—"Irreflective Tumultuousness."

LONDON, June 17.—In the House of Commons last night Mr. T. W. Russell, Liberal-Unionist, said the Callaghan type was the [illegible] Many [illegible] done their best to prevent Col. Callaghan executing the decrees, but the Government was powerless in the matter. The incident only showed the necessity to stop chattering and allowing the Government to proceed with remedial legislation.

Mr. Morley said it was evident that the debate would leave the Government in a very unsatisfactory position. The Ministry professed to lack information which it had ample time to obtain. Certainly no debate could be more germane to the Crimes Bill, which would serve to keep all the Callaghans in Ireland in their present condition. (Cheers.) The Opposition had predicted events such as had occurred at Bodyke, the result of the inverted order in which the Government had introduced their two classes of measures.

Mr. Matthews, Home Secretary, said he supposed that the members of the Opposition were so weary of the Crimes debate that they had devised the present discussion as a novel relief. The discussion had resolved itself into an attack upon the police, which, so far as the evidence of the English witnesses called was concerned, had entirely broken down. He felt it would be wrong for him to pass judgment upon Col. Callaghan, whose rents had been fixed by a bill passed by the Gladstone Government. He protested against the doctrine that if a man were exercising his legal rights the Government ought or could interfere. He further protested that it was not the duty of the Government to exercise pressure upon the Opposition. (Laughter.)

Sir Vernon Harcourt said he refused to believe that Col. Callaghan was an exception to his class, and in this he was borne out by more than one Royal Commission. The Government's accusation that the Opposition was delaying remedial measures was unjust. The Government itself was delaying the Land Bill in order to mutilate or destroy its proposals for the protection of Irish tenants. Mr. Matthew's speech meant, "We have got a Coercion Bill—you Irish landlords may do as you like." (Opposition cheers.)

Lord Randolph Churchill accused the previous speaker of introducing in the debates the irreflective tumultuousness which characterized the incidents at Bodyke. Sir V. Harcourt himself had sent British bayonets to suppress the Scotch crofters. (Laughter.) He (Churchill) challenged anyone to prove that the Government had power to refuse to carry out the decrees of law.

Sir Wilfred Lawson, Radical, characterized the action of the Government as cold and stony-hearted. He said there could be little surprise at the conduct of the Irish people.

Mr. Dillon's motion was rejected by a vote of 246 to 165.

GLADSTONE TO BRIGHT.

LONDON, June 17.—Mr. Gladstone replies to Mr. Bright as follows: "Thanks for your letter, especially the proscript. I am aware of no final or general pronouncement about Ulster or a portion of Ulster. The only Tory declaration yet known to me in Parliament is Major Sanderson's which was strongly against severance. Our position is exactly what it was on April 8th, 1886, with regard to 'conspirators' and 'patriots.' I think I never used either word, but endeavored to describe Irishmen and others according to their conduct. In the autumn of 1881 I thought Mr. Parnell aimed at the disorganization of society and the destruction of the Empire, and so, rightly or wrongly, described his acts. Since 1881, although he has been engaged in overturning the Liberal Government, I have never seen cause to ascribe to him such aims, and have never once uttered such a reproach. I now see him and his coadjutors, lawfully chosen representatives of the Irish people, demanding, in their name, a measure which it would be difficult to show that its principles, and within the present limitations, I ever condemned. I treat them accordingly, just as in 1879 I denounced Lord Salisbury for piracy, but in 1885, when he was doing right regarding the Balkans question, I tried to commend and support him."

CANADA'S IRON DUTIES

THE SUBJECT CONSIDERED IN THE HOUSE OF LORDS.

No Desire on the Part of the Dominion to Injure British Trade Influenced by Fiscal Requirements.

LONDON, June 17.—In the House of Lords to-night Lord Lamington asked a question relative to the Canadian import duties.

Earl Granville believed the effect would be to paralyze the iron trade of the Dominion and do much more injury there than in England.

Lord Carnarvon hoped the duties would not have an evil effect when the question of the subvention to the Vancouver line came before the House of Commons. It would be unfortunate if this were so, because steamers would be put upon the route by England's help or by the help of some other power.

Earl Dunraven said it would be lamentable if a misconception arose. The object of Canada was not to effect the trade of England but of the United States.

Earl Onslow stated that the Imperial Government had no power or discretion over the fiscal policy of Canada, but any representation made would be forwarded to Lord Lansdowne. He was sure the duties were not directed against England. Canada had great stores of mineral wealth, and it was with a view to their development that the duties had been imposed, which were directed principally against the United States, rather than Great Britain. [Cries "of hear, hear!"]

Lord Salisbury did not believe the Canadian Government had the slightest desire to injure the trade of England but were thinking only of their own fiscal affairs. The Imperial Government would not spare making representations on the subject, but he believed Canada was dealing with a stronger stream of opinion on the question than any representation from Downing street would influence.

Earl Spencer though the Government should urge strongly on the Canadian Government the views entertained by English manufacturers that the new duties were calculated to injure trade.

Lord Onslow would consider the proposal. The subject then [illegible]

THE ATHABASKA ASHORE.

Meets a Misfortune in a Heavy Fog at Isle of Coves.

OWEN SOUND, June 17.—The C. P. R. steamer Athabaska, Captain Foote, which left Port Arthur Tuesday forenoon, ran ashore on the northwest point of the Isle of Coves, in the Georgian Bay during a heavy fog at 5 o'clock Thursday morning. The captain and four men took a small boat and started for Tobermorey for assistance. The steamer Anderson was chartered to go to the Athabaska and take her passengers, sixty-five in number, and baggage to Owen Sound. The Anderson arrived here about midnight, and the passengers all left for different points of destination on the steamboat express at 1 a.m., all well. The steam barge Chamberlain was engaged to render what assistance she could to the Athabaska, but it was found that the steamer was too hard aground for her to be of much use, but she will proceed to take the load of grain off the Athabaska, and then try and release her. The Athabaska had on a load of 30,000 bushels of wheat and other freight. She lies in about two feet of water at her bow and deep water at her stern, but is in the neighborhood of reefs, which will render her getting off a slow process. Her hull is reported as uninjured.

Cornice poles, usual price $1.25, a few left at 75 in ebony, walnut and cherry, at A. CLEGG'S.

The Churches.

The following is a list of services in the several churches to-morrow:—

ST. LUKE'S.—The regular services at St Luke's Church will be conducted as follows: Morning Prayer, Litany and sermon at 11 a. m., evensong at 7 p. m.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—The regular services will be conducted as follows:—Holy Communion at 8.30 a.m.; Morning Prayer, Litany and sermon at 11 a.m.; Evening Prayer and sermon at 7 p.m.

ST. PAUL'S.—The usual services will be held. In the evening the Rev. Mr. Torrance will preach a sermon entitled "The Honor Due to Queen Victoria."

BAPTIST CHURCH, Murray Street.—The pulpit will be occupied by a supply from McMaster Hall.

METHODIST CHURCH, Charlotte Street.—The Rev. F. H. Wallace will conduct the services in the morning, and the Rev. I. Tovell in the evening. In the morning a special Jubilee sermon will be preached.

METHODIST CHURCH, George street.—The Rev. I. Tovell will conduct the services in the morning at 11.00 o'clock, and the Rev. F. H. Wallace in the evening at 7.00 o'clock. In the morning a special Jubilee sermon will be preached.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—The usual services will be conducted. The Rev. Mr. Bell will make reference to the Queen's Jubilee at the close of the morning's sermon.

METHODIST CHURCH, Mark street (Ashburnham)—The Rev. J. C. Wilson, pastor, will conduct the services.

Excursion.

The St. Andrew's church Sunday School annual picnic was held [illegible] Thursday. A [illegible] was had on the Golden Eye and an enjoyable time was spent.

NO DYNAMITE OUTRAGES.

Expected During the Jubilee Except by the "Central News."

LONDON, June 17.—Almost everybody now seems pretty well assured that there will be no dynmite explosions or other outrages during the jubilee ceremonies. The authorities at Scotland Yard are kept busy denying that there has at any time existed among them suspicion warranting the belief that outrages would be attempted, but the public have a suspicion that the reports originated with the police, and were put forth to emphasize their importance in connection with the procession to Westminster Abbey. That the police have kept themselves well informed of the movements of alleged dynamiters at home and abroad during the last three months is quite true, but it is equally true that the same current of information, no more and no less, has steadily flowed into Scotland Yard through its numerous agencies since long before the Phœnix Park murders were committed. The dynamiters who have left the country for the country's good and their own safety have no mind to return, and the few of their tools whose courage or bravado can be worked up to the point of putting their peculiar theories of conquering England into practice are little to be feared. The Globe, in a very sensible article, devoted to allaying the scare, accentuates the unlikelihood o attempts to blow up buildings or inflict injury upon royal personages, by showing that the dynamiters are without funds, without organization and without the sympathy of the persons who, prior to the disruption of their nefarious junta through internal bickerings, supplied them with money and brains. "Moreover," the Globe says, "the dynamiters and bomb throwers of the physical force branch of the Irish liberators' contingent have never wantonly killed anybody despite the noise they have made, and we may with safely assume that they will not attempt to do so now." The Central News, however, adheres to its statements and insists upon their truth, claiming that the Scotland Yard denials are made for the purpose of averting a panic, and to reassure the Queen and the visiting royalties. That Her Majesty and her ministers are nervous and apprehensive is not to be doubted, but with the complete arrangements of Sir Chas. Warren for the safety of the royal party, together [illegible] to disturb their sensitive nerves seems possible.

OUR PUBLIC BUILDINGS.

Discussed in Committee of Supply of the House of Commons.

The following discussion as to the public buildings for Peterborough took place in Committee of Supply on June 14th:—

Mr. LANDERKIN. Are the Custom house and post office in the town of Peterborough on the same site.

Sir HECTOR LANGEVIN. No; this vote of $17,000 stands under the same title as it did in the first instance; but, as I explained last year and the previous year, the building that has been erected there is the post office. Another lot was purchased for the Custom house, near the market place; so we do not ask any money for that this year.

Mr. LANDERKIN. From whom was it purchased?

Sir HECTOR LANGEVIN. From Mr. Phelan, I think.

Mr. McMULLEN. Has the Custom house been erected in Peterborough?

Sir HECTOR LANGEVIN. This is for the post office. The other will come afterwards.

Mr. McMULLEN. Is it customary to put the post office and the Custom house together, or to put them apart?

Sir HECTOR LANGEVIN. Sometimes we put them together, sometimes we do not.

Mr. McMULLEN. What is the cause of their being put apart in this particular case?

Sir HECTOR LANGEVIN. The town is already a large one and is extending, and I was informed that the place where we were putting up the post office was a very proper site, because it would be of service both to Peterborough and to the village of Ashburnham, which is separated from Peterborough by a river and a bridge, whilst the Custom house and inland revenue office would be better situated in the business portion of the town.

MANITOBA'S THREAT.

A Rebellion Threatened if the Dominion Government Interferes With the Railway.

WINNIPEG, Man., June 17.—The Free Press this morning says: "We owe to ourselves that we should be treated as freemen; to our province that it should have its rights and achieve progress, and to the Dominion that the spirit and letter of confederation should not be persistently and disgracefully violated. The time has come, then, not to whisper, but to thunder a terrible warning into the dead ears of Ottawa. Let them beware. They have mistaken the spirit of this country before; may they not blunder again. Our minds are made up. If the moment should come when the Ottawa Government may lay a rough hand on the railway which we propose to build with our own money to the boundary, it will be a moment to rue. It now behooves her to assail the ears of Ottawa with unmistakable words. Mr. Watson said: 'There would be serious trouble.' We repeat his words with all gravity and solemnity. If we are interfered with now there will be trouble such as Canada never saw in the lurid moments of past convulsions. There will be a rebellion such as the sleeping gods at Ottawa, have never dreamed of."

Advice to Mothers.

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural, quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain, and the little cherub awakes "as bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, relieves wind, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhœa, whether arising from teething or other causes. 25 cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup," and take no other kind.

BLAINE IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, June 17.—Owing to previous arrangements Mr. Blaine, who arrived in England yesterday, has been forced to decline the Mayor of Southampton's invitation to attend the Jubilee banquet in that city.

THE YACHT RACE.

LONDON, June 17.—The Wendolene passed Flamborough Head at 5.15 p.m. yesterday. She was ten miles from land. The Aline or the Seline passed Flamborough at 9 p. m. None of the other yachts were sighted last night.

DISLOYALTY REBUKED.

SYDNEY, N.S.W., June 17.—Owing to the disloyal feeling displayed by a section of the public at the meeting called by the Mayor to take action in regard to the celebration of the Queen's Jubilee, a mass meeting of 20,000 persons yesterday passed resolutions expressing their devotion to the Queen. Prime Minister Park presided.

Blairton Mines.

The Madoc Review says:—A small gang of men are at work on the hill by the mines opening up some new "shows" of ore Some excellent samples have already been obtained. We hear that experts from the States are expected to examine the ore and that a syndicate is to be formed to work the mines.

A BIG CANAL PROJECT.

PARIS, June 17.—The French Minister of Public Works, replying to a question in the Chamber of Deputies, said the proposal to construct a canal connecting the Atlantic Ocean with the Mediterranean Sea was not ripe for discussion. The work would cost $300,000,000, while the revenue from the tolls levied would not cover the interest. Advertising to the scheme to make Paris a seaport, the Minister said that in the present state of the country's finances the Government could not approve so costly an undertaking. The initiative must be left to private enterprise. He doubted whether the work was possible without the co-operation of the state.

TROOPS FOR THE AFGHAN FRONTIER.

LAHORE, June 17.—It is rumored that telegrams have been received from London ordering the Indian Government to forward troops to the Afghan frontier and to push forward the work of railway construction.

THE CRIMES BILL.

[illegible] was speaking on an amendment to the Crimes Bill, when the hour of ten arrived. The Ministerial benches rapidly filled, members pouring in from the lobbies. The Parnellites simultaneously arose and left the House, the chairman twice calling upon them to resume their seats. Amid great confusion a division was ordered, and the clause was adopted by 332 to 163. The Gladstonians returned after the voting, but the division having been declared they immediately arose in a body and withdrew amid Conservative cheers and laughter. The remaining clauses were then put and carried without comment, and the bill passed the committee stage, the Conservatives again cheering. The report stage of the bill is fixed for the 27th inst.

O'BRIEN'S RETURN.

DUBLIN, June 17.—Mr. O'Brien, editor of the United Ireland, who arrived at Queenstown to-day on the steamer "Adriatic," received an ovation upon leaving the vessel. Scores of deputations from various places in Ireland, with large contingents from from Cork and Queenstown, were at the dock to greet him and escort him to the Queen's Hotel. An immense crowd gathered in front of the building, and Mr. O'Brien, in response to calls for a speech, appeared on a balcony and briefly addressed them, alluding to his American experience and thanking them for their cordial reception. Mr. O'Brien, after receiving addresses from the deputations, this afternoon will go to Cork, where he will be tendered the freedom of the city.

QUEEN'S WEATHER.

LONDON, June 17.—The Queen arrived at Windsor to-day. She was heartily cheered by the people along the route from the railway station. The sun was shining and the weather was brilliant.

Enjoy Life.

What a truly beautiful world we life in! Nature gives us grandeur of mountains, glens and oceans, and thousands of means of enjoyment. We can desire no better when in perfect health, but how often do the majority of people feel like giving it up disheartened, discouraged and worn out with disease, when there is no occasion for this feeling, as every sufferer can easily obtain satisfactory proof, that Green's August Flower, will make them free from disease, as when born. Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint are the direct causes of seventy-five per cent. of such maladies as Biliousness, Indigestion, Sick Headache, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Dizziness of the Head, Palpitation of the Heart, and other distressing symptoms. Three doses of August Flower will prove its wonderful effect. Sample bottles, 10 cents. Try it. d99

"For contemplation he, and valor formed,
For softness she, and sweet attractive grace,"

John Milton in his "Paradise Lost" thus distinguishes woman from man. Diseases fall to her lot that do not to man's, peculiar to her soft and more refined nature. A remedy adapted to the cure of her peculiar diseases is found in Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription," for women. Thousands who have used it attest its great worth.

SATURDAY, JUNE 18, 1887.

CANADA APPRECIATED.

SOME Canadians have such an inveterate love of belittling their country, so long as their fellow-countrymen will not entrust them with power, that it is satisfactory to find that well informed foreigners can better appreciate the advantages possessed by our young Dominion. We therefore have pleasure in quoting from a pamphlet just issued by Mr. Wiman the following extract from a speech delivered in Washington by Mr. S. J. Ritchie, of Akron, Ohio, in which that gentleman gave the following appreciative but not exaggerated description of our country:—

"To illustrate further, the relative importance of these commercial relations, the statistics show that the exports of Canada per capita were greater than those of the United States, and her per capita imports are also greater than our own. Her per capita railway mileage is about the same as those of the United States. Her growth of population from the date of our Declaration of Independence up to the present day has been equal to our own, ours at that date being about 3,000,000, and hers being less than 300,000.

The records of her criminal courts show that she has a smaller per centage of crime than we have. She is the only country in the world whose national debt is not a war debt, with the exception of two or three millions expended in putting down the recent Riel rebellion. The whole of her debt has been incurred in the development of her internal improvements. In addition to her line of railway extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific, her Government is subsidizing a fast line of steamships to ply between Halifax and Liverpool, and the Imperial Government has agreed to subsidize a line between Vancouver, Hong Kong, Yokohama and Australia. A company has been organized to lay an ocean cable from Vancover, via Sandwich Islands, to Yokohama, Hong Kong and Australia. An Atlantic ocean cable is to be owned by the same Company which owns the Pacific cables.

Thus her great railway, by means of the steamships which will ply between Halifax and Liverpool in connection with it, and the Pacific line subsidized by the English Government, which will also run in connection with it, will have both under its control. Its railways are reaching out for the carrying trade of the two hemispheres. Not only this, but the transcontinental telegraph system and both the Atlantic and Pacific cables, of which I have spoken, will be under the control and owned by her railways.

These are not visions of the future. Most of them are realities of to-day. Already we can step into the most luxurious car which runs on this continent at Vancouver, on the waters of the Pacific, and ride continuously in it for a distance of 3,700 miles until you reach Halifax, on the Atlantic. This country has also a great inland waterway from the mouth of the St. Lawrence in the Atlantic to the head of Lake Superior, and all her own, except the locks at Sault Ste. Marie.

NO ZOLLVERREIN.

WE probably have heard the last of commercial annexation in the Toronto Board of Trade. The result of a prolonged discussion for four nights has been that even the friends of commercial union with the United States and discrimination against the mother country, after haranguing and intriguing to obtain an approval of their unpatriotic views, found themselves so completely discountenanced that they had to accept Mr. Macdonald's resolution, allowing it to be carried unanimously. Those who have been raising this factitious agitation in favour of a zollverein with the United States actually agreed with the rest of the Board in voting:—

"That this Board cannot entertain any proposal which would place Great Britain at any disadvantage as compared with the United States, or which would tend in any measure, however small, to weaken the bonds which bind Canada to the Empire."

This is pretty conclusive against the movement engineered by Mr. Wiman and Mr. Butterworth. The pretence of their friends on the Board of Trade that they would accept this motion because they thought Great Britain would not object to such unfriendly treatment by us, was so flimsy that it could not hide the fact that they dared not take a test vote, which would have exposed the insignificance of the minority.

That, however, there might be no mistake as to the opinion of the Board, the advocates of the United States were forced very reluctantly to divide on the following resolution:—

"That this Board, whilst desirous of reciprocal trade relations in natural products with the United States, is opposed to commercial union with the United States, believing that it cannot be attained without giving up the preservation of our autonomy as a separate nationality on this continent."

This was carried by an overpowering majority, and thus the Toronto Board of Trade has pronounced with no uncertain voice against the scheme for making Canada a mere commercial appendage of the United States. In so doing they also represent the great majority of the people of this Dominion.

THE London Advertiser says:—

"No one ever heard of any Indian right standing in the way of party interest."

Probably the Advertiser never did hear of respect for Indian rights while its friends were in power. It may remember how Mr. Mills, after he had been rejected by the country, misappropriated a large sum of Indian money in order to hand it over to a political friend, and it may imagine that Conservatives are as dishonest.

Contractor's Plant—Yankee Hostility—Reform Rowdyism Again—Prorogation Postponed.

THURSDAY, June 16.—Sir A. CARON, in reply to Mr. Wallace, said the students of Ottawa College were supplied with rifles but not with ammunition.

CONTRACTORS PLANT.

Mr. MULOCK on motion to go into supply, raised a discussion as to the arbitrator's award on the Onderdonk contract, which he thought excessive.

Other Opposition members also complained that too much had been paid for the contractor's stock.

Several Ministers explained that the sum awarded was the cost of the plant in British Columbia and that it would have been a breach of faith not to take the contractor's stock as agreed.

ALIEN LABOR.

Mr. PATTERSON (Essex) asked as to the enforcement against Canadians, living in the Dominion but working daily in the States, of the United States law prohibiting the importation of labor under contract.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD said it was a forced construction of the law and an unfriendly course. He thought it must arise from over zeal on the part of subordinate officials. The steps taken would depend upon the answers they received from Washington.

SUPPLY.

The House went into supply and passed a number of items.

REFORM ROWDYISM.

Mr. DAVIES charged Mr. Foster with an expenditure for intoxicating liquors for the steamer Lansdowne in spite of his temperance professions.

Mr. FOSTER said he had never expended money for such a purpose and was not in office at the time.

Mr. MCLELAN said he was then Minister and was responsible.

Mr. DAVIES though proved to be a slanderer still refused to withdraw his falsehood.

PROROGATION.

Sir JOHN MACDONALD said there was no hope of prorogation on Saturday but thought they might prorogue the following Saturday.

PEAT AS A FUEL.

Great Invention for Preparing Peat for the Market.

The extent and importance of peat as a fuel supply is hardly yet fully known by the general public. In the vicinity of Montreal, on the Ottawa river, and in fact every place where iron ore exists, extensive peat beds are to be found, only waiting to be turned into fuel. The value of these beds is manifold. In the great industry of iron smelting alone, where the drawback has been the want of fuel, peat can be made to supply the need. Another drawback in the past has been the want of proper machinery for turning out the fuel. Many attempts have been made, but none came up to the requirements.

Mr. David Aikman, of this city, however, after many years of continuous labor and frequent failures, has at last invented and completed a machine for the cutting, drying and preparation of peat for the market. Under the old system, or what was known as Hodge's process, the peat was seldom successfully dried, or in any way fit for the market. As an improvement on the Hodge's process, Mr. Aikman invented a machine in which the material instead of being delivered in beds was run into moulds. Still this was not altogether satisfactory, and after repeated attempts it was only by accident that success crowned Mr. Aikman's efforts, and the new process was brought into existance. The process is much simpler and more advantageous than anything heretofore known. The machine consists of a floating scow, the peat, after being cut by means of screws the same as in the old Hodge's process, is passed in through machinery to the drying process, from which it is conveyed to a powerful press and compressed at a great heat; it is then turned out in neat blocks of different sizes and shapes ready for the market. So simple and expeditious is the process that the peat can be turned out from the bog ready for market in half an hour, where formerly it took five or six weeks. The whole process is automatic, is worked by steam and the expense including the royalty will not amount to more than 90 cents a ton. With such a machine peat could be delivered to the consumer at from $3 to $3.50 a ton. By the new process a great many of the former inconveniences of the fuel, such as smoke, etc., are removed, and being much cheaper than coal it can be used to great advantage in locomotives, for smelting iron, and domestic purposes. The invention must prove of immense utility, and Mr Aikman is to be congratulated on his success, after so many years of labour. Samples of the peat as turned out of the market are to be seen in the Star window.—Montreal Star.

JESS.

BY H. RIDER HAGGARD

Author of "King Solomon's Mines," "She," etc

She was right; it was glorious. The heavy clouds which a couple of hours before had been rolling like celestial barges across the azure deeps were now aflame with glory. Some of them glowed like huge castles wrapped in fire, others with the dull red heat of burning coal.

John stood and looked at it, and its living, glowing beauty seemed to fire his imagination, as it fired earth and heaven, in such sort that the torch of love lit upon his heart like the sunbeams on the mountain tops. Then from the celestial beauty of the skies he turned to contemplate the earthly beauty of the woman who sat there before him, and found that also fair. Whether it was the contemplation of the glories of nature—for there is always a suspicion of melancholy in—or whatever it was, her face had a touch of sadness on it that he had never seen before, and which certainly added to its charm as a shadow adds to the charm of the light.

"What are you thinking of, Bessie?" he asked.

She looked up, and he saw that her lips were quivering a little. "Well, do you know," she said, "I was, oddly enough, thinking of my mother. I can only just remember her, a woman with a thin, sweet face. I remember one evening she was sitting in front of a house, just as the sun was setting like it is now, and I was playing by her, when suddenly she called me to her and kissed me, and then pointed to the red clouds that were gathered in the sky, and said: 'I wonder if you will ever think of me, dear, when I have passed through those golden gates?' I did not understand what she meant then, but somehow I have remembered the words, and though she died so long ago I do often think of her;" and two large tears rolled down her face as she spoke.

Few men can bear to see a sweet and pretty woman in tears, and this little incident was too much for John, whose caution and doubts all went to the winds together, and have not since been heard of.

"Bessie," he said, "don't cry, dear; please, don't! I can't bear to see you cry."

She looked up as though to remonstrate at his words, and then looked down again.

"Listen, Bessie," he went on, awkwardly enough, "I have got something to say to you. I want to ask you if—if, in short, you will marry me. Wait a bit, don't say anything yet; you know me pretty well by now. I am no chicken, dear, and I have knocked about the world a good deal, and had one or two love affairs like other people. But, Bessie, I never met such a sweet woman, or, if you will let me say it, such a lovely woman as you, and if you will have me, dear, I think that I shall be the luckiest man in South Africa," and he stopped, not exactly knowing what else to say, and the time had not come for action, if indeed it was to come at all.

When she first realized the drift of his talk Bessie had flushed up to the eyes and then the blood had sunk back to her breast and left her as pale as a lily. She loved the man, and they were happy words to her, and she was satisfied with them, though perhaps some women might have thought that they left a good deal to be desired. But Bessie was not of an exacting nature.

At last she spoke.

"Are you sure," she said, "that you mean all this? I mean sometimes people say things of a sudden, upon an impulse, and then afterward they wish that they never had been said. If that was so it would be rather awkward, supposing I were to say 'yes,' you know."

"Of course I am sure," he said, indignantly.

"You see," went on Bessie, poking at the sod wall with the stick she had in her hand, "perhaps in this place you might be putting an exaggerated value on me. You think I am pretty because you see nobody but Kaffir and Boer women, and it would be the same with everything. I'm not fit to marry a man like you," she went on, with a sudden burst of distress; "I have never seen anything or anybody. I am nothing but an ignorant, half educated farmer girl, with nothing to recommend me, and no fortune except my looks. You are different to me; you are a man of the world, and if ever you went back to England I should be a drag on you, and you would be ashamed of me and my colonial ways. If it had been Jess now, it would have been different, for she has more brains in her little finger than I have in my whole body."

Somehow the mention of Jess jarred upon John's nerves and chilled him like a breath of cold wind on a hot day. He wanted to put Jess out of his mind just now.

"My dear Bessie," he broke in, "why do you suppose such things? I can assure you that if you appeared in a London drawing room you would put most of the women in it into the shade. Not that there is much chance of my frequenting London drawing rooms again," he added.

"Oh, yes, I may be good looking! I don't say that I am not; but can't you understand I don't want you to marry me just because I am a pretty woman, as the Kaffirs marry their wives. If you marry me at all I want you to marry me because you care for me, the real me—not my eyes and my hair. Oh, I don't know what to answer you! I don't, indeed!" and she began to cry softly.

"Bessie, dear Bessie!" said John, who was pretty well beside himself by this time, "just tell me honestly—do you care about me? I am not worth much, I know, but if you do, all this just goes for nothing," and he took her hand and drew her toward him, so that she half slipped, half got off the sod wall and stood face to face with him, for she was a tall woman, and they were very nearly of a height.

Twice she raised her beautiful eyes to his to answer and twice her courage failed her, and then at last the truth broke from her almost with a cry:

"Oh, John, I love you with all my heart!"

And now I think that we may drop a veil over the rest of these proceedings, for there are some things that should be sacred, even from the pen of the historian, and the first transports of the love of a pure woman is one of them.

Suffice it to say that they sat there side by side on that sod wall, and were as happy as people ought to be under such circumstances, till the glory departed from the western sky and the world grew cold and pale, till the night came down and hid the mountains, and only the stars and they were left to look out across the dusky distances of the wilderness of plain.

Meanwhile a very different scene was being enacted up at the house, half a mile away.

Not more than ten minutes after John and his lady love had departed on that fateful walk to look at the young trees, Frank Muller's stalwart form, mounted on his great black horse, was to be seen leisurely advancing toward the blue gum avenue. Jantje was barking about between the stems of the trees in the peculiar fashion that is characteristic of the Hottentot, and which doubtless is bred into him after tens of centuries of tracking animals and hiding from foes. There he was, slipping from trunk to trunk and gazing round him as though he expected each instant to discover the assegai of an ambushed foe or to hear the footfall of some savage beast of prey. There was absolutely no reason why he should be carrying on in this fashion; he was simply indulging his natural instincts where he thought nobody would observe him.

Life at Mooifontein was altogether too tame and civilized for Jantje's taste, and he absolutely needed periodical recreations of this sort. Like a civilized child he longed for wild beasts and enemies, and if there were none handy he found a reflected satisfaction in making a pretense of their presence.

Presently, however, while they were yet a long way off, his quick ear caught the sound of the horse's footfalls, and he straightened himself and listened. Not satisfied with the results, he laid himself down, put his ear to the ground and gave a gutteral grunt of satisfaction.

To be Continued.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Dominion Government has decided not to remove the arms taken from the Battleford Home Guard out of the district.

Thomas Horton, a private in the 19th Regiment, in camp at Niagara, dropped dead in the Salvation Army barracks at Niagara.

The corner stone of St. Alban's cathedral, Toronto, was laid by the Bishop of Toronto in the presence of a large assemblage.

At a meeting of the Liberal-Conservative Union of Ontario held at Ottawa it was decided to divide the province into districts for the purposes of organization.

At a picnic held at Sharbot Lake on Wednesday the Scott Act was openly violated, whiskey and beer being freely sold, a good deal of drunkenness being the result. Several Indians were intoxicated.

The report that the Canadian Pacific railway had refused to allow delegates to the General Assembly from Manitoba and the Territories to participate in the special rate trip to the Pacific is contradicted.

The Queen's Jubilee Committee of the Canadian Club of New York have completed their arrangements for the celebration. The demand for tickets for the various events is already immense, and a brilliant success is assured.

Farmers Institute.

The Norwood Register says:—"A meeting of the leading farmers and others of the East Riding of Peterborough, was held in the Town Hall on Friday the 10th inst., with the object of forming a Farmers' Institute. The meeting was organized by appointing Frank Birdsall, Esq., chairman, Mr. Thos. Carlow, an active member of the North Norfumberland Institute, then addressed the meeting, explaining the advantages to be derived by the formation of such Institutes. In order to secure the Government Grant there must be not more than 50 members. As there was hardly that number in attendance it was decided by those who were there to proceed in organizing, and to appoint a provisional board of directors and officers. The following gentlemen were elected to fill the different offices:—

PRESIDENT.—F. Birdsall.
VICE-PRESIDENT.—Robt. Burgess.
SECRETARY.—J. W. Clark.
TREASURER.—P. Doherty.
DIRECTORS.—Messrs. James Moore, W.G. Patterson, John Knox, John Wright, Henry Humphrey, J. Murphy, T. M. Grover and Chas. O'Rielly.

The meeting then adjourned and another meeting will be held next Friday, the 17th, to complete organization, and to appoint permanent officers and directors. It is desirable that there shall be as large an attendance as possible from all parts of the Riding.

CONVERT YOUR OWN.

No doubt Mr. Butterworth will urge the Dufferin lake farmers to go storming at the gates of the capital at Washington to compel Uncle Samuel to grant commercial union. Now is Mr. Butterworth aware that for eight years a very large measure of commercial union has been on the Dominion statute books, and that his countrymen would have none of it? Why does he try to convert us to commercial union? Let him go and convert his own people.—Hamilton Spectator.

WIT AND WISDOM.

The average woman is considered too delicate to shoulder a musket, but no one questions her right to bare arms.

Force of habit.—Lady (in grocery shop):—"Let me have a pound of butter, please." Shopman—(who used to tend in cigar store):—"Mild or strong?"

At an induction dinner some years ago in Kirriemuir, an elder, referring to the changes in the ministry round about, said he had seen four changes at Dunnichen; three had died and one had gone to a better place.

A Catholic legend says the devil once gave a hermit the choice of three great vices, one of which was drunkenness. The hermit chose this as being the least sinful. He became drunk, and then he committed the other two.

How styles have changed since I was a girl," said an old lady. "When I was young we used to wear our dresses up to the neck and gloves with only one button. Now they wear the gloves up to the neck and only one button on the dress.

"In my time, Miss," said a stern aunt "the men looked at the women's faces instead of their ankles." "Ah, my dear aunt," retorted the young lady, "you see the world has improved, and is more than it used to be. It looks more to the understanding."

Householder (to burglar through key hole):—"Good evening, sir. Make yourself at home; don't mind me. I must apologise for the thinness of the larder, but my wife is down with the smallpox; I have the typhoid fever myself, and the girl has a little touch of diphtheria."

A three-year old girl was taught to close her evening prayer, during the temporary absence of her father with "and please watch over my papps." It sounded very sweet, but the mother's amusement may be imagined when she added, "and better keep an eye on mamma, too!"

A clergyman who was officiating at the funeral of a young girl began his discourse with, "Oh! may this bereaved father find consolation for the death of his only daughter"—and then happening to remember there was another daughter, the offspring of a second marriage, he added hastily—"by his first wife."

"George, who is your family physician?" "Dr. Smoothman." "What, that numbskull? How does it happen you employ him?" "Oh, it's some of my wife's doings. She went to see him about a cold in her head, and he recommended that she wear another style of bonnet. Since that she won't have any other doctor."

The following dialogue took place between a signalman and enginedriver at the railway station of N—. Signalman:—"How are you getting on, Jock?" Enginedriver:—"No vary sair." Signalman:—"Fat's wrang wi' ye?" Enginedriver,—"I've an auld beggar o' an engine that widna draw a drunk man doon a stair."

A father asked a lazy son what made him lie in bed so long. "I am busied," said he, "in hearing counsel every morning. Industry advises me to get up, sloth to lie still; and they give me twenty reasons, for and against. It is my part to hear what is said on both sides; and by the time cause is over dinner is ready."

It was at breakfast, and little Nelly, who was a regular chatterbox, had scarcely ceased talking. "Nelly, dear," said her grandmamma, "you talk too much. You don't find me talking every minute." "No, gran,ma; but you know you've lived a good deal longer than I have, and have had time to get most of the talk out of you," answered Nelly.

Don't use any more nauseous purgatives such as Pills, Salts, &c., when you can get in Dr. Carson's Stomach Bitters, a medicine that moves the Bowels gently, cleansing all impurities from the system and rendering the Blood pure and cool. Sold by all Druggists.
